A delightful little social entertainment was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's Cathedral, in the Catholic Literary Association rooms, last night. There was a large attendance and a most pleasant evening was spent.

Contradiction.

I see by a notice in the EXAMINER that J. J. Turner & Sons are still continuing to persecute me about the alleged agreement for the sale of my business to them. I simply wish to inform my patrons and your readers that I have not sold to Turner & Sons, and do not intend to. They are anxious to get a monopoly in Peterborough. I will fully show up their whole conduct in this matter when it comes before the courts for adjustment. Yours truly, A. KINGSCOTE. 2d

R. H. Kells & Co. Closing up.

Saturday, February 11th, will be the last day in business for R. H. Kells & Co. After that date the store will be positively closed and the business wound up at once. The sacrifices to be made during the few remaining days will be the greatest known in the dry goods business for years. Ladies should not be influenced by the policy too frequently pursued at other clearing sales, of misleading buyers, as R. H. Kells & Co. pledge themselves to give the bargains they promise.

BOYS IN THE CELLS

Charged With Breaking Into a McDonel Street Store Last Week.

Four small boys are locked up in the cells as the result of an investigation which the police have been conducting during the week.

Sgt.-Major Rundle, it seems, was moving, about a week ago, from McDonel street to the premises formerly occupied by Frank Anthony. In his absence from the McDonel street store it was broken into and some goods removed. From the appearance of the place the Sgt.-Major judged that boys were the culprits and notified the police, who have been on the still hunt ever since, with the result that four arrests have been made, as stated.

The boys will receive a preliminary hearing to-morrow.

CIVIC COMMITTEES.

Town Business Considered at Meetings Held Last Night.

The Court of Revision and the Finance and Fire, Water and Light Committees of the Town Council, met in the Clerk's office last night.

The Court of Revision ordered that the dog taxes of H. W. Christie and J. Nevin be remitted; that the taxes of Benjamin Johnston and Mrs. Ellen Dwyer be remitted and that half the taxes of Wm. Godfrey be remitted. Some personal property and income assessments were also dealt with.

The Finance Committee recommended that the printing be given out in the same manner in which it had been done last year, that having proved satisfactory to all concerned; that auditors report be given to the Times Printing Company, to be printed: that the Board of Education demands be paid as asked; that no action be taken regarding the application for a grant on behalf of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto; that E. G. Rundle be refunded $7 of a license fee.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee left the greater part of their work until another meeting and dealt with a number of minor matters.

A PLEASANT EVENING

Spent at the Residence of Mr. Lewis Rye, in North Monaghan.

Two 'bus loads of men drove out from St. John's church last evening to the residence of Mr. Lewis Rye, in North Monaghan, where a very pleasant evening was spent, the visitors being most hospitably entertained.

During the evening a very interesting discussion took place, in an informal way, on different matters affecting the church.

HERE THEY GET JUSTICE.

Change of Venue from Toronto to Peterborough.

In the report of legal proceedings at Osgoode Hall the following appears:—

Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald.—D. L. McCarthy for defendants, moved to change venue in County Court action from Toronto to Peterborough. D. O. Cameron for third parties, Leary and Heffernan, supported application. D. L. McLean for plaintiff, showed cause. Order made changing venue to Peterborough. Costs in cause.

STRIKES ARE EVIL.

So the Y.M.C.A. Debating Orators Decided.

The weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Debating Club last night took the form of an open parliament on the question, "Are strikes more beneficial than detrimental to a nation?"

The following composed the sides:—Affirmative, Messrs. F. Ray (leader), Fulton, Anderson, Cunningham; negative, Dr. Rose (leader), Hopkins, Brammell and Schneider.

The discussion was decidedly interesting, and the chair gave the decision in favour of the negative.

Mr. Ray read a paper on "Canada in A.D. 2000," which was original and interesting. It was the unanimous request of the audience that it be read again at another meeting and published in the papers.

Next Thursday evening the meeting will be one of special interest, when it will take the form of a members' rally. A musical programme will be given, a paper read and reports will be given from the Brockville Y.M.C.A. Convention.

PERSONAL

Miss Olive Campbell, of Millbrook, has returned home after a very pleasant visit with Mrs. T. H. Larmer, Water street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Croft left for Cobourg to-day to attend the funeral of their niece, Miss Sadie Croft, who died suddenly on Thursday.

Messrs. R. H. Kells and James Kendry have returned from a trip to New York, where they have been for the past two week completing arrangements for the establishment of an important new woolen industry in Peterborough.

The Canadian Churchman in its report of the anniversary services of the English church, Bailliieboro, says that "the solo in the anthem was taken by Dr. McKee, whose fine deep bass voice and excellent musical taste made his singing a charm to every ear."

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—Those who braved the cold weather last night to attend the meetings in progress at the Baptist church were amply repaid by the excellent discourse of Rev. O. C. Elliott from Rom. 3-22: "There is no difference." He clearly pointed out that the only way of salvation is through Christ, and made a deep impression upon the audience.

JANUARY WEATHER NOTES.

Although the precipitation during the month of January was heavy, being 4.50 inches, it was chiefly in the form of rain. There were two days, the 4th and 14th, on which over one inch of rain fell. The snowfall aggregated 12½ inches, but there was barely sufficient at any time to make good sleighing. Rain fell on 6 days; snow on 12 days.

The mean temperature of the month was about the average, being 18 degrees. No very low reading of the thermometer was had during the month, 16 degrees below zero on the 10th being the lowest. However there were ten days on which zero or below was reached. The highest temperature was on the 8th, namely, 47 degrees.

The month was characterized by several sudden and excessive changes. As an example, late in the afternoon of the 29th the thermometer marked 39 degrees, the following morning 12 below zero—a drop of 51 degrees in one night.

OBITUARY.

Sketch of the Life of the Late Rev John Bell.

The late Rev. Jno. Bell, whose death from appendicitis took place at Bourgoyne, Ont., on Jan. 26th, 1899, was the youngest son of the late Rev. Alexander Bell, of this town, and formerly pastor of St. Andrew's church.

Mr. Bell, who was only in his 30th year was well and favourably known in Peterborough, where the greater part of his early years was spent, and his many friends will hear with deep regret of his early death.

Mr. Bell after graduating from the Collegiate Institute here, attended Queen's College, Kingston, Ont., from which he graduated in arts and theology in 1892. He afterwards took a post graduate course at Princeton University. His whole college career was one of marked success.

Since graduation, until the time of his death, Mr. Bell was pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Bourgoyne and Dumblane, Ont. His patience, kindness, nobility of spirit won for him the love of his people, to whom his death has been a sad blow.

In the church Mr. Bell was one of its most promising young men, and by his death it loses one of its most faithful and earnest workers.

In 1894 Mr. Bell was united in marriage to the eldest daughter of Duncan Anderson, of Toronto, formerly of Anstey. Mrs. Bell and one son, three months old, survive to mourn his loss.

The remains were interred at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, on Saturday, Jan. 28th, 1899.—Com.

The Late Mrs. H. J. Byers.

The many friends in town of Mr. H. J. Byers, photographer, will learn with regret of the death of his well beloved wife, Minnie Alberta Smyth, at the early age of 33 years. About ten days ago Mrs. Byers suffered an attack of la grippe and congestion of the lungs supervened. For a time, especially on Tuesday night, recovery was regarded as possible, but the symptoms becoming aggravated, death ensued last night. Mrs. Byers leaves behind her two children to mourn the loss of an affectionate mother. The deceased lady was a member of the congregation of St. Paul's church, and was held in very high esteem by a large circle of friends. She has been a resident of Peterborough about five years. The funeral takes place from the family residence, 788 Water street, on Sunday afternoon next at 3 o'clock.

DEATH IN COBOURG.

Richard Croft's Daughter Speedily Follows Him to the Tomb.

Intelligence was received in town yesterday that Miss Sadie, who was his second daughter, died suddenly yesterday, after an illness lasting only from Tuesday night. Her illness was not considered serious till its sadly sudden ending came.

STILL HOPEFUL.

The Promoters Still Toiling up the Grade.

The promoters of the Cobourg Railway are still hopeful of the ultimate success of the scheme. New life has been infused by the receipt of news this week from Mr. Bowen, in England, that the bonds of the Cobourg, Northumberland & Pacific Railway have all been disposed of, and the "old thing" is now likely to go.

From this it would appear that the chief promoters of this enterprise have not yet lost faith in its construction. Mr. Bowen is still actively engaged in pushing matters past the critical point, and we may yet learn that he has been successful. His money has been sunk in trying to build this railway, and he will not desist in his efforts till the last ray of hope has fled. —Campbellford Herald.

TO VISIT CANADA.

Distinguished Visitors Coming to Canada.

The "Local Gossiper," in the Barrow-in-Furness (England) 'News,' has the following with reference to the approaching visit of Mr. Victor Cavendish and his wife:—"I am sure we all wish Mr. Victor Cavendish and his charming wife, Lady Evelyn, a very pleasant and happy trip to Canada, where they are to be the guests for some time of the Earl and Countess of Minto. Lady Evelyn, as the daughter of the Marquis of Lansdowne, will be able to show her husband about very nicely, as her pleasant experiences in Canada during the time her father was Governor-General of the Dominion, gave her a good insight into Canadian life and customs, and I am sure she will be welcomed "home" again by many old friends."

GRIPPE, THE TYRANT.

The Whole Town is Coming Under its Malicious Influence.

A census of the number of la grippe cases in town, or rather cases of heavy colds, would show that a good portion of the population just now wrestling with the disease. The cold weather seems to have increased its away, and realizing this the people who have so far escaped its clutches would rather face anything than sit in a draught. Nearly every other person you know has the grippe, and those who have not are living in constant dread of it.

The effect on the business world is no small consideration. There is scarcely a store on George street employing any number of hands which is not suffering or which has not suffered from the absence of clerks. One small store is in charge of the small boy, who will assume an air of importance and tell you that all the rest of the people are down with la grippe. Concerts have been arranged for and postponed owing to the illness of those who were to take parr, and the choir leaders will tell you that it is hard to get a quorum of singers at practice for the same reason. In this instance, as in all others, the old saying "an ill wind," etc., applies, for the doctors are busy and their fees will be large in the aggregate when it is all over.

A COLUMN OF SPORTS.

SOME TIMELY REMARKS ON SEASONABLE GAMES.

What is Going on in Local and Outside Hockey Arenas—Notes From the Curling Ice.

HOCKEY.

To-morrow night's contest is exciting much interest. The St. George's, of Toronto, are a very strong team and have won from Wellingtons, Barrie and Collingwood. The Colts, however, are in grand form and are going to win. The winner of this round goes into the finals for the junior championship of Ontario. The Colts team will be: Goal, Comstock; point, Eddie Graham; cover point, Harold Armstrong; forwards, Harry King, Parker Crossley, Harry Morgan, Fred Whiteroft. The game will commence at 8.30.

The seniors had a fine practice last night and are in splendid condition for the great game on Monday with Varsity. Roger Davidson is showing up better than ever just now.

To-night every member of the senior team is requested to be at the rink at 7 o'clock for skating.

The St. Georges team will be composed as follows to-morrow night:—Goal, W. Pardoe; point, W. Evans; cover-point, B. Bysh; forwards, A. Warden, H. Birmingham, A. Gillies, E. C. Temple (Capt.)

Appended is the account the Berlin News Record gives of the great Waterloo game:

At least one thousand people witnessed the Waterloo-Peterborough game last night in the Waterloo rink. Several hundred of these were from Berlin, Elmira and other neighbouring places were also well represented. The game was announced to begin at 8 o'clock, but as usual the crowd was kept waiting, which on a cold night is far from pleasant. It was 9.10 when Referee Gauthier, of Osgoode Hall, called the game. Following is the personnel of the teams;

Peterborough.			Waterloo
Wasson		goal	Koehler
Reynolds		point	Forrester
Holling-head		cover point	Clemes
Belleghem	forwards		Hendry
Crowley			Liffiton
Davidson			Westwick
King			Robson
Jack McDonald		timekeepers	Ed Seagram

The game was fast from the very start, and for the first few minutes Waterloo showed up very well, but only for a few minutes. Then the easterners got to work and played rings round the home team, scoring goal number one in about ten minutes. The Waterloo defence was considerable weakened by the absence of invincible Joe Seagram. But Forrester played a star game. Clemes place is on the forward line and he found it hard to stay in his place. Wasson Peterborough's goalkeeper, is a little wonder; he is probably the best that ever struck the Twin City, and his brilliant work saved many a goal. It did not take long for the visitors to score number two. This was disputed and a new goal umpire had to be appointed. Soon after this Peck Robson had a splendid chance to score, but in his endeavours to do so, he missed the puck and laid out Wasson. Clemes was ruled off for rough play, and when it was time for him to return, Forrester had to go for the same. Before half time was called Peterborough scored another goal, leaving the score 3 to 0.

Things looked blue for Waterloo and they knew they had met their Waterloo. To win out in the round they would have had to score seven goals to their opponents nil and they recognized this as an impossibility. However, in the second half, especially in the latter part, they put up a brilliant game, having considerably the best of the play. Westwick scored after a few minutes play and Waterloo rooters at last got a chance to exercise their lungs. Peterborough added another goal to their credit soon after, with one player ruled off. The next game was also theirs, making their score five goals. Then Waterloo got into the game and scored three goals in quick succession, one of them being scored by Forrester after one of his great rushes. Thus the game ended, score 5 to 4 in favour of Peterborough, and on the round Peterborough 11, Waterloo 7.

The visitors' defence is a veritable Gibraltar.

Lionel King played a star game and upheld his reputation as one of Ontario's best forwards.

Two of a kind are Westwick and Liffiton, They're hot stuff, but Peterborough's hotter.

The Kingston Whig makes the following additional remarks on Monday's junior game in Kingston:

For a sick boy Clarke played a magnificent game on Monday night against Peterborough Colts. He was ill in bed during Saturday and Sunday, and only ventured out on Monday to take his place on the ice with the Frontenacs. He will take Waddell's place on the senior team against Queen's in to-night's match. "Jigger" Robinson, another promising "kid," is the next eligible for senior honours.....In the hockey scramble it begins to look as though at least two championships were rolling this way. Still, you cannot always forecast correctly in this uncertain age, and hockey is a slippery question to deal with. For instance, after their return from Peterborough, Frontenac colts declared they would have a cinch in defeating the Peterboroughites on the local ice, but somehow or other the cinch petered out and the round went to Peterborough.....Manager Southerland, of the Frontenacs, claimed that Robinson, of the junior team, is the "find" of the hockey season. His work against the swift Peterborough Colts clearly demonstrated that he is the peer of any young hockeyist in Canada. His style of play is very much similar to that of Dr. Jack Harty, and with another year's experience he will undoubtedly be the best forward player in Ontario. His stick-handling was certainly a revelation to the Peterborough team and he was warmly congratulated by the members of that club on his great ability.

The Whig also says: The members of the Peterborough senior hockey team are very much elated over their success so far this season, and they have reason to hold this good opinion of their hockey prowess. It is no snap to take a win away from Waterloo, and the team that does this must be fast, and play good scientific hockey. However, should the Peterborough team survive the semi-finals and run up against the fast local Presbyterian pucksters, who tread in the footsteps of Principal Grant, the chances are that they will have an opportunity of telling their admirers how "it might have been different had it been otherwise." Of course in Peterborough's little rink Queen's may have the underside of the score, but on a fair-sized rink the Collegians may be depended upon to cut out the championship. The Peterborough rink is one of the very few in Canada upon which Queen's team has met with defeat.

NOTE.—The Kingston ice was another rink in which Queen's team was defeated, and the act took place only last year, when the Osgoode team went down and took the scalps of the Presbyterians, but this is a game which Kingston has tried so hard to forget that it has about succeeded.

THE LAKEVIEWS WIN.

The Peterboroughs are not the only local club that can win at hockey, as the Lakeviews, of town, went up to Lakefield last night and defeated the team of that village by eight goals to seven.

The Lakeview team was composed as follows:—Goal, E. Miller; point, Joe Picard; cover-point, B. Thornton; forwards, W. Grady, W. Parnell, W. Meagher and E Mitchell.

There was a big crowd at the Lakefield rink to see the match and enthusiasm ran high throughout the game.

The Lakefields got the visitors "going" at the start and ran up a score of 6 to 1 against them in twenty minutes. In the last ten minutes, before half time was called the Lakeviews woke up and scored two more goals.

On going on the ice after half time the Peterborough team got down to work in fine style, and succeeded in tieing the score of 6—6. Then for some time the game stood 7—7, but just before the whistle blew for time Joe Picard made a great dash up the rink from point, and dodging the cover point and point men of the Lakefields scored the deciding goal and won the match for Peterborough.

Mr. Melville Strickland made a most satisfactory referee.

After the match the Lakefield team banquetted the Peterborough boys at the Craig house, where a splendid supper was served.

CURLIANA.

The Granites enter the finals in the Tankard series, Belleville having defaulted to them at Campbellford to-day. Instead of notifying the local curlers that they would not be at Campbellford, the Belleville rinks allowed the Granites to go there and find out that there was no one to meet them.

Two rinks of Bobcaygeon curlers are coming down for a friendly game this evening.

A despatch from Belleville says:—The curling match yesterday afternoon between two rinks from Napanee and two from Keene, for supremacy in division No. 9, in the primary competition for the district cup, was an interesting one. Both rinks were well matched, and at no time during the contest were either rinks much in the lead. Play was commenced at one o'clock sharp, and it was decided to play the regulation number of ends, namely, 22. At a few minutes after 5 o'clock the game was finished, with the result that Napanee were the winners by five shots. In this competition it was anticipated that Campbellford would have two rinks here, but owing to sickness among the members it was found impossible to procure the necessary number of players. Mr. M. Wright, secretary of the local club, was selected as referee, and his decisions, when he was called upon to render any, were never questioned. During the progress of the game a large number of spectators were present and evinced much interest in the game. The players and the result of the match will be found below:

At the close of the match the visitors, after expressing their pleasure at the courtesies extended to them by the local curlers, were driven to the station and embarked for home, apparently well pleased with the afternoon's sport.

A HOLE IN THEIR HOPES AT THE START.

A large number of curlers and citizens were at the station Thursday morning, says the Lindsay Post, to give the rink for Winnipeg a hearty send off. Flavelle and his men left in the best of health and spirits. The rink is a strong one and our citizens expect that they will give a good account of themselves. They are a very evenly balanced rink, the heavy men playing at each end. There are two Johns and two Matts on the rink. The bonspell opens next Monday morning at nine o'clock. It is expected that about one hundred and fifty rinks will compete for the Grand Challenge Cup.

It can hardly be said of the Lindsay cracks that "they went forth conquering and to conquer"—they bit the dust in a little bye-bout with Orillia at the outset of their career. The aspirants for the grand trophy had to wait six hours at Orillia for the North Bay express, and played a friendly game with the Orillia curlers. They were accompanied to town by another quartette skipped by Mr. J. G. Edwards. The match was close and exciting throughout. Eighteen ends were played and Orillia was up on both rinks, as follows:

OFF TO NEW YORK.

Mr. Lem Felcher left on the noon train yesterday for the gay metropolis of the United States, where he expects to fraternize with Pat Powers and the rest of the well known sports for a couple of weeks. When Lem drops in on his old friends with his new outfit he will certainly startle them. With a navy blue Prince Albert coat, silk lined and adorned with silk lapels, fancy vest, light grey trousers and silk hat, Lem looks like a bridegroom, and then there are his diamonds too. New York will hear him coming all right enough. If he can arrange a game of hockey in New York for the local team, Lem states that he will wire them all expenses for the trip. Here's that he may make the dicker.

GOOD ROADS LEGISLATION.

Under the direction of competent and experienced men "Good Roads" can be made more cheaply—considering a term of years—than the waggon-wrecking byways yearly scamped by the township path master. The bill providing for this change to be presented at the coming session of the Legislature should receive the unanimous endorsation of every member, whether from rural or urban constituencies.—Toronto Star.

Public Attention

Is at present being directed to Catarrhozone, and much interest has been aroused by its marvelous effect upon disease germs. Catarrh, Bronchitis, irritable throat, and such maladies instantly disappear when this apparently mild pine-scented gas is inhaled. It penetrates wherever air can go. Mrs. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., has generously intimated that sample outfits of catarrhozone will be given our readers free, if sent for immediately.

CORSET COMFORT.

There are corsets and—corsets. Every lady knows that the mere appearance of a corset is no indication of its comfort. We claim for the

that it is well made on a thoroughly natural principle. While supporting the chest it allows full play of the muscles, adapting itself to the form, yet adding to its grace and beauty. In addition to which it is the handsomest looking corset on the market.

INCALCULABLE GOOD,

AN EXPRESSION OF FAITH.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done me an incalculable amount of good. I think they are the best, surest and quickest acting cure for nervousness, unhealthy action of the heart, insomnia or sleeplessness, anemia or impoverished blood, loss of appetite, general debility and ill-health. For nine years, before I commenced taking Dr. Ward's Blood and nerve Pills, my heart was weak and in an unhealthy state. Its action was so much impaired that I could not walk across the street without suffering great distress, my heart fluttering and beating so rapidly that I could scarcely breathe, causing faintness, loss of strength, and leaving my nerves all unstrung. My sleep was very much disturbed, I had no appetite and there was little strength or vitality in my blood; I was always excessively nervous.

I have now taken three boxes of Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills and since taking them I have not been away from my business an hour. Before taking these pills it was a frequent occurrence for me to be away from business. As a result of taking Dr. Ward's Pills my heart is perfectly healthy and strong and gives me no distress or trouble whatever. They removed all nerve trouble, made my nerves strong and gave me healthy sleep. These pills also made my blood rich and strong and gave me a healthy appetite. Dr. Ward's Pills have given me perfect health, restoring my lost strength, in place of continual ill-health, weakness, heart trouble and nervousness. In justice I cannot speak too highly of this wonderful medicine. Signed, Miss N. Millward, Walton St., Port Hope, Ont.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00 at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DOCTOR WARD CO. Limited, 71 Victoria Street, Toronto. Book of information free.

A STORY OF BELMONT.

How a Reporter Tantalized Him Into Making a Statement.

In 1879, it will be recalled, Greeley had been nominated for the presidency, and the news item was whether the Democrats would name a candidate, or, without indorsement, let partisans vote for Uncle Horace, or not at all. An old reporter spins this reminiscence: "The late August Belmont was then chairman of the national Democratic committee. Every human effort had been made by the newspapers to get Mr. Belmont to express an opinion on the subject. Of course the call for the national Democratic convention had to be made by the national Democratic committee through its chairman. Not a member could be induced to say a word on the subject. So the idea began to grow that there would be no call for the convention. Consequently there would be no regular Democratic nominee in the field.

"I made up my mind," went on the political reporter of 1879, "to settle that question or die in the attempt. August Belmont was irascible, terribly so, when a newspaper man attempted to 'drag him out' on the subject he was determined to be silent about. 'You keep cool,' said the reporter to himself. 'The other side may in anger do the rest.'

"Well, that interview between Belmont and me," said the reporter of 1879, "was short. He was a bit lame, and the madder he got at the questions put to him the harder he pounded his Wall street office counter and the quicker he limped toward the passageway, which, fortunately for me, was at the counter end farthest from the street door, where I stood. If Belmont had ever reached that passageway, I knew I would have had to make a bee line for Wall street, or—

"Well, cool, calm, collected," continued the reporter, "I quietly remarked, as I put my hand on the doorknob, 'Then, Mr. Belmont, judging from all you have said, you wish it to be distinctly understood that you will not issue a call for a convention.' The dear, good man, God forgive me, hadn't touched the subject, but he fell into the trap. Full of rage, like a lion, with a jump toward the passageway, he exclaimed, 'By heavens, you wretch, I shall call a convention!'

"That settled it. I was a block away before Mr. Belmont got anywhere near the doorway, and my paper had a fine story the next day about the 'Coming Convention of the Democrats.' Belmont often laughed about the matter afterward."—New York World.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivis, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of the head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left me. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, put vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

The Swan.

The greater part of a swan's life is spent in magnificently concealing the fact that he is a great coward, except when he is nesting, for then he is no coward. There is no passion so weak, according to Bacon, "but it mates and masters the fear of death," and there is no creature so timorous but in defense of its young it becomes valiant. Many a Thames oarsman, incautiously gliding into a backwater when swans are nesting, has been glad to escape without a ducking or worse from the infuriated male bird, but with it is incentive to heroism removed the swan becomes once more as nervous as a farmyard hen. Yet his dignity compels him to hide the fact, and for this purpose he simulates extreme ferocity when he is in the water, and the appearance of a dog on the bank throws him into paroxysms of fury.—Good Words.

THE JOINT COMMISSION.

An Equitable Settlement Expected in the Matter of the Alaskan Boundary—The Meeting on Wednesday.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The Canadian high commission held its usual brief morning session yesterday, and was followed by the sub-committee on the Alaskan boundary, which held a long meeting, and examined several experts. Prof. King, the Canadian astronomer, and one of his assistants appeared for the Canadian side, while the Americans called in Prof. Pritchard, chief of the coast and geodetic survey, and John McGrath, one of the coast survey topographers, who has spent several years in work along the Alaskan boundary and in the neighborhood of St. Elias. All the survey men had formidable rolls of maps and charts, with large stacks of note books, in which the results of their field work had been embodied.

This section of the commission's work is one where the evidence is in such a tangible character that it is thought there will be little difficulty in arriving at an equitable settlement, although it is understood that the commission will not attempt to delineate a hard and fast boundary, but will rather lay down the lines along which a satisfactory settlement can be made.

NO CHANCE OF A TREATY

Unless the Lumber and Paper Monopolists Are Sat Upon.

Detroit, Feb. 2.—A Washington special to The Evening News says: If the newspapers of the country do not sit down on the $2 lumbermen, the reciprocity treaty with Canada may fail. The $2 men and the paper trust appear to have control of enough Senators to jeopardize the ratification of any treaty that makes concessions on lumber that the Canadian commissioners dare accept. Without concessions on lumber, no treaty can be negotiated, because the Canadians could not expect their Government to ratify it, and they freely say they would not ask it to. If the treaty fails, the $2 men and the paper trust will have a fair field to rob the lumber consumers and newspapers of the United States for an indefinite period, while Canadians will not only shut us out of their forests, but also close their markets to all American manufacturers. Congressman Tawney, representing the $2 men, says frankly, if the treaty depends upon a reduction of the lumber tariff, it must wait. In fact, he feels so sure of the situation in the Senate that he practically alleges that the negotiation of the treaty is already hopeless. If the newspapers, who will be the severest sufferers, go into the fight all over the country, they can bring the Senate into line. Otherwise Tawney is probably right.

HE THANKS HEAVEN.

That he Used Dodd's Kidney Pills, Which Saved His Life.

Bowmanville, Jan. 23—Marvellous indeed is the case of Mr. A. W. Gibbons, miller, of this town.

Here is his story, as he himself tells it: 'I couldn't eat, nor sleep; had terrible pains in my back and stomach.

"Doctors said I had Bright's Disease But they couldn't cure me.

"Thank Heaven, whether it was Bright's Disease, or anyone else's Dodd's Kidney Pills soon cured it.

"I hope the news of my cure will spread over the whole country, so that all sufferers will hear of the greatest kidney remedy in the world—Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the ONLY medicine that has ever cured Bright's Disease.

Bicycles of the Past.

Archæologists will be interested to know that the first record of a bicycle is that of a stained glass window in the church of Stoke Pogis, near Windsor, in England. It was this churchyard, by the way, which inspired Gray to write his ever famous "Elegy." The rider of the cycle in the picture on the window, which is dated 1642, would be mistaken for Pan with his pipe were it elsewhere than in a Christian church, where pagan deities are not made at home. But history is silent as to the use of any such vehicle at that time. One hundred and twenty years or so later there was exhibited before the French court a manumotive carriage of several hundred pounds weight, but the bicycle can scarcely have grown from that. It was much nearer our own time that the first genuine bicycle was invented. It was quite the fashion to ride such a vehicle in England in 1819. The new invention was variously called the "dandy horse," he "hobby horse" and the "velocipede." There are many allusions to it in the records of the day, and in a letter from John Keats in February, 1819, to his brother in America, I find this mention of it:—

"The nothing of the day is a machine called the velocipede. It is a wheel carriage to ride cock horse upon, sitting astride and pushing it along with the toes, a rudder wheel in hand. A handsome gelding will come to 8 guineas. However, they will soon be cheaper, unless the army takes to them."—Lippincott's.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment...

NOT A PATENT MEDICINE....

He says:—Among the proprietary medicines recognized is Dr. Chase's Ointment, compounded by Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto, as a remedy for Piles, Eruptions and Eczematic Skin Diseases, for which it has been used with marked success and has effected remarkable cures. It is not the practice of the Medical Profession indiscriminately to use proprietary medicines, but there are hundreds of physicians throughout this country who are using Dr. Chase's Ointment in their practice. We handed out during the last month 2,700 boxes of free samples of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the thankful results have been something astonishing. Here is what one of the cures says:

Mr. O. P. St. John, 246 Shaw St., Toronto, in his letter states: I suffered for some years from itching Piles, at times being unable to sleep for the annoyance caused by them. After trying almost every remedy known, I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and can say one box entirely cured me. I cannot speak too highly of it, and have recommended it to several of my friends, all whom have been cured by its use.

CHEESE AND BUTTER MAKERS.

First Annual Convention of the Western Ontario Association.

Listowel, Feb. 2.—The first annual convention of the Cheese and Butter Makers' Association of Western Ontario was opened in the Music Hall here yesterday afternoon. There were about 400 in attendance. The primary object of the association is for the mutual benefit of the cheese and butter makers of western Ontario, and they only can be accepted as members, although others are welcome to the meetings.

The chair was occupied by Mr. T. B. Millar of Kincardine, the president, who, after calling the meeting to order, delivered his annual address.

At the conclusion of President Millar's address the reports of the directors and of the secretary-treasurer were read and showed that the association was in a flourishing condition, both as regards membership and finances.

Duck Hunters Bagged.

Fort Erie, Ont., Feb. 2.—Yesterday morning Officer Griffin of the Ontario Police, made a raid on American duck hunters on the lower part of Niagara River and succeeded in capturing Julius Resch, Charles Boltz and William Boyer, all of Buffalo. They were brought before P. M. James, who fined them $20 and costs, amounting to $24.25 each, and confiscated the following: Two double-barrelled shot guns, one Winchester repeating shotgun, one repeating rifle, about 200 rounds of ammunition and one dozen decoys.

YOU'RE COURTING CONSUMPTION.

If you neglect that Cough—Have it Cured by Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

"It's only a slight Cold, only a little Cough," you say—but it hangs on and on and won't leave. Better wake up to the fact before it's too late that you're on the highway to Consumption. Better have the Cough cured now, when you can—than wait a while longer when, perhaps, you can't. A bottle or two of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will promptly cure that Cough, and heal up the lungs so that not a trace of its effects will remain.

Mrs. Grace Lynch of Blackville, N.B., writes: "I have been troubled with Coughs, Colds and weakness of the lungs for a long time, and could get no relief until I took Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which made a complete cure in my case."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is sold by medicine dealers everywhere at 25c. and 50c. a bottle.

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Colonia," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

She drew from her bodice a scrap of paper and pressed it into his hand.

"Wait for me," he whispered, and in a moment was striding through the throng.

"Oh!" whispered the houri under her breath; "she did not think that I would dare so much. But I do not choose to have them quarrel yet."

At this moment the monk and the nun glided by like two ghosts, and sat down near her in a shadowy recess. A few moments later Lara held in his hand a scrap of paper containing these words:—

"Be cautious; you are watched. The houri in the silver tunic is Nina."

Lara read these words, and then he crumpled the paper in his hand and walked indolently on, pausing a moment to chat with a flower girl, a fairy, or a gypsy. Presently he paused before a pretty page all glittering in blue and gold.

"We will dance together presently, Stella," he whispered; "but we must be cautious, we are watched. Go home before they unmask; I shall do the same."

So the second houri had thwarted the first. Lara and the two houris went wandering about, watching each other, more or less, the while; and wherever one of these were to be seen, Mephistopheles, the monk, or the nun was sure to be near.

Mephistopheles, however, for a long time seemed most interested in the houri who had trusted him with the note for Lara. He conversed with her, listened to her soft, coaxing tones, watched her quick, graceful movements, the lithe serpentine turnings of the beautiful throat, and the varying expressions of the often uplifted, dark eyes. Then he passed on to others, but all the time he watched, from a distance, the movements of the houri in the golden tunic.

Finally he paused near the place where stood the nun, to all appearances contemplating the pomps and vanities of the pageant with an unfavourable eye, and made an almost imperceptible sign.

A moment later and the monk was exhorting the houri who had been the object of the Mephistophelian attentions, and Mephistopheles and the nun stood together in an alcove, where, for the moment, they were alone.

"Partner," said Mephistopheles, in a low, decided tone; "I have found her."

"Found who?" asked the nun, almost carelessly.

"Found my murderess. Found Elise Schwartz."

"Are you sure? How do you know this?"

"Am I sure! Look here," opening his hand, in the palm of which lay a piece of canvas, upon which was painted a dark, beautiful eye. "Do you take that and follow me. When I stop to converse with a woman, do you approach, look at that piece of canvas, and then look at her eye. After that come back here, and tell me your opinion."

The nun laughed. "Do you know who that woman is?" she asked.

"Yes; she is Elise Schfartz, I tell you."

"And what will you do?"

"Follow her home. Watch her—hunt her down."

The nun laughed again. "You did well in coming here to-night. You might not have seen her else," she said.

His majesty started, and then laid a heavy hand upon the nun's shoulder. "Look here, my friend," he exclaimed; "why did you advise me to come, and why are you here? Do you know that woman?"

"Yes."

"Who is she?"

The nun whispered a name in his ear.

"What?" Mephistopheles recoiled, astonished. "That girl! When did you find it out?"

"Find what out?"

"Why, that she is the one?"

"I did not say that she was Elise Schwartz."

THE DOCTOR'S MISTAKE.

The doctor made a mistake in the number and called at the wrong house. No woman calls a doctor after she is once acquainted with the remedial value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in all diseases and drains common to the sex. Without humiliating questions or local examinations the cure is accomplished by the use of the "Favorite Prescription" supplemented by free medical advice if needed. This medicine is harmless in any condition of the system and can be taken without the slightest fear of bad consequences. It contains no whisky or alcohol. There is not an iota of anything narcotic in it. The relief it gives is permanent. In this it differs from many preparations which give temporary relief only by deadening the sense of feeling with narcotics, and the dangerous stimulants they contain create an appetite for strong drink. When a dealer offers a substitute for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, remember these facts.

When their diseases are deep-seated and of long standing, women will find it to their interest to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who has had wonderful success in curing diseases of women. He gives advice free, and invites all to write him. Prompt, careful and personal attention is paid to each letter, and the fullest advice is always given.

"After five months of great suffering I write this for the benefit of other sufferers from the same affliction," says Mrs. H. A. Alsbrook, of Austin, Lonoke Co., Ark. "I doctored with our family physician without any good results, so my husband urged me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines—which I did, with wonderful results. I am completely cured. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.'"

CHAPTER XLVI.

CAPTURING COUNTERFEITERS.

Another day has passed away, and the night sets in, dark and chill. Heavy clouds are hanging athwart the sky, and heavier clouds hang athwart the lives of some who, to-night, sit in fancied security, and think and dream of new crimes and fresh triumphs.

Mrs. Rogers' genteel boarding-house is aglow with lights to-night, for it is early, and Mrs. Rogers' boarders are assembled in the parlour, some of them, at least; for the nice-looking young men who find the "comforts" of a home in the house of that buxom lady seldom go out evenings; they have few bad habits. Down in the basement the cook, who is somewhat given to "followers," sits peering through half-closed blinds, in the hope of seeing the good-looking young man who sells chromos, and who has given her several, not to mention two or three wonderful productions in the way of love letters, from his pen, that the postman has left for her. Cook is getting quite fond of this young man, but she entertains him under difficulties, for Mrs. Rogers does not approve of followers, and cook is forbidden to admit them to the kitchen. Presently the chromo young man appears; she knows him through the gloom, and goes to the door. They talk in whispers for a time, and occasionally the young man starts, fearing the approach of the majestic Rogers. He is even more timid than cook. But to-night his fears are groundless. Cook becomes brave; she even suggests that they sit on the basement stairs, that ascend, after the manner of most basement stairs, straight up from the street door. But the "follower" will not dare too much. The night is chill, but the cook wears a shawl over her head; so they stand in the open doorway and eat bonbons; he has brought her delicious bonbons to-night, fresh from Gunther's. But bonbons beget thirst; the young man eats, and now and then glances out toward the street, and presently he is very thirsty. Will cook get him a glass of water? Of course she will. She tiptoes away toward the kitchen and the young man waits in the open doorway. Scarcely has her back turned, before a shadow approaches the door; it steals past the nice young man, glides up the basement stairs, and disappears above.

Presently comes cook with the water, and then they talk again for many minutes. Finally the "follower" takes a farewell sip of water, whispers a few fond words and goes; but the shadow has not come down.

It grows later; the lights begin to be extinguished above stairs, and Mrs. Rogers comes down, looks to the fastenings of doors and windows, and then goes upstairs and repeats the process. Her doors are guarded by double locks, her windows double barred. Never was house more securely fastened than is this. But the shadow is locked in.

And now the lights are all out in Mrs. Rogers' boarding house; doubtless the family has retired. An hour passes; still darkness and silence; Mrs. Rogers and her family are, probably, now asleep. Half an hour later, and four men come silently down the street and station themselves at the different doors opening from that silent, darkened house.

A few minutes more, and two men pause before the door of the ill-fated dwelling fitted up by Clarence Arteveldt for his unwilling bride; one of these ascends the steps, noiselessly unlocks the door, and speaks in a low tone to his companion, who instantly joins him, and together they vanish within. Carefully they close and bolt the door behind them, and then one of them produces from somewhere a dark lantern. Lighted by this they mount up the stairs, then up another flight, until they stand underneath the very roof. Then, while one holds the lantern aloft, the other unfastens the trap-door, which, since the murder, and the investigations of Neil Bathurst, has been securely fastened. Then they raise the trap cautiously, and one of them whispers:—

"Are you there, Rob?"

"Yes," the answer comes, and they open the trap; a hand from the outside takes it and folds it back, and then Rob Jocelyn lowers himself through the opening.

"Here we are," he whispers; "how did you leave the old woman, Ferrars?"

"Perfectly calm; she never dreamed of your presence. Did you encounter any difficulties?"

"None. The way was clear, and the trap is now ready to open."

"Good," said Neil Bathurst; "then we may as well proceed. It's all right below."

One after another they clamber upon the roof, and then coming to the corresponding trap in the other house, they open that with the greatest ease. Then Rob Jocelyn lets himself down with the agility of a cat, and vanishes.

"It's all right," he whispers, re-appearing a moment later; "they are hard at it, have been for an hour back. Come down, pards."

Francis Ferrars, who has so recently personated a nice young picture seller, and in this character won the confidence of Mrs. Rogers' cook, goes down into the dark abyss of Mrs. Rogers' attic, and Neil Bathurst follows after. Then they raise the dark lantern and look about them. It is a genuine attic, filled in with everything old and useless. A partition forming an L runs across the front and left side of the attic, and the stairway is protected by still another partition. While they are taking these observations they can hear the low murmur of voices, and occasionally another sound, that causes Rob Jocelyn's eyes to flash, as if in anticipation of something refreshing. It is but the work of an instant to unfasten the door opening upon the landing of the attic stairs, and then they pause between two doors, one in front and one to the left, as if undecided which to approach. After listening for a moment, Rob Jocelyn, who seems to lead this expedition, signifies by a gesture that the left hand door is the one, and then Francis Ferrars puts his hand to his side and draws forth a pair of revolvers. Neil Bathurst has armed himself in the same manner, and now they are ready.

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practising. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. "IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 8th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 26
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,500 00
Yearly Income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowe ing rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

About forty Norwoodites attended the carnival at Havelock last Wednesday evening. Several went to compete for the prizes offered for fancy costumes.

Special services are now being held in the Methodist church conducted by Evangelist Bates. They are bing well attended.

Mr. C. and Miss Lizzie Tucker spent Sunday at Roseneath, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Macklin.

Our county representatives were in Peterborough last week attending the inaugural session of the county council.

The Norwood hockey team journeyed to Lindsay on Friday last to play the second match with Lindsay in the O.H.A. championship series. They were beaten, however, by two goals. They report a good time and were used well by the Lindsay hockeyists.

On Tuesday evening the Peterborough curlers won from the Norwood curlers by the score of 18 shots.

Mr. Geo. Campbell, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto, is in town visiting his brother, Mr. W. A. F. Campbell, of Queen street.

A game of hockey between the Calumets and the Shamrocks, of Norwood, will be played here on Monday evening next in the Palace skating rink at eight o'clock sharp, after which an exciting game of lacrosse hockey will be played between Norwood and Hastings. A matched race will also be run off between Messrs. A. F. McGuire, of Havelock, and Russel Pearce, of Norwood. Distance, 1 mile. A valuable prize is offered the winner. The Norwood band will be in attendance and a good night's sport is expected.

Mr. A. Powell, of Detroit, now occupies the position of manager in Mr. R. S'ewart's drug store, at Norwood. Mr. Stewart manages his Springbrook branch.

A Fashionable Disease.

La grippe is the most prevalent disease of the day, affecting nearly 25 per cent. of our people. Griffiths' Menthol Liniment applied to the back and chest and a few doses taken internally is a positive and quick cure. It is pleasant to take and clean to apply, and will cure in a single night. Try it. 25 cents at Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mrs. Kane, of Peterborough is the guest of Mrs. P. P. Young.

The majority of our villagers are attacked with la grippe.

Master Willie, one of Mr. Chas. Armstrong's sons, died Monday last with la grippe. The deceased was twelve years of age. The funeral took place Wednesday, Feb. 1st, to the R.C. cemetery in Norwood.

Several of our citizens are putting in ice now for the summer ice.

Mr. Arthur Smith has secured the school at Buckhorn, and started his duties on Feb. 1st. We wish him every success in his new school and hope our Buckhorn friends will not get a grip on him, as we want him in our circle again.

A horse belonging to Mr. Mosley, of Peterborough, ran away about three weeks ago between here and Lakefield. After throwing the occupants out and smashing the cutter, the poor animal was not discovere until Tuesday in Mr. James Dunk's wood's, and was in a bad condition with hunger and cold.

After dinner-coffee. Nothing in the world is so necessary as a fitting termination to a perfectly served dinner.

At no time does the true merit of coffee become so manifest. To produce that delicious, aromatic beverage that delights the hearts of epicures and acts as a delightful conclusion to a well-enjoyed meal, only the finest material should be used. They are represented by

Chase & Sanborn's Seal Brand Coffee

Grocers sell it in pound and two-pound tin cans, and the signature of these famous importers, together with their seal, guarantees its matchless excellence.

Harper Sentenced.

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 3.—At the Police Court yesterday John Franklin Harper, the escaped convict, who was recaptured in Toronto a few days ago through being arrested for the theft of a bicycle, had two years added to his sentence, to run concurrently with his unfinished term, one year and seven months, so that in all he has two full years now to serve.

Trolley to the Pyramids.

New York, Feb. 3.—The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company has received an order for trolley cars to be used in carrying tourists to and from the Pyramids in Egypt. A trolley line is being built by English capital from Cairo to the ancient monuments.

Smallpox at Vankleek Hill.

Vankleek Hill, Feb. 3.—Assistant Provincial Inspector Dr. Hodgetts has pronounced the illness of the child of Medas Durocher of this town to be a case of smallpox.

A FAMOUS STREAM.

Made So by a Song Which Is a Household Word.

To sit in a gorgeous box at some splendid New York theater, amid a scene of life and brilliant glitter, and hear the marvelous voice of Patti ripple away on the melody of "Way Down Upon de S'wanee Ribber," is one thing, and to travel through the South until, suddenly, with a squeak from the locomotive, one looks from the window of a Pullman car and sees for the first time in all his life, the clear, silent waters of this stream, is quite a different thing. How many have seen the Suwanee River through the veil of sentiment and song, under the environment of the first named order; and how few, comparatively, have actually stood upon the banks of the river itself, listened to the soft, low murmur of its meandering waters, so clear, so beautiful and so blue in eddy places, with trees bending over its bosom, all festooned with long, waving Spanish moss, which so abounds in the western regions of Florida. Fewer still are those who have lived upon the banks of this river, known throughout the world of song, long enough to make a study of the people who dwell permanently in its long, sweeping vales—the land of flowers, song birds and sunshine.

Just how a river, a narrow little sand-bottomed, blue-watered river, that plays so small a part in the map of the United States as does the Suwanee could ever have become so famous in this wide world, does seem strange, to one when he comes to think of it, all because of a mere song. But, after all, it has a charm all its own, and the average visitor will find, when he once falls under its spell, that it will linger with him with surprising tenacity, and grow upon him like the shadow of some mysterious fascination. No doubt there was some such inspiration behind the lines:—

Way down upon de S'wanee Ribber,
Far, far away;
Dar's whar my heart am turnin' ebber,
Dar's whar de old folks stay.

Be that as it may, no such ideal picture book songs as this are ever heard on the Suwanee River in real life, unless it be, now and then, when some resident of this section chooses to hum a few lines of this same song in a spirit much the same as that of the deacon in church who says "Amen" when the preacher has finished the morning prayer—simply agreeing to what the author of this immortal song has written.

But there are songs along the Suwanee River that are characteristic and unique in all their plaintive melody, pathos and humor. The negroes who are found at work along the river, either on the little boats that haul timber up and down from the mills or phosphate from the mines, or out in the lumber camps and fields along the river bank, seem to be all given to song. They go about their work in the morning with a song and sing all the livelong day, crooning some plaintive air in a monotonous fashion, or else joining in a chorus where there are several of them, and making the woods around fairly reverberate with the echoes of their camp meeting hymns, such as this:—

Jes' look over yonder what I see—
Angels bid me ter come—
See two angels callin' at me—
Angels bid me ter come.

Rise an' shine, mourner,
Rise an' shine, mourner,
Rise an' shine, mourner,
For de angels bid 'er me ter come!

How their rich, mellow voices do melt away in the distance as they join in this sweet old air, and how the plaintive strain seems to die away upon the sighing waters of the famed river! And when they get to the chorus how they swing around at their work and bear down on the loud pedal of their voices and throw the genuine old jubilee vigor of camp meeting into the song. If they are cutting logs for the saw mill nigh at hand they are apt to swing their axes in full time with the measure of the song, and this gives it all the more interest and peculiar charm.

One of the lively "jig songs" that are often heard in the lumber and phosphate camps along the Suwanee River runs something like this:—

Jaybird up de sugar tree,
Sparrow on de groun',
Jaybird shake de sugar down,
Sparrow pass hit eroun'.

Shoo, ladies, shoo,
Shoo, ladies, shoo,
Shoo, ladies, shoo my gal,
I'm boun' for Sugar Hill.

Five cents is my pocket change,
Ten cents is my bill;
If times don' git no bettah heah
I'm boun' for Sugar Hill.
etc., etc.

The music of this song is much in the fashion of the common negro songs, lively, yet full of pathos and plaintive melody. There is that in all negro songs that is plaintive, even their most exasperating foot-shaking and soul-stirring "jig songs."

True, typical negro songs rarely ever show any particular effort at preparation. They seem to just boil right out of the darkey's heart and soul, and if by chance they manage to get a fairly good jingle or rhyme to them, it is by no special poetical painstaking on the part of the author, and, in fact, is of but little consequence to him.

Such are the songs that one hears on the Suwanee river, in these modern days of progress and material development.

GRAIN TRADE SOLUTION.

A Federal Government Railway to the Georgian Bay.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Yesterday—afternoon and evening—mass meetings were held here to discuss the grain-route problem, which were attended by all of our prominent men. Speakers from Collingwood, Midland and Meaford were heard in respect to the claims of each of them for the terminus of the proposed short line to Georgian Bay from Toronto. After several hours' discussion a resolution was adopted which asked the Federal Government to construct an air line railway from some point on Georgian Bay to Toronto, in connection with a deepened and improved canal system. The Council, the Board of Trade and a committee of six gentlemen as follows were appointed to carry out the terms of the resolution: Messrs. J. K. Leslie, W. F. Maclean, M.P., John Laxton, J. H. Boyle, Major Parsons and J. A. Proctor.

NOVA SCOTIA LEGISLATION.

The Control of the Fisheries by the Province and Good Roads.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 3.—The second session of the Nova Scotia Legislature since the general election opened yesterday. Governor Daly has been ill for some time, but he was able to deliver the speech in person. The speech from the throne calls attention to the recent decision of the judicial committee of the Privy Council, involving a change in the ownership and control of the inland fisheries and harbor and river beds, throwing their responsibilities upon the Provincial Government and Legislature, and necessitating legislation to meet the changed conditions thus created. A new road measure was also promised.

THE SLATER SHOE

Under false colours.

Some Mackay stitched shoes are made to imitate Goodyear Welts.

They have a "dummy welt" on the outer edge of the sole, and a false insole covering the stitches under the foot.

But no matter how skillful the deception to the eye, the effect upon the feet soon shows it up.

Stitches under the feet did it.

Any shoe stitched under the foot must form hard and callous spots on it, as soon as the leather wears away and the stitches form elevations under pressure.

The sole of the Goodyear Welted "Slater Shoe" is sewn to a strip of leather outside the shoe—not a stitch or peg being under the foot.

Each pair remains six days on the last to take the stretch out of the leather, moulding it to keep the niceties which constitute fit and comfort.

You'll know that it's genuine Goodyear Welt if stamped on the sole with the "Slater Shoe" name and price, $3, $4, or $5.

A tag on each pair tells the leather it is made of—the wear it will give.

VOL. XXVII, NO. 29. PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1899. PRICE TWO CENTS

Salutatory.

FEBRUARY 1st, 1899.

To-day, the New Firm of Robert Fair & Co. made its first bow to the public.

The Golden Lion, so successfully carried on by Robert Fair since the foundation o the business, has taken in a new partner in the person of Mr. Harry Adams, an experienced and careful Dry Goods man, who has been intimately associated with the business for a period of over 15 years.

The development and scope of this leading Dry Goods, Millinery and Carpet House has resulted in an extensive and lucrative trade, built on merit.

Mr. Fair has been building for permanency, and he recognized the responsibility of years and the expectation of success.

We know you will expect more of us to-day. But for one pair of hands to oversee and manage a busi- of such importance has become a somewhat arduous undertaking.

The excellent team work of our store staff has, undoubtedly, counted for much, and has helped to run up our present high score. The advancement of one of the team is calculated to stimulate and encourage still better work.

If we were to put into a few words what constitutes the claims of the new firm for your attention it is this: That our interests in store-keeping is to control a higher grade of goods than are usually sold at popular prices, and to tell a straight story about them without pretence or exaggeration.

To suppose that we shall allow better values to exist outside is not to know what kind of people we are and the way we do things.

It goes without the writing that we will not give first-class room to a second-rate stock.

With a complete knowledge of our business, the members of the new firm respectfully solicit a continuance of the generous patronage so kindly bestowed upon the Golden Lion during the past 16 years.

Yours respectfully,

Robert Fair & Co

We Never, NEVER like to Carry Over Stock

From One Season to Another.

Rather sell below Cost. It brings trade and gives us money in hand, and helps to keep stock fresh.

We have'nt any unsaleable goods stowed away in our cellar or garret.

If we happen to have a line of winter goods and they don't move, we don't fret, worry or feel sore. We move them—price will do it. Bring the people in by low prices—they bring other money with them.

If trade is dull, we can force it. Push comes first, prosperity comes next. Our January Clearing Sale Always gives us a busy month.

We never leave our store to take a social drink, or smoke a Cigar, during business hours.

Don't shop here if you don't want BARGAINS—especially this month.

CANADA'S INTERESTS.

Five Cabinet Ministers Summoned to New York.

COLONIAL TRADE EXPANSION.

The Effect of the Australian Federation Question of Senate Reform—Lord Strathcona's Invitation to the Men of Great Britain to Settle in the Dominion—Birthday Greetings.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Hon. David Mills, Hon. A. G. Blair, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Clifford Sifton left at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon for New York. Hon. J. I. Tarte joined them at Montreal. They went to meet the Premier and other Canadian members of the international commission at Washington, who will be in New York on the arrival of the Ministers there. A meeting of the Ministers will be held in New York to consider matters which are now engaging the attention of the commission. It is understood that the Canadian commissioners will return to Washington and that the other members of the Cabinet will return to Ottawa, reaching here on Monday evening.

THE AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.

Inevitable Expansion of Colonial Trade—Lord Strathcona's Letter.

Toronto, Feb. 4.—The Globe's London special says: The probable approach of Australian federation has created great interest here. One belief which is generally held is that a general expansion of Australian trade is likely to follow the political union, and in this connection reference is frequently heard to the part which Canada should play in endeavoring to profit by this expansion. One aspect of the scheme which is widely canvassed in colonial circles, in view of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's scheme of Senate reform, is the fact that in case of a conflict between the two Houses an absolute majority at a joint session is to prevail.

A letter from Lord Strathcona, describing the advantages of emigration to Canada, appears in all the principal papers throughout England yesterday.

CANADA'S ADVANTAGES.

Lord Strathcona's Letter to the British Press on Emigration.

Montreal, Feb. 4.—The Star's London special says: The leading papers, including The Times, give prominence to a letter from Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal indicating the excellent openings in the various Canadian provinces for farmers and young men servants and the opportunities for profitable investment of capital. The letter gives evidences of Canada's entry upon an era of expansion, and thus concludes: "Those who go to Canada and are ready and willing to aid in the development of the country are assured of a cordial welcome. They will not find themselves in a strange land, but among a loyal and prosperous people, as proud of being the subjects of the Queen as if destiny had set them to reside in the United Kingdom."

Senator Mills' Warning.

Canadian prosperity is also a distinctive note of a series of remarkable cablegram messages from Canadian Ministers published in the birthday number of The Outlook. Messrs. Fielding, Sifton, Fisher, Mills and Mulock each answers for progress in his department, and of a growth throughout Canada of a spirit of kinship with the motherland. Mr. Mills adds this significant sentence: "Canada has shown her devotion to British connection. We trust the motherland will not make the mistake of compromising our rights in the expectation of better securing the friendship of other peoples."

MR. HAGUE HAS RESIGNED.

Veteran Financier and Lecturer Relinquishes His Managerial Position.

Montreal, Feb. 4.—Mr. George Hague, who for many years has been prominent in Canadian banking circles, and has been the manager of the Merchants' Bank for the past 22 years, has resigned. Mr. Hague is at present at Lakewood, N.J., and it is said that he will still identify himself with the bank in the capacity of an advisor.

The report was current here yesterday that Postmaster C. A. Dansereau had resigned his position to take the editorship of La Presse.

DICTATORSHIP IN AUSTRIA.

Socialists Agitating Against Suppression of the People's Parliamentary Rights.

Vienna, Feb. 4.—The statement that constitutionalism in Austria has succumbed is confirmed by the announcement yesterday that Count Thun von Hohenstein, the Premier, intends to rule as dictator without the Reichsrath, for at least a year, and possibly until the term of the present Parliament expires, in 1903. The Socialists are preparing for gigantic demonstrations against the suppression of parliamentary government.

ANTI-RITUALISTIC.

A Strong Excitement Spreading in England—Sir William Vernon Harcourt May Lead New Party in Parliament.

London, Feb. 4.—The anti-Ritualistic excitement is spreading to an alarming extent throughout Great Britain. The question threatens to become a prominent issue in Parliament. Already a large Protestant party is being formed of members of the House of Commons. Among them are many Liberals who have not hitherto been identified with ecclesiastical questions.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt will, in all probability, become the leader of this new party. He has been asked to abandon his projected visit to the Continent and to remain in London to lead the anti-Ritualists, whose rise may mean a new and potent coalition against the Government.

That the agitation against the "mass and confessional," started by Kensit and carried on by new Protestant leaders, has now come to a pass demanding settlement is recognized by the most conservative churchmen.

The Times, Spectator and other prominent dailies, carry in big black letters the headline, "Crisis in the Church of England."

Last week the bishops met at Lambeth Palace and grappled with the problem. The bishops, however, have not yet issued a manifesto.

The conference resulted in an agreement to present a bill to Parliament for a revival of the church courts. This would provide that disputes must be brought first before the Diocesan Court, consisting of the bishops, assisted by a theological and legal adviser. An appeal therefrom would be possible to the Provincial Court, consisting of the archbishops and six assistants, and, as a last resort, to five lay judges appointed by the Crown.

Meanwhile Queen Victoria is deeply concerned over the Ritualistic dispute, and she has instructed Lord Salisbury that a thorough understanding must be reached between the Government and the bishops before any legislation is attempted.

It is believed that if Sir William Vernon Harcourt will lead the crusade, the High Church practices will be abolished in three-fourths of the churches of England.

JUST INAUGURATED.

British Cavalry Regiments Are to Have Telegraphers so That News May Be Obtained and Sent.

London, Feb. 4.—The English War Department has inaugurated a measure of considerable importance. It provides that in future every cavalry regiment shall comprise a certain number of trained telegraphers, and, inasmuch as increased pay and brighter prospects of promotion are to be accorded to troopers and non-commissioned officers who have mastered the science of telegraphy, the result will be that in course of time nearly every cavalryman will know how to telegraph. In modern warfare cavalry is used almost exclusively for reconnoissance, and the idea is that each trooper shall be sufficiently expert, not only to be enabled to tap the wires, with a view of obtaining valuable information regarding the enemy, but shall be able to send important news which may be secured. It is known that both Germany and Russia keep large bodies of cavalry on either side of their long frontier, with the main purpose of cutting and tapping the enemy's telegraph wire just across the boundary line, for the purpose of interferring with the mobilization immediately on the outbreak of war. It was seen, therefore, that a knowledge of telegraphy is indispensable to the cavalryman of the future, and in view of this fact the new rule inaugurated by the War Department here excites universal approval.

THE FISHERY REGULATIONS.

A Guide to the Fishermen of the Province of Ontario—To Kill Off Evils of Blanket Mortgages—Bills to Be Introduced — Additions to the Provincial Library.

Toronto, Feb. 4.—The House assembled shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday, but adjourned almost immediately till Monday next, at 3 o'clock. T. A. Wardell, North Wentworth, gave notice of a bill to be introduced from the Municipal Council of Wentworth regarding bicycle paths, and also with reference to amendment of the Registration Acts.

The Estimates.

Col. Matheson asked a question of the Government as to when the public accounts and estimates would be presented.

Mr. Harcourt replied that some day next week, probably by Wednesday, these would be ready.

The bicycle bill will be an act to provide for strips for bicycles all through the country, and to make provision enforcing a penalty on any using these for carts and wagons.

Blanket Mortgages.

Mr. John Barr, M.P.P. for Dufferin, will on Wednesday next introduce an act to amend the Registry Act, which is aimed specially at the blanket mortgage, of which the farmers are loud in their complaints.

The Legislative Assembly has no jurisdiction to legislate with reference to the contents of mortgages and has not the right to say that a mortgage shall be drawn in such a way or shall or shall not contain such and such provisions, as this is the function of the Dominion House.

But the Legislative Assembly has complete jurisdiction over the registry laws, and has power to say just what papers shall or shall not be registered. In this way, if the House sees fit, it may rule that a blanket mortgage shall not be registered, and if the registration was stopped that would effectually put an end to them as easily as if it was made illegal to draw them. The bill if it becomes an act will form part of the Registry Act.

Fishery Regulations.

Herewith are published the regulations in regard to the use of nets for the information of the fishermen on the rivers and lakes of Ontario. The decision as to what implements shall be used in the fisheries still remains in the hands of the Dominion Government, but the power to issue licenses rests with the Ontario Government under the change recently made. The Ontario Department of Fisheries issues licenses for five kinds of fishing—pound nets, gill nets, hoop nets, seines and set lines. The hoop nets are used for coarse fishing and the capture of fish not protected by the close season; pound and gill nets are principally used for catching trout, whitefish, herring and pickerel. Gill nets are set out in deep water and pound nets run out from the shore. Seines or sweep nets are chiefly used in the River Thames, Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair and Detroit Rivers. Set lines are attached to floats and contain a number of baited hooks. They are used most frequently around Pelee Island in the capture of sturgeon and other fish that take bait. The close season for bass and maskinonge is from April 15 to June 15, pickerel from April 15 to May 15, speckled trout from Sept. 15 to May 1, salmon trout and whitefish from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30.

Bills to Be Introduced.

The Attorney-General—Bill to further improve the Election Laws, 1899.

Mr. Harcourt—Bill to supplement provincial revenues.

Mr. Dryden—Bill to improve the act for the prevention of the spread of the San Jose scale.

Mr. Ross—Bill amending the Public Schools Act; also bill amending the act respecting public libraries.

Mr. Stratton—Bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Smith—Bill to amend the County Council Act.

Mr. Crawford—Bill to amend the law with respect to compensation to workmen for accidental injuries suffered in the course of their employment.

The Committees.

The Attorney-General did not move to strike committees. He will do so on Monday. Government measures will be reached on Tuesday, and the House will be moved into committee of supply some time next week.

The Provincial Library.

Mr. Avern Pardoe has prepared the report of the Provincial Librarian, reporting additions to the library of more than a usual number last year, the number of volumes totalling 54,460. He states that there is pressing need for more shelf room, and especially for the case of the public statutes, sessional papers, etc., now in the annex. The librarian was forced to regret that 17 honorable members had books in their possession not returned after repeated requests. The extensive law library purchased from Sir Oliver Mowat was placed in the library. A full set of the British public documents relating to Canada is also on file.

Swindled.

Mrs. Smarte says her husband is the worst man that ever was to go shopping. He's almost sure to get swindled every time. "Why," she says, "it was only t'other day that he bought a flute, and when it came home, if you'll believe it, 'twas full of holes."

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE

PONDEROUS PLODDERS.

How Elephants Cross a River That Has Steep Banks.

It is a great sight to see a line of elephants crossing a river with steep banks. They go down slowly, striking the ground with their trunks before each step and never making a slip or a miss, although you feel every minute as if they were going to take a header into the water. Then they wade or swim, as the case may be, and they swim beautifully, not hesitating to cross half a mile of deep water if need be.

I must say, however, that the sensation of sitting on the back of a swimming elephant is the reverse of pleasant. You fancy yourself on an enormous barrel which may roll round at any moment and take you under. Besides that, they swim so low in the water that you are sure of a wetting, which in India means an excellent chance of fever.

Having crossed the stream, they must climb to the top of the bank, and this is the most peculiar operation of all. Down on their knees they go and with trunk and tusks dig out a foothold for themselves, and so step by step work their way to the top, their position being sometimes like that of a fly climbing up a wall. As they reach the top they give a lurch sideways and shoot one leg straight over the bank, then give a lurch to the other side and shoot out the other leg in the same way, which brings them into the position of a boy hanging by his arms from the edge of a roof. Then they come to their knees and finally, with a great scrambling and kicking of their hind legs, bring themselves to level ground again.

In spite of these perilous ascents and descents I never knew an elephant to miss his foothold, although there was a case where one of the herd got stuck in the mud and sank gradually deeper and deeper until only his head and part of his back could be seen. The rajah ordered ten other elephants to be brought up, and they were hitched to the unfortunate animal, and by pulling together at the given word brought their following comrade out of the mud with a plump like the pop of a thousand ton cork.—Times of India.

HE THANKS HEAVEN.

That he Used Dodd's Kidney Pills, Which Saved His Life.

Bowmanville, Jan. 23—Marvellous indeed is the case of Mr. A. W. Gibbons, miller, of this town.

Here is his story, as he himself tells it: 'I couldn't eat, nor sleep: had terrible pains in my back and stomach.

"Doctors said I had Bright's Disease But they couldn't cure me.

"Thank Heaven, whether it was Bright's Disease, or anyone else's Dodd's Kidney Pills soon cured it.

"I hope the news of my cure will spread over the whole country, so that all sufferers will hear of the greatest kidney remedy in the world—Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the ONLY medicine that has ever cured Bright's Disease.

Suspicious.

"Of course," said the emissary from the czar, "you are in favor of his majesty's peace propositions?"

"Well, I don't know about that," replied the Spaniard. "Since we encountered the peace propositions of the United States we are a little suspicious of such things."—Philadelphia North American.

His Woe.

His trim mustache hangs drooping now,
A look of care is on his brow,
He mopes all day, morose and glum,
His head hangs forward, out of plumb;
His shirt front shows a spot of grease,
His trousers, too, have lost their crease,
He's in the dumps, he has the blues,
He goes down town with unblacked shoes,
He's growing hollow eyed and thin,
A four days' beard is on his chin,
He hasn't any appetite,
His necktie is a sorry sight,
He speaks to no one on the street,
No longer keeps his collars neat,
The world to him looks stale and flat,
He wears his worst and oldest hat
And goes around with a trembling lip,
For his darling girl has got the grip.

OLD MANUSCRIPT INK.

A Recipe From Which an Excellent Quality Can Be Made.

"While examining a large number of manuscripts of an old scribe, some 25 years ago," said a well known New York librarian, "I was struck with the clearness and legibility of the writing, owing, in a great measure, to the permanent quality of the ink, which had not faded in the least, although many of the manuscripts were nearly 200 years old. It was marked, too, that the writer must have been celebrated in his day for his caligraphy, for I met with a letter or two from his correspondents in which there was a request for the recipe of the ink he used. I found this recipe, which I copied, and from one of them, dated in 1658, I have during the last 18 years made all the ink I have used.

"The recipe reads as follows: Rainwater, 1 gallon; galls, bruised, 1 pound; green copperas, one-half pound; gum arabic, 10 ounces, 5 drams, 1 scruple. Not requiring so large a quantity at a time, I reduced the proportions to one-eighth, and the recipe stands thus:

"Rainwater, 1 pint; galls, bruised, 1½ ounces; green copperas, 6 drams; gum arabic, 10 drams. The galls must be coarsely powdered and put into a bottle with the other ingredients and water added. The bottle, when securely stoppered, should be placed in the light (sun if possible), and its contents occasionally stirred until the gum and copperas are dissolved, after which it is enough to shake the bottle daily, and in the course of a month or six weeks the ink will be fit to use. I have ventured to add ten drops of carbolic acid to the contents of the bottle, as it effectually prevents the formation and growth of mold without any detriment to the quality of the ink, so far as I know."—Washington Star.

The Far Western Colleges.

Colorado college may be taken as a type of the far western college, says Hamilton W. Mable in The Atlantic, and as such it gives every lover of sound learning the assurance that the light which has been handed down from generation to generation with such jealous care will not suffer any loss of purity or intensity on the slopes of the Rocky mountains. It is not a rich college, for the wealth of the country is still largely prospective, but it is well equipped, its endowment is steadily increasing and the affection and interest of the community are quietly gathering about it.

On the Pacific coast such institutions as the University of California and the younger and more aggressive Leland Stanford university give expression to the spiritual aspiration of communities which are still dealing with material problems in their most pressing forms, while such noble beginnings of educational foundation as Whitman college attest the persistence of that devout spirit in which so many American colleges have had their inception.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of the head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left me. He says this grand medicine is what the country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Young Men's Popularity.

To the query, "Are young men who cannot, from religious convictions, play cards, dance or attend the theatre, apt to be popular with young women of refinement and education who do indulge in such amusements?" Edward W. Bok, in "Problems for Young Men," in the January Ladies' Home Journal, responds:

"Why certainly: why not? The amusements in which a man indulges have nothing to do with his outward attractiveness or popularity. It is the way in which a young man carries himself in his deportment that makes or mars his popularity with girls or men. One of the most popular and delightful fellows I know in New York has never been inside of a theatre, although he is thirty-five years of age. Nor has he ever danced or played cards. He was a personal friend for ten years before I knew that his religious principles precluded his indulgence in these amusements. His secret is that he does not carry his convictions on his sleeve for everybody to rub against. And of his popularity with women, young and mature, I can assure you absolutely. He reads about the new plays, and can, therefore, talk about them if they come up in conversation. If asked if he has seen a certain actor or play he merely replies in the negative. Never does he force his convictions upon others. A young man's popularity with either sex rests upon something more than his forms of amusement: amiability of manner, kindliness, a pleasant address, a manly outlook on life, honorable principles—all these go far toward insuring popularity."

The Patron Saint of Lawyers.

Who, by the way, is the patron saint of lawyers? A famous lawyer in Brittany once appealed to the pope for a saint. His holiness proposed that he should go round a certain church blindfolded and lay hold of the saint nearest his hand. He stopped and grasped a certain image, crying, "This be our saint: this be our patron!"

When the bandage was removed, he found that though he had stopped before the altar of St. Michael, to his horror he had laid hold not of St. Michael, but of the figure under St. Michael's feet—the [illegible] Sketch

APPLES AS MEDICINE.

They Are Easy of Digestion and Help to Clear the System.

Chemically the apple is composed of vegetable fiber, albumen, sugar, gum, chlorophyll, malic acid, gallic acid, lime and much water. Furthermore, the apple contains a larger percentage of phosphorus than any other fruit or vegetable. This phosphorus, says The Family Doctor, is admirably adapted for renewing the essential nervous matter, lethicin, of the brain and spinal cord. It is perhaps, for the same reason, rudely understood that old Scandinavian traditions represent the apple as the food of the gods, who, when they felt themselves to be growing feeble and infirm, resorted to this fruit for renewing their powers of mind and body.

Also the acids of the apple are of great use for men of sedentary habits, whose livers are sluggish in action, these acids serving to eliminate from the body noxious matters which, if retained, would make the brain heavy and dull or bring about jaundice or skin eruptions and other allied troubles. Some such experience must have led to our custom of taking apple sauce with roast pork, rich goose and like dishes. The malic acid of ripe apples, either raw or cooked, will neutralize any excess of chalky matter, engendered by eating too much meat. It is also the fact that such fresh fruit as the apple, the pear and the plum, when taken ripe and without sugar, diminishes acidity in the stomach rather than provokes it. Their vegetable salts and juices are converted into alkaline carbonates, which tend to counteract acidity.

A ripe, raw apple is one of the easiest vegetable substances for the stomach to deal with, the whole process of its digestion being completed in 85 minutes. Gerard found that the "pulpe of roasted apples mixed in a wine quart of fairo water and labored together until it comes to be as apples and ale—which we call lambswool—never faileth in certain diseases of the raines, which myself hath often proved, and gained thereby both crownes and credit." "The pairing of an apple, cut somewhat thick, and the inside whereof is laid to hot, burning or running eyes at night, when the party goes to bed, and is tied or bound to the same, doth help the trouble very speedily, and, contrary to expectation, an excellent secret."

His suffering from Ulcerating Piles Cured.

He says:—I was troubled with itching piles for five years, and was badly ulcerated. They were very painful, so much so that I could not sleep. I tried almost every remedy heard of, and was recommended to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. I purchased a box, and from the first application got such relief that I was satisfied a cure would be made. I used in all two boxes, and am now completely cured.

Every remedy given by Dr. Chase cost years of study and research, and with an eye single to its adaptation for the ailments for which it was intended. Dr. Chase detested cure-alls, and it has been proven ten thousand times that not one of his formulas leave a bad after-effect. Dr. Chase's Ointment is based on lanoline, and the best physicians prescribe it.

Permanent Cure of Severe Salt Rheum.

The permanent cure after permanent cure that is being received and published day by day has placed Burdock Blood Bitters far above all other remedies in the estimation of the sick and suffering.

Even the severest and most chronic diseases that other remedies fail to relieve yield to the blood purifying, blood enriching properties of B. B. B.

Salt Rheum or Eczema—that most stubborn of skin diseases, which causes such torture and is so difficult to cure with ordinary remedies—cannot withstand B. B. B.'s healing, soothing power.

The case of Mrs. Jas. Sanderson, Emerson, Man., shows how effective B. B. B. is in curing Salt Rheum at its worst, and curing it to stay cured.

This is what she wrote:

"Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a bad attack of Salt Rheum three years ago. It was so severe that my finger nails came off. I can truly say that I know of no more valuable medicine in the world than B. B. B. It cured me completely and permanently, as I have never had a touch of Salt Rheum since."

The Catarrh Clutch

This Disgusting Malady is at the Throat of 900 of every 1,000 of our Country's Population.

This Is Not Hearsay. It is Borne Out by Carefully Compiled Statistics of Diseases Most Prevalent. Its Development is Watched Carefully Because it is so Sure a forerunner of Consumption if Neglected. Most Catarrh Cures Contain Cocaine, which is a Dangerous Narcotic, and Prof. Heys, of the Ontario School of Chemistry and Pharmacy, says:—

"After an examination made from samples procured on the open market, I declare that there is no COCAINE contained in the preparation of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure." Most astonishing results are daily coming into Dr. Chase's office of the cures made. Here are a few in condensed form. We ask you to call or write to the following parties if at all sceptical:

OSWALD BURKHARDT, 259 PORTLAND STREET, TORONTO, suffered from Catarrh for nine years, and was cured by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MR. J. PALMER, HAIRDRESSER, 673 QUEEN STREET WEST, TORONTO, could not sleep for years on account of the mucus dropping into the throat; cured by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MR. WHITCOMBE, OF THE METHODIST BOOK ROOM, TORONTO, suffered for two years; cured by one box of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MRS. COWLE, 467 QUEEN STREET EAST, TORONTO, thirteen years ago was attacked with Hay Fever. Never knew what it was to have any relief until she used Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. If anyone troubled with Catarrh calls on Mrs. Cowle she will give her endorsation as to her cure.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 6th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 26
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low rating of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Colonel," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

The door at the front is opened by Rob Jocelyn, and, pistols in hand, he enters the attic room. Six men start up at his entrance; six men who at that moment were bending over plates and dies, and all the paraphernalia of a counterfeiter's den. A little further a young woman stands at a desk, busy with some newly-printed bogus bank notes, and beside her sits George Fordham, the reporter, affixing the signatures to these same bogus bills.

Rob Jocelyn has opened the door noiselessly, and he enters the room with a spring like a cat. For just one second the counterfeiters are off their guard, and then weapons flash in the gaslight. But that one second of panic, of irresolution, is the second that tells. Rob covers George Fordham with one pistol, and the nearest counterfeiter with another; and while they lay their hands upon their weapons, his voice, low and calm, says, with telling effect:—

"Surrender, men, the house is guarded, resistance useless; make the first attempt and we will shoot you down where you stand."

Suddenly there is a rush toward the left hand door. But while they have been gazing at Rob Jocelyn that avenue of escape has been cut off. Four bright weapons menace them, and Francis Ferrars says, sternly:—

"Your case is hopeless, sirs; surrender in the name of the law."

The counterfeiters are bewildered; they are seven to three, but six of the seven are covered with revolvers, held in firm hands; while they, because of the suddenness of the attack, stand armed, it is true, but, in the face of those deadly weapons, not daring to aim a pistol. Suddenly the girl at the desk leans over Fordham; the detectives are watching the men, they will not think of her; but one there knows her, and knows her to be as dangerous as the fiercest man of the gang. She turns quickly; she raises a pistol; she is taking aim at the heart of Rob Jocelyn.

"Mrs. Pomeroy."

The pistol falls from nerveless fingers; the woman turns a white, scared face toward the speaker.

"I would not attempt that again, Mrs. Pomeroy. You have damaged officers enough." It is Francis Ferrars who speaks, and his weapons are still aimed at the men. "I shall shoot you if you make it necessary. Do you know me?"

The woman utters a cry of terror.

"Yes; you are Ferrars," she gasped. "Why are you here?"

"To take you back to England, if you make it necessary. Will you obey me, if I spare you that?"

"Yes, yes!"

"Listen then. This house is so securely guarded that you can escape in no possible way. I shall deal with you according to your present conduct. Come here."

Like some tamed animal the woman obeyed him.

"Stand away from these men and their weapons, over there. Now, Mr. Jocelyn, shall we fire upon these fellows?"

"We shall! If they don't lay down their arms pretty quick," replied Rob, in his characteristic way.

"George Fordham, do you surrender?"

George Forham had been sitting like an abject coward before his desk. Suddenly he lifted his pistol, placed it against his breast and fired. There was a shriek from the woman; a murmur of horror from the now panic-stricken counterfeiters; and then Rob Jocelyn moved nearer the men he had under his weapon.

"Lay down your pistols, men, and hold up your hands. Quick!"

They hesitated but a moment, and then obeyed him; and the remaining four, seeing this, did likewise. In less time than it takes to tell, the six were handcuffed and helpless, and Rob Jocelyn was filling his capacious pockets with the pistols of the gang.

Neil Bathurst approached the bleeding would-be suicide; he was not dead, but might be dangerously wounded.

"You had better go below," he said to his comrades. "I will attend to the—lady."

The six men were marched down stairs, at the mouth of the pistol. Here they came suddenly upon Mrs. Rogers; she had been aroused from sleep by the report of Fordham's pistol, and almost before she knew it, she, too, was handcuffed. They found, likewise, two men below, who had been used to circuit in various ways and places spurious money of the Fordham manufacture. It had scarcely been five minutes since the shot that aroused them was fired, and they were all overcome and made captive. The servants were allowed to go free upon being assured by Mrs. Rogers that they were entirely innocent of anything carried on above the basement stairs.

The door was opened now, and the officers who had been stationed without were called in. One of them instantly departed to summon others, and while they waited, Jocelyn and Ferrars made a thorough examination of the house. They found large quantities of the manufactured paper money, as well as considerable coin.

The house was elegant in all its appointments, and, but for the suspicions aroused in the mind of Neil Bathurst, while investigating the Arteveldt murder, might have prospered for years under the guise of a first-class and highly-respectable boarding-house.

The officer who had been sent for reinforcements was also commissioned to call a physician for the wounded Fordham. Neil Bathurst had remained beside him, and in charge of the woman whom he had known as Nina Annin, and who had been addressed, with startling effect, as Mrs. Pomeroy, by Ferrars. Neil was at a loss here. He knew nothing of the Mrs. Pomeroy business, and was inwardly wondering about it, when the physician and Francis Ferrars mounted to the counterfeiter's operating room.

After a careful examination, the man of medicine pronounced upon Fordham's case. He was badly hurt, but would live with proper care. Then Neil Bathurst turned to the woman.

"Miss Annin," he said, gravely, "you are under arrest as one of the gang taken in this house in the very act of counterfeiting. I can't help you there, if I would; but you may be held upon other charges that will make your case utterly hopeless. This I may be able to prevent, or rather you may."

"What do you mean?" asked Miss Annin.

"I mean that you are charged with being an accomplice in the murder of Clarence Arteveldt; and also of having a hand in the Durand robbery."

"What!" The woman sprang up in unfeigned astonishment. "I! Mr. Bathurst, who accuses me?"

"Miss Durand, indirectly; directly, myself."

"Aura Durand! Dare she so much as hint such a thing?"

"She has dared that and more. Are you ready to tell all you know concerning Aura Durand and her connections with Clarence Arteveldt?"

The woman hesitated, and while she did so Mr. Ferrars moved nearer and looked in her face.

"Which will benefit you most," he said; "to tell what you know of Miss Durand, and so assist the officers of justice, or to have me tell what I know of Mrs. Pomeroy, and so insure for you a double, perhaps a life sentence?"

"If I do tell what you wish me to, you will denounce me."

"If you tell Mr. Bathurst what he wishes to hear, and if he assures me of his belief in your truthfulness, I will tell him and no other what I know of you. American justice shall deal with you as it will."

She turned toward Neil Bathurst. "Are you hunting her down?" she asked.

"I am hunting down Clarence Arteveldt's murderess. You know who that is."

"And—will my evidence turn the scale against her?"

"No; with or without your evidence, she will be under arrest within twenty-four hours."

"Ah!" with flashing eyes; "she will come down from her stilts then. Mr. Bathurst, I will answer your questions."

"Very good; they must be answered in the presence of a lawyer and others. And now—come, Miss Annin."

"Come! Where will you take me?"

"With the others—to the station-house."

With drooping head and vanquished spirit, Nina Annin obeyed, and soon the eight counterfeiters and their two female accomplices were marched through the bleak and silent streets, and safely lodged between stout stone walls, and behind hopeless iron bars.

The doctor and two police-men were left in charge of the wounded man, who was removed to the hospital at dawn. And then, having seized upon the counterfeiter's outfit, Mrs. Rogers' boarding-house was closed.

CHAPTER XLVII.

BATHURST'S LAST REPORT.

The telegram that went speeding southward to James Durand brought him swiftly back to the city. He knew full well the meaning of that single word "Come." He arrived in the grey morning, the same morning that saw the breaking up of the counterfeiting gang, and the arrest of the tenantry of Mrs. Rogers' boarding-house. But he did not hasten to his splendid home. He was driven to an obscure hotel, and there remained for more than three hours.

At the expiration of that time Neil Bathurst appeared. The two men shook hands, and looked gravely at each other.

"You see I am punctual," said the old man. "How goes your work, Bathurst?"

"It is nearly done, sir. And how is Mrs. Durand?"

The old man's face clouded.

"Bathurst," he cried, "I think I could see the she-fiend hanged to-day. Listen, with all our precautions she almost overreached us. We had been gone four days when I came in one morning and found Mrs. Durand in great agony. I sent for a doctor, and then questioned the servant. What had Mrs. Durand drank or eaten? She had eaten nothing, the woman said, but had seemed growing worse since she drank the wine. What wine? I asked. Why, said the creature, the wine Miss Aura had brought, the very last thing to be packed, because her mother was so fond of it, and she might not find it where she was going. Think of it, Bathurst! My wife all but died that night, and the physician discovered the poisonous symptoms. I had to tell him the whole story then; and, as soon as the danger was past, I told my wife the truth"—here a twinkle came into his eyes. "My boy, what do you think she said then?"

Neil smiled and shook his head.

"Well, she was terribly cut up. I could see that, but after she had fully contemplated the matter, she raised herself on her elbow, and said: 'James, I always said there was something queer about that girl.' Think of that, Bathurst; nothing will quench a woman's inevitable 'I told you so,' I verily believe."

Neil Bathurst smiled in spite of himself. "That is a woman's ultimatum," he said. "And we borrow it for our own sometimes—for instance. I told you that your bait would get on foot a new scheme of murder. And it has."

"Has it?" queried the old man, grimly. "Well, I am prepared to believe anything in that line now, and I am prepared to act, too. So tell me your plans, man. I have no more scruples."

"That is well, sir," replied the detective, gravely, "then if you are ready and have breakfasted, we will go to Mr. Hale's office. I have an appointment there this morning."

REAL YOUTH.

When you see a man old enough to be a grandfather pick up a heavy trunk and march off with it on his shoulder you realize that a man may be young at almost any age if his blood contains the elements that youth is made of. That is the sort of youth that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery puts into a man's veins. It gives him digestive power; it turns his food into good nourishing blood; it enables the liver to keep that blood pure and free from bilious poisons. It fills him with muscular strength and vitality. It makes him in the truest sense young again, and keeps him so.

"I am pretty well now, for a man of sixty-three years," says Mr. John Larson of Ashby, Grant Co., Minn. "I had been very badly troubled for many years with dyspepsia, also nasal catarrh and got so bad and weak that I could not work.

"I could hardly eat anything without vomiting, had a pain in the stomach and a burning sensation coming into the throat. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and can truly say these medicines have helped me wonderfully. I commenced taking them in the fall and used them all winter. I took fifteen bottles of the 'Discovery' and six of the 'Pellets' according to directions, and must say that both are good honest medicines.

"I improved right along from the very beginning. I just stopped taking medicine in the latter part of May and then felt as well as ever in my life. I can eat all kinds of food and it doesn't cause me any pain in my stomach now as it always did before I took Dr. Pierce's medicines. I can cheerfully say to the public that they need not hesitate in taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for dyspepsia; it will eradicate and cure the disease if anything will."

If you are in poor health write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. It will cost you nothing whatever for his advice although he is at the very head of his profession in the treatment of obstinate chronic diseases.

GIVES A VIVID ACCOUNT OF HOW

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

CURED HIM OF SEVERE KIDNEY DISEASE AFTER DETROIT AND ONTARIO DOCTORS FAILED.

THE DOAN KIDNEY PILL CO.

GENTLEMEN,—For a number of years I led a sedentary life, and was finally compelled to give up my situation on account of ill health. What was the trouble? Doctors disagreed as to my malady. I paid out hundreds of dollars in various kinds of medicines, consulted some of the leading doctors in Ontario and Detroit, but did not receive a permanent cure. It is true these physicians gave me temporary relief, but it was only for a while. I seemed to be growing worse all the time. Some doctors who diagnosed my case said it was dyspepsia of the bowels; others, that my liver was out of order. They prescribed, but no cure.

I eventually lost all faith in practitioners, and was about giving up in despair when I fell in with a fellow-traveller in the City of London, who insisted upon me trying Doan's Kidney Pills. I was sceptical,—told him that there was no use,—their remedies would be like all other patent medicines, a fake. He said, "try them," if they do you no good they will do you no harm. Oh! I said, that is the old story. I might as well burn my money. No, he said, one box will not cost you a cent, here it is. No, I said, I don't want you to pay for me. Never mind, he said, just try this box and if you don't get relief it is a sure thing that it is not kidney trouble that you have. I was so convinced that I was troubled with my kidneys that I grew angry. My friend left me one box. I felt like throwing it away, but on second thought I concluded that that would be ungentlemanly and wrong, so I tried the pills, and to my great surprise I found them doing me good. I bought 3 boxes for $1.25, and then I bought 3 boxes more. I used six boxes and have one left. I am now a cured man, sound and perfectly healthy. I now weigh 185¼ pounds. Before I used Doan's Kidney Pills I weighed as low as 128½ pounds. What was the trouble? Kidney disease. What was the cause? I cannot tell you. My appetite was gone, lame back, pains all over me, loss of memory, and at times as nervous as a man with the D.T's. My urine is now as clear as water. I am an entirely different man, physically, morally and mentally.

My suffering in the past the most trenchant pen couldn't tell. If I had the vocabulary of a Daniel Webster, I could not relate the pain and suffering I endured for years. Fellow reader if you are troubled with kidney complaint, be persuaded,—try Doan's Kidney Pills—and just as sure as you are a sufferer you will be cured. I firmly believe that the worst case of kidney trouble in the world can be cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

I only wish that I was possessed of a faculty of putting things in a more charming way, but the main thing I want to say is that once I was a diseased and broken down man, now I am robust and strong. I believe I owe—in fact I know it—my healthy condition at present to the healing power of Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's Kidney Pills will never die, but will be the means of saving thousands and thousands of our fellowmen from an early and premature grave if they will only have faith to give them a fair trial. I wish I only had the burning eloquence of a Demosthenes, and then I would fail in doing justice to Doan's Kidney Pills.

A Needed Measure.

The Kingston News states that it is probable that an Alderman will introduce a cleanliness by-law into the Kingston city council this year. Its object will be commendable, being to prevent men from standing on street corners and squirting tobacco juice on the sidewalks. Such a law is in force in American cities and works well. The sight of the walks in front of store doorways and in the vicinity of street corners after Sunday is loathsome and something should be done to remedy this state of affairs. The same is true of Peterborough and every other place in the country.

R. H. Kells & Co. Closing up.

Saturday, February 11th, will be the last day in business for R. H. Kells & Co. After that date the store will be positively closed and the business wound up at once. The sacrifices to be made during the few remaining days will be the greatest known in the dry goods business for years. No reasonable price will be refused for the goods, and nothing will be reserved in either dress goods, millinery or staple departments. Ladies should not be influenced by the policy too frequently pursued at other clearing sales, of misleading buyers, as R. H. Kells & Co. pledge themselves to give the bargains they promise.

TWO RUNAWAYS

Which Occurred on George Street—No Damage of any Account.

Yesterday afternoon a farmer's team, which was drawing a load of lumber south on George street, became frightened at a locomotive standing on the C. P. R. tracks and wheeling just as they came to the crossing, ran east along the track towards the bridge. The runners caught in the track fortunately and brought the load to grief before the bridge was reached. Traffic was blocked until the lumber could be reloaded. No damage was done to any extent.

This morning a farmer's team almost got away on George street, opposite the Y. M. C. A, through the breaking of the king bolt. The front bob pulled out from beneath the sleigh, but the horses were brought quickly under control.

THOSE STOLEN BOOKS.

A Number of Them Were Thrown Into Mr. Madill's Yard Yesterday.

A portion of the books lost by Ethel Montgomery were thrown over the fence into Mr. Madill's yard yesterday morning. All the most valuable ones are missing, and of those returned the front pages, bearing the owner's name, have been removed and the covers torn off others in order that their identity might be destroyed.

The impression prevailed in the first place that the books had simply been picked up by someone who thought that they had been lost, but as it now appears that they have been stolen, the police intend following up a clue in their possession and speedily bringing the guilty parties to justice.

DEATH OF F. J. TATE.

His Demise Occurred Yesterday Afternoon at his Residence in Lakefield.

Word was received in town last evening of the death of Mr. Francis James Tate, at his late residence, "Harborne," Lakefield.

The deceased was fifty-eight years of age, and was born in England, coming to Canada at the age of 17 years, and shortly afterwards entering the Bank of Montreal at Montreal. He was connected with the bank at the head office for many years, and was afterwards removed to New York. Later he was appointed the manager of the Peterborough agency, holding this position until his retirement in the early seventies. He then lived in England for some years, but returned eventually to Canada, taking up residence in Lakefield, where in later years he erected for his family a most attractive home. His marriage took place in 1873 and his widow and two children survive him. The children are Mr. E. R. and Miss Annie Tate.

The deceased was a staunch friend of the Church of England and his doors were ever ajar, both at his Lakefield and Stony Lake residences, to receive the clergy. For the past two years the annual summer school of the Church of England clergy of the district has been conducted at Mr. Tate's summer cottage.

Mr. Tate's temperance principles and liberal donations to charitable objects brought him prominently before the public, although he was indeed one of those of whom it might be said that the right hand knew not of the left's giving. His donations, however, were of too liberal a nature to escape notice.

The funeral will take place on Monday next at two o'clock.

Death of Mrs. Margaret Uin Yesterday Afternoon.

The death took place yesterday of Mrs. Margaret Uin, Stewart street, widow of the late Hamilton Uin, Esq., at the age of 65 years.

Mrs. Uin had been ailing for over a year and was confined to her bed for the last four months. She leaves five children, viz., Mrs Thos O Rush, and Mrs W H Dayman, Peterborough: Mrs. E. Brown and Miss Ida Uin, Syracuse, and Mr Bruce Uin, Pittsburg. All of the children are here now.

The deceased was a daughter of the late William Roddy, who with Mr. John Deyell, was one of the pioneer settlers of Cavan, taking up land there in 1812. Her marriage to Mr. Hamilton Uin took place in 1857 and residence was taken up in Peterborough during the early sixties. For many years Mr. and Mrs. Uin conducted the Stewart House until they purchased the Caissie House, now the Grand Central Hotel.

Mrs. Uin was a most affectionate mother and devoted wife and many friends in Peterborough and elsewhere will regret to learn of her demise. The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

Reference to the New Pastor Who Enters Upon His Work To-morrow.

To-morrow the pulpit of the Murray street Baptist church will be occupied by the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Bastow, M. A.

Mr. Bastow is a native of England, being born at Bradford, Yorkshire, and has spent over one-third of his life in the British dominions. His college training was received at Colgate University, New York, from which he graduated in both arts and theology. It is interesting to know that he was afterwards pastor of the college church, that is, the church home of the professors and students of the university. For five or six years his pastorate has been that of one of New York city churches. His labours there being most successful and it is this field he leaves to come to Peterborough.

It is pleasant to meet this gentleman because of his genial manner and excellence as a conversationalist. The sermons given by him in town on former occasions were very profitable and interesting.

On Sabbath morning his subject will be "The Ever-present Christ," while the evening address will be upon "The Easy Yoke."

SPECIAL MEETINGS.

Services to-morrow will begin at 7 and 11 a.m. and 3 and 7 30 p.m. The afternoon address will be on the subject of "Five Rs and four Ds." The evening subject will be entitled "The fearful forecast." ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

On Friday evening, February 3rd, several members of the Mark street Methodist Sunday school assembled to spend together a social evening with Mr. W. J. Paterson, before his departure to Western Ontario. Mr. Paterson has been secretary of Mark street Sunday school for more than eight years and before that was connected with the school in other capacities.

After a short time had been spent in games, etc., Mr. Paterson was called forward, when Miss Eloise Glover read to him an address from the Sunday school and Miss Eva Weir made the presentation of a beautiful pair of Persian Lamb gauntlets.

Afterwards refreshments were served and a very pleasant time was spent together, although all regretted Mr. Paterson's departure from Ashburnham and from the school.

The address was as follows :

Mr. Walter J. Patterson :

DEAR FRIEND AND FELLOW-WORKER,—A short time ago we learned with deep regret of your intended removal from our midst.

We feel sure that our loss will indeed be gain to those wherever your lot may be cast, for we have found in you a willing worker, ever ready to lend a hand and to do your share of the work.

We cannot allow this occasion to pass without referring especially to your long service as secretary of Mark street Sunday school. As during all those years you have been absent only twice, you have certainly set an excellent example to us all.

As a slight token of our appreciation of your efforts in the Master's cause, we ask you to accept these gauntlets, hoping that you may be long spared to use them, trusting they will remind you of many pleasant hours spent at Mark street Sunday school, and praying that we may all prove faithful while we are spared to work, and that we may eventually meet as an unbroken circle at the right hand of God.

Signed on behalf of the school,

M. W. MATCHETT, Supt.,
M. CARTON, Assistant Supt.,
CHAS. CROWE, Secretary,
A. MCCARTHY, Treasurer,
ELOISE GLOVER,
EVA WEIR.

Mr. Paterson made a suitable reply, expressing his regret at leaving Mark street, and wishing them continued success.

Contradiction.

I see by a notice in the EXAMINER that J. J. Turner & Sons are still continuing to persecute me about the alleged agreement for the sale of my business to them. I simply wish to inform my patrons and your readers that I have not sold to Turner & Sons, and do not intend to. They are anxious to get a monopoly in Peterborough. I will fully show up their whole conduct in this matter when it comes before the courts for adjustment. Yours truly, A. KINGSCOTE. 2d

ALMOST BURNED TO DEATH.

A Little Girl Left Alone in the House Sets Fire to her Clothing and is Terribly Burned.

A few days ago Mrs. Arthur Townsend, of Norwood, left her baby boy lying in bed and her two-year-old daughter playing on the floor in the house while she went across the street to Mr. M. Scott's to get a pail of water. She remained a few minutes talking to Mrs. Scott, and while she was away the eldest child sat down in front of the box stove in the front room and began playing with the fire. Taking the poker the little tot drew out the bright live coals into her lap, which soon burned through her clothing and literally roasted the flesh.

Writhing with pain and with her clothes all on fire the little one went into the room where the baby was and tried to get into the bed, but fortunately was unable to do so, or the infant perhaps would have shared a similar fate. The clothing was burned off the child from its moccasins up to its armpits and its flesh was more or less burned all the way up.

When the mother returned the child was screaming terribly with pain. Her clothing was not blazing, but the fire was still eating away at the child's ankles, and around the yoke of its dress.

Seizing the little one the mother rushed out in into the street and over to Mr. Scott's. Mrs. Scott assisted her in removing the burning clothing and providing for the comfort of the little sufferer, while Mr. Scott ran over and brushed up the coals, extinguished the fire and then hastened to call a physician.

Dr. Pettigrew who was summoned found that the child had been burned deeply in several places. Its cries were heartrending, and its sufferings terrible to witness. The doctor did all in his power to relieve its sufferings and the little one is getting along as well as can be expected.

A NEW STEAMER.

Which Will Ply the Stony Lake Waters Next Summer.

The many friends of Capt. W. V. Reynolds will be pleased to know that he has under construction at the Bertram Company's ship yard at Toronto a fine passenger steamer for the Lakefield and Stony Lake route.

The boat is of composite construction, the ribs and all frame work being of steel angle-iron, one-quarter of an inch in thickness. She will have a fore and aft compound condensing engine, the cylinders being 9 and 18 inches in diameter, with 12 inch stroke, and a boiler to carry 150 pounds of steam, with a guaranteed speed of 14 miles an hour, which is calculated to exceed the speed of any other boat now plying on these waters.

TO-NIGHT'S CONTEST.

The semi-final match to-night between the St. George's, of Toronto, and Peterborough Colts, promises to be one of the best ever played here. The Colts are plucky and deserve the encouragement of everybody. If they win this round they will be in the finals with either Upper Canada College or Stratford. Game commences at 8.30.

The senior team to meet Varsity in the senior semi-finals Monday will be the same that won from Waterloo. The forwards, Davidson, Belleghem, Crowley and King, will have a half hour's work together after the match to-night.

HOCKEY.

The Frontenacs play in Lindsay Monday night. This will keep many Lindsayites from coming to Peterborough to see the Varsity game, as was the intention.

WON THE COLTS' CUP.

This trophy was won by the local Colts three consecutive years in the Midland Association, and was then handed over by them to be competed for yearly amongst the rinks of the Granites and Thistles. This year the Thistles won the trophy on New Year's Day in a six rink match against the Granites, and in playing off for the cup amongst themselves the contest narrowed down to the above-named two rinks.

BOBCAYGEON WINS.

Two rinks of curlers drove down from Bobcaygeon yesterday to play a return match with the two rinks of Granites who played in the village a couple of weeks ago. The Granites were victorious on that occasion, but Bobcaygeon regained its lost laurels last night by winning by the appended score :

CURLIANA.

Gae bring to me my guid broom cowe,
The cowe I made yestreen,
For I wad play nae ither game
While frost haud strang an' keen,
Let warldly cares stan by, my lads,
That say I maun be free
To join the jovial curlin' cops
Wha meet around the tee ;
Then pledge Auld Scotland's roarin' game
Wi' all the honours three.

The crisp snaw cheeps aneath the feet,
The air is clear an' cell,
The yird is cased in iron mail,
An' ringin' like a bell ;
Then fill my pocket flaes, my lads,
Wi' rare auld barley bree.
Syne hey for loch, an' parish play,
An' victry at the tee ;
Then pledge Auld Scotland's roarin' game
Wi' hearty three times three.

I've played at golf, I've played at bowls,
At cricket and foothe' ;
I've played the sportsmen in my time
But curlin' dings them a' ;
It is the game o' games, my lad,
The game of mirth and glee,
An' worth an' skill an' friendship tak
Frae honours at the tee ;
Then pledge Auld Scotland's roarin' game
Wi' three times three and three.

Some like to hear the bagpipes skirl,
An' bugle soundin' clear ;
Some think the fiddle an' the flute
Mair charmin' to the ear ;
But far awa', abune them a',
The sweetest sound to me
Is music o' the channel stane
Gaun curlin' to the tee ;
Then pledge Auld Scotland's roarin' game
Wi' thretty-three times three.

Wi' foot firm planted on the ice,
In neive his guid broom cowe,
The curler feels the greatest bliss
That mortals ken, I trow,
Till day I dee, believe me, lads,
Life's nae delight shall be
The wavin' cowe an' channel-stane,
The glorious rink an' tee ;
Then pledge Auld Scotland's roarin' game
Wi' a's curler's glee.

At Campbellford yesterday the two Tankard rinks of the Granites played a friendly game with two of the local rinks of that place, as the Belleville men were not on hand to keep their engagement. The two skips, Messrs. Myles Hamilton and W. L. Allen led during the game, allowing their vice skips to take command of the rinks. Even then they were too strong for the Campbellford men, beating them out by forty-four shots. Skip Willis Hamilton scored 30 to 12, and Skip Dr. Boucher, jr., scored 26 to 8.

The two Tankard rinks of the Thistles will go to Toronto on Wednesday next to curl for the Governor-General's trophy.

The lovers of the "roarin'" game in Millbrook, had a meeting at the rink on Tuesday evening and organized for the season, therefore curling bids fair to be both as exciting and as interesting in Millbrook as of yore. There is some talk of inviting Port Hope out to "scoop her up" with the local rinks. The following officers were elected for the season :

President—John Allen.
Vice President—Capt. Winslow.
Secretary—L. Fleming.
Treasurer—C. Leach.
Skips—John Allen, Capt. Winslow, Geo. Hetherington, W. T. Wood.

The Dyspeptic's Heart and Stomach

CAN'T BE CURED BY BITTERS

The dark red inflamed patches on the stomach, being small veins engorged with stagnant disease-breeding blood, often ulcerating, can best be reached by remedies strongly carried in the blood itself, not by bitters in the stomach, outside the veins and more or less mixed with poorly digested food.

Howard's Heart Relief contains this remedy and applies it in its own way, safely invigorates the heart, opens the sluggish veins, carries away the inflammation and soreness.

Then return appetite, digestion, strength. Who would work well must eat well.

Howard's Heart Relief may be had at drug stores, or by mail at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.

A BIG POW-WOW AT CHEMONG.

A Big Band Concert—Dan Whetung's Hospitality.

A big pow-wow was held at the Chemong Indian Village last week that brought together a large meeting of the Mississaguas. Six sleighing parties came from Rama, and with them their chief, a gentleman who is a fluent and eloquent speaker. Several sleigh loads came from Scugog and also from Rice Lake, four visiting chiefs being present. Many of them took their wives and daughters, and a most enjoyable time was spent for several days. On Wednesday evening a concert was given in aid of the Chemong brass band, and the attendance was large. A few white friends also assisted in the concert, and the entertainment was a good one. This was followed with a supper and dance. The Chief of Rama gave a splendid address in his native tongue that was greatly applauded. He urged his hearers to copy from the white men in their persistence to the work in hand. Hunting and fishing were profitable enough in their season, but they should not neglect the cultivation of their lots and production of the necessaries of life for the long winter season. Mr Dan Whetung's whole-hearted hospitality was fully tested during this friendly visit, not only by his tribal brethren, but also by many of his white brethren, who speak in the warmest terms of the comforts of his house and the good nature of Mrs. Whetung and her accomplished family.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

MEDICAL SCIENCE ADVANCES.

Positive Cure for Asthma Discovered

It has long been recognized by medical scientists throughout the world that nature has supplied all creation with some remedy in the vegetable or mineral kingdom wherewith all forms of ailments can be cured, but it was not until the discovery by Stanley of the wonderful Kola plant among the Congo River in Africa that Asthma was permanently curable. In fact, it was not until the investigations made by Dr. Clarke some years later that this disease was curable ; he found that by combining the extract of Kola Nut with other vegetable extracts that the compound obtained would permanently cure asthma. Clarke's Kola Compound was then tried on over 100 cases in different hospitals, with marvellous result that over 98 per cent. were permanently cured in less than 60 days treatment. Clarke's Kola Compound is now recognized to be the only permanent cure for this dreaded disease. Sold by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough. Free sample bottle sent to any person. FACTS ABOUT HEALTH

It is Easy to Keep Well if We Know How—Some of the Conditions Necessary to Perfect Health.

The importance of maintaining good health is easily understood, and it is really a simple matter if we take a correct view of the conditions required. In perfect health the stomach promptly digests food, and thus prepares nourishment. The blood is employed to carry this nourishment to the organs, nerves, muscles and tissues which need it. The first great essential for good health, therefore, is pure, rich blood. Now it is certainly a fact that no medicine has such a record of cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is literally true that there are hundreds of people alive and well today who would have been in their graves had they not taken Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is depended upon as a family medicine and general regulator of the system by tens of thousands of people. This is because Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure. This is the secret of its great success. Keep your system in good health by keeping your blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which absolutely cures when other medicines fail to do any good whatever.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

BRANTFORD AND PETERBOROUGH.

The city of Brantford is troubled with a coal famine, which is described as being a special annoyance to the manufacturers. That is where Peterborough lies over Brantford. With our inexhaustable water power, when the town gets it into shape, our manufacturers, as far as motive power is concerned, will be as "independent as a —Toronto man—on ice." The coal combine may, if they like, run up coal to $50 a ton, or shut off the supply altogether, and not a Peterborough wheel will be affected. If we take the right means to acquire and convert the immense water power the river supplies, we can drop down any required amount of horse power at any required point in town. Brantford has rather the start of Peterborough now in manufactures, but if our representative men act up to their opportunities, Brantford, or any other city in the Province, will not long hold preeminence over Peterborough as the most attractive and best equipped manufacturing centre in the country. We've got thousands of water power going to waste past our doors. We have only to harness it and hold it on easy terms subject to the demands of manufacturers seeking a first class location, and the thing is done. Brantford boasts in this wise: "There is nothing small about Brantford. This city manufactures one-twelfth of all the manufactured goods exported by Canada." Just to think of two-tenths of the manufacturing industries of the country being paralyzed through the ditching of a train of coal. We do not envy Brantford; we congratulate her; her enterprise does the country proud. But we give her fair notice that before long Peterborough will put her laurels in jeopardy.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If McGill University, Montreal, can convert its capital into developed brains as easily as it gets money it will be one of the greatest educational institutions in the world. Sir William McDonald has just handed the treasurer another little cheque of $181,250 to complete the mining endowment.

The Opposition leader in the Ontario Legislature still entertains the delusion that the Opposition have originated nearly all the beneficial legislation passed by the House. If that is so things had better stand as they are. If the Opposition can thus uphold the legislative end, the Government has shown that it is a great success in the administrative department. There is an excellent condition of things. If Mr. Whitney is patriotic and thinks more of the good of the country than he does of himself and party he won't try to get into office, but just keep on inspiring legislation and leave the drudgery of administration in the hands of the Government.

The Mail and Empire speaks with a hysteric gush of hopefulness of the success Sir Charles Tupper is meeting in his attempts to organize the Conservative party of Quebec "with a view of putting it upon a fighting basis." The Opposition leader will find his work cut out for him. The Liberal Government has an exceedingly comfortable majority in the Commons from Quebec and the Mail's putative successor as organ, the Star, records a Liberal majority of twenty seven as the result of the first division in the local Legislature this session. Therefore the Mail's understanding "that the business of organization will be prosecuted with vigour" will have to be pretty thoroughly realized before Sir Charles can hope to lead his Quebec forces to victory.

The objection to the Doukhobors, Canada's new immigrants from Russia, is that they object on principle to military service—they won't fight. But that's nothing. We are used to seeing the rabid fire eaters, who in times of peace want so fiercely to fight; when it comes to the scratch carrying out in practice what the Doukhobors lay down as a principle—refusing to fight. Probably the Doukhobors, if they were brought to the scratch would strike a few lusty blows for their home and families. We generally see the bully braggart who is spoiling for a fight, lose all desire when a real opportunity occurs, while the quiet man who does not want to fight, is often a most dangerous customer when cornered. Though the Doukhobors don't manufacture wind, there is every prospect of their making good steady reliable citizens.

YUKON GOLD OUTPUT.

Two estimates of the output of the Yukon gold mines for the present season have been made by experts recently returned from Dawson City. One asserts that the yield will not fall short of $50,000,000, while the other says that it will be fully $30,000. Supposing it did not go below the last named figure, it would still be large.

How nice it would be, says the London Advertiser, for the rich mining companies if the Dominion Government were to spend, necessarily, a million of public money in keeping law and order, and in maintaining civilized life in the territory, while the mine owners, as speedily as possible, depleted the territory of its riches! Fortunately, the Dominion Administration in power at the present time, does not believe, with Sir Charles Tupper, that there should be little or no revenue collected from the gold production, and that the mining element, the overwhelming proportion of which is composed of foreigners, should be allowed to carry off the gold as speedily as possible, without contributing a fair portion of their riches for public purposes.

The people will never consent to the putting in force of the Tupperian view.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER.

From our Own Correspondent.

Three of the severest months of Manitoba's long winter have passed away, and although at times the thermometer stood low or the cold winds raged fiercely, still, generally speaking, the days have been pleasant. Together with pleasant weather there has been only a light snow fall, supplying plenty of snow for traffic, but not obstructing the trails. Until very recently there was not more than four inches of snow. At present there is probably six inches.

The thermometer, while generally registering between freezing point and zero, has dropped as low as 54 degrees below zero. The first two weeks in January ushered in the coldest weather, averaging about degrees below. [illegible] Portage 54 degrees was reported, this being the lowest reported for the province. On Wednesday, the 25th January, a blizzard raged in all Southern Manitoba, continuing for eighteen hours. This was really the first blizzard this winter, and although it was only of short duration the C.P.R. line has been filled in on either side of the track so badly that very little snow will now suffice to block the trains. On Friday, Jan. 27th, a very heavy snow storm raged in the vicinity of Winnipeg, in consequence of which all freight trains going west from Winnipeg were cancelled for a day, but were running again in about thirty hours. More snow and more blockades in traffic may be expected through February, but the winter's coldest weather is likely over, as the sun is much stronger now than it was a month ago.

The question of "fuel" in Manitoba is an important one. Wood is scarce, and people must haul it for many miles. Plenty of farmers make a trip of upwards of 70 miles for a load of wood, going to the river banks or mountains, where the Government permits them to cut dead timber, such as oak, red willow, maple, ash and poplar.

All green timber is protected, but the prairie fires do considerable damage every year.

In the towns wood—poplar—can be purchased at $4 50 per cord. Though wood is scarce, nature has provided fuel abundantly in the vast coal beds through the Souris District. Coal can be purchased as low as $3 per ton, and hence is used extensively in preference to wood. The principal mines are found in the Turtle Mountains and in the vicinity of Estevan. The coal is softer than American coal but still gives excellent satisfaction.

Some short account of the grading of wheat may be of interest to your readers. A grain inspector, at present Mr. Horn, is appointed by the Dominion Government. The following are the grades:

Extra Manitoba Hard—Hard. 1, 2 and 3. Northern—1, 2 and 3. White Fyfe—1 and 2. Frosted—1 and 2.

Representatives of one or more companies are to be found in every town, who buy the grain coming into the town, generally storing it in elevators for a time and shipping it when necessary.

GENERAL MILES.

It Is Said Major-General Merritt is to Succeed Him.

New York, Feb. 4.—A Washington despatch to The Press says: Major-General Merritt is to succeed Major-General Miles as major general commanding the army. The orders relieving Miles of the command have not been signed by the President, but this action is practically settled upon. In accordance with his custom, the President will lay the matter before the members of the Cabinet.

May Be a Court of Enquiry.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The Cabinet yesterday had the matter of General Miles' alleged insubordinate conduct and utterances under discussion and while no formal action has yet been taken there is reason to believe that a court of inquiry will be ordered. In the meantime it is not likely that he will be relieved of his position as general of the army.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonizing pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single case.

TERRIBLE SNOWSLIDE.

A Train and Thirty-Three Men Swept Down a Mountainside—Three Railroaders Killed.

Denver, Col., Feb. 4.—A snowslide on the main line of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad nine miles east of Glenwood Springs yesterday overwhelmed a work train, killing three men and injuring several others. The killed are John McMahon, roadmaster, Denver & Rio Grande, Glenwood Springs; J. Dempsey, sectionman, Spruce Creek, Colo.; J. Mulvihill, sectionman, Red Cliff, Col. The injured are Charles Hackett, engineer; T. Carr, fireman; R. B. Steele, engineer; A. Diver, brakeman; G. B. Berry, carpenter; B. Bernard, sectionman.

The gigantic avalanche shot down the mountain side in the canon of the Grand River on the western slope of Colorado, and carried the entire train, crew and working gang, 33 men in all, into the bottom of the abyss. The engine, caboose and cars were carried down before the slide, and all the shovellers who were scattered along the track at work were swept before the mighty weight. Trees, rocks and large blocks of ice which had formed on the side of the mountain during the winter added to the weight of the avalanche. Cliffs rise at the side of the railway tracks 100 or 200 feet, while the side of the mountain at the point where the accident occurred rises 2,000 feet almost perpendicularly. Special trains were sent to the spot as soon as the intelligence reached the headquarters of the Denver & Rio Grande Road.

THIS SETTLES IT.

Charles Dean on Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Was Asked if Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him of Kidney Disease, and Declared They Did After his Doctor and Other Medicines had Failed.

London, Feb 6.—The publication a few days ago, in the press of this and other towns, of the statement that Mr. Charles Dean, of the City Hotel, had been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, of a disease that every other remedy he had used, failed to even relieve, created widespread comment and discussion.

A majority of the citizens agreed that the case was not a remarkable one for Dodd's Kidney Pills, which, they said, cure every case of Kidney Disease for which they are used.

A few persons, however, doubted the accuracy of the report.

To settle the question, once for all, we interviewed Mr. Dean, and asked him if the reports were true.

"Certainly they are true," said he. "The trouble they have is that they are not known enough.

"I used to suffer so much that I had to groan to get relief. My doctor said my kidneys were affected. He gave me medicine but it didn't help me.

"One day I met Mr. M. L. Duffy, architect, who was cured of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. He advised me to try them and I did so. When I had taken them I was relieved. One box made a new man. I have taken three boxes, and am completely cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved me. They are worth their weight in gold."

This certainly settles the question. No further can be said. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Kidney Disease—that is all.

Those who require Dodd's Kidney Pills get them at all drug stores for fifty cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, or by sending price to the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

SPANIARDS WANT ANNEXATION.

Appeal From Spanish Residents of Havana Respecting Cuba.

New York, Feb. 4.—A despatch to The World from Havana says: A committee of Spaniards in Havana have issued a strong appeal to their compatriots throughout the island to unite for the purpose of bringing about the annexation of Cuba to the United States.

The appeal states that 400,000 Spaniards are ready to vote for annexation, and that this number would be largely augmented by Cubans of wealth, position and influence, who do not wish to see the revolutionary party in the ascendancy.

The committee believe that if a vote were to be taken to-day on the broad issue the result would be decidedly in favor of union with America, even if the negro element in eastern Cuba was allowed a free franchise.

It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Sold by all druggists. 50 cts. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. For correct and full information regarding the new Invention and NEWCOMBE PIANOS, write to our Direct Representative. Easy Prices. Liberal Terms.

WHISKY IN A MAIL CAR

CARRIED ALONG THE CENTRAL ONTARIO RAILWAY AND GIVEN TO VOTERS.

More of It in Vehicles Used for the Same Purpose—A Protest in the North Hastings Election.

A protest has been lodged against the election of Wm. J. Allen, the Conservative member of the Legislature for North Hastings.

The extraordinary charges are:

That J. P. Whitney, M.P.P., Harry Cauley, M.P., M. B. Morrison, M.P.P., and W. S. Northrup, M.P., during the campaign "did in the mail car on the train on the Central Ontario Railway and at the stations and by other persons, agents of Wm. John Allen supply large quantities of whisky and other intoxicating liquor to meetings of electors assembled to promote the election of the said William John Allen, and to other persons at other times, voters in said electoral district.

"That Mr. Allen himself had in his possession in his conveyance and in the possession of his agents large quantities of whisky and intoxicating liquor, which were carried from place to place and were used when canvassing.

"That shortly prior to said election and on the election day the St. Anthony Lumber Co., of which Edward C. Whitney is President, and of which J. P. Whitney is a shareholder, by their foreman, agents and servants, did make use of restraint, and did by threat of dismissal from the company's employ and of other injury, harm, damage or loss, prevent and hinder the employees of the said company who were opposed to the said William John Allen from voting at said election.

"That at the polling station at Bridgewater, W. R. Miller, the deputy returning officer, Frank J. Thompson, the reeve, and Dr. Harper of Madoc, did conspire to prevent voters from voting by the pretence that the voters were ill with diphtheria, and that for that reason they were debarred from voting."

"A TRIBUTE OF AFFECTION."

Bouquet on Credit and Long Unpaid for is no Credit to Canada or Prominent Conservatives.

A tribute of affection from his devoted colleagues, Mackenzie Bowell, John Curran, Frank Smith, A. P. Caron, John Costigan, Geo. E. Foster, C. H. Tupper, A. A. Ouimet, T. M. Daly, J. G. Haggart, J. C. Patterson, A. R. Angers and W. B. Ives.—(Card on "that wreath.")

So ran the words affixed to the wreath, sent by those named above, to be placed on the coffin of the late lamented statesman, Sir John Thompson. And now, after previous litigation, the "tribute of affection" is again in court, and the ex-Prime Minister, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, is being sued personally for the amount—about $900—ridiculously high, it must be conceded, and even infinitely higher than the principles of the "statesmen" that will keep a florist out of his money. But what a scandal! "What are you going to do about it?' Sir Mackenzie may reasonably ask the other devoted and affectionate twelve. Two of them are gone to the bench, one to a lieutenant governorship, one vanished from public life altogether. Four were in the "nest of traitors," and so probably Sir Mackenzie is not on speaking terms with them, and the rest are very uncertain quantities. It is a shame that such an affectionate and devoted band on brothers should let Sir Mackenzie in like this. The incident is a national disgrace. —Ottawa Free Press.

In comment on this the Kingston Whig says:

"The unpleasant case recalls the visit made by a Kingston delegation to Ottawa to ask Sir John Macdonald's colleagues to take a personal interest in the proposed monument. His personal friends were seen—Sir John Abbott, Sir John Thompson, Hon. Mr. Dawdney, as well as those other members of the Cabinet whom he had raised from the ranks, and yet not one dollar came in response. The delegation received the cold chills. Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Thompson dead are not worth much. Gratitude is a lively sense of favours to come.

The magnanimity of his colleagues in letting the weight of this wreath fall on the shoulders of the venerable leader might lead to the inference that in the eyes of these honourable statesmen that wreath has become etherialized, spiritualized an intangible entity far sublimed above the vulgarity of paying for it. They are doubtless inclined to travesting Moore's drinking song:

Wreath the Bowell with flowers of soul,
Ordered a la mode de bandit,
We'll take a flight towards heaven to-night,
And leave the knight to stand it.

WIFE'S AWFUL ECZEMA

Torture was so Intense Husband Thought She Could Not Live Twelve Hours.

Doctors Within Reach Could Not Even Relieve. No Sleep For Seven Days.

Tried CUTICURA REMEDIES. Asleep after First Application. Cured Well and Hearty.

I desire to inform you what CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA SOAP have done for my wife. She was in the most horrible condition of any human being, from that most torturing of skin diseases, Eczema. She could neither sit down or lie down, her torture was so intense. I tried all the doctors that I could reach, but she got so that I firmly believe that she would have died within twelve hours if I had not been advised of CUTICURA REMEDIES and got them. A travelling man on seeing her condition told me what to get, and you may believe that I lost no time in getting them. Greatly to my surprise, my wife went to sleep in two hours after the first application, although she had not slept for seven days, nor I myself either. I followed up the treatment, and two boxes of Cuticura (ointment) and one cake of Cuticura Soap did the work wonderfully, she was absolutely cured, and is well and hearty to-day. If this statement will do you or anybody else any good, use it. It is straight facts, and I can back up all I have said by sixty witnesses. I can't thank CUTICURA REMEDIES enough, for I thought one time that I should have to bury my wife, and I was never so happy and glad, as when I saw that deadly, itching rash begin to leave. Feb. 28, 1898. C. D. ROSS, Clarksville, O.

CUTICURA REMEDIES speak to those who have suffered long and hopelessly, to those who, disheartened, have lost all faith, and who have lost faith in doctors, medicines, and all things human. Every hope, every expectation prophesied by them, has been more than fulfilled. Their success has excited the wonder and approval of physicians familiar with the marvellous cures daily effected by them.

ST. LUKE'S MISSION.

Rev. G. O. Troop Spoke at St. Luke's Church Last Evening.

The mission at St. Luke's began yesterday afternoon at 4.30, when Mr. Troop gave an introductory Bible reading on the Gospel of St. John. These addresses will be continued every afternoon next week except to-morrow.

In the evening Mr. Troop's subject was "Sin." He took for his text the words—"Behold all souls are mine, saith the Lord. The soul that sinneth it shall die." A very short service precedes the address.

To-morrow Mr. Troop will preach at both morning and evening services. In the afternoon he will address the children of the Sunday School at three o'clock, and at 4.30 an address to men only will be given in the Ashburnham town hall, at 4.40. All are invited to attend.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Troop visited the Ashburnham school and addressed the children, afterwards visiting all the rooms and the Kindergarten.

FOUR ROCKS TO AVOID.

Four Things to Steer Clear of in Successful Cheesemaking.

At the annual meeting of the Cheese and Butter Makers' Association held at Listowel, one of the speakers pointed out four rocks to be shunned. J. W. Steinhoff, who is a practical cheesemaker and a large buyer, said that there were four rocks on which many cheese factories foundered. The first difficulty arose from badly-cared-for and ill-flavoured milk, which invariably produced ill-flavoured and consequently worthless cheese. Cheesemakers must be paid commensuratively with the labour and responsibility incurred with the manufacture of cheese, the quality of which will be of a class to compete with the cheese product of the world. It was notorious that the tendency had been of late years to cut down the price of manufacture, so that the maker had barely a living. This was not as it should be, as a cheesemaker must necessarily be a man of the highest ability and intelligence, and should be paid accordingly. Bad exteriors were another source of trouble in the export markets, meaning that cheese should be carefully packed in clean and inviting cloths, and care taken that no dust or dirt appear. The curing of cheese was the most important feature in the whole process, and different and better methods must be introduced. He deprecated the practice of having a small stove in a corner of the curing room, by which no regular temperature could be secured, and strongly advised the adoption of furnaces, properly equipped, so as to secure a temperature that could easily be regulated. In summer the curing room should be so constructed that the temperature could be regulated.

THOUSANDS WERE KILLED.

Beginning of Fighting Between Americans and Filipinos.

AMERICAN LOSS REPORTED 175.

Spain's Legacy to America—Philippine Insurgents Fight the Latter as They Did the Former for Independence—The Technical Subjects of Spain, the Filipinos Revolt Against Foreign Rule.

London, Feb. 6.—A Manila despatch to The Morning Post says: "Last night's (Saturday) and to-day's (Sunday) engagements have proved a veritable slaughter for the Filipinos, their killed being reported as amounting to thousands. The American forces could scarcely have been better disposed. It is now known that the attack was fully expected, and that every precaution had been made to meet the enemy.

"Firing slackened at noon (Sunday), the enemy being apparently demoralized. The American troops, however, are fully equipped to meet a possible attack to-night.

"Aguinaldo's private secretary has been arrested as a spy at Manila. Perfect quiet now reigns in the city. More than a hundred wounded Filipinos taken from the trenches are being cared for in the American hospitals."

FIGHTING AT LAST.

Long-Expected Clash Between the Americans and Filipinos Eventuated on Saturday—The First Details.

Manila, Feb. 6.—The long-expected clash between the Americans and Filipinos has come at last. It came at 6.45 on Saturday evening, when three daring Filipinos darted past the Nebraska Regiment's pickets at Santa Meza, but retired when challenged. They repeated the experiment without drawing the sentries' fire. But the third time Corporal Grealy challenged the Filipinos and then fired, killing one of them and wounding another.

Almost immediately afterwards the Filipinos' line from Calvocan to Santa Meza commenced a fusilade, which was ineffectual. The Nebraska, Montana and North Dakota outposts replied vigorously, and held their ground until reinforcements arrived.

The Filipinos in the meantime concentrated at three points, Calvocan, Gagalangin and Santa Meza. At about 1 o'clock on Sunday morning the Filipinos opened a hot fire from all three places simultaneously. This was supported by the fire of two siege guns at Balik Balik, and by advancing their skirmishers at Paco and Pandacan. The Americans responded with a terrible fire, but owing to the darkness they were unable to determine its effect. The Utah Light Artillery finally succeeded in silencing the native battery. The Third Artillery also did good work on the extreme left. The engagement lasted over an hour.

The U.S. cruiser Charleston and the gunboat Concord, stationed off Malabon, opened fire from their second batteries on the Filipinos' position at Calvocan and kept it up vigorously. At 2.45 there was another fusilade along the entire line, and the U.S. seagoing double-turreted monitor Monadnock opened fire on the enemy from off Malate.

With daybreak on Sunday the Americans advanced. The California and Washington regiments made a splendid charge and drove the Filipinos from the village of Paco and Santa Meza. The Nebraska Regiment also distinguished itself, capturing several prisoners and one howitzer, and a very strong position at the reservoir which is connected with the waterworks. The Kansas and Dakota regiments compelled the enemy's right flank to retire to Calvocan. There was intermittent firing at various points all day long.

The losses of the Filipinos cannot be estimated at present, but they are known to be considerable. The American losses are estimated at 20 men killed and 125 wounded. The Ygorates, armed with bows and arrows, made a very determined stand in the face of the artillery fire, and left many dead men on the field. Several attempts were made in this city on Saturday to assassinate American officers.

AT WASHINGTON.

First Despatch About the Trouble Came From Admiral Dewey to the Secretary of the Navy.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The following message was received yesterday morning by the Secretary of the Navy from Admiral Dewey, dated Manila, Sunday morning:

"Insurgents here inaugurated general engagement Saturday night, which was continued to-day. The American army and navy is generally successful. Insurgents have been driven back and our lines advanced. No casualties to navy."

The news came like a shock, for the Administration, though apprised that an ugly situation prevailed in the Philippines, had clung steadily to a hope that by tact and patience actual fighting might be averted, and even those public men who felt that hostilities would follow should the treaty be ratified and the United States attempt to occupy the islands, believed that Aguinaldo would not force the fighting when the treaty of peace was in its most critical stage. Some Senatorial opponents of ratification of the treaty adhere to their position, but the general opinion in Washington last night was that the news from Manila insures the ratification of the treaty this afternoon.

It was with great regret, however, that the Administration learned that the insurgents had forced the issue. It had been hoped all along that they could be brought to see the advantages of placing their trust in the American people and relying upon the President to deal justly with them. The Administration argued that with the Philippine commission fairly on the sea en route for Manila, bringing with them messages from the President, and with the peace treaty still unacted on, it was not to be credited that they would refuse to wait to learn the purposes of the American Government, but would precipitate the long-impending conflict.

The situation is regarded here as rather anamolous from a diplomatic standpoint. Legally the Filipinos are still Spanish subjects. Therefore if hostile operations continue outside of the limits of Manila, as laid down in the protocol it will amount to a resumption of the war with Spain, at least technically.

Officials noted one little flaw in Dewey's despatch, in that he spoke of the American army and navy as "generally successful," conveying just the least intimation that at some point the results were not as satisfactory as at others.

Every confidence, however, is felt that General Otis is master of the situation. The forces under his command, as shown by the records of the Adjutant-General's Office, Dec. 10, the date of the last report, were 21,649 troops. Approximately 6,000 men are on their way to join General Otis in four separate expeditions, though none is expected to reach Manila for three weeks or a month. It is true that only 3,000 of General Otis' soldiers are regular, but his volunteer soldiers have been under thorough discipline and training for months, some as much as eight months, and many participated in the engagements attending the capture of Manila, and are practically as good as regulars.

No one here knows the real strength of the insurgents opposed to General Otis. Still the best belief of the authorities at the War Department is that they number about 30,000 men, but they are not comparable to the American forces in personnel, discipline or quality of arms. It is known that they have some Mausers, some Remingtons and a variety of other firearms, and it is suspected that they have been quite plentifully supplied with ammunition from outside.

Diplomats took a lively interest in the news, realizing that the Government of the United States will call upon them very early to see to it that no aid of any sort is rendered to the Filipinos, and that no filibustering expedition shall leave their soil with munitions of war or supplies for the insurgents. Special precautions will be asked to be taken at Singapore and Hongkong, principal points of the eastern trade, to prevent the despatch of vessels carrying secret cargoes in aid of the insurgents.

A SPANISH ACCOUNT.

Gen. Rios Reports That American Exterior Lines Were Captured.

Madrid, Feb. 6.—Intense excitement was caused here by the receipt last evening of the following official despatch from Gen. Rios, the Spanish commander in the Philippines.

"The insurgents have violently attacked and captured almost the whole of the exterior American line. The Americans offered a vigorous defence at the exterior barriers, using their artillery as well as the squadron.

"The warships destroyed and burned Calloocan, Pasco and several towns in the neighborhood. Both sides suffered materially. Very sharp firing continues. The Spanish troops have been confined to quarters, but a sergeant has been wounded by a stray bullet. (Signed) Rios."

The popular sympathy here is on the side of Aguinaldo, but thinking people are anxious regarding the consequences of the fighting, especially on account of the Spanish prisoners still in the hands of the insurgents.

The Spanish Government has no news of the conflict at Manila, and it is added that the Government of Spain will "act in the most correct manner and scrupulously respect the treaty of Paris."

The Spanish Prisoners.

General Rios, commanding the Spanish troops in the Philippines, cables that Aguinaldo offers to release the Spanish prisoners on the payment of $500,000 and the handing over to him of the cannon, rifles and 3,000,000 cartridges belonging to the Spaniards. The Government here replied that it could not accept this transaction as it would be equivalent to indirect protection of the insurgents, which would be a breach of the Spanish agreement with the United States. Aguinaldo, it appears, still retains the civil prisoners and the monks.

WHAT LONDON PAPERS SAY.

Americans May Have a Series of Toilsome Campaigns.

London, Feb. 6.—The Daily Chronicle says: The Filipinos have helped to assure the ratification of the peace treaty.

The Standard says: The paucity of news and the boldness of the rebels in their attack upon Manila are ominous, and it is not unlikely that the Americans will have a series of toilsome campaigns over the scattered islands.

The Daily News says: The fact that American blood has been shed will secure, we imagine, the immediate ratification of the peace treaty. The Filipinos have shown their unfitness for self-government at the very outset by a rash and untimely manifestation.

Agoncillo Takes French Leave.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Agoncillo, the representative of Aguinaldo here, left Washington at midnight. He was undoubtedly advised of the skirmish, and the supposition is that he went away to get out of trouble. His secretary says he has gone to Baltimore.

Agoncillo Heading for Canada.

New York, Feb. 6.—A despatch to The New York Herald from Albany says that Agoncillo, representative of the Filipino Junta in this country, passed through that city last night en route for Canada. According to information received by the correspondent of The Herald, the United States Government has no intention of making an arrest of Agoncillo, and will allow him to proceed across the Canadian line.

THE LATEST BULLETINS.

Action Continued All Sunday—The Troops Behaved Heroically.

Washington, Feb. 6.—(12.35 a.m.)—The following supplemental despatch from Gen. Otis has just been made public:

"To Adjutant-General: Manila, Feb. 5.

"Feb. 5.—Insurgents in large force opened attack on our outer lines at 8.45 last evening; renewed attack several times during night; at 4 o'clock this morning entire line engaged; all attacks repulsed; at daybreak advanced against insurgents, and have driven them beyond lines they formerly occupied, capturing several villages and their defence works. Insurgent loss in dead and wounded large. Our own casualties thus far estimated at 175; very few fatal. Troops enthusiastic and acting fearlessly. Navy did splendid execution on flanks of enemy; city held in check and absolute quiet prevails; insurgents have secured good many Mauser rifles, a few field pieces and quick-firing guns, with ammunition, during last month.

"(Signed) Otis."

A SMALLPOX SIEGE.

Round-Up of the Guests of the Vendome Hotel at Omaha, Neb.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 6.—Three cases of smallpox were discovered at the Vendome Hotel, in the centre of the city, on Saturday morning. The health department was notified and the place was at once quarantined.

A squad of policemen were hurried to the hotel, and when the guests started to come out as usual they discovered that they were prisoners. There were many protests. Travelling men begged to be permitted to go away, promising to leave the city by the first train, or on foot, if necessary, but none were allowed to come out of the hotel. Several daring fellows, who preferred any sort of adventure to being shut up for ten days, slipped out through the skylight, scaled the adjacent roofs and, making their way through the snow and ice over the house tops, managed to reach the ground after many narrow escapes. Some of them were discovered and got away only after a foot race with the officers.

Canada Fifth as a Gold Producer.

Washington, Feb. 6.—According to Consul Brush at Clifton, Canada, the output of gold from the Klondike and British Columbia has raised Canada to the fifth place in the list of gold-producing countries. While the United States shows an increased output for 1898, it is still second to the Transvaal. According to the latest figures, the five leading gold-producing countries for 1898 are as follows: Transvaal $72,47,600; United States, $64,300,000; Australia, $61,480,763; Russia, $35,186,994; Canada, $14,190,000.

Jealousy, Murder and Suicide.

Lima, Ohio, Feb. 6.—Frank Blair shot and instantly killed Edward Brovard and Mary Anderson at Westminster, seven miles east of here, Saturday and immediately afterwards committed suicide. Jealousy was the cause, Blair and Miss Anderson having been engaged previous to Brovard's appearance on the scene.

A Big Grain Movement.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—General Manager Chamberlain of J. R. Booth's railroad and steamship lines says he expects to move 15,000,000 bushels of grain from Duluth and Chicago to the sea via the Parry Sound and Canada Atlantic Railways.

THE SMALLPOX SCARE.

Fresh smallpox cases are being reported almost daily in different parts of the province, so that the possibility of a dangerous and fatal outbreak of this loathsome disease is not to be laughed away. The danger seems to be greater now than it has been for many years past. The disease has already appeared in Toronto, as well as other parts of the province, and the origin has, in many cases, been traced to the United States, where, at different points, there are more or less serious outbreaks of the disease. It is, or recently has been, an epidemic in Cleveland, and there have been many cases in Rochester and other places in New York State. The cases traced to those places have already cost considerable provincial funds, for it is a duty the provincial authorities cannot ignore to take the most effective means to isolate cases and prevent the spead of disease no matter what the cost. In eastern Ontario there are several cases reported and the danger of spreading to uninfected districts is not to be ignored. In smallpox, as in other things, prevention is the best remedy. And the most important preventive measure is always vaccination. Vaccination is, as a rule, a sure protection, and with properly prepared lymph, such as is now obtainable, there is no danger of troublesome complications. In compliance with the recommendation of the Provincial Board of Health, the local Boards of Health cannot err very seriously in taking steps to a general vaccination of the people. Such a course might and would doubtless involve considerable trouble, expense and inconvenience, but nothing approaching the trouble, expense and inconvenience which an outbreak of smallpox would cause. Thousands of houses in this country have been protected by insurance for years and in the vast majority of cases there has been no occurrence of fire. Yet this immunity does not prevent householders from protecting their homes by fire insurance. There is always the danger and the only way to feel safe is to have a reasonably generous fire insurance put on. We have not had a case of smallpox for some time, yet this does not justify the neglect of vaccination. We do not know from what unexpected quarter the contagion may come. In the case of a man who died in Walford, Algoma, last Saturday, the contagion was communicated in a letter written by a brother of the deceased in British Columbia, and from a house in which a man had just died of smallpox. So that distance as great as 3,000 miles does not secure immunity. A two-cent stamp on the most affectionate domestic letter imaginable may be the means of spreading the loathsome disease. When the subject is protected by vaccination, there is, practically speaking, no danger under these circumstances, There does not seem to be any excuse for neglecting the only dependable protection, vaccination. It's all right for our local board of health and local authorities, so long as there is no smallpox outbreak, but their responsibility will be a an outbreak of smallpox should lead to the heavy one if loss of life which might have been prevented had vaccination precautions been taken.

RECKLESS CHARGES.

In his speech during the debate on the address, last Thursday, Mr. Whitney charged Premier Hardy with holding out corrupting inducements in the West Elgin bye-election. In reply to these charges, Mr. Hardy characterized them as trash and stuff, and declared that there was not one-thousandth part of bribery in all the statements he had made as in one single charge by the friends of the hon. gentleman with reference to a single manufacturer in connection with the price of his goods under the National Policy. The Westminster had not accepted the extract upon which its condemnation was based from The Globe, but from The Mail and Empire, which claimed to have copied it from The Globe, but had not copied the whole of it, nor did it copy the context. He then read from The Globe's report of the speech as follows :—"He spoke of its (St. Thomas') growth and prosperity, of the keen political contests of which it had been the centre. They were an ambitious city, a great railway centre, and were becoming more so. They were to some extent also a manufacturing city, and were a growing and expanding people. What did they wish to do on the 12th? Their opponents argued that the two Governments should not be in power, representing the same party at Ottawa and at Toronto. Applying their arguments locally to West Elgin, Mr. Hardy showed that as they already had a Conservative representative in the Dominion House, therefore they should send a Liberal to Toronto. This deduction was greeted with laughter and applause. Mr. Hardy pointed to the benefits that would follow such a course at a time when the flood tide of business was rising. Just as good times were upon them, just as the Governments were beginning to feel the effects of good times, of increased business, of increased commerce and growing enterprise throughout the Dominion, did they want to place so good a town in Opposition at both centres of political influence? (Cries of 'No.') Continuing, Mr. Hardy paid Mr. Macnish a high personal tribute."

"Where is the bribery there?" asked Mr. Hardy. "Where the promise? What benefits had we to confer upon St Thomas?" Of such stuff are ninety-nine hundredths of Opposition "charges" made.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

MR. HENRY DALBY, editor of the Montreal Star, has resigned to act as Conservative organizer for Quebec. If the new touter is as successful in organizing the party in his new capacity as he was successful in discrediting it in his former capacity he will earn his honorarium.

THE United States policy of indifferent treatment of Indians is bearing fruit. The Alaskan Indians are on the war path, and a general uprising is feared. If Uncle Sam cannot control the half-starved Alaskans, he may count on considerable fun with the Filippinos before they are subdued.

A CORRESPONDENT, in view of the editor of the Montreal Star being appointed Conservative organizer, asks what the politics of the Star are. For a long time the Star performed the usual wobble as an "independent. Just before the last general elections, under promise, it is said, of a senatorship for the proprietor, the Star flopped over to the Conservative side of the fence, becoming thereby a "fixed" Star. And it has remained Conservative, although the goods couldn't be delivered—the people closed the factory.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E Hart, of Croton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My Husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Sold by all druggists. 50 cts. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

England Laughing at John Daly.

New York, Feb. 6.—A London despatch to The Times is as follows: All England is laughing at John Daly, the released dynamiter, now Mayor of Limerick, who at the first meeting of the Municipal Council, said that if disorder did not cease he should be obliged to call in "the enemies of the people." That is, the police.

At Last!

A Remedy Has Been Discovered that will Permanently Cure Catarrh.

JAPANESE CATARRH CURE CURES.

This is not merely the words of the makers of this remedy, but the assertion is backed up by leading physicians and the honorable testimonies of hundreds of cured cases. And more, there is an absolute guarantee to cure in every package or money will be refunded. We will also send a two weeks' trial quantity free to any person suffering from this dangerous disease. Japanese Catarrh Cure is a new discovery, being a prescription perfected by one of America's most successful specialists in treating this disease. It is a soothing, penetrating and healing pomade, prepared from stainless compounds of iodine and essential oils, to be inserted up the nostrils. The heat of the body melts it and the very act of breathing carries it to the diseased parts. It reaches, soothes and heals also every part of the mucous membrane curing invariably all forms of catarrh of the nose and throat, and all forms of catarrhal deafness. Mr. Joseph Little, the well-known mill owner of Port Hesington, B. C., writes: "Japanese Catarrh Cure completely cured me of catarrh which had troubled me for 25 years, during which time I had spent over $1,000 on remedies and specialists in Toronto and San Francisco. About two years ago I procured six boxes of Japanese Catarrh Cure, and since completing this treatment have not felt the slightest symptoms of my former trouble. I can highly recommend it. Relief came from the first application. We always keep a supply in the house for cuts and burns, and consider it superior to any other remedy for healing." Sold by druggists, or sent by Evans & Sons, Limited, Montreal, and Victoria, B. C. Sample free. Enclose 5 cent stamp. Agents wanted. The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., 324 Church Street, Toronto.

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for it.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling. There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diatase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but to-day I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

HOTEL MAN'S SUICIDE.

Walter Hulse Blows Out His Brains in His Hotel at Richmond Hill on Saturday.

Richmond Hill, Feb. 6.—The usual quiet of the little village of Richmond Hill received a rude awakening on Saturday morning when the sad intelligence of the suicide of Mr. Walter Hulse, the youthful proprietor of the Palmer House, was conveyed from neighbor to neighbor. The occurrence had happened between 10 in the morning, when the deceased was last seen, and 11.45, when the body was discovered cold and lifeless in the front cellar of the hotel. Beside the body was an Enfield rifle, that had been used to accomplish the rash act. The left hand was badly blackened, and appearances would indicate that the muzzle of the rifle had been held to the mouth by it, while the trigger was pulled by the right. The bullet had entered the roof of the mouth and passed out at the back of the head, causing instant death.

The cellar is situated immediately below the dining-room, and what seemed a mystery to everyone, was the fact that no one heard the discharge of the rifle.

Deceased had taken charge of the hotel in May, 1897, and it was generally conceded that he was doing a paying business. He was a strict teetotaller, and paid constant attention to his business. His father, Mr. Harry Hulse, formerly kept hotel on York street, and now runs two hotels in Bradford, and is widely known through the country. Dr. Nelles, coroner of the district, viewed the body on Saturday afternoon, and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Two little boys and a young wife, who is distracted with grief, are left to mourn the sad event. The deceased was only 27 years old and was a splendid athlete; some few years ago he was well known among the bicycling fraternity, having won many prizes at various contests.

BELGIANS WORSTED.

Collapse of Their Administration of the Congo Free State.

LOSS OF WHITE PRESTIGE.

Ugly Rumors as to Rapacity and Cruelty on the Part of Officials—Trouble Confirmed by Traders and Missionaries—It Was Caused by Exploiting the Wretched Natives.

London, Feb. 6.—Private advices from the Congo confirm the gloomy reports that have found their way into print, and even more. The administration of the Free State has collapsed over the greater part of its vast territories, and the remaining forces, when the last mail left, were being concentrated at the head of the railway. Scores of stations were abandoned, and the natives destroyed the remainder. Antwerp commercial houses will lose millions and trade will be paralyzed for years.

All this fearful trouble is confirmed by traders and missionaries on the spot, and is placed to the discredit of the Belgian officers, civil and military, whose one thought has been to make a personal profit by exploiting the wretched natives, regardless of what followed. The gravest feature of the situation is the loss of white prestige throughout Central Africa. French, German and English people will inevitably suffer.

Cecil Rhodes visited Leopold on Saturday, and it is not impossible that we soon may hear that he has arranged to take the Congo off the hands of the Belgian monarch.

A Central News despatch from Brussels says that advices have been received there from the Congo Free State that Major Lothaire, commanding a force of Congo troops, has defeated, with heavy loss, the tribe of Mongala cannibals who recently killed and ate four Belgians.

FRENCH CONGO PROPOSALS.

Lord Salisbury Said to Have Pledged Britain Not to Interfere.

Brussels, Feb. 6.—King Leopold has postponed decision on the French proposals to purchase the Congo Free State until the time expires, in 1900, when the Belgian Chambers have the right to determine whether Belgium shall annex Congo.

It is reported that Lord Salisbury in aiding the growing Anglo-French entente by pledging that England will not oppose France using the privilege of pre-emption in Congo.

King Leopold's finances are nearly exhausted, and it is impossible for him to supply the moneys requisite to reconquer the upper regions of the Congo, now held by the Batatela tribes. Further spread of the revolt may force him to appeal to the Belgian Chambers for immediate help, or to ask the French Government to assist him.

In any event, England, under present conditions, is negotiating with France not to interfere in the affair.

WHERE IS PRINCE LUDWIG?

Lawyers Are Advertising in England for the Missing Prince.

London, Feb. 6.—Much comment has been caused by the disappearance of Prince Ludwig Carl of Lowenstein-Westheim. He was last seen in England.

In October, with the Prince of Wales, he was a guest of the Duke of Portland at Welbeck Abbey.

Now a London law firm is advertising a request for the Prince to forward his address, saying that important business awaits his attention. The Prince's wife, who is a daughter of the Earl of Wexborough, repudiates the action of the lawyers. She declares that she knows her husband is safe in a distant place, but refuses to say where. The Princess admits that some disreputable people have recently tried to blackmail her regarding her husband, but gives no names. The lawyers who advertised for him believe that he is still in England.

NO COLONIES TO LOOK AFTER.

Spanish Cabinet Has Decided to Abolish the Colonial Portfolio.

Madrid, Feb. 6.—The Cabinet at its meeting on Saturday decided to abolish the Ministry of the Colonies, and a decree ordering the taking of the step will be immediately presented to the Queen Regent for her signature.

Premier Sagasta has been authorized to revoke the suspension of the constitutional guarantee whenever he thinks proper. It is stated that Senor Sagasta will come to an understanding on the subject with the Minister of the Interior. Senor Capdepon, who says that the measure will be put into force with little delay.

SHIPBUILDERS WORKING OVERTIME

Thames, Tyne and Clyde Contractors Heavily Pressed With Work.

London, Feb. 6.—The shipyards on the Thames, Tyne and Clyde are building more ships for the British navy than ever before. All the royal dockyards are working overtime. As an instance of the energy displayed, it may be stated that in March, 1898, the battleship Goliath, 12,950 tons, was launched at Chatham, and within three weeks the Irresistible's keel plate was laid. The Irresistible, 15,000 tons, was launched in December, and last month the battleship Venerable, 15,000 tons, was laid down. Thus three battleships have occupied one slip within ten months, a world's record.

SALISBURY WAS CURT.

The British Premier Replied to the Sultan's Ambassador Coolly.

Constantinople, Feb. 6.—The Sultan, becoming alarmed at the conclusion of the Anglo-Egyptian-Soudan convention, recently instructed the Turkish ambassador in London to see Lord Salisbury, and arrange for the safeguarding of Turkey's rights in Egypt. Lord Salisbury replied that the present time for such an arrangement was inopportune.

Italy Is Taking a Hand.

London, Feb. 6.—A Central News despatch from Rome says: "The Agencia Liberta states that Admiral Brocbetti, on board the Fieramosca, is proceding to join the other three Italian warships in Chinese waters, where he will assume command of the squadron. The concentration of these vessels is most important, as it concerns the occupation of Italy of a part of the Gulf of Pechili.

HER MAJESTY

Has Broken the Record in Length of Reign and Bids Fair to Make One as Regards Progeny.

London, Feb. 6.—The likelihood of Her Majesty becoming a great-great-grandmother is causing no little sensation. She has already 32 great-grandchildren, but if all goes well she will in May put another record to her wonderful career, when the confinement of Princess Heinrich Reuss is expected. For a sovereign to have great-great-grandchildren is without parallel in history.

CLAIMS AN EARLDOM.

Alleged to Be a Disclosure by the Old Scottish Earl of Buchan.

Edinburgh, Feb. 6.—A new heir has turned up for the title and estates of the Earl of Buchan, one of the oldest families in Scotland. It is alleged that a man now employed in surveying a railway line in Chili is the rightful heir, instead of Lord Cardross, and lawyers have taken up his claim. The old Earl married Miss Smith of Stirling, and Lord Cardross, born in 1850, is their son. She died and the Earl married again, in 1876, Miss James. It is claimed, however, on behalf of the man in Chili, that he is the son by a secret marriage, which preceded both of these marriages, and which was constituted legal by declaration in Scotland. The old Earl had quarrelled with Lord Cardross over the settlement of the estates, and it is said threatened to bring forward a real heir. The case is likely to become a cause celebre.

D. WARD'S BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

D. WARD'S BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

READ THE PROOF!

GENTLEMEN,—I have for a long time needed something to make blood and build up my system. My blood was watery and thin, lacking strength and vitality. Last January a friend said:—"Why not try Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills? They will supply the oxygen your blood needs and give you health and strength." I told him I was very skeptical as to any benefit that could be derived from any proprietary medicine and had no faith in them. There the matter rested until four months ago, when reading so much about what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done for so many people with impoverished blood, I concluded to give them a trial. I have taken four boxes and my unbelief so far as Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are concerned has been entirely removed. They are a splendid blood builder and strength restorer, and an invaluable medicine for weak, enervated people. This has been my experience, they having given me strength of body and strong healthy blood.

WALKERTON PEOPLE

Greatly Interested in the Recovery of Mrs. A. H. Schwegler, a Highly Respected Lady of that Town.

She Suffered from Rush of Blood to the Head, Smothering Feelings, Nervousness and Despondency. She had Severe Headaches, her Heart was Weak, and She often Thought She would Die.

Many people in Walkerton, Ont., and surrounding country have been talking of the remarkable cure of Mrs. A. H. Schwegler, a lady with a large circle of friends in that town.

To satisfy the desire of all to know about her case and to do good to other sufferers she made the following statement:

"Since I had the scarlet fever five years ago my nervous system has been almost completely prostrated. The least excitement set me shaking and trembling. My heart seemed to stop beating at times, and again would beat very rapidly, the blood rushing to my head and a suffocating feeling coming on so badly I had to go out doors to get air and recover my breath. Sometimes I thought I would die in one of these spells. I never slept well, and would often start up in bed gasping and shaking for breath, and trembling all over, my heart beating as if it would burst. I had fearful headaches which confined me to bed three days at a time and I became so weak that I was unable to comb my hair.

In March last I went to Cryderman's Drug Store here and got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I have taken three boxes and am cured entirely. Every one of the distressing symptoms I had has disapeared; my blood has been enriched, and I enjoy healthful, restful sleep. In fact, my nervous system has been built up and invigorated to its old time standard. The improvement was rapid from the very first, and since the cure was performed I am glad to say that I have not had any indication of those terrible bad spells which formerly afflicted me."

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Lecture on India's Needs.

Rev. A. P. McDiarmid, of Toronto, will deliver a lecture on "India's Needs," handsomely illustrated by stereopticon views, in the Murray street Baptist church, on Monday evening, February 20th. The Rev. Mr. McDiarmid is Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the Baptist church and this indication of his intimate knowledge of his subject, taken in connection with his well known ability as an interesting and able speaker, should invest his coming lecture with unusual interest. Further particulars later.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Mr. Hiram Armstrong and Miss Edna Armstrong gave a well-rendered duet during the offertory last night in the Mark street church.

The bass solo entitled "Thy Will be Done," was very effectively sung by Mr. Frank Turner in the George street church on Sunday morning.

Mr. J. W. Skitchbary, tenor, of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, delighted the congregations of St. Paul's and St. Andrew's by his singing yesterday.

It is expected that the new Bethany Tabernacle will be formally opened and dedicated on the first Sunday in March. A series of special services are also being arranged for the first few weeks.

The services in the Lakefield Methodist church yesterday were conducted by Mr. J. Sutherland in the absence of the pastor, who was called away to Orillia to attend the funeral of his father-in-law, Rev. Thomas Williams, a retired Methodist minister. Rev. Mr. Edmison had just got back home when he received an urgent message saying that Mrs. Williams was seriously ill.

An excellent service of song was rendered in the George street church last evening by the choir. The anthem, "Storm at Sea," was charmingly descriptive, the expression being marked and pleasing. The solo, "The Heavenly Song," was sung in splendid voice by Miss Clara Belleghem. A beautiful duet, "At the Cross there's Room," was sung very sweetly by Miss Belleghem and Mr. Walden. The chorus, "Conquered for Christ," was rendered in a pleasing manner by the gentlemen of the choir.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

A very interesting and profitable quarterly meeting service was held in Charlotte street church on Sunday morning. The love feast at 10 o'clock was largely attended and proved a season of great refreshing to all. This was followed by preaching at 11 a. m. The service closed with the sacrament of the Lord's supper.

The song sermon by the pastor of the Charlotte street church last evening attracted more than the church could hold, and many went away not being able to gain admission, notwithstanding chairs were drawn some were placed. The subject announced was "Beauty of Holiness," during the presentation of which Mr. Crossley, assisted by his excellent choir, rendered appropriate of music. The solos were taken by Mrs. Hughes, Mr. Parker, Miss Hall and Mr. Hawkins. A very delightful service was the verdict of all.

THE COLTS WIN ONE MORE VICTORY.

THE CRACK ST. GEORGE'S TEAM BEATEN ON SATURDAY.

The Peterborough Juniors Win the Match by Five Goals to Three, and Now Have to Play in Toronto.

The Colts won their sixth victory on Saturday evening by defeating the crack St. George's team of Toronto, before a big crowd at the local rink by a score of five goals to three.

The visitors were a heavier team than the Colts, and two of the members at least carried very old faces for boys supposed to be under twenty years of age. The St. George's have a rush line to be proud of, and they play a very pretty combination. The defence, however, is slow with the exception of the goalkeeper, and during fully three-quarters of the game the puck was being scrimmaged in Toronto territory. The Peterborough defence on the contrary relieved quickly every time, and almost as soon as the puck came down the rink it was returned before the visiting forwards could follow up. The Colts forwards did not play their usual game in the way of combination work, but they far in following up the puck and also coming back with it.

The Colts backers in Peterborough expect to see them win the round from the St. George's, and would not be surprised if they outclassed the Toronto team in the city when they go up. It is agreed that the Peterborough defence is steady and can be thoroughly relied upon at all times to play its game. As the forwards are certainly capable of putting up a far better game than they did on Saturday night, and play just as well away from home as in Peterborough, it is thought that they will be able to more than hold their own on Toronto ice.

The teams on Saturday evening lined up in the following order:—

St. George's.		Peterborough.
W Pardoe	goal	John Comstock
W Evans	point	Ed Graham
B Bysh	cover-point	H Armstrong
A Warden	forwards	W Whitcroft
H Birmingham		H King
A Gillies		P Crossley
E C Temple		H Morgan

Referee—E Wasson.

THE PUCK WAS FACED

off at eight minutes to nine and was carried with a rush on the Toronto goal, which was well relieved, but besieged again at once, as Armstrong lifted the puck down into the corner. Once more it was brought out and again Armstrong returned it. This time Whitcroft followed up Crossley and before St. George's could clear he banged the puck between the sticks, scoring the first game for the Colts. Time, 1 minute.

The St. George's started the next game by a combined rush on the Peterborough flags and for a time pressed hard. Graham relieved by a long lift, but the puck was brought back to him again. This time he made a capital rush up the ice with it, and was steered off into the corner. St. George's got the puck then and it travelled up into Peterborough territory, where Armstrong came into possession of it and quickly lifting on the visitors' goal scored a point from the middle of the ice. Time, 5 minutes.

Once more the visitors started out to rush things, and their combination work was pretty to watch as the four forwards came down the rink abreast.

THE PETERBOROUGH DEFENCE,

however, seemed to be impregnable, being well assisted by their forwards, who came back with the visitors every time. Graham did some great work in this game and broke up many a rush. Armstrong's lifts were also a feature. He raised the puck to the wire netting over the Toronto goal once and as it bounced out Harry King sent it back through the goal. As it was an offside play the goal did not count. The visitors almost scored a goal a few minutes later, when they got the puck right in on the flags, but the shot struck the pole and bounced out. From this juncture until half time was called the puck never left the vicinity of St. George's goal, but it seemed impossible for the Peterboroughs to put it through. The goalkeeper was given a very warm time of it for about ten minutes and then the whistle blew, leaving the score at half time 2—0 in favour of the Colts.

On resuming play a rush on the Toronto goal resulted in Crossley scoring in a minute and a half. Score 3—0.

TWENTY MINUTES LATER

the same player made a fast rush up the ice and tallied another point. Score 4—0.

The next game began by a sharp attack on the Peterborough goal, but Comstock made a brilliant stop and saved his flags. Crossley relieved and made a fast rush which terminated in a scrimmage around the Toronto goal. The visitors rush line got away with the puck and and by fine combination work brought the puck into Peterborough territory. Gillies scored on a pass from Warden. Time, 13 minutes. Score, 4—1.

Three and a half minutes afterwards Birmingham slapped another through for the visitors, raising the score to 4—2.

Warden, the biggest of the visitors' forwards, got in some rough work, which resulted in his being retired to the fence. The Peterborough forwards then woke up and Whitcroft scored another point. Time, 2½ minutes. Score, 5—2.

The eighth game was begun by a combined rush of the visitors' forwards on the Colts' goal. It looked like another tally score, but Comstock made the stop of the evening and relieved brilliantly, incidentally upsetting one of the Toronto forwards who was getting too gay. The puck was brought back again and Comstock went out into the corner after it. Graham dropped back between the posts and just got there in time to stop a hot shot. The attack of the Torontos was well sustained, however, and Warden finally tallied in six months. Score 5—3. This was the last goal scored before time was called.

KILLED INSTANTLY.

Brakesman Slipped and Fell Under a Car at Lindsay.

(Lindsay Post.)

How strange are the ways of Providence! The light fall of snow so eagerly welcomed yesterday morning caused the death of genial, jolly "Billy" Higgs, one of the brakemen on the yard shunter, last evening.

A few minutes after 5 o'clock the shunting engine steamed up to the Victoria avenue switch, north of Glenelg street. There some of the men alighted to look after their various duties. Higgs threw the switch for the engine to back down on another siding to take out a car. The shunter had a car and tender attached, and as they passed him Higgs caught the "grab-iron" or handle on the corner of the car and, with one foot resting on the brake-beam as is customary, rode down the stretch to couple the stationary car. The couplers on both cars are automatic design, but carry a link and pin in case they meet a car with the old-fashioned coupling, and it is supposed that poor Higgs, when close to the standing car, jumped off to remove the pin, slipped on the treacherous ice, covered by the light snow, and was crushed by the cruel wheels before he had time to utter a warning cry to apprise his mates of his terrible position.

The body was terribly crushed, the wheels of a loaded corn car and of the tender having passed diagonally over the the poor fellow from the right shoulder to the opposite hip.

The remains were placed on a stretcher and taken to the deceased's home.

The deceased, who was in his 32nd year, had been employed on the local staff of the G.T.R. about two years—one year as a "call-boy" and latterly as brakeman. He was a general favourite and his sad death will be regretted by many.

SALVATION ARMY.

The Special Meetings which are being Held—Prominent Officers Present.

The series of special meetings which began at the Salvation Army barracks on Friday evening, have proved to be unquestionably the most successful held by the local corps for years. Not only has the attendance been large, and, therefore, the financial proceeds of an encouraging character, but the less tangible, but more important, results, in a spiritual direction most promising.

The meetings have been led by a number of prominent Toronto officers, including Major Complin, a former editor of the War Cry, Adj. Manton, Mr. and Mrs. Stanyon, Ensigns Nellie and Dick Griffiths and Capt. Eaton.

On Saturday evening the meeting partook of a musical character and a number of instrumental selections were given with praiseworthy taste. Perhaps, however, the best number of the evening was a recitation given by Mrs. Stanyon, entitled "The way to heaven," which was certainly creditably given.

On Sunday afternoon Major Complin spoke on the Parable of the Prodigal Son to an audience that filled the seating capacity of the place. In the evening the meeting was of an evangelistic character.

To-night will close the special meetings, when a children's demonstration of a novel character will be given.

At night, the Intelligencer states, he wanders about the streets seeking the hypnotist, and his friends are compelled to watch him constantly. His health is already beginning to fail and he is in a pitiable condition. The matter should certainly be investigated, and if found to be true, Ferris should be forbidden to practice his art or exercise his peculiar power.

ST. LUKE'S MISSION.

The Services Will be Held Each Day During the Week—Three Services Yesterday.

Rev. G. O. Troop, who is conducting the mission at St. Luke's, had a busy day yesterday. In the morning he preached from Romans 12, ver. 1; "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy acceptable to God, which is your reasonable service."

In the afternoon at a children's service the address was on Samuel, and at 4.30 Mr. Troop addressed a large gathering of men in the town hall. Rev. E. V. Stevenson kindly adjourned his usual Sunday afternoon lecture in St. John's church and brought many of the men over to hear Mr. Troop.

In the evening the missioner again preached to a large congregation on Jacob's wrestling with the angel.

The services will be held each day in St. Luke's during the week until and including next Friday evening. At 4.30 p. there will be a Bible study from the Gospel of St. John, and at 8 p. m. a mission address. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Interesting Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

The game to-night between the Peterborough seniors and 'Varsity will doubtless draw the biggest crowd of the season. Those who have followed hockey closely through the season in Toronto picked 'Varsity and Queens for the finals, thinking that Peterborough was weak this year. When Peterborough won out from Waterloo it set everybody guessing again. The match to-night will decide the question. If Peterborough wins Queen's men will have to play their prettiest to land the honours. 'Varsity boasts of having a magnificent combination and all Canada will anxiously await the issue of to-night's match, when a purely local team will go up against the pick of Toronto University.

The return match with Varsity is to be played on Thursday evening next in the Mutual street rink, in Toronto. A big crowd is going up to witness the event. The G.T.R. runs a special train to Toronto at 2 30 p.m., which returns the same night at 11 30.

The Waterloo people think Hollingshead is the greatest cover point in the business. The Peterborough captain surpised the Germans.

The 'Varsity team will arrive by the Grand Trunk at 5.30 p.m., and to-night's game will therefore start sharp on time at 8.30 o'clock.

The Toronto News says : It is generally conceded that Lionel King, E. F. Brown and A. R. Creelman are the premier referees of the O. H. A. series.

The Frontenacs have asked Will Crossley, of town, to referee their game against Lindsay to-night. They could not have picked a better man.

The Globe says :—The Victorias, of Winnepeg, will play exhibition games in Peterborough, Toronto and other places after the Stanley Cup games.

CURLIANA.

Mr. R. M. Hamilton left for Toronto today and will be followed to Toronto by the two Granite rinks who are out after Tankard honours. Mr. R. C. McHarrie is going up with the boys to see them through. A friend took a bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure to him. A few days later upon receiving a visit from the doctor he ran across the room and playfully administered a hearty kick. He is now up and as well as ever. Sold by H. S. Macdonald and Ormond & Walsh.

MASONIC.

The installation of the officers of Havelock Lodge No. 435, A.F. & A.M., took place on the 20th January. The presence of the Grand Junior Warden, R. W. Bro. H. Bro H Rush, G J W, performed the duties of installing officer like a skilled craftsman, ably assisted by Wor Bros W H Walkey, W Thompson and W E Conway, Past Masters of Peterborough Lodge No. 155.

After the installation ceremony had been concluded and the lodged closed, the brethren adjourned to the dining hall, where they found a very palatable oyster supper in readiness. Supper over, the usual toasts customary to Masonic banquets were proposed and responded to. A pleasing event of the evening was the presentation to Bros. Elias Williams, retiring W.M., of a beautiful Past Master's Jewel, a token of the brethren's appreciation of the services of Bro. Williams during the very prosperous year, 1898. Bro. W. S. Dodd was selected to make the presentation, which he did in well chosen becoming remarks. Although the presentation was a great surprise to Bro. Williams, his reply in accepting the present evinced his appreciation of the gift. The meeting was one of the most enjoyable gatherings of Havelock Lodge.

ODDFELLOWS.

REV. J. E. BASTOW NOW IN CHARGE

Of the Murray Street Baptist Church Congregation.

HE CONDUCTED SERVICES SUNDAY.

Two Most Impressive Sermons Were Delivered During the Day to Large Congregations — A Fluent and Easy Speaker of Ripe Experience.

Rev. J. E. Bastow, the newly appointed pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, took charge of the services yesterday and delivered powerful sermons both morning and evening. The new pastor has a ripe experience gained in the different fields in which he has served the Master, and his discourses are seasoned with deep thought, expressed with a fluency and earnestness which is most impressive.

Mr. Bastow is a native of England, being born at Bradford, Yorkshire, and has spent over one-third of his life in the British dominions. His college training was received at Colgate University, New York, from which he graduated in both arts and theology. It is interesting to know that he was afterwards pastor of the college church, that is, the church home of the professors and students of the university. For five or six years his pastorate has been that of one of New York city churches. His labours there being most successful and it is this field he leaves to come to Peterborough.

LAST EVENING

the subject of the sermon was based on the text, "My yoke is easy and my burden is light," Matthew xi. chap., 20th ver.

In opening the speaker stated that it is commonly supposed that Christian salvation is exceedingly difficult to obtain and retain, and there are some passages of Scripture which seemed to favour this idea. Yet again, other passages seem to represent the way as very easy, as is the case with the text of the evening.

There are several ways in which passages of Scripture can be construed and the language in both the above stated cases is intended to be taken in the comparative degree, as are many expressions which we use in everyday life. We put these expressions in the positive degree, but it is intended to convey a comparative sense. The text is expressed in the comparative degree. It is not intended to mean that there are no burdens to be borne, but simply to express that it is easier to worship God and live a Christian life than it is for us to live a totally irreligious life, in which neither God nor religion has any controlling influence. It is easier to live the Christian life than it is to live any other possible life.

For the children of Israel, who had to go through it was a great mitigation of the journey to have the pillar of cloud by day and that of fire by night.

In going through this world we will have temptations to overcome, but to have the Book as our guide, Jesus Christ as our Saviour, and the Holy Spirit as our Sanctifier, will mitigate the evils of our lives and makes our journey much easier.

A large number when thinking of becoming Christians think that they must bid farewell to pleasure and enjoyment. This is the general opinion. But it is a most radical mistake, for when Christians enter on the new life the things which were hindrances becomes wings by which we rise up into God's presence and are transformed to His likeness.

It is easy for us to become Christians.

All the great difficulties that stood in the way of pardon have been all removed

BY GOD HIMSELF.

There once were difficulties in the way that seemed to be utterly unsurmountable. For 4,000 years the world devoted itself to ascertaining a way of purifying the heart. There was a sense of guilt prevalent and representative men of the great nations gave themselves up to the study of how to bring peace to the heart, but the great question was still unsolved when Christ came. By His coming the path to His heart was opened up and ye are invited to enter. Think of the passage in the Scripture by which you are invited : "Come unto Me all ye who are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." Is it possible to find language that can give a freer invitation to reconciliation

Then again all the blessings of salvation are brought and placed at our very feet. We do not have to perform some stupendous act to reach His feet. Jesus Christ comes himself and knocks at the door of the heart. Salvation is not at a distance. It is at the door. The instant the heart is open Jesus Christ enters in and the sinner is saved.

The opening of the heart is the simplest act that can be performed—"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

The speaker's mode of painting out the path which the Christian should tread was unique but most convincing.

HE INSTANCED HIMSELF,

a minister taking charge of a new congregation, entering into certain business transactions relative to settling in his new home. If some little trifling act was performed by him in these transactions which was out of accord with his position as a minister, it would be instantly noticed by the entire congregation and commented upon. If the act was one inconsistent with the profession of a minister, would it not be inconsistent with that of any Christian, and if so quickly detected in a minister could not such an action be detected and avoided in one's own dealings?

Then again, to make the path more easy the Holy Spirit comes down and gives you the power to put your trust in Him.

If it were a difficult thing to become a Christian only adults or strong-minded persons would take the right side, but on the contrary the majority of Christians become so previous to the age of twenty-one years, and the most touching incident in the life of a minister was the conversion of the little ones, with their simple faith.

In closing Mr. Bastow made a strong plea for Christ, urging again on the congregation the simpleness of the act required in order to embrace Christianity.

BURLEIGH FALLS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

We regret to record the death of Master Willie Armstrong, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. Charles Armstrong, Burleigh Falls. Some four weeks ago the deceased was attacked by acute inflammation of the lungs, from which he had apparently rallied. But on Monday, January 30th, death claimed its victim. An unusually bright, intelligent child, and possessing a gentle disposition, Master Willie had endeared himself to all who knew him. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the community in their affliction.

VACCINATION ORDERED.

Its Prevalence in Some Quarters Make it Advisable.

At a meeting of the Provincial Board of Health held in Toronto on Feb. 1st, on a motion of Dr. Cassidy and Dr. Vaux it was decided that Dr. Bryce notify the various Boards of Health in the Province to enforce the regulations regarding vaccination. Dr. Cassidy explained that this step should be taken merely as a precaution, in view of the fact that the Province is surrounded by States where smallpox exists to a large extent. The act provides for the general vaccination of unvaccinated persons, and gives the local Boards power to make vaccination compulsory where the disease exists.

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

ago Wheat Future Market Still on the Down Grade—Liverpool Also Lower—The Prices.

Friday Evening, Feb. 3.

Liverpool wheat was heavy to-day. Spot declined 1d to 1½d per cental, and futures ½d for the day.

Chicago wheat kept on the down-grade to-day. There was a slight temporary rally in the early part of the session, but selling by scared longs soon had its effect, and futures dropped a full cent a bushel. The slump at Liverpool and heavy Argentine shipments helped the decline. The only bull argument was 700,000 bushels of wheat reported cleared for export at the seaboard. The close was at near bottom point for the day.

The quality of fat cattle was very fair, considering the large number delivered.

Philippine Junta at Hongkong Say Hard Things About the Americans.

Hongkong, Feb. 4. — The Filipino Junta here has issued the following statement: "Simultaneously with the proclamation of the republic, Aguinaldo released the Spanish prisoners as an act of grace.

"The Spanish imposition of the poll tax is enforced by the Americans with greater severity. Formerly the poorest paid $3 and the richest $37. Now the lowest pay $5 and the rich $100, which is greatly exasperating the people.

"Gambling, cockfighting, bribing, squeezing and the American abuses of the customs are causing demoralization. The Spanish corrupt, despotic system seems to be the moral of the American executive.

"The Manila Filipinos are indignant at the national journals that they will tamely submit to be experimented with by amateur colonial administrators and hope the decision of the United States on Monday will be of a nature to satisfy their aspirations as frequently expressed."

BALLOON SHIPS NOW.

Dr. Daniliewski Says Ballooning Will Be as Popular as Cycling.

Vienna, Feb. 4.—Deep interest is manifested in a new airship which has been invented by Dr. Constantine Danilewski of Cracow, and with which experiments have been carried out in the presence of several expert aeronauts. It is asserted that Dr. Danilewski's airship excels in all respects any apparatus of the kind known. Its best feature is a series of vertical and horizontal screws, worked by electricity, or in case of necessity by gas, by means of which the vessel can rise or sink without waste of gas and without throwing out ballast, and can be accurately steered.

The inventor predicts that ballooning will be as popular in the near future as cycling.

Wireless Telegraphy Successful.

London, Feb. 4.—Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy is proving very successful on the British coast. Operators have been at work every day this week. They are stationed 12 miles apart, on the South Foreland Lighthouse and the Goodwin Lightship. The operators report that questions and answers are exchanged almost as quickly as in ordinary conversation. One of the most important points established is that the current is not affected by stormy weather, so that great advantages will result in cases of shipwreck.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C. S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonizing pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single case.

Has Neither Cash, Credit Nor Coal.

Constantinople, Feb. 3.—A curious situation in Turkey greatly embarrasses the Sultan. The Government has run out of coal and the official vessels are unable to move. The infidels are the only ones who possess coal, and they refuse to trust the impoverished Sultan. As is usual every year, the Sultan sent out a ship to carry a sacred camel and Imperial presents to Mecca. At present the whole outfit is stranded for want of fuel at Scutari, opposite Constantinople. It is regarded as a serious omen by the Turks if the sacred camel does not get to Mecca, and the Sultan is offering honors in lieu of money in order to obtain coal.

Napanee, Feb. 4.—Mr. J. J. Smith, 83, of North Fredericksburg, was standing near a woodpile, when he fell. In falling he struck on a short stick, which broke three of his ribs, one of which pierced his lung. He is very low.

Arrested on a Charge of Fraud.

Hamilton, Feb. 4.—B. F. Johnston was arrested yesterday at the instance of Richard Rusk, a lumber dealer from Muskoka Falls, charged with fraud. Johnston wrote to the plaintiff, alleging he was doing an extensive trade in lumber, railway supplies, etc., and asking for prices. Later on he ordered several carloads of pine, always writing on billheads which would indicate that he was doing an extensive business. The pine was shipped him, but no remittances being received by Mr. Rusk, he came here to investigate, and found that the firm of B. F. Johnston was unknown. He traced up the author of the order for wood and had him arrested. Johnston is said to have been implicated in similar transactions before.

BURIED IN THE BEAUTIFUL.

Matters Decidedly Serious From Continued Snowfall in Colorado.

Denver, Col., Feb. 4.—The snowstorm that has raged with but brief intermission for more than a week in Colorado was renewed yesterday with unabated energy. The snowfall all day was very heavy, while strong winds piled it up and filled railroad cuts, almost completely blocking railroad traffic in the mountain districts. Snowslides have occurred at several points, one 18 miles west of Leadville, on Mount Elbert, carrying down a miner's cabin and burying William Manning.

Many mountain towns are cut off from the world, the only means of communication being on snowshoes. Food and fuel supplies are becoming alarmingly short in many places.

A hazardous piece of work, to relieve the suffering at Breckinridge, Como, Dillon and other points around the first-named camp, was successfully accomplished by the Colorado Southern Railroad yesterday, when citizens with shovels cleared off the South Park track to the depot in Breckenridge and a much battered supply train crawled into the town, the first inside of three weeks.

The situation at Breckenridge was becoming critical, as the grocery supply was almost exhausted. Miners, prospectors, millmen and timber cutters were coming in from the surrounding hills, begging provisions. Breckenridge was buried in snow. Slides in all directions made the roads leading into the camp impassable.

At Leadville the supply of coal is so small that a forced shut-down of mines and smelters is threatened.

Died in a Pullman Car.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Mr. Arthur J. Watson of the Ottawa branch of the Bank of Montreal died in his berth in the sleeping car "Nestoria" on the Canadian Pacific express early yesterday morning while en route to the city. Mr. Watson was found by the porter when he was making his rounds a few miles out of Toronto. The body was brought on to Toronto, where Mr. George Kerr of the Bank of Montreal identified the remains. Deceased was 36 years of age, and had been connected with the Bank of Montreal since 1887. His relatives were notified at Stratford, where his father resides, and they will take charge of the remains. Coroner Johnson will investigate the cause of death.

Test the KIDNEYS

They are the Great Feeders of our Bodies

The Purity of the Blood is Dependent on their Cleansing Powers

There's a time to all, old and young, man or woman, when poor health brings trouble, anxiety, and burdens hard to stand up under, and one's efforts to rid himself or herself seem only to be baffled at every turn, and we are prone to grow discouraged.

That is not the time to give up—but the time for action, the time to seek out the seat of the trouble, and act as your best judgment and the experience of others will help you, guarding against mistakes in the treatment adopted for your particular ailment.

MR. GEORGE BENNER,

WIARTON, ONTARIO, says:—

As a life saver to mankind, I hereby state what Dr. A. W. Chase's K.-L. Pills did for me. For nearly four years I was greatly troubled with Constipation and general weakness in the Kidneys, and in my perilous position was strongly advised to use Chase's Pills, and to-day I can safely and truthfully state that they have saved my life.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS are the only Combined Kidney and Liver Pill—What they have Accomplished is but a guarantee of what they will do . . . . .

Raised . . . From a Bed of Sickness . . .

Messrs. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Gentlemen —For over five months I was confined to my bed, not being able to move. The best medical skill was called in, all treating me for catarrh of the stomach, but to no avail. I could not eat the most simple food without being in dreadful misery, and found no relief until same was vomited up. After spending a large sum in medical advice, I was advised to try a box of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I purchased a box from J. Austin and Company, Simcoe, and to my surprise found great relief. Not being able to eat I tried a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills; the pains left me the third day. My appetite has been fully restored. I consider myself perfectly cured, and feel as well as when a young woman, although I am 65 years old at present. I was almost a shadow, now I am as fleshy as before my sickness. Have used only three boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and two boxes of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I can do my house work as usual. I am positive that my marvellous cure (which I think it is) is due purely to Dr. Chase's remedies, which I have used. I can honestly recommend the same to any persons suffering from symptoms similar to mine. Wishing you every success,

Yours truly,

MRS. ANN CHURCHILL, Sr.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,504 96
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,500 00
Yearly Income for life of—	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ing rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Colonia," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

They drove straight to Mr. Hale's office, and as they were about to enter the building in which it was, two gentlemen approached from the direction of Bathurst's rooms, not many blocks away. These were Dr. Austin and Francis Ferrars.

Dr. Austin had arrived in the city the night before, in response to a despatch from Francis Ferrars, and because of the work on hand for that night had been compelled to wait until morning for an explanation to the strange telegram that had brought him to the city. For more than two hours this morning he had been closeted with the English detective, and now, as he approached, Dr. Austin was fully aware of the truth concerning Lenore Armyn, of all that Neil Bathurst had done, of her identity, and her present whereabouts. This morning, for the first time, he had learned that the husband, from whom he had assisted Lenore to flee, had been murdered on that very night. The doctor's face wore a mixed expression of gratification, wonder, and awe as, fresh from the Englishman's strange recital, he approached Bathurst. But he extended to the quondam John Jacob a hearty greeting, and after an introduction, and a few low-spoken words of explanation, the four men ascended the stairs that led to the office of Mr. Hale.

The lawyer was there to receive them, and Neil Bathurst came straight to the point. "Mr. Hale," he said, "I come to make to you my last report concerning the Arteveldt tragedy. And as these gentlemen are more deeply, or I might say, closely, interested in the issue than either you or I, their presence is, of course, necessary. Mr. Durand, you know; allow me to present Dr. Austin, of Fairlie, the lawful guardian of the lady we have known as Lenore Armyn, and Francis Ferrars, England's ablest detective."

The lawyer greeted the strangers with an elaborate courtesy, and then led the way into his private sanctum.

"Here we have the required privacy," he said, bowing to Neil Bathurst, and drawing forth easy chairs for the party. "Be seated, gentlemen."

And Mr. Hale seated himself, feeling inwardly as much astonished as he could ever feel at anything. Mr. Durand, the Fairlie doctor, and the English detective! What could the strange combination mean.

Neil Bathurst drew his chair up to the lawyer's table, and took from his pocket a packet of papers. These he laid upon the table, and then said:—

"I have come to you as Mrs. Arteveldt's agent, Mr. Hale, and when you have heard what I have to say, you will know why I make this, my last report, or statement, in her case, verbally, and to you in her absence. Certain portions of my story are known to these gentlemen, but not the same portions, and not all that I have now to relate. It might be said that, at this moment, Mr. Durand and myself represent one interest; Mr. Ferrars and Doctor Austin, although strangers until to-day, another; and yourself a third. But I will begin. You have had my report, Mr. Hale, up to the time when Lenore Armyn escaped from me, and from Doctor Burton's Insane Asylum. Since then I have had excellent reasons for withholding any reports concerning her. I shall not now relate the particulars of events that have since transpired, but will simply say that Miss Armyn is found."

"Found!" ejaculated Mr. Hale. "But that is good news."

"Yes, it is a matter for congratulation. Miss Armyn is found—and—Clarence Arteveldt's murderess is also found."

"Of course; of course," from Mr. Hale again.

"Not of course, sir. Miss Armyn and the murderess are two distinct and very different persons."

"What!"

"Listen, Mr. Hale, and gentlemen. When I was called upon to investigate this unprecedented murder, I found a very strong case of circumstantial evidence against this lady, all ready to hand. I saw that it was a very strong case, and I saw, instantly, that to hint at a possibility of a different actor in the drama would be to prejudice against myself, not only Mrs. Arteveldt and her friends, but even you, Mr. Hale. When I stood beside the body of the murdered man, and saw the manner in which death had reached him, I knew that no girl, ignorant of anatomy, and unskilled in crime, could have stricken such a blow, although she may have been never so frantic, never so mad with despair, and never so frenzied with a thirst for vengeance. But I said nothing of this. The verdict of the jury was the popular verdict, and it's a detective's business to produce and state facts, not opinions—especially when his opinion will run counter to the general one.

"Well, I went to work. I had never seen the accused, and so could not judge of her from observation, but I began a systematic hunting up of everybody who knew her. Even her enemies spoke some good of Lenore Armyn. She had a furious temper, but was frank, fearless, generous to a fault, and devoid of trickery, treachery, or deceit in any form. Even those who believed in her guilt extolled her as she had hitherto been, and declared themselves in sympathy with her, as her wrong had been so great. Finally I got possession of a quantity of letters written by her to Miss Seaton—school-girl letters—and these endorsed what others had said. After reading them I said this:—'Either this is an impulsive, sensitive, high-souled, high-spirited, fearless, and innocent girl—in which case she is no murderess—or else she is a hypocrite from the foundation upward, in which case she may have committed no end of crimes.' Then I set myself to assure myself whether she was one or the other, and I freely confess that I never yet found a case that so puzzled and baffled me up to the very last moment. I was at times ready to declare that the girl was a monomaniac. I will now relate all the things that so baffled and puzzled me, although they were not included in my reports, and might prove interesting. The 'crooked places' have been made tolerably straight to me, although during my entire search, during my life in fact, I have never seen Miss Armyn save once, and then for a few exciting minutes only.

"When I examined the scene of the tragedy, I discovered that the trap-door opening out upon the roof was not fastened. I mentioned this fact in my first report, and I made a mental note of it, for I could not divest myself of the idea that the destroyer might have entered the house from the roof."

"But!" interrupted Mr. Hale, "you stated in your report that you thought that theory the least probable of any."

"I said in my report, that a man might have gained the roof by means of hooks and ropes, but that it was impossible for a woman, and that this theory was, even supposing the criminal a man, a highly improbable one. If I had mentioned my suspicion that the house next door might furnish a clue to the mystery, that house would have been invaded forthwith, and then we would have lost our hold upon the murderess, as well as been deprived of the pleasure of capturing and consigning to the hands of justice the sharpest gang of counterfeiters that ever infested this city. You will know what this means, gentlemen, when you read the evening papers. I made private inquiries concerning the house, and resolved to keep an eye upon its inmates. And—I was careful to let no word fall from my lips that might set any busy tongue to wagging on the subject of 'the house next door.'

"After the inquest, as you will remember, Mr. Hale, I visited the rooms that had been occupied by Clarence Arteveldt, for years, in his mother's house. I went there to examine the papers and effects of the deceased, in the hope of obtaining some clue to the murder. In doing an act of justice one can not always spare even the dead; you, Mr. Hale, and Mr. Durand also, know something of the life he led. But it remained for these letters to reveal how entirely he was engrossed in trifling with the affections of women of all sorts, good, bad and indifferent. I read through a sickening mass of billets-doux, and from the lot I 'evolved' one scrap of paper that I considered worthy of preservation. Here it is."

And he took the first paper from the packet before him and laid it by itself.

"Next I searched in the pockets of all the garments hanging in the closets and wardrobes, and in the coat he had discarded for the wedding broadcloth, I found—this."

He laid a second note beside the first, and then continued:—

"In walking about the room I noticed that he, or some one, had been burning papers of some sort, and on looking closer I found this fragment." He placed half a burned letter beside the other two, and said. "Mr. Hale, will you read the first of these? Read it aloud."

Mr. Hale took up the first paper and read:—

I begin to doubt you. Don't think me blind or that I am one to submit to neglect, after what has been. Remember, you are not dealing with one friendless or helpless. I must see you to-night.

August 9, 187—.

Mr Hale read this aloud, and then laid it down without a comment.

"This note," resumed the detective, "is, as you see, without address or signature. And it is not an ordinary love-letter. It is dated less than a month prior to the first meeting of Arteveldt and Miss Armyn. 'I begin to doubt you,' it says—doubtless this was one of the 'old loves' that the young man was so constantly putting off for new ones. But this one is not to be trifled with, and she rebels. She reminds him that she is neither friendless nor helpless, and then she commands, 'I must see you to-night.' Now, Mr. Hale, please read the next note, the one found in the coat pocket."

Again Mr. Hale complied, reading the second note as he had the first, without comment or question.

I have seen the girl you think to make your wife; and—she does not love you—I swear it. I have warned you before. I repeat that warning. Break off this marriage, even at the last moment. Break it off, or the thunderbolt that hangs over you will fall.

"See," said the detective, when the lawyer had put this note aside:—"It is in the same hand as the first one. It warns, or threatens—or both. It bids him break off his marriage, or dread the thunderbolt. Gentlemen, he did not break off the marriage, and three days after the date of this letter the thunderbolt had fallen. Clarence Arteveldt lay a corpse.

"Now comes the third letter, or fragment of one. It is in the handwriting of the murdered man. Probably he wrote this letter, and then, for some reason, re-wrote it, throwing this copy into the grate. Now I begin to theorize: This letter is partially destroyed; we must guess at the meaning of half of it. I thought that some woman, doubtless this one who had written him these two letters, had made some demands upon him. I think that he sent back to her her letters and pictures, and that these two were overlooked in making up the package. I think that he told her how idle and useless were her threats, and then resorted to a little judicious flattery, speaking of her beauty, her position, etc., and that he ended by saying she must keep aloof from his wife; such a letter would be characteristic of the man. I founded my reasoning, gentlemen, on these fragments of sentences:—

This day return to you—and gifts. Have retained nothing.—these useless threats—the admiration your beauty commands—position warrants—shall be your friend—two must not meet.

"Go! You Are Free!" If you were in prison and a good spirit suddenly opened the door and said "Go! You are free!" you wouldn't stop to ask whether the key that opened the door was the regulation pattern or not. If it opened the door, that is enough. Thousands of women who are sick and suffering might speedily be made strong and well again if it was not for an unreasonable prejudice against any but so-called "regulation" methods.

"Three years ago I was almost gone with womb trouble," says Mrs. Jennie J. Jackson, of Fergusson's Wharf, Isle of Wight Co., Va., in a letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I tried many different medicines and got no better until I tried Dr. Pierce's medicines. The first bottle gave me ease. I have taken six bottles and I feel as well as ever in my life.

"My doctor did not have any faith in 'patent medicines' but he says 'something has done you good.' I know if I had not taken Dr. Pierce's medicine I could not have lived long as I was nothing but a skeleton. I was so thin in flesh that it hurt me to lie down. Now I am well, and can work hard all day and do as much walking as I ever did, and sleep well all night. I can never be thankful enough for the good Dr. Pierce's medicines did me."

Dr. Pierce is a regular graduated and educated physician. He has had a more practical life-long experience with all forms of women's diseases than any other doctor in this country. His "Favorite Prescription" for female complaints is the most marvelously effective remedy for this purpose in the world.

Suffering women need not hesitate to write to him. All letters are held sacredly confidential and free advice will be sent by mail in plain sealed envelope.

Constipation is a little illness that if neglected builds a big one. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

The christening of the bairn has been an event in the life of many a fond father, but it seldom happens that the bairn plays a conscious part. A clerical friend told me of an exception the other day.

A son was born to a seafaring member of his congregation while he was in foreign parts, and at his request baptism was delayed till he could return to stand sponsor for his child.

He did not return till the boy was 2 years old, and for that reason the ceremony took place in the vestry. All went well until the sprinkling took place, when the father noticed the minister sprinkle more than his face.

He convulsed the company by saying in a hoarse whisper:

"Thou'lt catch it, my man! That was a clean pinny this morning."—London Tit-Bits.

The Diamond Willow.

A writer in The Forester says: "Valuable characteristics are noted of a willow growing spontaneously along the Missouri river from the mouth of the Great Nemaha south to the Yellowstone north, familiarly known as 'diamond willow.' Professor Sargent names it Salix cordata vestita. Experience demonstrates it as durable almost for underground uses, posts, etc., as red cedar. Northern Indians seem to have known of its valuable characteristics. They call it 'twat,' which, interpreted, signifies durable. It grows readily from cuttings, either in its natural home, the bottom lands, or out on the high upland prairies."

SHIPS SAVED AT SEA.

WHAT IS MEANT BY "SALVAGE" AND HOW IT IS PAID.

There Is No Law That Signals of Distress at Sea Must Be Heeded—Public Opinion Alone Enforces Responses to Calls For Help.

Salvage on ships saved at sea by others in the majority of cases is paid by the underwriters, although the big steamship companies insure themselves. The insurance companies think that a board of arbitration can more satisfactorily adjust salvage claims than can the courts. The word salvage, as defined by that celebrated admiralty authority, Roscoe, is "the reward which is earned by those who have voluntarily saved or assisted in saving a ship or boat or their apparel or any sort thereof or the lives of persons at sea or a ship, cargo or any part thereof, from peril or a wreck from total loss." The last part of the definition is a trifle puzzling.

In discussing the merits of salvage cases it must be remembered that there is no obligation, written or implied, upon the master or crew of any vessel to heed signals of distress. Public opinion alone enforces the idea that "a call for help at sea must be obeyed." The laws of salvage are merely framed to encourage the saving of life and property on the deep. There is avarice in the mariner as in landsmen, and the laws are made to overcome and curb these mercenary ambitions. For that reason a master and his crew cannot expect salvage for saving their own vessel. It is the natural assumption in law, as well as in fact, that they must do everything they can to preserve their charge and under an agreement with the owners keep it from danger whenever possible.

In salvage one of the first laws is that the peril must be actual. The bargain made in time of danger by the master or agent of the imperiled craft with another volunteering aid need not of necessity hold in court, and generally does not. As a rule the bargain is exorbitant and made at a time when the victim would be willing to guarantee the payment of millions for proffered assistance. This point has been decided hundreds of times, the courts taking the stand that the peril made an exorbitant bargain necessary.

As a general thing, the salvage award is equal to about one-third the value in the case of sailing craft and from one-third to one-half in the case of steamers. The owners of the salving craft, whose money was wasted by delay, wear and tear, are of course entitled to the bigger piece of the plum. The master of the salvor gets about twice the sum that his mate receives, and the mate is paid something like double the amount of each sailor.

Should the latter have been a member of a lifeboat crew used in running hawsers or in going aboard as a prize crew he and his mates are entitled to an extra compensation. Naval officers cannot claim salvage when the work accomplished is in the direct line of their duty.

In the case of a abandoned vessel there is a peculiar law as applied to ownership. No matter where the derelict be found and towed or assisted in by a prize crew or otherwise the court holds that she is still the property of her original owners, although abandoned by her crew, their agents, and that no effort has been made by them to recover her. It sounds peculiar to the average mariner, but it's the law.

To make a successful salvage claim it is necessary that the property must be actually saved and saved by those claiming to be salvors. In other words, the salvage services must be rendered by persons not bound by contract to render them. If the mariner or other encounters the danger or misfortune or damage which might possibly expose the ship to destruction unless assistance is rendered and does all he can to save the vessel, and his services tend in some degree to save or preserve her, compensation will be awarded him, although the vessel is mainly preserved by other means.

The longest time that any one steamer has been at sea with disabled machinery before reaching port was 77 days. This was the United States corvette Iroquois in 1890. She was bound to Samoa from Honolulu, and had only seven days' rations left when port was reached. In 1897 the steamer Indralema was towed into St. Thomas after having been at sea for 47 days. The Glasgow steamer Strathness, after drifting 32 days out of the range of steamers, was towed into St. Michael's in January, 1897, by the British steamer Hannah M. Bell. Another Strath, the Strathnevis, drifted helplessly on the Pacific for two months and over in 1895, and was finally towed into Puget sound. The Disptach in 1864 was out 61 days with crippled machinery, and four years ago the British cruiser Calypso broke down 2,000 miles from port and sailed in unaided, much to the delight of the dwindling band of naval experts who maintain that every warship ought to be provided with ample sail power.

The owners of those ships that were obliged to drift for weeks, and in several cases for months, would not have found fault with the question of salvage had a helping hand come along—at least there would have been no complaint just then.—New York Mail and Express.

SHE GOT HIM BACK.

How the Dog's Mistress Retained Her Pet Spaniel.

When Mrs. Marie Nevins Blaine was married to Dr. W. T. Bull, her pet spaniel, Lion, was banished. After the couple had been married a year Mrs. Bull persuaded her husband to let Lion return for a week, promising to keep him in the stable.

Three days of Lion's visit had passed when as Dr. Bull was taking off his overcoat in his office there came a rap at the inner door. It was so faint that at first he did not notice it. Then when it was repeated he said, "Come in." No one came, but the rapping went on. He opened the door, and there stood Lion. He had been knocking the door with a little wooden box he held in his mouth, addressed to Dr. Bull. The doctor took the box, and Lion, too polite to intrude, turned and walked in a dignified manner back up stairs. The doctor opened the box and read the tiny note contained therein, smiled and threw it in the scrapbasket.

The next day Lion knocked and left another note. The third time he came there was a reply for him. The doctor said, "Lion, wait." He took the box, abstracted the note, put one of his own in its place, and handing the box back to the dog gave him a pat and sent him up stairs. Here is a copy of Lion's notes and the reply they finally elicited:

DEAR DOCTOR—I am enjoying my visit to my mistress very much. It was very kind of you to invite me here, and I have tried to behave the best I know how. It will be hard to leave my mistress again. I wish you would like me a little bit. LION.

The letter which Lion carried back to his mistress read:

LION—You are such a respectable, well bred fellow that your visit is extended indefinitely. W. T. B.

THE "BUMS" WERE BULLS.

A Joke on the Telegrapher Who Mixed Up His Dashes.

The episode of the telegraph operator whose name was Rath, but which cognomen, owing to the loss of a telegraphic dot from the letter "h," was turned into "Rats," caused a refreshing of memory among some of the local men of the key and sounder. One of these relates that he had a somewhat similar experience, only that the trouble in this instance rose out of dashes rather than dots.

"I was working in a yard office on the Baltimore and Ohio," he said, "and one night received a message for the yardmaster which read, as I copied it, 'Look out for two bums in car 85,431, C. W. and B., and give them proper treatment.' The message was signed by the division superintendent, at the other end of the line, and we naturally supposed that the conductor had complained by wire of the tramps and the order from headquarters meant that we were to yank the interlopers out, beat them half to death and throw them into jail. Tramps had been giving a great deal of trouble lately.

"Well, the train rolled in about midnight. We had the crew of a switching engine, the yard watchman, two constables and the car inspector, along with the yardmaster and myself, lined up to receive the unwelcome passengers. It was dark and foggy, and the lanterns gave scarcely any light, so that we had to do some reconnoitering to find the car. At last we located it, a single deck stock car, and the yardmaster yelled through the fog:

"'Come on out of there! We've got you surrounded, and you can't get away!'

"The only reply was a contemptuous sniff and the sound of movement within the car. We could not see past our own lamps, so the yardmaster and the foreman of the switching crew decided to climb in from the trap opening in the roof, not wishing to break the seal on the door. The yardmaster went in first. He had a lantern, a link and a pick handle in his hands, and as soon as he got in he called to the bums to surrender or he would beat their heads off. Instead they apparently—for we could only judge by ear—took to the far end of the car.

"'Come on, Jake!' yelled the yardmaster. 'We've got to make a fight of it!' So he threw the link in the direction of the noise.

"Then came the most unearthly sound I ever heard. It was like a moan and a roar, and I was certain the yardmaster had killed one of them; but suddenly another yell, this time from him, showed that there was life in the enemy yet.

"'Ow! I'm murdered!' howled the yardmaster. He had been crashed against the side of the car like a tin toy. Falling, he was stepped on and rolled in the sawdust bedding and his lantern was knocked from his hand and fell, broken into fragments. The foreman was found by something mysterious and powerful and wallowed in the muck. We outside knew the fight must be a fearful one, for the planks of the car creaked and groaned as the strugglers bore against them.

"'I'll shoot!' called the watchman.

"'Don't! Don't!' howled the yardmaster. 'You'll kill us. These tramps are giants, and they're deaf and dumb. Ow!' this time from near the roof. 'I'm being killed. I'm getting out of this!' And the next we heard of him he was on top of the car, whither the switchman had already preceded him.

"At this moment we heard a strange noise in the midst of us: 'Who's going to water and feed those two bulls? I understood you'd be ready to take care of 'em here.' It was the conductor. He had just come up and didn't know what was happening.

"Well, that was what was in the car—two bulls. You know the telegraphic letter 'm' is two dashes, while the telegraphic letter 'l' is one longer dash. The double 'l' is a sort of amplified 'm.' And because the division superintendent had warned us to take care of those two bulls a pair of good railroad men had been nearly killed."—Chicago Record.

MOIST WEATHER.

A Description of a Spell of Humidity on the Wabash.

"Talking about rainy weather," said the westerner, "I remember once out in Indianapolis meeting a farmer who took the most cheerful view of dampness of anybody I ever saw. I asked him if they had had much rain down on the Wabash that spring.

"'Well, it has been a little damp,' he answered. 'The day before I left home I had to hang up 24 of my ducks. They had got so water soaked that they couldn't swim any longer. I planted my corn in two feet of water, and I don't expect over 30 bushels to the acre. My wheat is looking pretty well, but the sturgeon and catfish have damaged it considerably. There was about 15 minutes' sunshine one day, and I thought I would plant my potatoes, so I loaded them on a scow and anchored the scow in three feet of water, when it began to rain again.

"'I wanted to go down on the bottom lands next the Wabash to see if the grass was growing for my hay crop, but my wife said that as we didn't have any diving bell she'd rather I wouldn't. I should feel kind of discouraged with all the rain, but I've spent my odd hours of leisure time—and the even ones, too, on account of staying in out of the wet—building us an ark. If it will only rain another week or two until I get her ready to sail, I'm going to take my family out to Missouri by water for a trip to visit our folks that moved off out there because they didn't know enough to stay in a place where they were comfortable.'"—Boston Transcript.

His Concern.

A commercial traveler on his trip called upon a well known chemist. He was nervous as he put his hand in his pocket and handed out a card.

"I represent that concern," said the young man.

"You are fortunate," replied the chemist.

The commercial traveler was encouraged and said:

"I think so, sir, and the chemist who trades with us is even more so. My firm has the finest line of cosmetics in the country."

"I shouldn't have thought it," slowly responded the man of medicines. "Her complexion looks natural."

And he handed back the photograph which the young man had given him by mistake. He took it and left without waiting to make any farewell remarks. —London Sketch.

Worship of the Tiger.

The carcass of the tiger was carried to the adjacent village, where a hen was decapitated in front of it by the Gonds as an offering to the tiger god, while all the women assembled and did obeisance to the monster, bringing also their children, and placing each a small coin on the tiger's body or in front of its jaws; for these primitive people look on the tiger as their god, and small marvel seeing what a wondrous creature he is, with matchless symmetry of form and mighty strength, before which man seems an insignificant puppet.—"Tropics and Snows," by Burton.

SUCCEEDS HARCOURT.

Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman Chosen as Liberal Leader.

RISE OF "THE SCOTCH SANDBAG"

Sketch of the Man Upon Whom Devolves the Responsibility of Guiding the Party so Long Led by the Great Gladstone—The Contents of the Queen's Speech—News by Cable.

London, Feb. 7.—At a meeting of the Liberal members of Parliament at the Reform Club yesterday the Right Hon. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, former Chief Secretary for Ireland and late Secretary of State for War, was elected to succeed Sir William Vernon Harcourt as leader of the Liberal party.

The Right Hon. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, member of Parliament in the Liberal interest for the Stirling district of Scotland, since 1868, was born Sept. 7, 1836. He is the youngest son of the late Sir James Campbell, and assumed the additional name of Bannerman under the will of his maternal uncle, the late Henry Bannerman of Hinton Court, Kent. He was educated at Glasgow University and at Trinity College, Cambridge, and was married in 1860 to the daughter of the late General Sir Charles Bruce.

The new Liberal leader became Financial Secretary to the War Office in 1871, held that position until 1874, was reappointed in 1880, and held the office until 1882, when he became Secretary for the Admiralty. In 1884 Campbell-Bannerman became Secretary for Ireland, and in 1886 and in 1892-95 he was Secretary of State for War.

Mr. Campbell-Bannerman has always been looked upon as a man who had a future before him, and as a person likely to rise to an emergency. He is young-looking and well preserved. The Irishmen at one time called him the "Scotch Sandbag." As Secretary for War he proved himself a capable administrator, and as far back as 1895 his name was mentioned as a likely successor of Sir William Vernon Harcourt.

PRINCE ALFRED DEAD.

Her Majesty's Grandson, Heir of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha Passes Away.

Meran, Austria, Feb. 7.—Prince Alfred of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha is dead. He had been suffering from chronic cerebral trouble. Prince Alfred of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha was the son of the Duke of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha (the Duke of Edinburgh, second son of Queen Victoria). His mother was the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. The Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha celebrated their silver wedding on Jan. 23 at Gotha. Prince Alfred was born at Buckingham Palace, London, Oct. 15, 1874. He was a captain of Prussian infantry and unmarried. He was the only son and heir.

FIGHTING AT MARSEILLES.

The Dreyfus Agitation Leads to the Use of Firearms.

Marseilles, Feb. 7.—At a meeting here of the anti-Dreyfus League of Patriots in the Alhambra Hall a hostile demonstration upon the part of some Dreyfusites led to serious fighting in the streets, during which revolvers were fired. The police suppressed the disturbance, but several people were injured. Many arrests were made.

Cheers and Curses Greet Rochefort.

Algiers, Feb. 7.—The arrival here yesterday of Henri Rochefort, editor of The Intransigeant, from Marseilles, caused great excitement. Mobs of Dreyfusites and anti-Dreyfusites met him at the quay, and cheered or cursed him, according to their sympathies. There were several collisions between the rival factions. The prefect of police has suspended the mayor and municipal council.

COUNT CAPRIVI IS DEAD.

Bismarck's Successor as Chancellor of Germany Has Passed Over the Line.

Frankfort, Feb. 7.—General Count von Caprivi, the former Chancellor of the German Empire, died yesterday morning at Skyren, near Crossen, 32 miles from here.

The General died peacefully at 10 a.m. He had been ill for some time past.

The Duke of Teck's Illness.

London, Feb 7.—The Duke of Teck's condition from ossification of the brain is causing great pain and anxiety to his family and royal relations. His mental state is now hopeless. Day and night two nurses watch him. He has occasional brief lucid intervals, when he realizes his condition and suffers the keenest mental anguish, giving rise to scenes most trying to himself and those about him. The Duchess of York visits him at White Lodge regularly, and is deeply distressed at her father's condition.

That Dreyfus Trouble.

Paris, Feb. 7.—The Parliamentary committee, by a vote of nine to two, yesterday rejected the Government's bill providing that all cases of trial revision be brought before the whole Court of Cassation, instead of before the criminal section of that court.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

The Subjects to Which Parliament's Attention Is Specially Directed.

London, Feb. 7.—The Queen's speech at the opening of Parliament to-day will make the usual references to the pacific relations existing between Great Britain and foreign countries, and will then deal with the recent operations in the Soudan and with the affairs in Crete, expressing the hope that the Cretan question is in a fair way of solution by the appointment of Prince George of Greece as high commissioner of the powers in Crete.

The speech will also refer to the invitation to attend the Czar's peace conference, which has been accepted, and contains a very sympathetic reference to the assassination of the Empress of Austria.

It mentions the anti-Anarchist conference at Rome, and the probable necessity for the alteration of the law of Great Britain with respect to Anarchists is foreshadowed.

The speech then expresses great concern at the fact that the plague continues in certain localities of India; pays tributes to the efficacy of the measures taken to extirpate it and the devotion of the officials.

Cape Colony is complimented upon its patriotism as demonstrated in its recent vote for naval defence, and there are very sympathetic allusions to the disaster in the West Indies.

Finally, the speech announces that bills will be introduced for the municipal government of London and for the promotion of secondary education, etc.

CUBAN TO THE CORE.

General Gomez Is Not by Any Means Reconciled to the Idea of United States Intervention.

New York, Feb. 7.—A despatch to The Herald from Havana says: Those who have been led to believe that General Maximo Gomez was persuaded by the President's commissioner, Robert P. Porter, to look more kindly upon the continued American occupation of Cuba may disabuse their minds. The grim old Cuban still clings fondly to "Cuba Libre." He has abated no jot of his antagonism to foreign intervention of any sort, even though he accepts $8,000,000 for his warriors.

In letters published with his authority, Gomez gives praise to his soldiers for their heroism and fortitude. Continuing, he says: "It is wonderful that any are left after such a horrible struggle and pains. We warn you that we may not have finished the strange destiny that presents this last trial and humiliation. We are strangers in our own country, still wet with our blood.

"Forced guidance is hateful to us. It appears that the Americans are reimbursing themselves for their spontaneous intervention in our war for independence. Their delay in that intervention is still a shame upon them. The Americans, instead of aiding, are obstructing the establishment of a free and independent republic.

"This is our house. We are to live in it. We should furnish it to our own liking. I say to you there cannot be peace in Cuba while there lasts that transitory government, imposed by force, and which is hateful in the eyes of our people.

"I had hope to bid farewell to Spain's heroic soldiers, inviting them to return and join us as brothers in upbuilding Cuba, but the Americans embittered the joy of conquerors by the guidance they impose upon us. Embittering us, they have also added grief to the conquered.

"In order to put an end to this abnormal and unjust situation every one of us must render his aid, tendering anew all his energies to his country. I, first of all, offer myself without restriction for the accomplishment of the great undertaking of the revolution—the erection of a republic in Cuba."

This letter, the genuineness of which is unquestioned, has filled the Cubans with enthusiasm, and added, if anything, to the old General's popularity.

YANKEE MINERS WORKED UP.

Petitioning President McKinley to Get B. C. Alien Exclusion Act Repealed.

Skaguay, Alaska, Jan. 30, via Seattle, Wash., Feb. 7.—A monster petition to President McKinley and the members of the joint high commission is being signed, asking their assistance in securing the repeal of the Alien Exclusion Act, recently passed by the Government of British Columbia, in which the Atlin mining district is located. The petition has already received 1,000 signatures. Five thousand in all are expected to sign. The petition will be forwarded to Washington by the next steamer.

Canadians are signing as readily as Americans. The trade is already seriously affected, and a high official of the White Pass Road said yesterday that the English owners have cabled over that if the act is not revoked work on the road will be ordered stopped. The Porcupine and Salmon River districts on the Dalton trail, are coming to the front, and the prospectors headed originally for Atlin are going into the new fields of American territory.

At the conclusion of the match the western district trophy was presented to the winners by A. F. Maclaren, M.P., president of the Ontario Curling Association.

Orillia Gets Into Line.

Orillia, Feb. 7.—By a vote of 399 to 61 this town yesterday passed a bylaw authorizing the Council to raise by debentures $75,000 for the purpose of installing an electric transmission power plant. It is proposed to bring 800 horse-power from Ragged Rapids, on the Severn River, a distance of 19 miles inland. A Buffalo firm has already got the contract at $67,200 for a complete power plant.

Filed a Counter Petition.

Charlottetown, Feb. 7.—J. H. Bell, M.P., Summerside, has filed a counter-petition against A. A. LaFuergey for corrupt practices in the recent election in East Prince. LaFuerger filed a petition against Bell some days ago, and it comes up for hearing next Friday.

Uruguay Is Tranquil.

Montevideo, Feb. 7.—The Government forces have defeated and captured the Colorados, who recently revolted against Senor Cuestes, the Provisional President of Uruguay. Tranquility is now restored.

Knapp's Roller Boat Again.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Frederick A. Knapp of Canada, inventor of the roller boat, has found financial backing in this city, and a seagoing vessel, modeled after his designs, is about to be constructed.

Cheerful, Though Blind.

"Doesn't it seem strange that the average person afflicted with hopeless blindness should have a cheerful disposition?" remarked a philosophic citizen. "You'll generally find the blind good natured."

"Did it never occur to you that they're happier that way than they would be if they regained their sight?" asked his companion, a prominent physician. "Let me cite a case in point. Some years ago I was called in to prescribe for an estimable old woman who was suffering from a slight cold. She was utterly blind and had been so for 40 years. I took a look at her eyes and immediately came to the conclusion that her sight could be restored. Her blindness had come upon her when she was about 30 years old, and at that time the science of ophthalmology was in its infancy.

"She was delighted at the prospect of regaining her vision and put herself under the care of a specialist. Her sight was soon restored to her, but it made her a changed woman. She had been cheerful and happy before, but now she became misanthropic and peevish. Everything was changed for her. For 40 years she had carried in her memory the bright, rosy faces of her children. Now, when she saw them as gray haired men and women, she was disappointed, completely disillusionized. And so it was with many other things. The beautiful dreams of her blindness were better than the visual realities."—Philadelphia Record.

AGONCILLO IN CANADA

The Political Agent of the Filipinos Just Escaped Arrest.

FURTHER NEWS OF THE FIGHT.

Story of the American Charge Upon the Filipinos' Position—A Fierce Conflict in Which 45 Americans Lost Their Lives and 55 Were Wounded—One Canadian Injured.

Montreal, Feb. 7.—Senor Agoncillo, the political agent of the Filipinos, and his secretary, Senor Marti, arrived yesterday morning by the Delaware & Hudson train from New York, and they are staying at the Windsor Hotel.

Agoncillo is a thin, wiry man, of olive complexion and Mongolian type of features, apparently about 35 years of age. To a reporter he said:

"I cannot help thinking that the accounts of the fighting that has taken place are greatly exaggerated, but I have no official information to give with regard to that, for the simple reason that all my despatches have been intercepted in the United States. That is why we are here. In Canada I am on British soil, and no doubt my despatches from the Philippines will come to hand.

"My future movements will be governed entirely by the nature of the communications I receive from the Filipino Government. I am their only accredited representative in this country.

"There is no Junta in Washington. I have been in communication with certain people there, but in no sense of the word would they be said to form a Junta. We have fought a long fight against 377 years of Spanish domination, oppression and tyranny. A few months ago we were glad to hail the Americans as allies in our fight for deliverance, and we certainly never dreamed that we were only about to free our island from the domination of one foreign power in order to give it to another. Perhaps you will better appreciate the position when I say that as the result of Admiral Dewey's victory Manila was surrendered by Spain. That means, as you will observe from this map of the Philippines, printed in English, as you see, that the United States acquire 148 square miles of territory and a population of 800,000 souls. To say that by conquering Manila they have acquired the whole of the Philippines would be tantamount to saying that by acquiring Montreal you have acquired the whole of Canada. In fact you may say the whole of the country is ours.

"That the country is generally enjoying the blessings of a peaceful and stable government is evident. We cannot understand how circumstances recognize any right on the part of the United States to govern the whole of the islands, which number several hundreds, and contain a population of over nine millions. Aguinaldo's headquarters are at Malolos, in the Province of Bulacan, about 30 miles from Manila. He is firmly entrenched there, with an army of between 20,000 and 25,000. They are irregular troops, but they are well armed, and as the result of their repeated insurrections against Spain, they are excellent fighters. I should think that at the present time the Americans have an effective fighting force of about 20,000 there, and they have about ten men-of-war, including the Olympia, the Baltimore, the Petrel, the Concord, the Boston, the McCulloch and two monitors. The country round Manila is exceedingly favorable to irregular warfare.

"Spain could not surrender the Philippine Islands to America for the simple reason that the islands were not her's to give. They have been bought and paid for by the lives of thousands of Filipinos, which had been sacrificed on the altar of Liberty."

Preparing to Arrest Agoncillo.

Washington, Feb. 7.—It is no secret now that the authorities were preparing to arrest Agoncillo just as he fled, but probably they are not sorry that he got off safely, and thus relieved them from the performance of a disagreeable task. The conduct of the remaining members of the Philippine Junta is still under close watch, and, while the treatment to be accorded them has not been determined, it is recognized that they are in a precarious position legally, and can secure immunity only by the exercise of the greatest discretion.

A PRELIMINARY BRUSH.

There Are Two Sides to the Story—Aguinaldo's Orders.

Hongkong, Feb. 7.—Yesterday afternoon the Filipino Junta issued another statement, reiterating the allegations of the first and asserting that, despite the fact of the American control of the cable, the Junta's version proves that the fighting was only an outpost brush, due to American aggression. This second statement says: "General Aguinaldo had given special orders to the commanders to prevent hostilities unless the Americans violated their agreement by forcing the Filipino lines." The Junta professes indignation that President McKinley's order to Gen. Otis to check aggression was not obeyed.

PUZZLED AMERICANS.

Can They Legally Drive Out the Filipinos Before Spain Has Ratified the Treaty?—A Middle View.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The important news in Washington yesterday was the ratification of the peace treaty and the receipt of lists of casualties from General Otis. As to the change in conditions wrought by the ratification of the treaty yesterday, there is variance of views, and Adjutant-General Corbin and Second Assistant Secretary Adee of the State Department were giving the matter attention, with the idea of being able to send full instructions for his future guidance to General Otis immediately. The extreme view on one side is that until the Spanish Government ratifies the treaty it is not of legal effect. According to that view, therefore, the United States Government is stopped from proceeding beyond their lines at Manila for the time. By the other extreme view the United States Government is free to do just as it pleases in the entire group of islands, and will, therefore, proceed at once to complete the military occupation of the islands. Perhaps there is justification for this last view in the fact that the Filipinos were Spanish subjects nominally when they broke the terms of the protocol, and thereby release the United States from its observance.

A medium view, and that which is likely to be followed, is that General Otis is justified in doing anything that is necessary to protect his army and all American and foreign interests in Manila.

The Peace Treaty Ratified.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The treaty of peace negotiations between the commissioners of the United States and Spain at Paris was yesterday ratified by the United States Senate, the vote being 57 ayes to 27 nays, or one vote more than the two-thirds majority necessary to secure Senatorial concurrence in a treaty document.

The vote was taken in executive session.

THE CASUALTIES.

Ernest Scott of Bracebridge, Ont., Wounded—The Filipinos' Losses—Story of the Fight—American Losses.

Manila, Feb. 7.—Careful estimates place the Filipino losses up to date at 2,000 dead, 3,500 wounded and 5,000 taken prisoners.

A circumstantial account of the fight between the Filipinos and the Americans on Sunday says that owing to the distance embraced in the scene of Sunday's engagement, a semi-circle of fully 17 miles, details regarding individual fighting have been extremely difficult to obtain.

So far as can be gathered the brush commenced at 8.45 o'clock on Saturday evening, by the firing of a Nebraskan sentry at Santa Mesa upon Filipinos who were deliberately crossing the line after repeated warnings, with the evident purpose of drawing our fire.

The first shots from the American sentry evidently served as a signal, for there followed almost immediately a terrific fusilade along the entire Filipino line on the north side of the Pasig River.

The American outposts returned the fire with such vigor that the Filipino fire was checked until the arrival of reinforcements. All the troops in the vicinity were hurried out, and the Filipinos ceased firing for half an hour, while their own reinforcements arrived.

At 10 o'clock the fighting was resumed, the Americans' firing line consisting of the 3rd Artillery, the Kansas and Montana regiments, the Pennsylvanians, the Nebraskans, the Utah battery, the Idahos, the Washingtons, the Californians, the Fourth Cavalry, North and South Dakotas, Colorados, Sixth Artillery and Fourteenth Infantry. The Filipinos concentrated their forces at three points, Caloocan, Santa Mesa and Galingatan, and maintained an intermittent fusilade for some hours.

They brought artillery into action at Galingatan at 10.30, but only one gun annoyed the Americans to any appreciable extent. A howitzer on the road beyond Santa Mesa. The Third Artillery silenced the Galingatan battery by firing two guns simultaneously, which was followed by volleys from the infantry.

At about midnight there was a lull in the firing, lasting until 3.45 a.m., when the whole Filipino line reopened fire. The Americans poured a terrific fire into the darkness for 20 minutes, and then there was another lull until daylight, when the Americans generally advanced.

During the night, in response to Rear Admiral Dewey's signals flashed across from Cavite, the United States cruiser Charleston and the gunboat Concord, stationed at Malabon, poured a deadly fire from their secondary batteries into the Filipino trenches at Caloocan.

At daylight the United States double-turret sea-going monitor opened fire off Malate, and kept shelling the Filipinos' left flank, while the other vessels shelled the enemy's right flank for several hours.

By 10 o'clock the Americans had apparently completely routed the enemy, and had taken the villages of Palawpong, Santa Mesa, Paco, Santana, San Pedro, Macorte, Pandacan and Pasai, and destroyed hundreds of native huts, and had secured possession of the water main and reservoir, a distance of over six miles.

The Tennessees joined the firing line at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning and assisted in capturing Santa Mesa.

THE AMERICAN CASUALTIES.

List Contains the Name of One Canadian Who Was Wounded.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Bulletins sent by General Otis from Manila to the War Office here give a list of 45 killed and 55 wounded. The list contains the name of one Canadian wounded. This is Ernest Scott of Company B, First Idaho Infantry. He is only 24 years of age, and was born at Bracebridge, Ont.

Warships Shelled a Train.

Hongkong, Feb. 7.—The latest advices from Manila say that the rebel forces have been driven back ten miles, and their losses are estimated at 1,900 killed or wounded. During the fighting the United States warships shelled a train loaded with insurgents.

News From Spanish Sources.

Madrid, Feb. 7.—Despatches from Manila describe a conference between Gen. Otis and Aguinaldo, some days back, at which, when Aguinaldo learned of the "intention of the Americans to attack and capture Iloilo and other ports," he declared that he would begin hostilities if the United States sent any reinforcements to the Philippines. The conference failed to arrive at any understanding. According to the same despatches, it would seem that the insurgents lack ammunition, as they have been seeking to purchase it everywhere, and have been offering high prices. They recently gave it out that Gen. Rios had delivered to them 5,000 Mauser rifles and 2,000,000 cartridges in exchange for prisoners, but this General Rios denies.

Liverpool and Chicago Again Register a Net Decline in Wheat Prices—The Latest Quotations.

Monday Evening, Feb. 6.

At Liverpool to-day spot wheat declined ½d to 1½d per cental. Liverpool futures opened nearly 1d lower over Sunday and closed at about the same figure. Paris wheat was unchanged to 5 centimes higher than on Saturday, with flour unchanged.

Chicago's wheat market continued on the down grade this morning, and on selling by St. Louis and an increase in the visible supply the price of the May option fell to 71⅞, nearly a cent below Saturday's close. At this juncture commission house buying became a feature and May recovered to 72¼c and closed at that figure, ⅜c per bushel higher than on Saturday. The fluctuations in July wheat were less marked, but that option declined ½c early, and then rallied to the extent of a cent a bushel. The professional bull continues to try to put up the market, in spite of legitimate conditions.

Visible and Afloat.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has increased 411,000 bushels; that of corn has increased 1,069,000 bushels, and that of oats has increased 13,000 bushels.

To recapitulate, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 58,664,000 bushels, against 55,706,000 bushels a week ago, and 60,362,000 bushels a year ago.

He Did It.

The Philadelphia Record tells of a teacher who had just finished explaining the use of the ditto marks, when she noticed one of her young searchers for knowledge searching for it in a half dime novel. So she made him stay after school and told him to write the sentence "Always pay attention" 100 times.

In a very short time he gave a glad shout, "I've did it!"

"What kind of language is that!" she remarked severely. "And you surely haven't had time to do it."

"Well, I'm done it, then—anyhow, here it is." He held up his paper. The sentence was written once at the top, and the remaining surface was covered with dots.

"But you haven't done it," she exclaimed.

He gazed at her scornfully.

"Course I have. Them's ditto marks. Made 'em 99 times. They're good things." What else was there to do but to let him go at once, which she did?

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Westbound Mail Train Kills Three and Injures Several People in a Pitch-in at Imlay City.

Imlay City, Mich., Feb. 7.—Chicago & Grand Trunk passenger train No. 1, westbound, plunged full speed into passenger train No 6, eastbound, while the latter was standing at the station here yesterday. The results of the crash were fatal and otherwise disastrous.

The killed were: Engineer Fairbanks of the westbound train; Edward Reid of Lennox, Mich., mail clerk of westbound train; Thomas Stuart of Lansing, mail clerk, eastbound train.

The injured are: Engineer Mahan of the eastbound train, several ribs broken; —. Burns of Lapeer, leg broken; Ripley White of Lapeer, and — English, Strathroy, Ont., bruised.

Both trains were fast mail trains. The eastbound was standing near the station, waiting for the coming train to pass it, according to custom. The latter, instead of slackening and stopping, crashed into No. 6. The employes of the westbound train and the passengers of the eastbound suffered the most. The locomotives were both badly wrecked, and the mail cars were jammed across the tracks. All the passenger coaches remained on the tracks. It is thought that Engineer Fairbanks of train No. 1, which should have stopped before reaching the switch, mistook a freight train on a siding for the passenger train, and did not slacken speed. The indications are that train No. 1 was responsible for the accident.

Heads for Bridges.

A curious scare ran through the province of Assam, in India, recently, which it took the officials some time to understand. The story was that Queen Victoria wanted five children's heads from each village.

The Bengali coolies were frantic, asking for axes and knives to defend their families, factories were fortified, watch being kept all night, and in some villages all the inhabitants hid themselves.

Their heads, they believed, were wanted to put under the foundation of a great bridge being built. It is the tradition among these people that their ancestors placed human victims under the great prehistoric monoliths.

Mounted Nurses.

There are "mounted" nurses in India in connection with the army. The Indian Government now grants a monthly allowance of 80 rupees for the keep of a horse to each lady of the Indian nursing service. These mounted nurses must all be ladies of good social position, and they are required to undergo three years' training in a general hospital. They are called Her Majesty's Nursing Sisters, and may be ordered on active service in any war. As a reward for special service, they receive the Order of the Royal Red Cross.

FOOD THAT INJURES.

THINGS THAT AFFLICTED PERSONS SHOULD NOT EAT.

If You Have a Tendency to Gout, Shun Meat as You Would Torture. A Little Advice to the Great Army of Sufferers From Dyspepsia.

A physician, writing in the Philadelphia Inquirer on "Foods and Their Effect on the Human System," says:

That out of sorts feeling from which most of us suffer half the days of our life is usually due to our eating things we shouldn't. Although we are constructed on the same model, scarcely any two people have exactly the same kind of heart, liver and other organs, and as a result nothing is truer than the saying that "One man's meat is another man's poison."

Meat, for instance, is a slow poison to a number of individuals. If there is a gouty strain in your family, you are storing up future torture for yourself every time you eat a chop or piece of beef. Gout is simply the result of too much uric acid in the blood, and meat is full of the material from which uric acid is made.

You may think that so long as you have not to sit in an easy chair all day there is no need for precautions in diet. But the first symptoms are always mild, and if you feel irritable and unable to settle down to work you had better be careful how much meat you eat. Englishmen are said to be the worst tempered people on earth. They are also the most gouty, and there can be no doubt that they are the greatest meat eaters.

Nothing is more nourishing than sugar, yet it is absolutely poison to those who are prone to diabetes, and any one inclined to corpulency should regard it as a natural enemy. Two lumps of sugar per day in excess of the quantity required by the body would add 60 pounds to a man's weight in five years—that is, of course, if he had the sort of constitution that easily puts on flesh.

But it is not sugar alone which is injurious to diabetic and stout people. The former should not look at porridge, rice, beet root, Spanish onions, port wine, rum or ginger beer; the latter should take neither soup, beer, potatoes nor treacle, while gouty people should not touch peas or beans.

If any near member of your family has St. Vitus' dance or epilepsy, you should eat meat very sparingly and grapes not at all, while you might as well think of committing suicide as frequenting the barroom.

For dyspeptics it is impossible to say what food is good, because everything is bad. White bread remains undigested for hours, brown bread is most irritating and injurious, vegetables are converted into gases and painful acids, and most kinds of meat are too heavy. The dyspeptic, in fact, ought never to have been born.

However, since the sufferer from dyspepsia must eat, let him follow this rule, and it may bring relief: Eat a little of everything, but eat sparingly, never leaving the table with a sense of having eaten sufficient; eat slowly. Masticate all food thoroughly and never drink while eating. If he must drink, let him drink after he has finished eating.

No doubt the majority of people see no connection between their ailments and the breakfast or dinner which they have enjoyed. But there are many persons who are so severely affected by particular articles of diet that there is no question about the fact that some kinds of food are more or less poisonous to us all, although we may not suffer very greatly after eating them. An acquaintance of the writer's, for example, falls into convulsions if he eats a single strawberry, and even the odor of strawberry jam in the neighborhood of jam factories almost throws him into a fit.

The writer knows a lady whose heart comes to a stop if she eats an egg. Of course she never intentionally eats one now, but frequently on taking a piece of cake or some kind of pudding or sauce containing eggs she swoons.

Many people get cramp in the stomach from eating honey, and more than one death has resulted from this cause. Others are made violently sick by the smell of apples, and a patient of the writer's has often averred that even the sight of beet root seemed to suffocate him, while another had to give up drinking milk because it produced intense inflammation of the eyes.

Many kinds of fish cause serious illness. Lobsters and crabs produce most painful itching in some people, and the writer has known several who after eating salmon felt a horrid taste in the mouth, and soon after suffered so badly from headache as to be compelled to go to bed.

These latter are the extreme instances of injury from food, but they prove that thousands of people suffer in a less degree, and that probably no one can lunch or dine without swallowing something poisonous to his system.

Sufferers are at liberty to correspond with the above address and will obtain full particulars regarding the great cure.

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

Andrew B. Brown, managing editor of The Niagara Falls Record of Niagara Falls, Ont., died on Monday at Tilsonburg, Ont., where he had gone to recuperate.

W. S. Wells was elected by acclamation on Monday to fill the vacancy in the British Columbia Legislature caused by the death of Mr. Neilson in Ontario. This is a Government gain.

Mrs. Mary Kay, who died at Nelson, Ont., on Monday in her 74th year, was the relict of the late John Kay who founded the first brass works in Toronto, and settled in it from England when it was called Muddy York.

So many Chinamen smuggled themselves into the United States through the Omaha Exhibition, that a general roundup of Chinese is to be made in all cities, and Celestials who cannot show certificates are to be sent home.

Mary Hare, a servant girl of 20 years, who six months ago came from Markham to service at Mr. John Bayley's, Toronto, fell down the cellar steps on Monday morning while carrying ashes and a lighted lamp at the same time. The lamp exploded and instantly she was in flames, her head, face, arms, legs and body being so frightfully burned that she died without regaining consciousness at 5 in the afternoon.

The Fighting Mast.

In that coming naval battle between the steel fleets of two first-class powers, to which nautical authorities have been looking forward ever since modern battleships became the mighty engines of problematical forces that they are, the military mast and fighting top will play a deadly part, and be the station of danger and heroism.

As everybody knows, the old mast, the mast of yards and sails, has vanished from the modern ship of war. The Newark is the only modern ship in the United States navy which has sail carrying masts. The place of the mast that was erected for sail-carrying purposes is taken on the modern warship by a steel tower, which rises from the deck to support one, or maybe three or four circular galleries, where rapid fire or machine guns are placed, which in time of action, pour their hail of bullets at the decks and ports of the hostile ship.

The object is to kill the gunners, for it is self-evident that the most powerful gun is powerless if its crew is dead. Take the twenty rapid-fire guns distributed along the superstructure of the Indiana. From a fighting top such a storm of lead could be driven upon these great guns as would make it impossible for men to work them. Therefore, it will be one of the first duties of a warship to shoot away with its heavy guns the military mast of its adversary.

As one well-directed shot will send the mast tumbling, it is not probable that any ship will come out of an engagement with its military mast standing. The shooting away of the mast will, of course, mean the death of every man in the fighting tops. Men sent there will know as they climb the dark ladder to their stations, that they go to almost certain death, and will have only one duty before them, to kill as many of the enemy as they can before the crash comes.

Men who in turrets and sponsons below are handling the great guns have every hope of life and victory before them, but the men in the tops go to their duty with no such hopes and expectations. To man the fighting tops in action will be a kind of martyrdom especially hard to endure.

To perform deeds of valor in the face of contending armies, or to suffer with fortitude in the gaze of admiring thousands is one thing; to climb up calmly inside a steel post and work away at such an unpoetical mechanical device as a rapid-fire or machine gun until such time as it may please the enemy to blow one into "Kingdom come" is quite another thing.

NO JOKE AFTER ALL.

Each Thought It Was One Until They Began to Compare Notes.

"I went to my husband's office yesterday afternoon to get some money," said the little woman in the gray gown as she settled back in her chair to tell her "dearest friend" the latest family joke. "I was down town shopping and had spent every cent I had."

"Of course," said the dearest friend. "That's the way I always do too. Did he grumble about it?"

"No. He wasn't at his office. That's where the joke comes in."

"Joke!" exclaimed the dearest friend. "I should have thought you would have been mad enough to—to almost swear."

"I was at first," admitted the little woman in gray, "but when they told me he had gone home early I got over being mad, because I knew he'd gone home to have a quiet little chat with me before dinner, and that he'd be as mad as a hornet when he found I wasn't there. It made me laugh to think of him standing around the house swearing because I wasn't home after he'd left the office early to go to me. I didn't hurry either. I took my time, because, you know, it does a man good to have these little disappointments once in a while. If he always found his wife at home, he wouldn't half appreciate it."

"Was he very mad?" asked the friend, with interest.

"No. That's the funny part of it."

"I don't see what there is funny about that."

"Why, the servant told him I'd gone down town, intending to go to his office, and he said it made him laugh to think how mad I'd be when I found he had gone home. So he had just sat there and chuckled all the time until I came home."

"It was all right then, I suppose?" said the dearest friend.

"No, indeed it wasn't."

"But you were both in good humor?"

"No, we weren't. That's the very funniest part of the whole story. When we each found that the other thought it was a good joke, we were both so mad that we didn't speak for a whole evening."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Inspired.

"Eloquence is speaking out—out of the abundance of the heart, the only source from which truth can flow in a passionate, persuasive torrent." This remark of Julius Hare is illustrated by a story told of the eloquent Methodist bishop, the late Dr. Simpson:—

Bishop Simpson preached some years ago in the Memorial hall, London. For half an hour he spoke quietly, without gesticulation or uplifting of his voice. Then picturing the Son of God bearing our sins in his own body on the tree, he stooped as if laden with an immeasurable burden and rising to his full height he seemed to throw it from him, crying:—

"How far? As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us."

The whole assembly, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, rose, remained standing for a second or two, than sank back into their seats.

A professor of elocution was there. A friend who observed him and knew that he had come to criticise asked him when the service was over, "Well, what do you think of the bishop's elocution?"

"Elocution?" said he. "That man does not want elocution. He's got the Holy Ghost!"—Youth's Companion.

FIRST DEFEAT OF THE PETERBOROUGHS.

Varsity Turned Them Down Last Night.

THE SCORE WAS 12 GOALS TO 9.

But the Peterboroughs Hope to Win Out Yet When They Play the Collegians in Toronto on Thursday Night.

The Peterboroughs were "up against it" in earnest, last night, being beaten on their own ice, for the first time this season, by the 'Varsity team.

The defeat of the Peterboroughs will be a surprise, indeed, to the hockeyists of the Province, as there has never been a doubt existing as to the ability of the home team to vanquish the Toronto Collegians. Hockey is a slippery game, however, and surprises may be expected at any moment. The 'Varsity men are confident of being able to hold their own in the return match in Toronto on Thursday, but the second surprise of the season will be sprung, on that night, as the Peterboroughs intend reversing the score when they again meet Varsity.

The reasons advanced for Peterboroughs defeat are many and varied, but the solution of the matter can be summed up in the compound word "over-confidence." The Peterboroughs never had any doubt about beating 'Varsity. With them it was simply a —of how big a lead they could obtain on the home ice. Feeling this way the forwards did not consider it necessary to assist the defence by following the puck back when it invaded their territory. They felt that the defense men were fully capable of looking after themselves against 'Varsity, but this is just where they fooled themselves as the visitors brought the fastest lot of forwards to town that have been seen here in several years. Instead of following back, therefore, the local forwards kept well down in their opponents' territory with the idea of being there when Hollingshead would raise the puck down with one of his long lifts. But Holly wasn't getting much of a chance to lift just then, as the Varsity forwards were running and skipping all over the ice evolving the prettiest combination possible. They went by Holly like greased lightning, evaded Reynolds and were on top of Wasson like a flash, scooping shot after shot through. Before the Peterboroughs realized what they were up against, the visitors had a lead of four goals. The local defence then steadied down and the forwards got a faster move on, but the luck was running 'Varsity's way and their men realized that the Peterborough players had been caught napping for once and they proceeded to make the most of their opportunity.

QUESTION OF GOALS

No one man on the Peterboughs is to blame for the defeat. Nor any two or three either. If the whole team had played the same kind of a game as was played against Waterloo the score

WOULD HAVE BEEN DIFFERENT.

A new style of play was adopted with disastrous results. In Toronto every 'Varsity man will be checked so close that he won't have three feet to move in, and the Peterboroughs will have a look-in at the finals yet.

The game last night was refereed by Mr. Jack McMurrich, of Toronto, but he made a poor fist of his work. He was honest enough, but the 'Varsity men were able to take advantage of his easy decisions on offsides at more favourable times, apparently, than the local team.

The two teams paraded for play as appended at 8.37 o'clock:

Peterborough.			Varsity.
Wasson	goal		Waldie
Reynolds	point		Mackenzie
Hollingshead	cover point		Darling
King	forwards		Snell
Bellegham			Broder
Crowley			Shepherd
Davidson			Wright

When the puck was faced off there was a scuffle around centre ice for a moment and then Shepherd and Snell made a race down the ice on the Peterborough goal and the former scored off a pass from the latter in half a minute.

The crowd looked on this as a mere lucky chance and cheered lustily when King banged the puck through and tied the score a minute and a half later.

The cheering for the next eight minutes, however, was very faint, as during that time Varsity raised the score to 5—1 in their own favour. Three of the goals were scored as the result of

NICE COMBINATION WORK,

Shepherd tallying two and Wright one. The other was scored by Mackenzie after a fine rush up the ice from point. The Peterboroughs now began to realize that they had a difficult proposition to solve and began to settle down to a dashing style of play. King made one of his old time rushes the length of the rink and notched a point for Peterborough. Then he and Davidson went up the rink together and "Davie" did the necessary. The score did not look so bad now, standing at 5—3. 'Varsity, however, was still on the move and scored the next goal from a scrimmage. Crowley and Bellegham then took a flying trip up the ice and the latter made the score 6—4.

Hope ran high of the local men catching the Varsity score before half-time, but all thoughts of this kind were rudely dispelled when Varsity scored two in succession. A little brightness was cast on the gloom when King scored another just before the whistle blew, leaving the score standing at 8 to 5 in 'Varsity's favour at half time.

Two minutes after play was resumed Varsity made a rush on the Peterborough goal, but Wasson stopped the shot cleverly with his stick. The puck flew up over his head giving him a as it passed. What was the surprise of the crowd to see the umpire's hand go up signifying that a game had been scored. Then there was trouble and the umpire, a Toronto man, was removed, but this didn't help matters any as the game was counted just the same. To show that they meant business in the second half as well as in the first Varsity scored the next point, making the score 10—5.

The pace now became very fast, and the Peterboroughs had clearly the best of the play until the end of the game, scoring four more goals to Varsity's two. King scored two of these and Bellegham one, as the result of nice combination work. The other goal was scored by Hollingshead, he making a final run down the ice with King as a side partner.

The score stood at 12—9 when the referee's whistle blew ending the game. The Peterboroughs came off the ice perfectly fresh, having played their opponents to a standstill. On big ice with more skating to do, the local team thinks they can set a pace which the 'Varsity men cannot stand, and so play them off their feet.

A big crowd will go to Toronto on the Grand Trunk special train Thursday afternoon at 3.30 to see them do the trick. The special returns the same night at 11.30 but the tickets are good until Saturday.

Last night Mr. Malcolm McFarlane, a well-known and highly respected resident of Keene, passed away at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Robert West, 696 George street. Matchett, town; Mrs. Robt. West, town, and one brother, Mr. Duncan McFarlane, of Otonabee. Funeral from 696 George street to-morrow at 1.30 o'clock to the Keene cemetery.

MR. J. R. STRATTON, M.P.P., RE ELECTED PRESIDENT FOR 1899.

The Annual Meeting Was Held Yesterday Afternoon in the Company's Office—A Satisfactory Statement of the Year's Business.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lock Company took place in the office of the company at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

There was a full representation of the paid up capital stock of the company at the meeting, and a large attendance of the shareholders personally.

The statement presented by the president of the company, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., was a most comprehensive one, giving in detail the operations of the company for the past year, and showing the business to be in a flourishing condition. The shareholders felt that the Board had accomplished a great deal during the year, considering the unfavourable conditions by which they were surrounded when they assumed office, brought about by the long illness and death of the late manager, Mr. Thos. Brooks.

The report was adopted unanimously. Mr. Edg. Pearse was re-appointed auditor and the old board of directors re-elected, consisting of Messrs. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Mayor Davis, Aaron Cox, R. B. McKee and T. H. Fortye.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. J. R. Stratton was elected president and Mr. R. B. McKee vice president.

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—In reference to our conversation before the committee of the council last evening, we beg to say that we have our company organized with a capital of $40,000 to enter into the manufacture of knitted underwear and are ready to proceed to order and instal our machinery, but before doing so we desire to be placed on as favourable a footing as other manufactures in town.

We purpose employing at the least from twenty-five to thirty hands, part of whom will be skilled labour, and will have to be brought from outside.

What we desire the council to do is to exempt our building and machinery from taxation for a period of ten years, and to place our factory on an equal footing with other manufactures regarding powe, that may be delivered by the town in future.

In consideration of receiving the foregoing concessions, we are willing to bind ourselves to employ at least twenty-five hands for ten months every year.

As we are anxious to get our factory going, we would ask that our request receive consideration as soon as convenient.

Yours respectfully,
R. H. KELLS.

Kidney Irregularities Developed Into Dropsy—South American Kidney Cure Cured Him

South American Kidney Cure is doing every day for hundreds what it did for this steamboat man out in Lincoln County. Through exposure while sailing he contracted kidney disease and in a short while dropsy developed, so that his legs swelled as large as stovepipes. Doctors held out no hope for his recovery. He was recommended to try this great kidney specific, with the result that in a few weeks' treatment he was able to resume his work again a cured man, feeling stronger and heartier than he had for years.—Sold by H. S. Macdonald and Ormond & Walsh.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

THE NUMBER THIRTEEN.

Time Was When It Used to Be Considered Lucky.

Abstract science has not only done much for humanity in the arts, the professions and industries, but it has also done much in brushing away the cobwebs of popular superstition, and abstract science establishes the fact that 13 in ancient times had quite a different meaning from the 13 of today. Oriental people found in 13 something divine, and hence something good. Thus it is in the folklore of the Persians, the Indians and the Hindoos.

Old Testament Jews were of the same opinion, as Biblical students well know. Thirteen cities were especially dedicated to the priestly tribe; 13 high priests descended from Aaron; 13 kings sat in the high council of the ancients; on the 13th day of the month Nisan the preparations for Passover began, and the holy incense consisted of 13 different odors.

It is well known that all the nations of the old world were in more or less intellectual rapport. The ideas of one tribe descended to the other. But it is certainly interesting to learn that the figure 13 had its sacred and divine meaning also in America of yore among the long since extinct tribes of the Incas and the Aztecs. The inhabitants of Peru counted seven days, without any particular name, in the week. Their year had seven times 52 days, or four times 13 weeks. The father was compelled to support his illegitimate child to the thirteenth year. The Aztecs had weeks of 13 days, each with a special name. Their century had 52 years or four times 13. Their public archives were of circular form, with a sun in the center of each of the 13 parts, and 13 were their tribes.

This is the brief ancient history of 13, and it may be said of modern times in Germany that even today a "baker's dozen" is 13—that is, the original 13 with one thrown in for luck.

No Wonder Jim Went.

An excited middle aged lady bounced into the local police station the other day and accosted the inspector on duty.

"Where's my Jim?" she demanded.

"Beg pardon, madam—dog, I presume?" said the officer.

"Don't you dare to presume nothing of the kind," snapped the lady. "Dog indeed! No, sir, husband—my husband. He's missing—disappeared, decamped"—

"You don't say so!"

"But I'd have you to understand that I do say so, young man. How dare you sit there and flatly contradict a ratepayer—leastways the lawful wife of one? I'll report you, sir. Do you hear that? I'll report you! Where's my husband?"

"My dear madam"—

"How dare you call me your dear madam? Do you think I come here to be insulted? I tell you my husband has decamped, and you sit there like a dummy! What do you think of that?"

"Well, madam," responded the polite inspector, "I haven't the pleasure of your husband's acquaintance, but I should say he's a very wise man. Constable Blunt, show this lady out."—Pearson's Weekly.

Second Artist (in a hoarse whisper)—Well, I was at Stodge's yesterday. He had just knocked off three little girls' heads, horrid raw things, when a dealer came in, sir, bought 'em directly, took 'em away wet as they were on the stretcher and wanted Stodge to let him have some more next week.

PATHETIC, YET LUDICROUS.

A Deaf and Dumb Father's Punishment of a Bad Boy.

"I witnessed something the other day that made me feel bad and at the same time there was a laughable phase to the affair," remarked a Denver resident.

"Something in politics of course," ventured a friend, who thought there could be no many sided affair in Colorado unless it partook of a political nature.

"No, nothing like that. Out a few doors from where I live a deaf and dumb couple have been living for several years and seem to get along with their neighbors better than any of us. The husband has good employment, and the wife is a frugal and prudent woman. So, taking everything into consideration, they have got quite a nice little home for themselves and some money ahead. But they have one thing that is not a credit to them, and that thing is in the shape of a great big, overgrown boy that is one of the meanest evidences of humanity on earth. Some day, if he is not checked, the hangman will get him; but that has nothing to do with the story.

"I was passing by the house yesterday morning and I noticed that the old man was angry at the boy. Now, the latter can talk and hear as well as anybody and rather seems to enjoy getting a crowd of boys together and then cursing the old man, just so the other boys will laugh. This time, however, the old man was mad and did not propose to allow his wayward boy to have his own way. Just as I was passing he motioned me to stop, and then, pulling his hand from behind him, brought to light what shone out in grand style as a newly purchased rawhide. Then I knew there was going to be some fun, and I walked inside the yard. Well, sir, he just grabbed that boy, nearly as large as he was, jerked him into a half upright position and then began laying on the leather. The boy began to swear and use language that would shock any neighborhood, but, of course, the father did not hear a word of it.

"The father quit a second and then coming over to where I was standing took out his pencil and paper and asked me in a line or two to tell him what the son said. I wrote out the brutal swear words just as I heard them. He read the words as I wrote them down, and then, fairly shaking with rage, returned to the boy and began anew the work. It was fully ten minutes before that boy was conquered, but when he did give in he was the most penitent fellow you ever saw. Before the old man had finished half of the neighborhood was present and congratulated him on taking the boy in hand. Here is what he wrote on a slip of paper when they suggested thanks to him:

"'I know he is a bad boy, but the Lord has made me without hearing so I cannot know these things like you can. I got a letter saying that he said bad words about his mother. That is what I punished him for. Please tell me when you hear him say bad words and help me to make a man of him.'"—Denver Times.

ONE HAPPY WOMEN.

Got Health and Happiness From Dodd's Kidney Pills.

London, Feb. 6.—This city can claim one of the happiest, healthiest woman in Canada.

Her name is Mrs. J. Osborne. She lives at 534 Grey street, and she has this to say to her sisters throughout Canada.

"For eight years my life was made miserable by Female Weakness. I used many different medicines, but none did me any good till I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"The first dose of this wonderful remedy gave me relief. I grew better with every dose, till, when I had taken three boxes, I was totally cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine on which women can confidently rely for a positive cure.

Original Parrots.

An enterprising London bird fancier once advertised his parrots, which he claimed were the most original in the world. A man called to examine and purchase one of these remarkable birds and was shown one which looked neither beautiful nor accomplished—indeed, it looked ugly and commonplace. He no sooner opened his mouth, however, than his genius discovered itself.

"What do you want for it?" asked the possible purchaser.

"Fifty pounds."

"Make it guineas!" exclaimed the parrot. The delighted customer bought him at once.

Time passed, and the bird said never a word, not even "Pretty Poll." The man sent for the dealer and thus frankly addressed him: "I have been taken in. This infernal bird is dumb."

"He only professes to make original observations," lamely argued the dealer.

"Nonsense! You have your money. At least tell me how he contrived to say, 'Make it guineas!' as so appropriate a moment. I'll forgive you if you tell the truth."

"Very good, sir. My parrots all make original observations, but only in my presence. I am a ventriloquist."

The customer then shook hands with the dealer and gave him a list of his personal friends who were also parrot fanciers and who also in due time were taken in.

Dr. A. W. CHASE

COMES TO THE AID OF

Catarrh Sufferers

SUCCESS in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from Catarrh; sometimes from Catarrh of the Stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from Catarrh somewhere, and Catarrh is another name for uncleanness.

Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice.

No self-respecting man can ignore Catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it.

There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure Catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing Catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease.

The Australian 2-year-old trotting record has been lowered to 2:59, with standing start, by a colt sired by Osterley out of a native bred dam. This colt and his sire are owned by John Robertson, Melbourne.

Dr. L. H. Tubbs of the Gentleman's Driving park, Baltimore, started Karnock, by Kalakaua, in 19 races in 1898, and was behind the money but twice. He began green, secured a record of 2:21¼, and showed a mile in 2:16¾.

The chestnut gelding Tipwald, 2:21¼, a new performer this year for Redwald, 2:28¾, by Lord Russell, is a product of Iowa, having been bred by Morris Jones, Red Oak. Tipwald is now owned by J. S. Bradley, New Berlin, N. Y.

The winnings of W. O. Foote's campaigning stable for 1898 are as follows: John Nolan, including $500 cup to the winner of the Charter Oak Stake, $15,000; Reno, $2,125; Rilma, $1,600; Parnell, Jr., $750; total for the year, $20,475.

Work of Helpmates.

I was driving through one of the best farming districts in western Ontario a few years ago. I expressed my admiration.

"Why?" was my surprised inquiry.

"Oh," he answered, "they killed their first wives making the farm!"—Perth Expositor.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 8th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 86
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of—	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

A SAFE MAKER'S SUFFERING.

Diabetes is one of the great scourges of the present day.

All the various remedies heretofore tried have failed to cure it.

Anyone suffering from it was practically doomed todeath.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

have changed all that.

They cure diabetes—cure when all else fails.

Mr. Jesse Knowles, an employee of Goldie & McCullough Co., Safe Manufacturers, Galt, Ont., tells how Doan's Kidney Pills cured him of Diabetes: "For one year past I have had severe pain in the small of my back, with rheumatic pains in both the arms. Sometimes my back felt as if it was being torn open. I was exceedingly dizzy at times and always drowsy.

The urine was orange colored with a brown sediment, and very frequent in passing, and also very great in quantity. I am sure that I had diabetes for I had every symptom of it.

I have taken 3 boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. Everything is changed now. The pain, the stupid, tired feelings have vanished and I must say that the Doan's Kidney Pills were the medicine that has effected this remarkable cure.

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Week," "The Diamond Cutters," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

"Well, I read these three documents, and this is the theory I evolved from them:—Some woman who was beautiful, accomplished, and perhaps, of high social standing, had been the favoured of this young Lauucelot of the drawing-room; he had grown weary of the flame, and she had sought to hold him; then had come Lenore Armyn, and he had grown still more neglectful. She had written him other letters full of warning and threats, but these had been returned, as he states here; probably he believed what he said, that he had retained nothing. Doubtless he was careless, hurried, even impatient, in gathering up these letters; he was disposing of the old love, you know. Well, the popular theory was that Lenore Armyn, because of her wrongs, had taken the life of her husband. Here was another who complained, who had been even more deeply wronged, perhaps; might not she have laid her plans and struck down her destroyer on his wedding night?

"I said nothing of these notes of my suspicions, but I worked to find, not only Lenore Armyn, but this other one, and then to fix the guilt where it belonged. I knew of one young lady who had been more or less talked of in connection with Clarence Arteveldt, but it seemed quite absurd to think of her as this suspected one. I had met this lady—and just here I may as well say how. One day, the second of September last, as I sat at lunch, Clarence Arteveldt sought me, saying that the house of a friend had been robbed, and more than twenty thousand dollars taken from a private desk. I hastened to the scene of the robbery, and made a minute investigation of the premises, and I at once decided that no burglar did the deed; no one had forced an entrance, and, spite of the fact that the front door was open, I did not believe that a burglar had gone away from that house after robbing it. In short, I suspected a 'put-up job,' and I began to look for the robber in the family of the robbed man. Well, I was baffled here, but a strange suspicion entered my mind, and I resolved to let the matter die down, and then to begin afresh. The young lady of the house, as I have said, had been a friend of Arteveldt's. I questioned him concerning her, and soon saw that it was a sore subject. One day he chaffed me in turn, saying that a certain George Fordham had told him that I was a frequent visitor at this house. Now, I was not aware that this Fordham was on calling terms there, and I felt a little surprised at this, and resolved to ascertain how, and to what end, Mr. George Fordham kept himself so well informed concerning me. I enquired in a careless manner, and was assured that Mr. Fordham was barely known to the lady in question. A few days before his marriage Arteveldt made, what I considered, an odd request: he asked me to ascertain, in an offhand way, what the young lady thought of his marriage with Miss Armyn. I made a mental note of this, and after the tragedy it came back to my mind.

"Now I will go back to the letters; having read these, I looked up Fordham, and talked with him about Arteveldt, and his affairs; I knew that if any one could give me information upon this subject, he was the man. But Fordham fought shy, and denied any knowledge of an old love affair; but while he denied it I saw in his eye that he lied. Next I went to Fairlie, to see what I could learn from Doctor Austin here."

Mr. Hale turned his eyes upon Dr. Austin, and saw that both he and Mr. Ferrars were smiling significantly.

"At Fairlie," pursued Bathurst, "I was surprised to find my friend and brother detective, Robert Jocelyn. He was there in pursuit of an English scoundrel, whom he had been shadowing for weeks. And now I must deviate, or seem to, again, while I put the a word concerning Rob Jocelyn.

"He had arrived in this city on the first day of last September, after five years' absence in Europe. While in London, he had been employed in working up a murder case. One Schwartz, a Jewish broker, and Rebecca Schwartz, his sister, both aged people, had been murdered by the girl-wife of the old man. Jocelyn had searched all Europe for the murderess, who had fled, taking with her a large and very valuable collection of jewels, that had been hoarded by the miserly old man. He had at last come to America, in the hope of finding Elise Schwartz on this continent.

"I was glad to come upon Jocelyn thus unexpectedly, for I wanted his help. I began to tell him my business, and described the manner of the murder, whereupon Jocelyn sprang up in great excitement, declared that Clarence Arteveldt and the Jew, Schwartz, had been killed in the same way, and he believed by the same weapon, and the same hand. The wound in the temple in each case had been made with the stylet, an instrument similar to the Spanish stiletto, but smaller and keener even than that. This statement seemed improbable; how could Lenore Armyn and this Elise Schwartz be the same? They could not; this we knew. But the stylet is a foreign weapon, little used, and the coincidence served to deepen our interest in the case."

The detective paused for a moment; his four auditors were listening with almost breathless attention; what he now stated was new alike to all.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

THE MURDERESS IS FOUND.

The detective sat in thoughtful silence for a few moments, and then resumed his story.

"I can now condense my narrative a little more, and yet make myself understood," he said. "I might say much of Lenore Armyn, for Jocelyn had made some startling discoveries concerning her while in Fairlie, but that must remain until another time. Now we must talk of the murderess.

"I told Jocelyn all that I had discovered, and all I surmised, and the next morning he started back to the city, to keep a watch upon the suspected house, and upon Mr. Fordham. My information concerning the house was this:—It had been taken a few days after Arteveldt had secured the other, by a middle-aged woman, representing herself to be a widow; she intended to open a fashionable boarding-house, she said. Now, mark this, the two houses were taken within the same week, but while that of Clarence Arteveldt was ready for its occupants many days before the wedding, the other house was still vacant on the wedding night.

"Well! Rob attended to the house, and I remained in Fairlie, as you know, for three long months.

"A few days after my return from Fairlie, I received a note from the young lady who was said to have been, at one time, a special friend of Arteveldt's and whose father had been robbed so mysteriously, and I may as well begin here to use the name of that young lady. It was Miss Aura, the adopted daughter of this gentleman, Mr. James Durand."

The lawyer turned a startled face toward Mr. Durand, but that gentleman merely nodded, and then turned his stern set face toward the detective.

"At the time of the robbery," continued Neil, "Miss Durand had with her a Miss Nina Annin, a hired companion, who was seemingly a prime favourite with the young lady of the house. I had been in the society of these two young ladies—previous to the murder—frequently; and for a purpose. And—I had assured myself that the bond between them was not that of love. But, so clever was their outward seeming, that it was impossible for me to guess which held the mastery over the other. When I called, after my three months' absence, and in response to her note, I found Miss Durand without a companion. Before going to Miss Durand's room, however, I met Mr. Durand, and, at his request, entered the room of his wife, who, he said, was slightly indisposed. I sat beside Mrs. Durand for a time, and I listened to a minute description of her symptoms. And then I knew that her slight indisposition was a creeping, insidious danger; that she was being slowly poisoned. Unseen by anyone, I took from the table near her couch, a bottle, that she had told me contained her medicine. Well, I will dispose of this part of my story, now. I took the bottle to Doctor Worthing, and he analyzed the medicine. It contained a strong mineral poison.

"Then I told Mr. Durand the truth, and convinced him that it was truth. He took his wife away from the city, starting suddenly, and taking only one servant with them. Before he went we fully understood each other. He put a woman in charge of his house, whom I had recommended, and whom I knew I could depend upon; and he did other things that will develop themselves later. His house held a dark secret, and he left me to penetrate it. Now, I must go back to that call upon Miss Durand. She had sent for me, she said, to learn something more than she already knew of the Arteveldt tragedy; she wanted to know if I had found any clue to the fugitive bride, etc. But I knew that I had not come to the true reason of her desire to see me, yet. Presently I spoke to Miss Annin, and then she managed to convey to me, under a pretence of speaking regretfully, pitifully, and affectionately of the girl, the idea that it was Miss Annin, and not herself, who had been abandoned for Lenore Armyn by young Arteveldt. She, Miss Durand, had been aware of the true state of affairs, and had suffered herself to be misrepresented, for the sake of her friend. But she had been obliged to give Miss Annin up; and then, in the same soft, insinuating way, she said enough to make me understand that Miss Annin was the one who had robbed Mr. Durand, and that she, Miss Aura, had done all that she could to shield her. Out of pity, of course. Then I knew why she had sent that note. She wanted to place Miss Annin under suspicion. As I was about to go I asked Miss Aura if she could give me the address of Miss Annin. She replied, that Miss Annin was at present stopping with a Mrs. Rogers, who kept a boarding-house, and who was said to be her aunt. Well, this I knew already, and I knew too, that 'Mrs. Rogers' boarding-house' was the very one then under suspicion—the house next that of the late Clarence Arteveldt. Having satisfied myself on this point, I next asked Miss Aura if she would give me a scrap of Miss Annin's handwriting. She hesitated for a time, and then said that she would if I would give her my word not to use it to the injury of Miss Annin. I promised this readily; and then she said that she could not then put her hand upon the writing of her late companion—but would look for some and send it to me through the mail. I had told her that I would leave town again very soon. While we were conversing, and, just after being assured by Miss Aura that she and her late companion did not visit each other, a servant announced Miss Annin; and before Miss Aura could utter a word, Miss Annin herself sailed into the room. Of course I withdrew; but—I paused outside the door long enough to hear Miss Aura say, in a cold, angry voice:—'What do you want now?'

"'One thousand dollars,' replied Miss Annin, coolly.

"And then Miss Aura exclaimed, 'What, more money?'

"I had heard enough to give me something to think of, and I hurried away then. You must remember that this was before Mr. Durand took his wife away. On the day the poisoning was discovered, in fact.

"Many things engaged my time for days after that, and when next I called at Mr. Durand's house, he, as I was well aware, was away with his wife. Mrs. Richards, the woman who was left in charge of the house, was under my instructions, and I knew how things were moving there. Miss Aura, in the meantime, had sent me the asked-for specimen of Miss Annin's writing, and, as I fully expected, it was the same as those two notes that I took from among the papers in Clarence Arteveldt's room. I had found pretexts for writing Miss Durand several notes, and of course they had been answered, so you will see that I had now what were supposed to be samples of the penmanship of both Miss Aura and her quondam companion.

"One day Miss Aura sent for Mrs. Richards, the new housekeeper; she had received several letters that morning, among them one from Mr. Durand. This letter informed her in the pleasantest and kindest manner, that he, Mr. Durand, had just discovered that he had a nephew living, the son of an only brother, and that therefore he could not, as had always been expected, make her his sole heiress. She would, of course, marry well, and he owed a duty to this nephew, etc. He finished by saying that this nephew, Mr. Charles Durand, would arrive in the city almost as soon as did his letter, and that he should leave it to Miss Aura to entertain him properly in the house that was henceforth to be his home. Now some young ladies might have been angry, even prejudiced against this young man who had come between her and a fine fortune. But Miss Aura sent for Mrs. Richards, told her that a favourite nephew of her 'papa's' was about to arrive, and desired that every honour should be paid the young man.

"While she was talking, Mrs. Richards surreptitiously picked from the ashes of the grate a crumpled-up letter that had doubtless been thrown there to burn, but that had fallen short of the flames. It was a note from Miss Annin, and a very commanding one. That note is now in my possession.

THE LIGHT THAT SAVES.

One dark night during the siege of Santiago Harbor a Spanish Torpedo boat darted out under cover of darkness to launch its deadly missile against an American war vessel. If she had been struck she would have gone to the bottom. What saved her? Was it her big 13-inch guns? No, it was her search-light: the dazzling white beam of light that shot straight out like a sword-thrust through the darkness, revealed the approaching danger.

What is it that saves thousands of men from death every day in the year when the deadly foe of disease is creeping unsuspected upon them? It is the white light of science; the educated understanding that reveals the source of danger and indicates the exact point of attack.

While the ordinary doctor gropes around, with the feeble tallow-candle light of stereotyped, conventional, routine treatment, a physician like Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., instantly illuminates the subject with the clear day-light ray of practical knowledge; the irresistible search-light of advanced and life-sustaining science.

"I was afflicted for four years," says John F. Zingsheim, Esq., of No. 9 Lark St., Amsterdam, N. Y., in an earnest letter to Dr. Pierce. "My suffering was extreme and the trouble gradually increased notwithstanding the fact that I tried many different kinds of treatment. After becoming physically incapacitated and unable to work at all, and after much hesitation, I wrote you. I am very happy to state that your advice has done me great good. You advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and also his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I must here state that they have cured me. I wish to thank you most heartily for what you did for me. All suffering has vanished and I have gained about twenty-five pounds in weight. I used only one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one vial of the 'Pellets.'"

HEALTH OF THE TOWN IS STILL EXCELLENT.

THE DEATH RATE FOR '98 BELOW THE AVERAGE.

The Medical Health Officer Presents his Annual Report—Mr. Benj. Shortly Re-elected to the Chairmanship.

The annual meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon in the town clerk's office, with the chairman, Mr. Benj. Shortly, in the chair, the other members present being Messrs. George Burnham, M. D., Robt. Innes and Adam Hall, as well as Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, and George I. Roszel, Chief of Police and Sanitary Inspector.

Dr. Clarke submitted his annual report as appended :—

THE MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT.

To the Chairman and Members of the Peterborough Board of Health:

GENTLEMEN,—During the year 1898 the town has remained in the same healthy condition that has characterised recent years. The bill of mortality has been small and the ratio of infectious diseases low. No epidemic has visited us, in fact it would seem with the sanitary measures now in constant operation, as if genuine epidemics were a thing of the past. We may except that mysterious disease la grippe, or epidemic influenza, as it is called in England, which has hitherto eluded the most searching investigation, notwithstanding some reports to the contrary. No sanitary precautions at present known are of any avail to check its progress. It is probably due to some germ more minute and more easily diffused than any yet discovered. Its future study will rest largely in the hands of microscopic manufacturers. As soon as they can give us more powerful instruments fuller developments may take place.

DEATH RATE.

In 1897 this was 11.3 per thousand, the lowest known in Peterborough, which I said could hardly be maintained. In 1898 it was 13.3 per thousand, still a very low rate. It must be remembered that when sanitary operations began the rate was 19 per thousand. The difference between 19 and 13 per thousand means a saving of more than sixty lives each year. Such is the effect of a general improvement in the sanitary condition of the town and isolation and disinfection in case of infectious disease. It cannot be too often repeated that if you have an epidemic of disease it cannot be altogether checked by cleaning up at the time. It is then too late, the germs are set free and the mischief is done. Just as wise nations in time of peace prepare for war, so in time of health we should prepare for disease. Persistent work has its reward not only in preventing disease to a large extent, but in lessening its violence when it does come.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

Consumption, now usually classed as an infectious disease, leads with 20 deaths. In 1897 it also claimed 20 victims. The ratio to the total number of deaths is thus: 1 to 6 or 7. It cannot be wondered at that some stir is being made all over the civilized world as to the ravages of this disease. Regarding the number of cases now existing, it is impossible to speak with certainty, as they are not reported. Indeed such a course would be cruel, as the disease is considered incurable, and no medical man would care to take the last ray of hope from his patient and have him registered as a consumptive, as is proposed in certain quarters. The proper course is to agitate and endeavour to educate and stir up public opinion to do away with the causes which tends to its propagation. When public opinion has reached a certain stage, legislation may be introduced with effect, but not before.

As to other infectious diseases, there has been more typhoid and less diphtheria. There were 26 cases of typhoid or typho-malarial fever with 3 deaths. The cause of these was not general but local—bad drainage and bad wells were responsible. The extension of the sewerage and water systems, if accompanied by proper plumbing, will remedy the former, while more care in the ventilating of wells, more frequent cleaning out and removal of old woodwork will stop the latter. Twenty-one cases of diphtheria occurred without a death and twenty-eight cases of scarlet fever, also without a death. By careful isolation and disinfection these cases were confined to their starting point. I do not remember a single instance in which the disease may be said to have spread. Isolated cases will probably occur for years. It is just as with mustard on a farm. The seeds have so much vitality that they linger in places for years after the most careful attempts at eradication.

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

No complaint has been heard during the year respecting the nuisances arising from slaughter houses. As to Matthews' Packing House very few complaints have been made, a new up-to-date apparatus having recently been put in for the purpose of drying the unused parts of the animal and disposing of the unpleasant odors arising th refrom.

WATER AND ICE.

No complaint has been made as to the water supplied by the Peterborough Water Co. I have examined samples occasionally and always found it pure, that is as pure as water for drinking purposes need be. As to wells, over 100 samples were brought to me for analysis. Some were found very bad this year, necessitating a thorough renovation. Pumps and platforms are sometimes allowed to become too old, and in addition to the changes in the wood, become coated in the inside of the log with organic slime, which forms a nidus for bacterial growth. Even if the well is cleaned every year this remains. The only remedy is changing logs oftener. I have also examined pieces of ice occasionally and found nothing to complain of.

MILK AND MEAT.

A few complaints have been made as to the quality of milk sold in town, but upon investigation were found to amount to very little practically. I believe the milk dealers generally supply a good article, the principal fault in some cases being, as in other years, a lack of cream. As milk is an active, or rather passive, germ-carrier, the question whether any of the diseases with which we have been afflicted have been caused by it is important but very difficult to determine. It will probably be considered necessary to reject the milk of cows showing the slightest suspicion of tuberculosis, or even to destroy the animals, but as this involves much expense, its thorough enforcement remains for the future. I might say that in two or three samples of milk sent in the impurities were evidently due to careless washing of the cows' udders. This is apt to be done in a perfunctory manner, but from a sanitary point of view it is very important. As to meat, several fowls and parts of animals have been brought to me for examination regarding their fitness for use. I need only say that when a person feels a doubt as to the soundness of his meat he had better discard it. Imagination goes a long way and, consequently, all articles of food should be above suspicion.

VACCINATION.

Some alarm has been caused on two or three occasions as to the possibilities of an outbreak of smallpox, some isolated cases having occurred in different parts of the province, and this has brought the question of vaccination to the front again. It was proposed by some that a general vaccination be made of the school children, but unless there is urgent necessity for such a procedure—which did not appear—it is not advisable to have this done in cold weather, as the dangers of erysipelas, ulcers, etc., are thereby much increased. In England, the home of vaccination, the rule has been that all children must be vaccinated before they are three months of age, but an amendment has recently been passed permitting any one who has conscientious objections to the practice to claim exemption on those grounds from the requirements of the law. This has been taken advantage of so extensively, as to create an alarm in certain quarters. The question is this: Is vaccination protective? Is it necessary? Is it possible that smallpox is dying a natural death? There is some probability that types of disease, as a whole, have their periods of growth and decay independent of the operations of man. Just as certain races of men, certain types of fauna or flora rise, flourish and die out, so the life of a disease may on a much larger scale be similar to the life of the individual germ. Disease may be so weakened by transmission of its vital energy through countless generations of organized material as to lose its baneful effect. But at present it behooves us to be conservative in a matter affecting the life and welfare of the race to such a tremendous extent and as regards a practice which has given such grand results in the past, I say, then, vaccinate and keep on vaccinating—who knows in what old house germs of the Montreal epidemic of years ago may not be hidden awaiting the tearing down of the structure by some contractor to be let loose throughout the country again. Let us prove all things and hold fast that which is good. Vaccination has been proved to be good, so let us stick to it.

CONSUMPTION.

Every word I said last year regarding this scourge might be repeated with the emphasis of much greater authority this year. The conference held in England not long ago by distinguished men of all classes shows how public attention is being aroused on this subject. A point brought out by Sir Wm Broadbent at that meeting is of importance. After showing that consumption is not a hereditary but an infectious disease propagated by spats, which pass into the air and then into the lungs, he shows that even the spats of healthy people may contain the germs of tubercle. That is to say that a certain soil is necessary for their development, what is harmless to one being fatal to another. The great practical lesson to be derived from all this is that expectoration in public or in private ought to be discouraged. Spittoons in hotels and other public places ought to be frequently and thoroughly disinfected. Families can easily make their own arrangements for the destruction of sputa, and the public should lay in a liberal supply of handkerchiefs, which ought to be well disinfected after use. By such means as these the multiplication of germs will be greatly lessened, and much done to eradicate a disease which often selects as its victims the fairest and best of the race.

PLUMBING INSPECTION.

I would again strongly urge the appointment of a capable inspector, as nothing is more productive of disease than defective plumbing. Diphtheria, typhoid, malaria, neuralgia, undefined sensations, of general debility and derangement of health. All this, and more too, are caused by the escape of sewer gas, which may occur from a hole imperceptible, unless by the most careful tests. The recognition of this fact has made great changes in plumbing, both as regards plans of construction and material used. The object now is not merely to carry off sewage in any sort of a rough way as to see that the pipes and joints are absolutely impermeable and likely to remain so, in spite of the corrosive influences to which they are subjected. I have examined a good deal of the plumbing that has been put in during the year, and while the work appears to be satisfactory the opinion of a proper inspector is desirable in future. A slight mistake might cost many lives.

HOUSE TO HOUSE INSPECTION.

The sanitary inspectors have carried this on in a more systematic manner than ever before. Where so much ground has to be gone over it is important to see that it is done well and each year brings with it improvement in methods. The cleaning of yards and closets, as well as the removal of garbage and excreta is very well carried out as is shown by the decrease in the number of notices which have had to be served.

CONFECTIONERY AND BAKESHOPS.

The products of these important industries being so intimately connected with the health of the community have necessitated closer inspection than ordinary, both as regards sanitary surroundings and purity of water used. I am glad to say that there has been nothing to complain of in either respect.

The chairman and members of the Board have taken an active interest in the furtherance of sanitary measures during the year. As I have said before individual effort is the most valuable of all; for it leads to larger measures. We have every reason to be gratified with the sanitary condition of the town but increasing work is necessary to preserve it.

I remain, gentlemen,
Your oldest servant,

GEO. I. ROSZEL,
Chief of Police and Sanitary Inspectors.

The chairman complimented Dr. Clarke on the lucidity of the report, which was received and adopted as the report of the Board to be forwarded to the Provincial Medical Health Officer.

The Board then adjourned and re-organized for the coming year.

Mr. Benj. Shortly was re-elected chairman for 1899.

The matter of passing a Plumbers' By-law and appointing a plumbing inspector, was thoroughly discussed, and the necessity for such action shown. A motion was passed requesting the council to act in the matter at once.

The meeting adjourned until the call of the chair.

Chronic Bronchitis Cured.

Mr. Charles E Reid, the leading druggist of Revelstoke, B C., says: "I have every reason to believe Griffith's Menthol Liniment will cure chronic bronchitis. A lady customer says she has been troubled with chronic bronchitis for years, and that three bottles of Menthol Liniment have entirely cured her. It always gives the best of satisfaction to my customers." Sold by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough.

LOONS TAKEN ALIVE.

The Curious Trick Resorted to by Some Hunters In Newfoundland.

In the year 1882, being engaged in railway construction in Newfoundland by an American syndicate, I was camped at a little place called Lance Cove, on the shore of Conception bay. One beautiful summer evening as I returned to camp to dinner I noticed two loons on a small lake close by, and after satisfying a rather extensive appetite I took a 12 bore shotgun and a few wired S. S. G. cartridges and proceeded to the lakeside. A glance showed me that there was not sufficient cover to warrant hope of a successful shot. After trying two without result and on rising to go back to camp I was met by five or six men from a grading gang, also camped there, who asked me if I desired to get the loons. I replied that if the cover was good I could get probably one, but, as it was, I had no hope of doing so. One of them—and I subsequently learned that they belonged to Smith's Sound, Trinity bay—replied that if I wished they would get the loons for me. Having heard of the remarkable skill of these Newfoundland fishermen in shooting sea birds, seals, etc., with their enormous muzzle loading guns, my curiosity was aroused as to the method they proposed to employ, thinking, of course, they meant to shoot the birds. I at once assented to the proposal and the men immediately proceeded to push into the water two small boats that were at the side of the lake.

I was astonished at the noisy manner in which this was done and more so at the subsequent proceedings. After the boats were afloat each man picked up an armful or two of small stones and placed them in the bow of the boat. They then got in and shoved off. One boat pulled direct for the birds and the other in another direction. Of course on the approach of the boat the birds dived, and after a little time came up not far from the second boat, from which one of the men at once threw a stone, sending the birds down instantly. Both boats again pulled away in different directions, and in a little time the loons again came up not far from one of the boats and were again instantly driven down by the use of the stones. This was repeated again and again. After a little time the birds began to take very short dives and finally, strange as it may appear, these men drowned, as they termed it, the birds by not giving them breathing time. The birds were unable to dive and one after the other lay over on its side on the surface and both were lifted into the boat alive.

It was the most singular and suprising proceeding I ever witnessed.—New York Sun.

Dodd's Kidney Pills' Cures are Simply Marvellous.

People Read of New Cures Every Day—All are Genuine—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mr. C. S. Griggs, of Hamilton, of Bright's Disease.

HAMILTON, Feb. 6.—"I never knew anything like the way these testimonials to the efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills, in Kidney Diseases, appear in the newspapers," said a citizen, a couple of evenings ago, as he laid down his paper, after having read one of the testimonials.

"How is that?" queried his friend.

"Well, no matter what paper you take up, you find in it the narrative of a cure of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. And, mind you, every time it is a new case that's talked about. They don't harp on the one case all the time, so, if they are all true, Dodd's Kidney Pills must be curing people by thousands."

"Don't you think the testimonials are true?' questioned his friend.

"Oh yes, I know they are. Now here's a case that I've investigated :—

"Mr. C. S. Griggs, a carpenter, who lives at 151 Queen street south, Hamilton, says he was told eight years ago, that he had Bright's Disease. He couldn't get any relief, let alone a cure, till he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. He used three boxes of that remedy, and was completely cured by them."

"I don't know how many Hamilton people have been cured of Kidney Diseases by Dodd's Kidney Pills, but the number must be enormous, for hardly a week passes that I don't see a testimonial from one of our citizens, in the papers."

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are a great medicine—the only Kidney Cure under the sun."

A FIGHT ON TUESDAY.

Two Americans Killed and Six More Wounded.

FILIPINOS UTTERLY ROUTED.

General Otis Gives the U. S. Casualties to Date as 49 Killed and 148 Wounded—His Latest Bulletin—Further Details of the First Fight at Manila—The Insurgent Proclamation.

Manila, Feb. 8.—(1 a.m.)—Lieut. A. L. Ford, company I, 20th Kansas Infantry, and a private of that company were killed, and six other members of the regiment were wounded near Caloocan last evening, while reconnoitering. The party was in a jungle, when it was attacked by the enemy. Two companies of the Kansas regiment were sent to the relief of their comrades and drove the Filipinos into Caloocan, penetrating to the very heart of the town. Meanwhile the gunboats shelled the suburbs. General Otis finally recalled the troops, but the natives, misunderstanding the retreat, failed to take advantage of it. The outskirts of the town were burned.

MANILA PARTICULARS.

Would Show That the Filipinos Suffered Great Loss and Were Routed.

Manila, Feb. 7.—(10.30 a.m.)—Late yesterday General Hales' brigade advanced and took the waterworks at Singalon. Four companies of the Nebraska Regiment and a part of the Utah Battery, with two field guns and two Hotchkiss guns, met the enemy on the hill a half a mile out, and a sharp engagement took place, in which the Nebraskans lost one dead and three wounded.

The Nebraskans have recovered the lost parts of the pumping machinery of the waterworks, which assures a speedy resumption of the water supply of the city.

Dr. Young, formerly quartermaster-sergeant in the Third Artillery, was wounded, captured and brutally murdered, and his body, when recovered, was found to have been horribly mutilated.

The Filipinos were driven back, retiring in bad order, and carrying with them valves and heads of the steam chest and cylinder of the pumping machinery.

General Overshine's brigade advanced and took Paranaque, capturing two field guns. They met with no opposition.

General McArthur's division advanced beyond Gagalangin without loss, the enemy retreating upon Caloocan.

The Americans now have the steamer line to Malabon, and 600 marines, with four Maxims, have been landed from the fleet on the beach north of the city.

The Third Artillery, on the main road, and the Utah Battery, in a cemetery, covered the advance of the Kansas troops.

Among the important points captured was a strong embrasured earthwork within sight of Caloocan.

An Utter Rout Claimed.

While a few detached bodies of the enemy still offer desultory opposition, the main body of the rebels is in full retreat and utterly routed.

Of the hordes of troops originally drawn up in battle array against the Americans, fully one-third are incapacitated, and others are scattered in every direction.

The terrible loss of the rebels may be gathered from the fact that 100 of them were buried in one rice field on Monday, near Pasay, and that 87 were interred between Paco and Santa Ana.

The correspondent of the Associated Press is informed that some members of the hospital corps have made the startling discovery that there are several women, in masculine uniform and with hair cropped, among the dead.

Hundreds of women refugees are pouring into Manila from all directions, as the villages around Manila have, as rule, been destroyed by the troops.

Artificer Hays of Co. I of the Colorado Regiment discovered the missing parts of the pumping machinery of the waterworks buried in a coal pile at Singalon station. The machinery will soon be in working order again, and, the employes having promised to return to work this evening, it is improbable that the threatened water famine will occur.

Aguinaldo's Proclamation.

Aguinaldo's proclamation of Saturday says:

I order and command:

First. That peace and friendly relations with the Americans be broken, and that the latter be treated as enemies within the limits prescribed by the laws of war.

Second. That the Americans captured be held as prisoners of war.

Third. That this proclamation be communicated to the Consuls, and that Congress order and accord a suspension of the constitutional guarantee, resulting from the declaration of war.

Aguinaldo's proclamation of Monday says the outbreak of hostilities was "unjustly and unexpectedly provoked by the Americans," refers to his manifesto of Jan. 8, publishing the alleged grievances of the Filipinos at the hands of the army of occupation, and the "constant outrages and taunts which have been causing misery to the Manilans," and refers to the "useless conferences" and "contempt shown for the Filipino Government," as proving a "premeditated transgression of justice and liberty."

"Slavery is Better."

The Filipino leader also refers to the former losses of the Filipinos, but says, "slavery is better," and calls upon them to "sacrifice all upon the altar of honor and national integrity."

He insists that he tried to avoid as far as possible an armed conflict, but claims that all his efforts "were useless before the unmeasured pride of the American representatives," whom he charges with having treated him as a rebel, "because I defended the interests of my country, and would not become the instrument of their dastardly intentions."

Aguinaldo concludes with saying: "Be not discouraged. Our independence was watered freely by the blood of martyrs, and more will be shed in the future to strengthen it. Remember that efforts are not wasted that ends be gained. It is indispensable to adjust our actions to the rules of law and right, and to learn to triumph over our enemies."

THE CASUALTIES.

Latest Reports From Gen. Otis to the Washington Government.

Washington, Feb. 8.—General Otis' report of casualties in the Manila fight up to date aggregate 197. Of these 49 were of officers and men killed and 14 wounded.

Despatch From Gen. Otis.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The War Department to-day received the following despatch from General Otis, dated Manila, Feb. 7:

The insurgent army concentrated around Manila from Luzon Provinces, numbering over 20,000, possessing several quick firing and Krupp field guns. A good portion of the enemy is armed with Mausers, latest pattern. Two Krupp and the great rifles were captured. Insurgents fired great quantity of ammunition. Quite a number of Spanish soldiers in insurgent service, who served artillery. Insurgents constructed strong entrenchments near our lines, mostly in bamboo thickets. Those our men charged, killing or capturing many of the enemy. Our casualties probably aggregate 250. Full reports today. Casualties of insurgents very heavy. Have buried some 500 of their dead and hold 500 prisoners. Their loss, killed, wounded and prisoners probably 4000. Took waterworks pumping station yesterday six miles out. Considerable skirmish with enemy, which made no stand. Pumps damaged, will be working in a week. Have number of condensers set up in city, which furnish good water. Troops in excellent spirits. Quiet prevails. (Signed) Otis.

Agoncillo Dogged by Detectives.

Montreal, Feb. 7.—(Special.)—Senor Agoncillo says he has been followed here by detectives, and he refuses to be further interviewed. He sent away a long cable despatch.

BUDGET ON THURSDAY.

Several Bills Introduced and Many Petitions Received at the Legislature on Tuesday—House Proceedings.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The Legislature yesterday afternoon received a number of petitions, and three measures were introduced and given first readings, after which an adjournment was taken. It is expected that the estimates for the year will be brought down on Wednesday, in which case the Provincial Treasurer will deliver his budget speech on Thursday.

Committee to elect standing committees was appointed as follows, and will report with all due speed: Messrs. Davis, Garrow, Stratton, Charlton, Carpenter, Whitney, Marter, Miscampbell, McKay and Hardy.

After a number of petitions had been presented, a bill respecting County Council elections was introduced by Mr. Smith of Peel. The object of the bill is to do away with the double voting at County Council elections, and give voters only one vote for each candidate. They have now the privilege of casting both votes for one candidate if they prefer to do so. The bill will come up for its second reading on Friday.

A bill respecting voters' lists in unorganized territory was introduced by Hon. Mr. Hardy. This suspends the operation of part 5 of the Ontario Voters' List Act for two years, the preparation of voters' lists in unorganized territory being an expensive matter, which it is provided by part 3 of the Voters' List Act shall take place annually. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may, however, order one to be prepared if required.

A bill to amend the Railway Act of Ontario was introduced by Hon. Mr. Hardy. The bill provides that the cost of arbitrations upon the expropriation of lands by railways shall be taxed by the clerk of the County Court, instead of by the judge, as heretofore.

The House adjourned until 8 o'clock this afternoon.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

Mr. Archibald Blue, director of mines, has returned from Elgin County, where he inspected a new oil field in the Township of Dunwich. The average from 15 wells has been 1½ barrels a day. It is believed that the Dunwich field is a continuation of the Bothwell field. Everything at present points to the field being a success, and Mr. Blue will so report to the Government.

The fishery overseers of the province will be appointed in two or three weeks. There are many applications. Commissioner Bastedo has rearranged the districts, and it is hard to say whether or not the old officials appointed by the Dominion Government will be retained. Salaries vary all the way from $95 to $500 a year.

THE HOUSE IS OPENED

Lord Salisbury's Important Remarks on Foreign Affairs.

THE RIGHT TO THE SOUDAN.

The Premier's Plain Words Concerning Britain's Title in Egypt—The British Policy in China Is Not to Secure Territory, But to Protect the Rights of Her Subjects—Cable News.

London, Feb. 8.—The Queen's speech, identical with the forecast cabled on Tuesday, was read in both Houses yesterday. In the Commons the reply was moved by Mr. Bagot, Conservative member for South Westmoreland, and Hon. W. F. Smith, Conservative, seconded. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the new Liberal leader, in referring to the terms of the speech and the remarks of the two preceding speakers on Anglo-Saxon unity, said that "Anglo-Saxon union tended to the stability of peace." In the Lords the same subject was handled in much the same manner, and, in reply to the Earl of Kimberley, the Premier, Lord Salisbury, referring at length to China, said the policy of Her Majesty's Government did not contemplate the acquisition of territory in China or the dismemberment of the Chinese Empire. The destiny of China, he added, was as impossible to foretell as it was to tell what was occurring on a certain island within a certain palace at Pekin. All that Her Majesty's Government was concerned with at present was to see that the treaties were fully observed, that the interests of British subject were safeguarded, and that nothing was done by China or any other nation to compromise their rights.

Britain's Grip on the Soudan.

Referring to the Soudan the Premier said that Great Britain held dominion by the title arising from the fact that the Soudan formed part of the territory in Egypt, and also by the less complicated and more easily understood title of conquest. Any revival of the claims of titles which events had swept away could not be sustained by historical precedent or international law.

Believes the Czar is Honest.

So far as the Czar's rescript was concerned, Lord Salisbury said no one could doubt the purity and humanity of the Emperor's motives. "I should heartily rejoice," he continued, "if the conference achieved an humbler aim, and if by the steady use of the principle of arbitration we might be able to diminish a number of the causes by which war is produced. If by humane legislation we could also diminish the horrors of war, we would render an immeasureable service to humanity. Meanwhile we must follow the example of other nations, and be prepared for war. I do not believe this is imminent, but the causes of war still subsist, and, while doing our best in the blessed mission of peace, we must maintain the position of security which past generations have given us, and which we hope to keep."

Would Like to, But Dare Not.

Lord Salisbury remarked that he frequently envied a nation possessing a committee of foreign relations like the United States, a committee which could secretly receive explanations that Ministers were only too glad to give. But as Great Britain was without that feature of Parliamentary government, it would be impossible for him to give the noble lord (Earl of Kimberley) all the information he desired regarding foreign affairs. The agreement between Germany and Great Britain, however, was of a character favorable to friendship between the two nations, and to the right of all concerned, as well as to the peace of the world. But he (the Premier) would not be doing his duty if he gave further details as to the stipulations, which for the present required no action on the part of Great Britain.

The address was then agreed to.

SERIOUS NEWS FROM INDIA.

A British Garrison in the Punjaub Has Had Some Hard Fighting.

London, Feb. 8.—A despatch yesterday afternoon from Calcutta says that the British garrison at Edwardesabad, in the Punjaub, has had a lively brush with a band of outlaws who occupied the towers at Goomatti. The British lost six men killed and 14 seriously wounded. Major Davidson was severely and Lieut. Houston slightly wounded.

The outlaws had a strong position, but were finally driven out. Seven of their number were taken prisoners.

Canadian Imports Into Britain.

London, Feb. 8.—The trade returns for January show the following results: Imports from Canada, increases, sheep, £8,450; corn, £19,000; bacon, £7,000; hams, £17,000; butter, £5,000; eggs, £500; timber £1,000; decreases, cattle, £9,000; wheat, £11,000; peas, £10,000; cheese, £28,000; fish, £75,000; pulp, £2,000; lumber, £3,000.

It should be borne in mind with regard to these figures that during the winter a large volume of Canadian imports enter Great Britain by way of the United States. The authorities cannot distinguish their origin when this occurs.

John Dillon Steps Out.

London, Feb. 8.—At a meeting yesterday afternoon of the anti-Parnellite members of Parliament, Mr. John Dillon, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, announced his resignation of the leadership, his motive being the expectation that the Irish national convention, to be held in March, will come to new arrangements for securing the unity of the Nationalist party.

RUN OVER BY A TRAIN.

Mrs. Macdonald, Market Woman, Toronto, Loses a Foot.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Macdonald, an aged woman who conducts a fish stall on the West Market street side of St. Lawrence Market, had her left foot cut off by a train yesterday morning. She failed to hear an approaching train, and was knocked down the wheels passing over one foot. The foot was amputated above the ankle.

WELL KNOWN VIOLINIST

Traveled Extensively Throughout the Provinces—Interesting Statements Concerning His Experience.

STELLARTON, N.S.—James R. Murray, a well known violinist, of this place, who has traveled extensively throughout the Provinces, makes this statement:

"I was running down in health and my weight fell off from 175 to 150 pounds. Prescriptions did me but little good. My trouble was called nervous dyspepsia. I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and after taking five bottles I was greatly benefited. I feel as well now as ever in my life, and have increased in flesh so that I now weigh 177 pounds. I am well known in this part of the country, having followed my profession, that of a violin musician for the last 26 years. I gladly tell my friends what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Before I began taking the medicine I did not have any ambition, but now all is changed and my dyspeptic trouble perfectly cured." JAMES R. MURRAY.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any substitute. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

PETERBOROUGH CHEESE BOARD.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board will be held in the council chamber, Peterborough, on Saturday, February 18th, 1899, at 1.30 o'clock p.m. The importance of a large attendance cannot be too much insisted upon. The great success achieved by the cheese industry in Canada, has been accomplished by co-operation, and it will owe its continued success to the same agency. Our cheese has a good name in the British market. While this is a good thing for the cheese it is not perhaps a good thing for cheese makers who are inclined to rest upon their laurels and become careless, which means a deterioration of quality. The British market is one worth having; it is a hard market to get and a hard one to hold. It has to be conquered every year, that is every year must see a proper supply of the demand for our cheese goods in the matter of quality. John Bull is beginning to grumble at our cheese—it is too dry to suit his moist palate. Cheesemakers may think that the British are critical. So they are, but we cannot afford to quarrel with their critical tastes, the only way to conquer them is to suit them. When John Bull wants something to eat he wants it right, and if we don't supply it right we can't sell to him. Cheesemakers never have their lesson learned. They never reach their goal. What they gain this year they must improve on next. Cheese-making is a perpetual study and cheesemakers and cheese sellers can never afford to pause—they must go on from one degree of excellence of production to another. When they reach something near the proper standard they must keep up a perpetual fight to maintain it. It is to be hoped therefore that there will be a big attendance at the meeting of the Cheese Board on Feb. 18th in Peterborough.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

YANKEE carpet baggers in Cuba are "remembering the Maine"—chance.

UNCLE SAM spent such a long apprenticeship at licking niggers that one would think he would take his Philippine victories a little more soberly.

THE circumstance of the American soldiers winning their brilliant victories on embalmed beef will go a long way towards embalming their deeds in history.

THE Hamilton Spectator says: "Speeches from the throne are useless." That's always the way with your true Tory—everything turns to dust and ashes that is not done or enjoyed by "our" party.

THE Buffalo Express remarks:—Australian federation should be a long step towards an independent Australian nation." It is a mighty "long step" between federation and independence in Canada. Confederation thirty years ago bunched the colonies composing Canada so closely that a strengthening of the tie that binds tighter to the tight little isle was a simple process. The wish may be father to the thought, without the resulting progeny being of much account.

AN Atlanta, Georgia, merchant advertises in the Journal of that city the arrival of a carload of Candadian turnips, for which he says he will have to send to the Dominion $200 of "cotton money" in payment, Georgia is about the last place one would expect Canadian turnips to turn up as an article of commerce. Yet the explanation is simple. It pays the "Crackers" better to raise cotton than turnips. If we in Canada could raise cotton as easily as turnips, we shouldn't import cotton from Georgia.

THERE is considerable discussion, more or less irrelevant, devoted to the question of home work for school children, and numerous are the solutions of the problem. All that is needed seems to be the application of a little common sense on the part of teachers. A teacher who has a proper knowledge of the varying intellectual capacities of his or her pupils can have no difficulty in assigning lessons. The safe way is to set lessons well within the capacity of the dullest pupil. Short lessons should be assigned, and perfect recitation should be insisted upon. Then progress would be sure, every educational step made would be a step gained; what would be got would be kept, and there would be no swelled heads—of either kind, by inflation of fancy knowledge, or by overstudy.

HAULTAIN.

The annual tea meeting of the Methodist church was held on Feb. 2nd, and was a most pronounced success. Tea was held at the usual place, Mr. L. Rider's house, the literary portion of the programme being presented at the school house.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C. S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonizing pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single Troublesome Jerusalem.

People often ask how it is that the future of Palestine presents such difficulties. The reason is simply that Jerusalem—you cannot separate Jerusalem from Palestine—is the sacred city of so many creeds and warring faiths. Not only is it the holy place of all the Christian churches, and two of them quarrel bitterly over it—the Greeks and the Latins—but it is also one of the most sacred places in the Mohammedan world. Mecca and Medina are hardly more sacred than the Mosque of Omar. That is a fact which is often ignored by Europeans, who forget that to turn the Mohammedans out of the temple inclosure would disturb the whole Moslem world from the Straits Settlements to Albania. We must never forget that Mohammedan pilgrims from India visit Jerusalem just as Christian pilgrims visit it from Europe. Lastly, Jerusalem is profoundly sacred to the Jews, and the Jews are beginning to be locally numerous and important.—Spectator.

The Facts in the Case.

There was trouble of some kind reported on Desplaines street the other night, and the editor told the new reporter to go over and get the details. He got them, as may be seen from his account of the affair, which was as follows:

"A man killed a dog belonging to another man. The son of the man whose dog was killed proceeded to whip the man who killed the dog of the man he was the son of. The man who was the son of the man whose dog was killed was arrested on complaint of the man who was assaulted by the son of the man whose dog the man who was assaulted had killed."—Chicago News.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E Hart, of Croton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My Husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Sold by all druggists. 50 cts. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

An Old Trick.

The $5 bill racket was worked on a New Orleans street car again yesterday. This game is old enough to , but its usefulness is perennial. This time though, it was not the long suffering conductor who got the short end of the transaction; it was an obliging passenger. A man got on a Royal street car and tendered a $5 bill from which to take his fare. The conductor looked at the bill, said he didn't have change and handed it back. The stranger crumpled it up an put it in his pocket. The owner of the bill would have had to get off, but a kind hearted fellow passenger offered change. The stranger pulled out the crumpled up bill, got his change and after the car ran a few blocks took his leave. Of course the man who had given change knew it was a $5 bill he had received, but it wasn't. It was a $1 bill that the hard hearted one had rung in on him. He didn't find it out, though, until too late. Then he was just $4 out and swearing!—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Trees and Tides.

A curious theory lately revived in Italy is that the sap of a tree ebbs and flows in sympathy with the tides of the ocean. A grower of vines and fruit trees says that no tree should be lopped or pruned except during the hours of ebb tide. He has taken 14 years to come to this conclusion, and now always acts upon it. The result, it is said, is that his trees and vines always exhibit beautiful foliage, bear splendid crops and are quite free from the attacks of the insects which devastate surrounding properties.

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. Richard J. Hovendon, a fresco painter at Windsor, Ont., has received word from solicitors in Ireland that his interest in property to which he had fallen heir amounted to more than £230,000. The property is near Tankardstown Castle, Queen's County, Ireland, and in 1798, upon the death of his great-grandfather, it fell into the Irish Court of Chancery for lack of heirs.

Out for Amalgamation.

President W. A. Matteson of the American Holstein-Friesian Association was present, and asked that a committee of three be appointed to meet a similar committee to see about amalgamation of the two associations.

The matter was discussed for some time by the members, all of whom seemed to think that the Canadian Association could do more for the stock breeders of Canada as a distinct Canadian organization.

In the end Messrs. W. G. Ellis, G. W. Clemons and T. W. Charlton were appointed a committee, as requested. One of the members, however, remarked that this was done more as a matter of courtesy than owing to any desire the association had to amalgamate.

The following grants were made for dairy tests: Toronto $100, Ottawa $50, Winnipeg $50, Brandon $50, Provincial Fat Stock and Dairy Show $50.

The meeting then adjourned, to meet in Toronto again next year.

Three Years in Bed.

From Kidney Disease—Although a Man of Three-Score and Ten, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills gave him back perfect health.

This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me.

JAMES SIMPSON,
Newcombe Mills, Ont.

If the Kidneys are not in a perfectly clean and healthy condition, the blood becomes impregnated with impurities, and a decay of the Kidneys soon takes place. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bladder, and a long list of Kidney diseases become seated, and sooner or later in so many instances end fatally. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure all Kidney troubles. Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 8.—The wife of Rev. Peter Rijnhart has reached Tachielulu, in the Province of Szchuan, China, having escaped from Thibet, where her husband was murdered, and where her only child died of exposure. Mr. Rijnhart was a native of Holland. He spent some years in Toronto previous to going to China as an independent missionary in 1891. In 1894, while on a visit to America, he married Miss Jennie Carson of Newberry, who had previously practiced medicine there for seven years. In company with Mr. Ferguson of Knox College, Toronto, the three again started for China as independent missionaries. Mr. and Mrs. Rijnhart went to Thibet, where, after many exciting experiences, the former was killed.

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for it.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diatase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but to-day I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

THE NIGHT CLERK'S STORY.

A FACE LIKE CHALK.

A very bad attack of the Grippe one year ago last winter left my system in a very weak state and my nervous system completely unstrung. After getting over the dangerous stage of the disease I naturally expected to gain strength, but, unfortunately, did not do so. On the contrary, my blood became weaker. I daily lost strength and vitality, and my nervous system became so weak that it was a constant source of suffering both day and night. I lost appetite, the sight of food nauseated me, the weak state of my system caused shortness of breath and unnatural action of the heart, such as fluttering and violent palpitation, and my face was like chalk. I was in this condition and constantly getting weaker when I began taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. I had read the books they distributed and their advertisements in the papers, and thought, "Well, I have taken so much medicine without benefit it is useless to spend any more money. However, I finally made up my mind. It is a forlorn hope; I can but try. So I bought one box and received great benefit therefrom, so continued their use, and to-day am a well man in consequence; my blood is strong, my face has the ruddy hue of health, my appetite has returned, I sleep well, I have not the slightest indications of nervousness or heart trouble, and from a sick, weak, nervous man Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have transformed me in six weeks to full health and strength." I am yours very truly,

(Signed) WILLIAM WILLARD,

A Word About Pianos

It is only a question of price that arises when selecting the best piano.

Sixty years of experience tells us that the public more than ever, is tired of the common thump box and wants musical quality in piano tone.

What the NORDHEIMER is the highest grade piano manufactured in Canada, remember it is the cheapest in the long run. Its tone is the sweetest, retaining always that peculiar vocal quality combined with great endurance, which strong reasons have made it the choice of all lovers of the beautiful in music.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. J. J. McBain, chairman, presented the report of the Committee on Appointments as follows:

GENTLEMEN, — Your Committee on Appointments, composed of the whole Board, beg leave to report that in the beginning of January, Sergt.-Major Rundle, drill instructor, owing to ill health became unfit for the proper discharge of his duties and was compelled to hand in his resignation, which your committee regretted, as he had been in the employ of the Board for about 11 years and had always performed his duties faithfully and in a creditable and satisfactory manner. As it is compulsory on the part of the Board to have a duly qualified instructor to take the work in the gymnasium in connection with the Institute in order to obtain the Government grant and as the Government have lately authorized the payment of an additional grant of $50 to any Collegiate Institute that has a Cadet Company in connection with it and as this did not entail any extra expense to the board your committee decided to advertise for a teacher having a Cadet instruction certificate and qualified to take all the necessary work in the gymnasium, as well as the junior commercial work in the Institute. This branch of study has not received the amount of attention desired since Miss Spence's resignation last May.

Your committee received a number of applications for the position, and after making careful inquiry decided to recommend the appointment of Mr. A. W. McPherson, of Norwood, who is a graduate of Toronto University and holds a Cadet's certificate from the Military School in Toronto, and is also qualified to take gymnasium work, his salary to be $650 per annum, duties to commence about April 1st. As the board paid Miss Spence $910 a year and Major Rundle $450, we will thus make a saving under the present system of at least $700 a year, in addition to the $50 Government grant, and we think better results will follow.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. J. McBAIN, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

CADET CORPS.

Mr. Hill asked that the Inspector take up the consideration of cadet corps and music.

TECHNICAL SCHOOLS.

Mr. Stevenson asked the Board to memorialize the Government to form technical schools at different parts of the province, the same as are now in vogue in Great Britain and Germany. Quebec Government was taking the subject under its consideration, and he thought our local members should be spoken to and get Peterborough's application in at once. Our claims were ahead of any other town.

Mr. Hamilton did not look with much favour on such schools. What were suitable for Germany would not suit free Canada. He believed, however, that the Germans were the best educated people on the face of the globe as far as technical training was concerned. In Canada the boys usually took up the burden of life at ages from 14 to 17, and they are too young to fully understand technical studies. In the last few years young fellows who had taken the Collegiate and High School course, had thrown their positions as teachers up and were going to the shops to learn mechanical trades.

Mr. Hill was of the opinion that the Germans were ahead in two points—first, physically, and secondly, for the great development in trades instruction. Every boy was compelled to learn a trade and must have it finished at 18 years of age. After that date he was sent to the university. It was on this account that Germany was doing England so much harm in the markets of the world.

Mr. Eastland thought the matter should be taken up. He was in favour of technical training.

The Board adjourned without any definite action being decided upon.

A SADLY SUDDEN DEATH.

Unexpected Demise of Mrs. W. D. Parker.

Seldom has anything come as such a shock to the community as the deplorably sudden death of Mrs. W. D. Parker, which took place at her residence, 205 Aylmer street, last night about eight o'clock. In the afternoon she appeared in her usual health, which was, however, not at any time quite robust, and was out with some friends. In the evening she took dinner, as usual, with her husband and it does not appear that there was anything in her condition to forecast her terrible fate of a few minutes later. In fact it was quite otherwise. Mr. Parker, apprehending no danger, went out as far as the C. P. R. station, but was soon recalled by a telephone message that Mrs. Parker was seriously ill. Shortly after rising from the table Mrs. Parker reached upward to turn on an electric light and complained of a very severe pain in her head. In a moment after she threw herself upon a sofa and became insensible, those present supposing she had merely fainted. Medical and other assistance was at once summoned but nothing could be done, life was extinct, as it probably had been from the moment of attack. Death was due, the physician judges, to syncope or fainting.

General and hearty sympathy will go out with unusual earnestness to Mr. Parker and the Misses Barlee in this exceedingly sad and sudden visitation. On the 8th of last June Mrs. Parker was made a bride at St. John's church, with, to human thinking, many years of happiness in store. Only a few short months have passed and she has joined the many members of her family whom death has called away during the past few years. Clarissa Jane Barlee Parker was the second eldest daughter of the late George Barlee. She was born in Peterborough and grew up to become one of Peterborough's social favourites, and was closely associated with St. John's church, having been for some time a member of the choir, and always a faithful assistant in promoting its welfare.

The funeral will take place from St. John's church on Thursday at 3.30 p. m.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. David Henderson, who has Been a Resident of the County for Sixty-nine Years.

The death took place on Tuesday, in Otonabee, of Susannah Emmerson, widow of the late David Henderson, aged 76 years.

The immediate cause of death was bronchitis, although naturally the advanced years of the deceased deprived her of the strength necessary to rally from the attack. She had been confined to bed for the past two weeks, but has not been feeling well for about two years.

The deceased was born in Cumberlandshire, England, but could easily substantiate her claim of being the oldest living pioneer in the county, as on arriving in Peterborough with her father, she was only seven years of age and had, therefore, at the time of her death resided here for 69 years. At that time there were just three houses existing on the lake shore, being situated where the Peterborough Canoe Factory now stands. Later the place was known as Scott's Mills, but at that time civilisation was just beginning to creep in, and existed in the crudest form, the three houses mentioned being rude log structures.

The family pushed on through into what is now known as Smith township, but a few years later moved to Otonabee, taking up the land which is now known as the Emmerson homestead, being lot 14, con. 13, of Otonabee. The deceased was united in marriage to David Henderson on January 26 h, 1843 The latter died on February 13th, 1894. Thirteen children were born of the union, of whom eight are still living, viz., Mrs. James Renwick of town; Mrs. Andrew Thompson of Collingwood; D. D. Henderson, of Otonabee; John, Jane and Margaret of the homestead; Mrs. W. D. Johnston of Otonabee, and James, who also resides on a portion of the homestead.

Mrs. Henderson was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church at Keene where she was a constant attendant until prevented from doing so by advanced years, and was known and honoured throughout the county for her beautiful disposition.

The funeral will take place on Friday at two o'clock to the Keene cemetery.

LAID AT REST.

Funeral of the Late Mr. F. J. Tate, of Lakefield.

The funeral of the late Mr. F. J. Tate was held on Monday afternoon. A short service being held at the house, the cortege proceeded to the church where the clergy, who were taking part in the services, preceeded the corpse to the chancel. The clergy taking part were Rev. G. Warren, incumbent, Rev. J. C. Davidson and Rev. E. V. Stevenson, Peterborough; Rev. F H. Hartley and Rev. Prof. Davidson, Toronto, Rev. A. W. McKenzie, Lakefield. After the beautiful burial service was rendered the funeral proceeded to Hillside cemetery where the remains were laid at rest in the grave, Revs. G. Warren, F. H. Hartley and J. C. Davidson taking part in the service at the grave. The funeral was a large one. A number of Peterborough's citizens were up to pay the last tribute of respect to the dead. The Boys Brigade in which Mr. Tate took a very great interest, attended the funeral in a body, under command of Lieut. Cockburn. Mr. Tate will be very much missed in the church. He was connected with everything good, and was very charitable.

The pallbearers were Messrs. J. Hampden Burnham, Peterborough, Joseph Harvey, Burleigh, G. S. Hilliard, J. E. Richardson, W. H. Casement, J. F. Lillicrap.

A PRIZE FOR THE VICTORIA MUSEUM.

The Peter Robinson Immigrant Papers Available.

Mr. Christopher Robinson, Q.C., nephew of Hon. Peter Robinson, of immigration fame—about 1825—is in possession of all the original records of the settlements effected in this county by his uncle.

Yesterday Mr. E. B. Edwards, in communcation with Mr. Robinson, learned this fact and procured the papers, which includes lists of the names and location of the settlers, and other interesting information, to be copied for the Victoria museum.

Mr Edwards' thoughtfulness and Mr. Robinson's kindness in permitting such valuable papers to be copied, will be appreciated.

Next to possessing the original documments which, from relating to this district exclusively, would find a very natural home in the Victoria Museum, the copies of them are desirable and appreciated accordingly.

AN ENNISMORE BRIDAL.

Nuptials of Miss Minnie Flaherty and Mr. Patrick McAuliffe.

A very pleasing event took place on Tuesday morning at St. Martin's church, Ennismore, at ten o'clock when Rev. W. J. McColl united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Minnie Flaherty and Mr. Patrick McAuliffe, of Frank Hill.

The bride was beautifully dressed in a suit of navy blue serge, with trimmings of white satin and pearls with hat to match. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Aggie Flaherty, while Mr. Edward Flaherty, of the American House, Peterborough, performed the offices of groomsman. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous dinner was served. The presents were both numerous and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which both parties are held.

CANADIAN HOME CIRCLE.

Revival of the Local Circle—Election of Officers.

Last night the officers of Peterborough Circle No. 193, Canadian Home Circles, were elected for the ensuing term. For some time the local circle has been in a semi-dormant condition, but the visit during the past week of District Deputy Henry Mathews, of Kingston, infused new life. As a result a considerable number of new members have been added and the prospects of an active future are good. The following officers were installed last night:

" E S Clegg	Sec'y
" F S Schneider	Fin Sec'y
Sis. Kerneghan	Treasurer

Montague, of Dunnville, Cured Ulcerated Itching Piles.

Mr. Robert Montague, of Dunnville, Ont., writes:—"Was troubled with itching piles for five years and was so badly ulcerated, they were very painful, so much so that I could not sleep I tried almost every medicine known when I was recommended to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. I purchased a box and from the first application got relief. Have used two boxes and am now completely cured."

The Last Week.

This is the last week in business for R H. Kells & Co. After Saturday, Feb. 11th, the store will be closed. The importance of this fact to the ladies is self-evident. You can tell how anxious we will be in order to close out the stock to sell the balance of the goods at a sacrifice. No reasonable price will be refused. Values will be exceptional—altogether out of the ordinary—with the chances in favour of their being snapped up in a hurry. This week only.—R. H. Kells & Co.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Interesting Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

The seniors had a splendid practice last night, Lionel King remaining over for the day in order to be with them for a last "try out." The boys will go to Toronto knowing the work which is cut out for them and 'Varsity will have to play a phenomenal game to win the round.

Crowley's arm was so badly cut by a skate in Monday's match that he will be in no shape to play, but Crossley will make a splendid substitute, as he is very fast on big ice.

Mr. Walter J. English went to Toronto with the Colts on the noon train.

The Toronto Telegram has the following to say of Monday's match here: 'Varsity 12, Peterborough 9. So stood the score at call of time last night. Wise men are supposed to emanate from the east, but last night they came out of the west. They came and with their little hocky sticks all but erased Peterborough off the hockey map of '99. Yes, it was a surprise to Peterborough and also to many in Toronto, who thought from the way 'Varsity played Stratford that it was not championship hockey. But old 'Varsity must have been laying back for odds, as it were, for they fooled those who thought them weak. Their combination has improved wonderfully from last week, and the forward line held their positions well and did not skate all over the ice. Some of their rushes electrified the crowd, and though they were not in accord with the blue and white, applauded them heartily when they made good play. Little Wasson, the Peterborough goal keeper, had his eyes riveted on the puck all night long, stopping some hard shots but letting twelve slip by.

The whole Peterborough forward division did what they could for their townsmen, battling hard to stave off an ultimate defeat. They ran up and down the ice till their sweaters were moist from honest toil. But it was not to be, for fate, luck or whatever one cares to term it, was against them, and they fell by the wayside.

They may, however, come out of their trance, and rising smite the 'Varsity seven in the solar plexis as Fitz did Jim.

Varsity was away as soon as the whistle blew, and had no difficulty in scoring whatever. Away went the puck once more, but not to the Peterborough goal. They worked it up on Varsity and then swooped down on poor Bobbie Waldie, and tied the score. The people gasped for breath in their excitement, then stood up and yelled. Youse Varsity fellers ain't so warm," called out one man who had evidently come into town on a load of pea straw to see the game. When the whistle blew again "Doc" Sheppard jumped over men and sticks with the puck and together with Snell scored once more. They had the grip and it wouldn't let go of them. They sent through three more before the crowd could prevail upon them to stop.

The people's favourite, Camel King, sometimes known as Lionel, then scored for Peterborough amid the roars of applause from the gallery. They shouted "speech, speech," and would not stop till he had kissed his hand and doffed his hat. Davidson, who was also looking for popular opinion, came away with the puck, and before many minutes had passed sent a beauty past Wardie, and again the galleries shook with delight. "They've struck their gait this time," said Peterborough supporters, though they would have been more correct to have said struck a snag. When the referee's whistle blew the score stood 8 to 5, and the teams wended their way to the dressing room, there to get a rub down.

The second half was like the last three rounds of a boxing contest, when each man is looking for the decision. It was not rough, but very fast and furious, in which both teams looked for a favourable verdict. 'Varsity added four more to their sight, while Peterborough added the same number to their five.

The many friends of Lionel Camel King will be very glad to learn he has quite recovered from the shock of being beaten, and is again able to travel. At first he took it quite to heart and wept bitterly over the side of the rink. Soft sobs could be heard coming from his dressing room, and not until the Police Commissioners and the Board of Health assured him Peterborough had one more chance to break even, would the player cease weeping. "'Tis pretty hard to have the victory snatched from one's grasp when one has set one's heart on getting next," said the Camel, as the caretaker blew out the last electric light. "I'm afraid I'm getting too old and feeble to play more. My long suit must be marbles, crokinole or some other such harmless recreation." With these last words all that was left of the once sturdy forward walked out into the night and tore away for home.

The Colts left at noon to-day to play the second game in the semi-finals with St. George's, of Toronto. The team is in the best of shape and confident of being able to hold the lead. The team is as follows: Goal, Comstock; point, Eddie Graham; cover point, Harold Armstrong, (Capt); forwards, Harry King, Harry Morgan, Parker Crossley and Dick Watt.

CURLIANA.

An interesting scratch match was played last evening between vice-skips Charlie Brown and Robert Kerr, resulting in a draw. The rinks were composed as follows:

Jno McClelland,	R Waddell,
Geo Kerr,	Alf Terrill,
Robt Kerr, sk.....13	C N Brown, sk.....13

The Granites met with hard luck in Toronto yesterday, being beaten out in the semi-finals of the Tankard series by St. Mary's, the score being as follows:

Majority for St. Mary's, 19 shots.

The games were played on the Queen City and Granite ice, St. Thomas and Dundas and St. Mary's and Peterborough Granites playing at the former rink, and the Toronto and Paris and Fergus and Oshawa at the latter. The ice at both places was keen, and on that score the players had nothing to complain. The conditions were on a par with the importance of the tournament, and the playing all round was truly of the Tankard kind.

The strong St. Mary's rinks, who were beaten in the semi-finals last year by Lindsay, the ultimate winners, were more fortunate this time, defeating the Peterborough Granites by a majority of 19 shots. Skip Oddy won from W. L. Allen by 13 shots, but his side-partner had a tight fit with Myles Hamilton, and only went to the front in the last two ends.

POLICE COURT.

FEBRUARY 8th, 1898.

In the police court this morning Wm. Kitely, a regular, and Ann Irwin, were each committed to gaol for six months on charges of vagrancy.

Thos. Bullen, on a charge of removing rails from Ald. Best's fence for firewood, was allowed to go on a warning.

James Kane was fined five dollars and costs on a charge of assaulting R. J. Wolstenholm. Kane it appears, hired a horse from Wolstenholm's livery, stating that he wished to remove a girl from the hospital to her home. Shortly afterwards Mr. Wolstenholm learned that Kane and another young fellow had two girls in the rig and were "doing" George street. He came up town and espying the rig stopped it, when three of the occupants got out. Kane also got out later but grabbed the whip and ran away with it. Wolstenholm caught him, but the lad freed himself and laid the whip lustily over the liveryman's shoulders, afterwards running away again.

Frank Freeborn was charged with unlawfully omitting to supply the necessaries of life for his children. The little ones, of whom there are five under sixteen years of age, were turned over to the Children's Aid Society.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

"CROSSED" MONEY ORDERS.

Safeguards Employed In England In Making Small Remittances.

Americans who are buying books in small quantities or are remitting dues to the treasurers of English societies of which they happen to be members occasionally receive a printed or written request to use a "crossed" order when sending money. At first they are likely to be mystified by the phrase. Even if inquiry is made at the postoffice in this country it is quite possible that no satisfactory explanation will be obtainable. The remitting party will ascertain, though, that American postoffices do not issue "crossed" orders.

The term in question refers to two lines drawn with a pen from the top to the bottom of a postal order on its face near the middle and an inch or two apart. That treatment of a money order will prevent payment of it to any one but a banker, and if, as is sometimes done, the name of some particular bank is written in the space between the lines the order will be paid only to that institution. It is not necessary to use any words in addition to the name of the bank. No explicit prohibition is required. The mere crossing of the order is a well understood signal to the British postal authorities, for, while the custom is comparatively unfamiliar to people on this side of the Atlantic, it is common enough in the United Kingdom.

When an American remits money in this manner, he crosses his order himself, but in several foreign countries the postoffice does not give the order to the sender, but transmits it directly to the paying office. The person who remits merely sends notice to the right person to go to the postoffice and apply for the money. Where this usage prevails the postoffice issues a crossed order because the sender cannot cross the order himself. Such is the practice, for instance, in Germany, Belgium, Austria and Italy.

Low limbed trees are not so easily injured by hard winds as taller ones.

The best apples are grown in a hilly country and a somewhat rocky soil.

The only objection to low headed trees is that they interfere with cultivation.

Save up all of the ashes during the winter to use as a top dressing in the garden next spring.

A mound of earth raised around each tree should never be omitted in the fall transplanting.

In growing fruit for market it is an advantage to have varieties that will keep well and bear transportation.

It is claimed that a liberal dressing of salt under quince trees as far out as the roots extend will help to induce bearing.

ARCHITECTURE.

The temple of Diana at Ephesus consumed 220 years in being built.

As regards architecture, it may be said that as a fine art it did not exist in Great Britain till the Normans brought it, and to them England owes some of the finest of existing buildings and the models in which the oldest are built.

THE LEGISLATURE

Mr. Hardy Answers the Charges of His Opponents.

MR. WHITNEY'S COMPLAINT.

His Attack Upon the Educational System of the Province the Subject of Discussion in the House—The Premier's Apt Retort to the Leader of the Opposition.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—The session of the Legislature yesterday afternoon was of brief duration. The Attorney-General, referring to an editorial which appeared in The Mail and Empire yesterday, pointed out that there was no contradiction between certain statements made by Hon. Mr. Ross and himself with reference to the action taken by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council respecting the Dutton and Aldborough drainage debenture liability. Mr. Whitney also complained of an editorial article in The Globe commenting upon the statement made by him in his speech on Thursday concerning the measure of education as imparted under the school system.

Mr. Crawford moved, seconded by Mr. Carscallen, for leave to introduce a bill in amendment to the law regarding Workingmen's Compensation Act.

The Attorney-General introduced a bill regarding the moneys of infants and others in the courts, which will be read the second time to-day.

In answer to Mr. Hoyle, the Attorney-General said that the members of the heir devisee and assignee commission were: Judge Burton, appointed in 1874; Judge Armour, in '74, and Judge Osler, '74. The statutes provided that their salary was $1,000 each, and the commission had sat whenever occasion required it.

Mr. Whitney then asked: "What are the names, residences and postoffice addresses, respectively, of the persons who acted as deputy returning officers in the west riding of the County of Elgin in the recent bye-election there, and for what polling sub-divisions did they respectively act? What was the date of each such appointment as deputy returning officer? Were any of such appointments made in substitution of other appointments previously made, and, if so, which of said persons were so appointed in substitution of others? When was each appointment in substitution made, and for what reason was each such substitution made?

The Attorney-General replied that the information desired was not in the possession of the Government, but the returning officer of the district would be asked to furnish it.

Mr. Hardy then stated that he desired to draw the attention of the House to an article in The Mail and Empire of same day, in which Mr. Ross, in explaining the alleged corrupt offer to West Elgin electors that the Government would remit this session a drainage debt of $2,-800 to the Townships of Alborough and Dunwich, is reported to have said that the rebate had been agreed upon by council in January, 1898, on the report of an expert engineer, and in which article also the Attorney-General, replying to Mr. McDiarmid, is quoted as saying that no order-in-council had been passed remitting any portion of the debt of these townships, but that an intimation had been given that a portion of the debt would be remitted; and the article further stated that in these two speeches Mr. Hardy flatly contradicts Mr. Ross. Regarding this, Mr. Hardy said: "That statement is entirely false. Mr. Ross explained that council had merely agreed upon it. I stated in my reply that council had agreed upon it, but that no formal statement had been passed. The whole thing is an entire misstatement, and I shall be prepared to ask The Mail to produce the statement."

Mr. Hardy, referring to the sentence, "At a subsequent meeting Mr. Hardy declared that the people ought to vote for the Government that has something to give," said: "That is false also, and I apprehend it is designedly false. Mr. Hardy made no such statement, and I shall be prepared if possible to ask The Mail to quote the statement which they allege contains that particular allegation if they can find it in my speech."

Mr. Whitney also had a complaint. In an editorial of The Globe's he was charged with having said that "not a shadow of education was to be obtained in the public schools. The report contains no word referring to what I did say, that under our present system there is no education in its proper sense possible, and that those who understand the meaning and derivation of the word 'education' would agree with me," said he. "The Globe had no report of this part of my speech, as the latter half was cut off, and the ordinary reader would understand something different from what I did mean." He had no complaint to make on the part of The Globe, as the editorial had been written by the reporter.

Mr. Hardy—If the hon. gentleman did not make this statement, we all so understood him.

Mr. Whitney—My hon. friend is terribly astray. That he is not often so, I must admit, but I do not propose to let him have his own way entirely. I used words similar to these, and followed them up with the half of another sentence. If my hon. friend had not understood them, his remarks on my speech would have been absurd, and he would not have made them. He understood me and he knows he understood me, as he showed this fully with his comments, and the proof that he understood it is that his remarks were perfectly applicable. I said it and The Globe did not pay any attention to it. The editorial writer who, probably, sat in the gallery, alluded to it only in an editorial.

Mr. Hardy—I don't rise to contradict; that would not be proper. It was that particular statement, "There is not the shadow of education," that I challenge particularly. I am glad to find that he admits having used these words, and other words, which perhaps modifies his speech.

Mr. Whitney—My speech was cut in two.

Mr. Hardy—Then The Globe did not do its full duty to leave out the most damaging part of the speech.

On motion of the Attorney-General the House then adjourned.

Mr. M. T. Wigle

Of Kingsville, Essex Co.

CURED OF ITCHING PILES OF 23 YEARS STANDING

M. T. Wigle, better known to every one in the vicinity as "Uncle Mike," was troubled for over 23 years with itching piles. At times he was so bad he would have to quit work. The irritation became so intense with constant rubbing that they became ulcerated and would bleed. He had been treated by many physicians, but found nothing that gave him relief. Reading in the paper the cure of a friend who had suffered in a like manner, and been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, he procured a box. After the third application he got such relief that he had the first comfortable night's sleep he had enjoyed in years. The one box made a complete cure, and he says he would not be without it for $50 a box if it could not be replaced. Mr. Wigle is a wealthy farmer, well known in the community in which he resides. It is over two years since he was afflicted, and he has never been troubled since.

Physicians fail to make a cure when Dr. Chase's Ointment gave Immediate Relief. . .

Maori Women.

The Maori women of Australasia have their rights—flourishing ones. Generally they have little voice or choice in the selection of their first husbands, but they may, and frequently do, change them. A woman may trade her husband without so much as a comment from the public, without the slightest smudge on her good name, and it is nothing to his discredit either. Courtship is always brief and does not often preface marriage. The Maoris, however, love to repeat oriental love tales and sing love songs. Maori widows not infrequently commit suicide on the graves of their husbands and are honored for doing so, as in China. Divorce is simple; it needs no revenue, employs no officers. He turns her out of doors, and both are free to remarry. This is all. Girls are often betrothed irrevocably from infancy.

Protection.

Nephew (from the city)—Why do you have those lightning rods on your house and barn, Uncle Josh? Don't you know the theory that they afford protection has long since been exploded?

Uncle Josh—Waal, I kin tell you they dew act as perteckters, the'ry or no the'ry.

Nephew—Do you mean to tell me you believe they protect you from lightning?

Uncle Josh—Mebby not, yonng un, mebby not, but they perteckt me frum them pesky lightnin rod peddlers.—Chicago News.

NO STOVES IN KOREA.

Instead Flues Are Laid Under the Floors, Which Are Thus Heated.

Stoves are not used to any extent by the native Koreans. The Korean method of heating is excellently adapted to their resources and conditions. In building their houses they lay down a system of flues where the floor is to be. These flues begin at a fireplace, which is usually placed in an outer shed or connecting closed alleyway.

From this fireplace the flues extend in a more or less curved direction, like the ribs of a round fan, to a trench at the rear of the room, which in turn opens into a chimney, which is usually placed some distance from the house. Flat flagstones are then placed carefully over these flues, and the whole is cemented over and finally covered with a thick oil paper, for which the country is noted. This paper keeps smoke from entering the room, and a little straw or brushwood, used in the fireplace for cooking the rice, serves to heat the stone floor and gives an agreeable warmth, which lasts till the time of the next meal.

Two heatings daily tend to give the people a nice warm floor, upon which they sit in the daytime and sleep at night. By leaving their shoes at the door the inmates preserve the paper floor, which from constant polishing takes on a rich brown color.—New York Press.

An Insult.

A Caribou (Me.) man lately wandered into a remote hotel that doesn't keep a dictionary, and on coming down in the morning was asked by the landlord how he rested.

"Oh," replied the gentleman, "I suffered nearly all night with insomnia!"

The landlord took offense at this and roared, "I'll bet you $2 there ain't one in my house!"—Exchange.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, appraising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 90
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of—	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

PERMANENT CURE OF SCROFULOUS SORES.

Mrs. W. Bennet, Crowson's Corners, Ont., had 3 running sores on the neck.
B.B.B. healed them up in 1894.
They have never broken out to this day.

THE story of Mrs. Bennet's cure of Scrofula, is simply another of those remarkable instances where Burdock Blood Bitters has not only been the means of giving relief for the time, but has made a cure, so effective and permanent that after the lapse of five years there has been no sign of the disease returning.

MRS. W. BENNET.

Scrofula is one of the hardest diseases to cure, and scrofulous sores the hardest to heal. It is so malignant and deep seated in its nature, that ordinary medicines and ordinary doctors' treatment are of little benefit.

Burdock Blood Bitters, though, even in these worst diseases, does not fail those who put their confidence in it, and those with ailments less malignant and less severe in their nature, need surely not hesitate to use B.B.B., as if it can conquer diseases of such a nature it can surely not fail to cure those of less severity.

This is the letter Mrs. W. Bennet wrote in the year 1894:

"After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician, but he failed to cure me. I had 3 running sores on my neck, which could not be healed until I tried B.B.B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole.

"As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers."

MRS. W. BENNET.

The following is the letter written July 1st, 1898:

"I have not had a sore or any signs of running from my neck since I wrote an account of my case in 1894.

"I have better health since than I had for ten years before it. Burdock Blood Bitters saved me from an early grave.

"When the doctor was attending me my friends and neighbors came looking for my death every day.

"If you doubt what I say write to my neighbor, Mrs. Morgan, or Mrs. John Cripps. She waited on me for two weeks, and see what she will say about my case. They have told the community I had risen from the grave.

"My case has been the means of selling hundreds of bottles of B.B.B. in the villages of Acton and Rockwood. I am yet sounding its name wherever I get the chance, and will so long as I live.

"Any one who wants to hear what B.B.B. has done for me, let them write to me and I will answer them.

"I thank God for such a medicine for the sick."

Terribly wearing on the system is the Cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it's a constant Cough, Cough, that won't be quieted.

Sometimes a choked-up stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible. Whatever it may be, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy that cures.

Here's what Mrs. Fred Laine, St. George, Ont., says about it: "My little girl would cough so at night that neither she nor myself could get any rest. I read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thought I would try it. I am thankful to say it cured her Cough quickly, and now we use no other Cough remedy in our house."

Well, the nephew arrived, and the next day came Miss Annin. She had stated in her note that Miss Aura must go shopping with her. Miss Aura had not called as instructed in the note, so the mountain had come to Mohammed. There was a warm scene. Miss Aura rebelled, and whispered something in the ear of the other; that seemed to take away her breath for half a second; then she rallied, whipped out her purse, and took from it a bit of cloth, which she held before the horrified eyes of Miss Aura. This seemed to have the desired effect; each seemed to be a little in awe of the other, and they went shopping together, appearing the most amiable of young ladies. When Miss Annin reached home, however, she found that her pocket had been picked, and the little purse containing the little bit of cloth was gone.

"Miss Aura seemed restless that night, and retired to her rooms very early, but Mrs. Richards followed her, and she found no chance for solitary reflection. Presently Mrs. Richards coaxed her to retire, and she, doubtless to get rid of the good housekeeper, consented. I don't think she intended to sleep, but scarcely had her head touched the pillow before she was in dreamland—the housekeeper had drugged her.

"Then I was admitted to her rooms, no matter how, and I made a thorough search. In a trunk that had a false bottom, I found two packets of letters, and a case containing thousands of dollars worth of unset jewels, and in another trunk that was locked and the key thereof kept upon the person of Miss Aura, I found a valise, containing the proofs that Aura Durand was guilty of the murder of Clarence Arteveldt."

Mr. Hale started violently, and again turned to gaze at Mr. Durand, but that gentleman looked as stern as fate, as immovable as the sphynx. Doctor Austin, too, looked considerably startled. But Francis Ferrars was not at all astonished.

"Think what a skilful intriguante this girl, or woman, is," continued Bathurst. "Two packets of letters revealed a long and close intimacy between the murdered man and herself. One was the packet returned to her by Arteveldt, and to which he referred in that fragment of burned letter, a complete copy of which was with this packet. The other smaller letter packet contained letters written by him. She had returned him some of his letters, and he had burned them; but a few, those that he would care least to have seen by his wife or mother, she had retained, together with several pictures of him. No doubt she had discovered that two of her notes were missing, and knowing of my search, as she did from Mrs. Arteveldt, she took measures to throw suspicion upon the woman who was her enemy—Nina Annin.

"She put me off to gain time, and wrote a line which she sent to me as the writing of Miss Annin, while the notes she sent me were all written by her maid. The note found in the grate was really written by Miss Annin; and Mrs. Richards took care to get a sample of the maid's writing, which corresponds exactly with the notes sent me by Miss Aura, and bearing her signature.

"The letters and the jewels I kept, but I took care to replace them with three packages that so closely resembled the genuine ones, that, unless they were examined into, the fraud would not be detected. I did the same with the black valise. I removed its contents, filled it with something else, relocked it, and replaced it in the trunk. When I left the room I was careful to leave everything as I found it. I will tell you now the fate of that black valise.

"At daybreak Aura Durand stole from the house. No doubt the drug had delayed her movements considerably, and she carried in her hand that same dark valise. She went straight down to the lake, and out upon a pier. Here she dropped the valise into the water, watched it sink, and then hurried back home. She believed that she was sinking the evidences of her crime. But these were in my possession.

"Mr. Hale, in my first report I said that Clarence Arteveldt was killed by a small foreign weapon, known as the stylet. Well, I took from that black valise, now lying at the bottom of the lake, a long, dark cloak, that had lost a small corner, a bunch of keys, that fit the doors of Mrs. Rogers' boarding-house, and—a bloodstained, gold-hilted stylet."

There was a murmur of horror from Dr. Austin, from Mr. Hale, even from James Durand.

"But that is not all," went on the detective. "Miss Annin, you will remember, lost her pocketbook. Well—I found it. It contained some money, part of it counterfeit, and a smaller part good; a piece of cloth that matched in size, colour, and quality, the torn corner of Miss Durand's cloak; and several scraps of writing, the writing of Miss Aura herself, the same writing that is contained in the two threatening notes, in the letters returned to her by Arteveldt, in the scrap she sent me alleging it to be from Miss Annin. These scraps speak for themselves."

He took from his pocket a lady's purse, opened it, and took out a little roll of paper.

"I don't know whether they were written to her, or to Fordham. I am inclined to think that they were not intended for Miss Annin, and I don't know how they came into her possession, as I have not heard her statement yet. They are without signature or address, and evidently refer to the house of Mrs. Rogers. Listen:—

One thousand is all that I can raise for you now. In a week I shall have more.

September 1st.

"This, you see, was written before the robbery. She was bribing some one. We must look to Miss Annin to explain who it was. Here is the next; it is dated September the seventh, nearly a week after the robbery of Mr. Durand's desk:—

You can have $5,000 to-night. Then do not fail me. I am growing impatient.

"Here is the next one:—

Do not take that house. I can recommend a better one. Will pay the difference. You can have $1,000—when the change is made.

"This note is dated just two days before the Rogers house was taken. Here is the last note:—

Delay your preparations. I cannot raise the money now. In ten days can give you $5,000. Do nothing until then.

"And this is dated one week before the murder. Do you see, gentlemen? Aura Durand robbed her adopted father that she might bribe someone. They are about, for some reason, to take a house, she bids them take this particular one, and pays them one thousand dollars for obliging her. Then she bids them to delay their preparations for ten days: by that time she will have no further use for the house. Now, gentlemen, for our next testimony, we must visit Miss Annin, in her cell, and hear what she will tell us."

Neil Bathurst arose, put back the scraps of paper in the pocketbook, and put that away carefully in his pocket.

Mr. Hale arose and turned to Mr. Durand.

"Mr. Durand, sir," he said, "this seems incomprehensible to me. Is it your wish that this young lady, your adopted daughter, be arrested?"

"Mr. Hale," replied Mr. Durand, gravely, "you are Mrs. Arteveldt's business manager, and you can, I think, speak with some authority. If Aura could be arrested on another charge, and could be taken quietly out of the country, to be tried in another land, would you consent to it, or aid in bringing it about?"

"I don't understand you, sir."

"Allow me to explain," interrupted Neil Bathurst. "If Aura Durand is arrested here for the murder of Clarence Arteveldt, it will be most unpleasant for Mr. Durand and his lady—and have you ever thought what it must be to Mrs. Arteveldt? She longs, naturally, for revenge upon her son's murderess. But a court of law will drag to light facts concerning that case that will cover his memory with dishonour. Not only will the infamous measures he took to ensnare Lenore Armyn be brought forward, and enlarged upon, but the fact that he was the acknowledged lover, not only of Aura Durand, but of others, be dwelt upon; letters will be produced in court, shameful, unmanly letters, that should never see daylight. Even a man's wealth will not protect him in his grave, and the popular verdict will be, that Clarence Arteveldt, after all, did not get his full deserts. Even his beautiful, wronged wife will testify, because she must; and every word that tells against him will mitigate in favour of his murderess: for she, too, is beautiful, is a woman, and has been wronged by her victim. If she is tried here, she will be lightly sentenced, or entirely acquitted. You see that I feel free to speak my mind now. My duty is done, the murderess is found. I have never been in sympathy with the murdered man. If Mrs. Arteveldt takes her son's reputation in court, it will be to tatters; she would better let the dead rest."

Mr. Hale looked puzzled. "I acknowledge the truth of what you say," he replied, slowly and very gravely. "But—I do not understand your motive. Do you want this murderess to go free? To escape justice?"

"No!" broke in Mr. Durand, sternly. "He wants justice done; and so do I!"

"I want," said the detective, "to see her where she can do no more mischief; I don't want to trust her to be tried on this charge. Mr. Hale, if I could prove to you that she was guilty of an older, and even worse crime, one for which she would surely be punished, would you consent to let her be arrested for that crime? Would you be responsible for Mrs. Arteveldt? I ask you in confidence. But for me she would be under arrest, and out of your reach now. But I deal honourably, she shall not be arrested until you have decided the matter."

"Let us hear Miss Annin," said the wary lawyer. "I will answer you then."

They found the imprisoned lady counterfeiter reading the morning papers, and making the best of the situation, like the female philosopher she was. She was a little discomfited for just a moment at sight of Mr. Durand. Then she turned to Neil Bathurst.

"Does Mr. Durand know?" she asked.

"Yes. He has come to hear your statement; as also has Mrs. Arteveldt's lawyer and Miss Armyn's guardian. You know why Mr. Ferrars has come."

"Yes," with a short laugh. "He need have no fear; I do not love Aura Durand overmuch, and I do love—myself. Tell me," in a tone so low that it was inaudible to the others, "what has turned that doting old man against Aura?"

"I will tell you," in the same low tone, "and then we must waste no more words. She tried to poison Mrs. Durand."

"Good heavens! The she-fiend! Well, I am ready to begin."

Miss Annin seated herself with as much composure as if in a drawing-room, and said, looking from one questioning face to another:—

"Gentlemen, Mr. Bathurst desires me to tell you all that I know concerning the lady whom you call Aura Durand, and I am quite ready to oblige him. He wishes me to be brief, and I will not draw out my story.

Ruin of the Rose.

"JUST DRAGGING AROUND."

How many thousands of women understand the sad and pitiful meaning of that simple phrase: "Just dragging around." Women everywhere who feel that they have a work and a mission of womanhood to accomplish in this world will appreciate instantly the disheartened spirit of Mrs. Mattie Venhans, of Tioga, Hancock County, Illinois.

"I had been sick for seven years," she says; "not in bed, but just dragging myself around. At last I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it is impossible to describe in words the good these medicines did me. My husband says 'Golden Medical Discovery' is the best medicine he ever tried for a cough. No praise is too high for Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Another lady, Mrs. R. P. Monfort, of Lebanon, Warren Co., Ohio, says. "I think Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the finest medicine on record. I have taken a number of bottles and it is the only medicine that relieved my terrible headaches."

Women who suffer should write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. He will send them the best professional advice that can be had anywhere in America and entirely without charge. Neither the "Golden Medical Discovery" nor the "Favorite Prescription" contains any alcohol to inebriate or create a morbid craving for stimulants.

Every woman should own a copy of his splendid book "The Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is the grandest medical book for popular reading ever written. It contains a fund of knowledge of precious value to women. It has over a thousand-pages elaborately illustrated with engravings and colored plates. The first great edition of more than half-a-million copies was sold at $1 50 each. The profit from this induced Dr. Pierce to carry out his cherished intention of issuing a free edition one copy of which in paper-covers will be sent for the bare cost of customs and mailing, 21 one-cent stamps; or a heavier, cloth-bound copy for 50 stamps.

A BOOK LOVER'S WISH.

If I stray woodward, not for me
The loudest warbler in the tree,
But rather one that sings apart
The simple songs that touch the heart.
And so, although I may aspire,
Be mine the temperate desire—
Not for the missal marvel old
Illumed with mediæval gold,
Not for the rare black letter text
O'er which his soul a Caxton vext,
Nor what some seek through shine and snow,
A priceless Shakespeare folio!

But only this—one little book
Where through do bird and bee and brook
In their melodious employ
Sing on and on and on of joy,
And where, amid the Maytime flowers,
Love without rival rules the hours.
One little book, whose title date
Reads quaintly 1648.
In St. Paul's churchyard, we are told,
Sold at the Crown and Marygold.
One little book—if fortune please—
Herrick, a "first" Hesperides!

The meeting then adjourned.

To the Chairman and Members of the Ashburnham Board of Health:

GENTLEMEN,—I am glad to be able to report a most favourable showing both as regards the bill of mortality and the sanitary conditions of the village during the year 1898. The death rate was only 11 per thousand, 2 per thousand less than that of the Town of Peterborough, which is also very low, being a trifle above 13. There can be no truer index than this of the health of a place the sanitary condition and the death rate go hand-in-hand, so that it may be safely assumed that matters relating to the health of the citizens have been fairly well looked after.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

No deaths occurred from diphtheria or scarlet fever and but one placard was put up throughout the year. Two deaths occurred from typhoid fever and six from consumption, which again proves what I have said in re disinfection and repression of the spitting habit, especially in public. Regarding the appearance of infectious disease among children attending school it seems to be an impression among many that when a case occurs the school ought to be closed and disinfected, as the child being usually ailing for a day or two before the distinctive features appear, it may have communicated it to others before leaving school. Authorities differ on this point, some saying that these diseases are infectious from the start and others equally high stating that it is only after the characteristic appearances begin that they may be communicated to others. Closing and disinfecting a school is an important measure, which is apt to frighten parents and children and should only be resorted to on clear evidence that the disease comes from the school, as otherwise much valuable time might be wasted, indeed, one or other of the schools of town or village might be closed a good part of the time. Your officers try to do the utmost possible to protect the public and yet bear as lightly as need be on those immediately concerned.

The greater part of the work done during the year consisted in looking after individual cases. Some places were found so bad as to require to be visited almost every week, especially in hot weather. Some require a good deal of education in the matters of cleanliness and use of disinfectants. The latter do not cost much if properly used, the expenditure of twenty-five cents often working wonders. On several occasions we had to disinfect the school closets, as a large amount of water found its way into them from springs or elsewhere and prevented their being cleaned out till late in the season. Some places along the creek were also disinfected. House to house inspection has been regularly attended to througout the year, almost every house in the village having been visited. Three or four men are now engaged in removing garbage and excreta, so that the village is well canvassed for that kind of work. I think something ought to be done in the way of providing a place for the burial of dead animals. At present they are put in the most convenient place, which is not always the best from a sanitary point of view. Some hogs are kept in the outlying parts of the village but very few complaints have been made. Instructions have been given in all cases that the requirements of the statute regarding the keeping of hogs must be complied with. No complaints have been received as to nuisances arising from slaughter houses.

The extension of the waterworks system to the village is a important step in advance, and must be followed sooner or late by sewerage. At present it is most important that plumbing be well done, as the only way of getting rid of the refuse of bathrooms and closets inside houses is by cesspools. Whatever applies to the necessity of efficient plumbing where there is a sewerage system applies with still greater force to a community where cesspools only can be constructed. St. Joseph's Hospital is an important and well-conducted institution and ought to have sewerage as soon as possible. Being now connected all through with the water works system is all the more reason why a better system of drainage should be constructed with as little delay as possible.

I have examined the water from several wells in the village, especially where suspicious disease existed. The great remedy for such impurities is regular cleaning and renewal of woodwork at proper intervals. Your officers have received valuable instruction from members of the Board and council and have endeavoured to the best of their ability to carry them out.

The year 1898 was particularly healthy and it is to be hoped such a record may be maintained during 1899.

I remain gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. CLARK, M.D.,

Medical Health Officer.

SCREAMED WITH ECZEMA

Baby's Skin Red and Raw. Doctor's Medicine was Painful and Useless. A Stranger Advised CUTICURA. Cured in a Month, with Skin Smooth and Fair.

My little daughter, when six months old, broke out with Eczema. I took her to a doctor and he pronounced it "Moist Eczema," and prescribed for her. She screamed when I put the medicine on her, and I stopped using it. It was indeed very painful. Her skin was all red and raw, and moisture coming from it all the time. A perfect stranger to me advised me to use CUTICURA remedies. I got CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA (ointment), and they entirely cured her within a month. She is twenty-three months old to-day, and her skin is like a piece of silk, and fair as a lily.

PIMPLES CURED BY CUTICURA SOAP

I commenced to get pimples and blackheads when I was fifteen years old. My face was covered. I spent about ten dollars for soaps, medicine, etc., but they never did me any good. I used CUTICURA SOAP for two weeks, the pimples and blackheads began to disappear, and it only took three cakes of CUTICURA SOAP to cure my face of those homely pimples. JOSEPH B. CLAMER,
Sept. 21, '98. 267 Court St., Elizabeth, N. J.

My face was covered with a pimply, ruptured, and itching skin. After using CUTICURA SOAP for six weeks, all the pimples went away, my skin getting as soft as velvet.

RELIEF IN 10 MINUTES!

Every sufferer from catarrh who reads these lines will find in them a message of hope. No matter how severely he may be afflicted, no matter how many so-called remedies he may have tried, no matter how many physicians have experimented upon him in vain, no matter how completely he may have despaired of ever ridding himself of his disgusting and distressing malady—he can be cured! Hundreds upon hundreds of cases as bad as his have been fully and permanently cured by DR. AGNEW'S CATARRHAL POWDER.

This wonderful remedy never fails if taken before catarrh has developed into other necessarily fatal diseases. Don't put it off—go at once to your druggist and get a bottle. It will relieve you in 10 minutes—it will place you on the road to full recovery immediately. It cures cold in the head, sore throat, tonsilitis, asthma, hay fever, loss of smell and deafness. Here is an interesting letter from the Rev. James Murdock, of Harrisburg, Pa.:

"When I know anything is worthy of recommendation, I consider it my duty to let my friends know it. I have used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for the last two months and am now completely cured of catarrh of five years standing. It is certainly magical in its effect. The first application benefited me within five minutes. I would not be without it in the house if it cost $5 a bottle, as it will cure any slight cold I may have, almost instantly." At all druggists.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart relieves heart disease in 30 minutes. Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills—30c. for 40 doses—are the best. Dr. Agnew's Ointment relieves in a day eczema, tetter and all skin diseases. Cures piles in 3 to 5 nights. 330. 16

1898 Public Accounts and 1899 Estimates Brought Down.

THE BUDGET SPEECH TO-DAY.

Retrenchment in the Various Departments of the Public Service—Many Bills Introduced—Substantial Reduction in the Receipts From Crown Lands Owing to the Embargo on Pine Logs.

Toronto, Feb 9.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the Legislature the Attorney-General announced that he had a message from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, signed by His Honor's own hand, and the House immediately rose to its feet to receive the message. The Speaker, on behalf of the Legislature, having received the document, intimated that His Honor had forwarded the estimates for 1899. The Provincial Secretary also laid upon the table the public accounts for 1898, and in answer to Col. Matheson Hon. Mr. Harcourt stated that he intended bringing down his annual budget this afternoon.

Bills Introduced.

Mr. Hoyle, seconded by Mr. Barr—To introduce an amendment to the Election Act.

Mr. Barr, seconded by Mr. Brower—Amendment to Registry Act; second reading on Monday.

Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Dryden—An amendment to the Municipal Act.

Mr. Davis gave notice of the budget.

Mr. Hardy, seconded by Mr. Ross—That the Speaker issue a new warrant for the south riding of Perth.

The Budget.

Mr. Matheson asked when the budget would be brought down; the answer was to-day.

Mr. Barr asked the Government for certain returns promised regarding the appointment of the Division Court clerk at Shelburne, and regarding binder twine at the Central Prison.

Mr. Stratton will introduce a bill to define the legal status and definition of a junk shop. The act gives cities the power to license second-hand shops, and power will be asked to revoke, if necessary, the licenses of junk shops in all towns and cities.

Annual Inspections.

Hon. Mr. Davis moved the first reading of a bill to amend the Asylums and Prisons Inspection Act. At present the act provides that an inspector must visit these institutions twice a year and at any other time when it is necessary. As there are 193 institutions, it means at least 384 inspections, thus it is an absolute impossibility for one inspector to attend to the work. The remedy provided by the bill is to make an annual inspection except in special cases. The bill was read a first time.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

It is probable that the nominations in South Perth will be held on Tuesday, 31st, and the election on the 28th of February instant.

In connection with the recent trouble over the West Zorra audit, Barrister A. S. Ball of Woodstock, solicitor for the Township of West Zorra, waited on Hon. Mr. Harcourt yesterday. The settlement, if any, has not yet been reported.

A deputation from the County of Frontenac waited upon the Attorney-General and urged the appointment of Thomas Dawson, farmer, Wolfe's Island, as sheriff, to succeed the late Sheriff Ferguson. The Liberal executive of the county are backing the deputation. The other applicant is T. C. Stark of Pittsburg Township. Mr. Harcy did not make any promise

A HAMILTON MATRICIDE.

Ben Parrott, jr., Committed One of the Most Inhuman Crimes Imaginable—The Scoundrel Arrested.

Hamilton, Feb. 9.—Benjamin Parrott, jr., a carter, committed a murderous assault on his aged mother in front of his father's house, shortly after 5 o'clock last evening. He chased her out of the house with an ax. She fell in the middle of the road, and just as she was arising he reached her and brought the tool down on her head, making a horrible gash, from which her brains oozed. Standing over the prostrate form of his mother, like a frenzied animal thirsting for blood, he struck her three times more, using the sharp edge of the ax. Two of the blows were on the head and one on the left arm. Then the inhuman monster ran back into the house. A newsboy called to a man driving by in a brick wagon, but the man took no notice of the affair. Word was sent to the police, and a crowd soon gathered, but no person went to the woman's side for fully ten minutes, when Dr. Cookburn happened along. He stopped and moved the unconscious form to the boulevard, and there examined it. He said she could not live. The skull was fractured in two places. There was one gaping wound in the top of the head, exposing her brains, and another on the left side. There was also a scalp wound and a cut on her left arm from the wrist to the elbow. Blood flowed in streams from some of the wounds.

When the patrol wagon arrived the woman was conveyed to the General Hospital, and the surgeons said death was a matter of only a few hours, either of the two big wounds in her skull being sufficient to cause death.

When P. C. Cruickshanks arrested Parrott, he said he did not care what happened to his mother. He was at once hurried to the jail. He is about 80 years of age, and is an habitual drunkard. His father says whiskey has affected his brain.

Mrs. Parrott and the son had frequent quarrels, and a few weeks ago Parrott, sr., told Magistrate Jelfs to send the young man away or he would surely kill someone. Mrs. Parrott was also a hard drinker, and her husband says he has had no peace with her for years. She is 60 years old. Old Mr. Parrott is a sober, hardworking man, and has the sympathy of his neighbors.

The woman was breathing at midnight, and the doctors in attendance say she may live two or three hours. One of her sons is in the Insane Asylum.

The Canada Club Banquet.

London, Feb. 9.—More than 100 Canadian bankers, shippers and politicians attended the banquet of the Canada Club last evening. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal presiding. The Earl of Aberdeen, former Governor-General of Canada, was the principal guest.

Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal proposed "The Dominion of Canada."

The Earl of Aberdeen, who replied, dwelt upon Canada's gifts in the matter of tariff and penny postage, and upon her unceasing loyal support of the Empire.

Arrested After Eight Months.

London, Feb. 9.—Robert Barnum, a farm laborer, has been arrested here by Detectives Ward and Northgreaves on a warrant eight months old, charging him with bribery at the house of Henry Dickey.

OTIS HAS A FREE HAND

The Secretary of War Has Utmost Confidence in Him.

AGONCILLO ON AGUINALDO.

Says the Insurgent General Will Not Easily Be Turned From His Purpose—On the Other Hand, Gen. Otis Says the Filipino Chief Is Suing for Peace—More Details of Tuesday Night's Fight.

Washington, Feb. 9.—There was an almost complete release yesterday of the tension concerning the Philippines. This was brought about through the receipt of a bulletin from Gen. Otis, summing up the latest results of the fighting he has had with the natives. He said that Aguinaldo's influence had been destroyed, and that the Filipino leader was seeking for a cessation of hostilities and for a conference. It is entirely improbable that he will be able to restore anything like the status quo, or to obtain anything like the same terms as were possible last week. No one here now knows just what Gen. Otis intends to impose in the way of terms.

Secretary Alger yesterday repeated his statement that he had given the General no instructions since the battle, and saw no reason for giving him any. He realized, he said, that Gen. Otis, being on the ground and having proved his fitness, was in better position to deal with the situation than anyone in Washington. Should the General ask permission, therefore, to do anything, he would be granted permission immediately. "Should he ask for instructions on any point," said Secretary Alger, "he will be told to use his own discretion."

Aguinaldo Will Not Give Up Easily.

Montreal, Feb. 9.—Agoncillo, when seen yesterday, stated that as Aguinaldo had issued a declaration of war against the United States, the only hope for the cessation of hostilities lay in a conference between representatives of the American and Filipino forces. He did not believe, however, that Aguinaldo would willingly give up his struggle for freedom, now that he had thrown down the gauntlet to General Otis and the American forces.

Mr. Luna, another member of Agoncillo's party, arrived in the city yesterday morning from Washington.

Will Japan Make Trouble?

New York, Feb. 9.—A despatch to The Herald from Paris says: There seems to be an idea here that Japan will make trouble for the United States by surreptitiously aiding the Filipinos.

Firing at Long Range.

Manila, Feb. 9.—11 a.m.—The Filipinos at Caloocan opened fire last evening just before midnight upon the Kansas outposts on the extreme left of the American line. They maintained a fusillade of musketry, supplemented by an occasional shot from two big guns, for about 20 minutes. The enemy fired at long range and nobody was hurt. The Americans did not reply. All was quiet along the rest of the line.

Tuesday Night's Fight.

Manila, Feb. 9.—Tuesday evening, as the Filipinos at Caloocan were evidently massing for a night attack upon the American left wing, companies B, C and I of the 20th Kansas Infantry were ordered to attack and drive the sharpshooters from a bamboo jungle in front of the firing lines. The battalion charged brilliantly, driving the enemy like chaff and penetrating to the very heart of Caloocan.

First Lieutenant A. C. Alford was killed while leading his company. He was shot in the forehead. Sergeant Jay Sheldon, Company I, was seriously wounded. Privates Daniel Hewitt, Ernest Fritz, John Gillian and two others, members of Company B were slightly wounded.

Thirty dead Filipinos were counted in the brush, and there were many more wounded. The gunboats Concord and Callao kept up an incessant fire from the bay, the Concord dropping many shells in the town with telling effect. In order to avoid accidents from this source, Gen. Otis was compelled to recall the Kansas battery, after burning the outskirts of the town.

Spanish Commander's Report.

Madrid, Feb. 9.—Cabling from Manila, Gen. Rios, the Spanish commander, reports that Americans "repulsed the Filipinos after 20 hours' fighting."

A $100,000 Diamond Necklace.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 9.—In this city at noon yesterday Miss Maude L. Fritz and James L. Flood of San Francisco, son of the late James Flood, the Bonanza King, were united in marriage. The decorations were magnificent consisting principally of violets. Among the presents was a $100,000 diamond necklace sent by Miss Jennie Flood, sister of the groom.

Kick at the Standard Octopus.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—The Sun Oil Refining Co. of Hamilton is going to petition the Railway Committee of the Privy Council respecting the alleged discrimination of the Canadian railways against American oils in favor of Canadian oil. This is said to be due to the Standard Oil Company obtaining control of Canadian oil fields.

An Awful State of Affairs.

Webster City, Iowa, Feb. 8.—Belmond, a town of over 2000 inhabitants in Wright County, Iowa, is burning, a fire having started at 10.30 a.m. The thermometer is 21 below zero and a strong wind is blowing. Nothing can be done by the firemen to check the flames, as the fire plugs are frozen up.

Perfectly Cured

Weak and Low Spirited—Nervous Prostration—Appetite Poor and Could Not Rest.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla to others. It has been the means of restoring my wife to good health. She was stricken down with an attack of nervous prostration. She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night. She decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, as we had heard it highly praised, and I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured all her ailments." G. SIR CHARLES AND MR. TARTE.

"Events," of Ottawa, a paper which does not favour the Government, has these observations to make in its last issue:

"Both the Hon. Mr. Fisher, the Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, speaking at the banquet tendered to the former at Waterloo, Que., by the Liberals of the district of Bedford, claimed that the Government had kept their promises of economy in the public service. Mr. Fisher said that in his department alone the number of clerks had been reduced by 30, effecting a saving of $12,000. This is very good, and, indeed, I do not know that any fair or reasonable person can take any exception to anything that has been done by Mr. Fisher.

"Sir Charles Tupper has been giving his opinion of the Hon. Mr. Tarte. No one would expect Sir Charles to have a very high opinion of the Minister of Public Works, but it is none the less interesting to have it.

"Sir Charles insinuates that the Liberals reached power at the last general elections through some underhand scheme that would not be to their credit were it known. It would be vastly to Sir Charles' advantage not to call the people's attention to the means by which some people get into power, lest they should insist in getting at the bottom of the scheme which he worked to oust Sir Mackenzie Bowell and place himself at the head of the party which he led to defeat. Whatever hand Mr. Tarte may have had in securing the return of the Liberals, it is very doubtful whether he contributed as much to that end as did Sir Charles himself.

"Talk of the pot calling the kettle black. It is not half as laughable as Sir Charles calling Mr. Tarte the maker of impossible promises. There was never a man in politics in Canada who could hold a candle to Sir Charles in that particular. He has promised more and performed less in fulfilment than any other leader in Canada; and to his specialty as a promiser he added the further accomplishment of a predicter, with as poor results. The less Sir Charles Tupper has to say of Mr. Tarte and his methods the better for his own reputation. Bear in mind, I do not say that Sir Charles has not told a good deal of truth about Mr. Tarte, but what I do say is that Sir Charles Tupper is the last man in Canada to condemn the Minister of Public Works or criticize his public utterance.

"Sir Charles gives Mr. Tarte altogether too much credit when he declares that he is possessed of the secret of the Liberal success at the last elections. The fact is, there was no secret at all about it. The Liberals were elected to office because the people of Canada were heartily sick of the kind of Government they were getting from the Conservatives, and when the Liberals are relieved of office it will be for the same cause. Mr. Tarte parted with his secret when he parted with the information that led to the Langevin-Connolly-McGreevy scandal. Sir Charles is merely talking at random—making more of the old brand of predictions that never materialise. As I remarked last week, Sir Charles has outlived his political age. He belongs to the last generation when party meant everything; he is not in touch with the present, when the Independent makes and unmakes governments, casting his vote according to his personal convictions, and not at the dictation of a boss. Times have changed, but Sir Charles does not seem to have changed with them."

JAPANESE CATARRH CURE CURES.

Mr. Thomas Crawford, Sergeant Vancouver Police Force, writes: "I have been a great sufferer from catarrh, which I contracted over 12 years ago in Winnipeg. I tried many so called catarrh cures, consulted physicians, catarrh specialists, and took one of them gave me more than a little temporary relief. About two years ago I tried Japanese Catarrh Cure, and since so rapidly this treatment I have been permanently cured. I can highly recommend it—the first application relieved."

Sold by Ormond and Walsh, Druggists Peterborough. 50 cents. Six boxes guaranteed to cure any case of nasal catarrh, for $2.50. A free sample sent to any person suffering from catarrh. Enclose 5 cent stamp. Address, The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., 121 Church street, Toronto.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn spent Sunday and Monday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Z. White, Lakefield.

A number of young folks drove to Mather's Corners on Friday and spent a very social evening at the residence of Mr. Wood.

Mr. Jas. Miller has returned from an extended trip west. He looks hale and very much improved by his travels.

Mr. Dave Moore is to be congratulated on receiving into his family "a bouncing baby boy."

The public will doubtless feel grateful to the party that has been instrumental in having the government repairs made to the wharf at the foot of Main street. For years the old wharf has been an eyesore to the public and a source of danger and inconvenience to those who found it necessary to make use of it. Keene people appreciate the advantage nature has given them by way of a beautiful river to boat on, but this pleasure was heretofore greatly marred by the deplorable condition of the dock. Besides this a considerable amount of traffic found its way by the river this year, and with the advantage of a modern wharf it will no doubt be increased in the future.

A strong team of two rinks of local curlers met with a defeat at the hands of two rinks from Napanee at Belleville on Tuesday by 5 shots. It must not be inferred that it was because of poor playing on the part of the local men. The ice was in vile condition and the Keene Club played under protest, which was not allowed. A hole in the front of one of the tees would nicely contain a stone. Napanee was at home on such ice, as they admitted, and the score showed it. The group should have played at Campbellford, which has an A1 rink, good light and good ice and central to all contending clubs. Because such would not be allowed Lakefield and Campbellford defaulted. While such injustices are being done and the pull of the large towns and cities over-rule the voice of smaller places, curling cannot prosper. Toronto or Belleville has no better right to have draws played there than any other place which possesses a good rink.

On Monday evening Dr. Shaw was made the happy recipient of a very pleasant surprise, when the trustees of the Methodist church called him into the parsonage, bounced him into a huge chair and told him it was his. The chair is of oak frame, and lounge style, with an adjustable back upholstered in silk velvet. The trustees fully appreciated the Doctor's untiring energies in connection with the building of the parsonage and took this means of showing their gratitude to him. We hope he will spend many a happy and restful hour in the commodous seat.

It is expected that three rinks from Peterborough will play here on Thursday night; also three rinks from Norwood on Friday afternoon. This will necessitate no skating on Thursday evening.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E Hart, of Croton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. POLICY OF GREAT BRITAIN.

In China It Is to Assist That Country in Maintaining Its Independence—Spheres of Influence.

London, Feb. 8.—The debate on the address to the reply to the Queen's Speech at the opening of Parliament yesterday was continued in the House of Commons to-day. Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, Conservative, moved an amendment, asking the Government to take early and effective measures to assist China to maintain her territorial independence, and to enforce the policy set forth in the resolution of the House of Commons of March 1, 1898. He argued that it was the only possible policy for Great Britain. The speaker further asserted that the policy of spheres of influence meant the partition of China, and it was doubtful, in his opinion, if Great Britain would have the support of the United States in a policy of partition, whereas he believed Great Britain was assured of the support of the United States if she went in for the effective policy of maintaining China's integrity.

After the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, the Right Hon. William St. John Broderick, had reviewed the situation in China and had explained that the Government's policy was to come to terms with competitors rather than excite the antagonism of others engaged in developing the country, Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett's amendment was withdrawn.

The Church Quarrel.

Mr. Samuel Smith, Liberal member for Flintshire, moved an amendment to the address relative to the "lawlessness in the church," which, he said, was exciting the greatest anxiety in the country.

Mr. Smith was still speaking when the House adjourned.

Sexton Declines the Job.

London, Feb. 8.—Mr. Thomas Sexton declines to undertake the leadership of the Irish party in the House of Commons, and it is probable that Mr. Dillon's successor will be Sir Thomas Henry Esmonde, anti-Parnellite member for West Kerry and senior whip of the party.

NO CONCLUSIVE ACTION.

The High Commissioners at Washington Are Finding New and Jagged Points Every Day.

Washington, Feb. 9.—There will be no joint session of the full high joint commission until next Friday. The American commissioners held a short meeting early yesterday, going over several subjects, particularly the Alaskan boundary issues. Immediately after there began a prolonged joint session of the sub-committee on the Alaskan boundary. A number of propositions and counter-propositions were discussed, but no final and definite conclusions were reached. In the evening the committee on reciprocity held a joint session, taking up several matters of detail. So far no action has been taken that may be regarded as conclusive, numerous points being brought up at every session, and these in turn leading to other points. As yet, there are no indications as to when final adjournment may be reached.

It Is Not So.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Despite reports to the contrary, no conclusion has been reached by the high joint commission for giving Canada a seaport or right of way on or from the Alaskan seacoast to the Canadian-Alaskan border line.

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing, they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. THE BIG HOTEL FIRE.

The Loss on Building and Contents Will Be Over $700,000—The Losses of Many Guests.

Winnipeg, Feb. 9.—The fire in the Manitoba Hotel early Wednesday morning was discovered first by Chief Clerk Hansen, who awoke and remarked to his room mate, Mr. Joseph Carter, that he thought he smelled smoke. It was found that the fire had started from an over-fed grate in the dining-room. In a short time the whole inside of the building was a mass of flames. At a critical juncture the hose of one of the engines burst, and after the roof and the eastern part of the north wall had fallen the fire for a time had full swing.

It was an awful sight, and one never to be forgotten. The thermometer ranged between 35 and 40 degrees below zero and the wind blew a cutting, blighting breath from the northwest. Fortunately every guest and employe in the building escaped. By 4 o'clock only the blackened walls remained of the magnificent hotel of the evening before.

Mr. Sprade, the manager of the hotel, was seen early yesterday morning and stated that there was no insurance upon either the building or furniture. The railway company carries its own insurance upon all its buildings. The hotel furniture and effects will, therefore, be a total loss to the company. Asked as to the probable loss to the company, Mr. Sprade replied that he was unable offhanded to give even an idea of the total loss, but it would be very heavy. It has been estimated by many that the loss will not be less than $300,000.

Among the individual losers is P. W. Ellis Co., Toronto, who had $40,000 in diamonds and $80,000 in jewelry in room 416.

D. Flavelle, the Lindsay curler, and his rink occupied rooms in the hotel, but escaped with little loss. Most of the American curlers here attending the bonspiel lost personal effects.

W. T. McPherson of the Postoffice Inspector's Department here, lost effects amounting to $500. Many prominent citizens who resided at the hotel during the winter lose all their personal effects, the chief of these sufferers being James Tees, William McKenzie and D. E. Sprague.

Later developments of the Manitoba Hotel fire show that the total loss will be in the neighborhood of $700,000.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Mr. M. C. Ellis of the firm of P. W. Ellis & Co. was seen by a reporter yesterday. "We had two travellers at the Winnipeg hotel," said Mr. Ellis, "Mr. George E. Ellis and Mr. Fred. Westren. The former had probably from $40,000 to $50,000 worth of diamonds, and these were all saved. You see, he always carried these diamonds on his person, and even slept with them at night, so as long as he was safe the diamonds were safe. Mr. Westren, however, carried samples of watches and jewelry, and these were in sample cases at the hotel. His loss will be from $5,000 to $7,000, fully covered by insurance."

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Dropped Lower, But the Chicago Article Raised Nearly a Cent—The Latest Quotations.

Liverpool, Feb. 9.—At Liverpool yesterday spot wheat declined ½d per cental, and futures closed 7-8d per cental lower than yesterday.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The wheat market was less heavy yesterday than it has been for some time. Receipts in the Northwest were lighter, and there was some indications of import business. Commission house buying strengthened the market in the afternoon, and the May and July option rose about 1c a bushel over Wednesday's last quotations, and closed near the top figures of the session.

Were These Boys Drowned?

St. Thomas, Feb. 7.—On Saturday morning two sons, Asa and Lyle, of Mr. Calvin of Victoria, formerly of this town, went skating at Ryerson Point out on the lake and they have not been heard of or seen since. Their skate marks are traced to where there was a break in the ice. Much anxiety is felt by their parents, and search parties have been working diligently since their disappearance. These boys skate marks were traced out for four miles, a distance too far for safety.

There are many families who use Miller's Worm Powders for all ages in cases of biliousness, and claim better results than from any other medicine; one dose is usually sufficient to correct the trouble.

GEO. COCHRANE,

"LA GRIPPE" AND NERVOUS HEADACHE.

Sufferers Can Prevent Aching Heads Easily.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Make New Fresh, Rich Blood, on Which the Nerves Feed and are Strengthened—A Trial will Prove it.

How many persons are there in Canada who have not suffered from Nervous Headache during the past month? Very few.

"The Grippe" has attacked nine out of every ten, and the most prominent aftereffect of this dreaded complaint is nervous headache. It is not a few of the victims only who have it. All are sufferers.

The reason is easily seen.

The nervous system is submitted to such a heavy strain during the continuance of the disease that it cannot help but show the effects. The brain also is affected by derangement of the circulation, and Nervous Headaches are the consequence.

Fortunately, this result can be cured, or avoided altogether, if the sufferer will take the proper steps in time.

The use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will in a short time fortify and brace the nerves, that they will be enabled to withstand the fiercest attacks, and to come out of the storm uninjured.

Dodd's Dyspepsia tablets go to work right at the root of the matter. They make the digestion perfect, and so ensure a full supply of fresh, rich, nourishing blood.

On this the enfeebled nerves are fed, and from it they gather fresh strength and power of endurance.

The consequences need not be stated. Any person can, at once, see that strong, steady nerves can stand the ravages of "the Grippe" better than weak and shattered ones.

A trial of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets during an attack of "the Grippe" will convince.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50c a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent on receipt of price by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Have You Had La Grippe?

If so, nature wants a helping hand out of the trouble. Convalescing men and women need a suitable stimulant or tonic to put back the snap that has been taken out of them. For some, a good bodied ale or porter, like Copeland's, is highly recommended. Others are advised to use a fine rich port or sherry wine. While for elderly men pure whiskey is the best. Messrs. Henry & Co, Wine and Liquor Merchants, can supply any of these in well matured condition for medical purposes at moderate rates. HENRY & Co.

HIS INJURIES PROVED FATAL.

Death of Mr. Nathan Nicholls at the Nicholls Hospital Last Evening

At the Nicholls Hospital last evening death ended the intense suffering of Mr. Nathan Nicholls, who met a terrible accident at the Matthews' Packing House yesterday.

When the unfortunate man was removed to the hospital an examination revealed the fact that his right leg was nearly severed from the body and his head and body bruised in a frightful manner. He was also injured internally. Everything that medical assistance could do to relieve his sufferings was brought into use, but without avail.

Mr. Nicholls, who was a son of the late Geo. Nicholls, was born in the township of Smith in the year 1851. He moved to Peterborough about fifteen years ago. He was a carpenter by trade, was a quiet and industrious man and devoted to his work. Shortly after his removal to town he married Miss Minnie Greer, who, with four children—two girls and two boys—are left to mourn the loss of a tender husband and loving father. The deceased was a member of the congregation of the George street Methodist church, and also a member of Peterborough Lodge I.O O.F., which society will conduct the funeral.

Universal sympathy is extended to Mrs. Nicholls and family in her terrible bereavement.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 237 McDonel street, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

THE COLTS DOWNED BY THE SAINTS.

PETERBOROUGH'S CRACK TEAM OUT OF THE RACE.

The St. George's Team Proved Too Strong for Them on Toronto Ice—A Fast Game of Hockey.

The following is the Globe's account of the hockey match in Toronto last evening between the local Colts and the St. George's of that city:—

Peterborough's dashing young Colts got off to a bad start last night, and were beaten several lengths by the St. George's stake horses. The Colts were in light to start with, having won the first game by a score of 5 to 3 in their own back yard, but the distance was too far for them last night, and the namesakes of England's patron saint won rather easily. Peterborough's defence was not nearly as strong as that of the St. George's, and, though their forwards, notably Watt and King, were fast, they couldn't get their combination working properly. The home youngsters excelled not only in concentrated play, but in individual work. The dashes of Warden and Temple were very effective. The former's stick-handling was beautiful to witness. Birmingham played in his usually fine style, and Taylor, who replaced Gillies, did not weaken the team to any appreciable extent. Bish's lifting was a feature. Comstock, in goal for the visitors, stopped innumerable shots, and, had he been supported in the manner he deserved, the St. George's would not have scored so often. In the second half the puck struck an electric light, starting a blaze on the wire, and necessitating a fifteen minutes stop. The teams were:

St. George's.		Peterborough.
W Pardo	goal	John Comstock
W Ivens	point	Ed Graham
B Bish	cover-point	H Armstrong
E C Temple	forwards	H King
H Birmingham	forwards	H Morgan
Taylor	forwards	R Watt
A Warden	forwards	P Crossley

Referee, Mr. Gauthier. Umpires, Messrs. Smart, Story, Wills.

The St. George's pressed from the start, and Comstock cleverly stopped shots from Warden and Birmingham. Watt, who wore wire goggles, made a nice rush for Peterborough and came near scoring. Warden dodged from end to end, but failed to score, and the Colts transferred the play up the ice, but only for a moment, as Birmingham and Temple got away, the latter scoring in five minutes.

Peterborough made things interesting for a while, and Pardo had a lot of work to do. Bish, from three-quarter way, lifted the puck from Peterborough's goal for a second score, in four minutes. Warden got another by a dash down the side in 30 seconds. The St. George's scored four more in rapid succession, and then Peterborough got two, Crossley and King doing the trick. The half-time score was 7 to 2.

In the second half the Colts fought hard, and it was eighteen minutes after the start before St. George's scored. They got another in one minute, and then Peterborough took a hand at scoring. Taylor, by a neat rush, got the next for the Saints, and Crossley added one more to Peterborough's list. The last went to the home team, Birmingham being on the spot. The St. George's won the round by 14 to 9. Mr. Gauthier refereed an excellent game.

TWO DIVORCES.

Canadians Secure Separations from Husband and Wife at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 1st.—For the past six months or more, J. M. Irwin, a Canadian mining expert, has been a resident of this city, and, as is quite common with foreigners who come to live in Grand Forks, it developed after he had lived here for a few months, that his domestic relations had been unhappy. He sought, and obtained, release, and was granted his freedom about a month ago. Contrary to the usual custom in such cases, he did not immediately take his departure.

Mrs. Sherife C. Sheldrake also came here from Canada some months ago, and she, too, had a tale of domestic woe to tell. She accused her husband, who was then in London, England, of failure to support her and her three children, and asked for divorce. Personal service was had on Mr. Sheldrake, and he started for North Dakota to contest the suit. He got as far as Toronto and backed out. Mrs. Sheldrake secured her divorce a couple of days ago, and yesterday a marriage license was issued to James M. Irwin and Mrs. Sherife C. Sheldrake. Mrs. Sheldrake and Mr. Irwin were married yesterday evening in the Brevoort block, and will leave this morning for Winnipeg. The lady has three children, as has been stated, two of whom have been attending St. Bernard's academy during their residence here.

A GIGANTIC AUCTION SALE.

Mr. Robert Fair Attends it in Montreal, Watch his Announcement.

Mr. Robert Fair, of the firm of Robert Fair & Co., returned from Montreal this morning, where he was attending one of the largest auction sales of dry goods ever held in Canada.

The stock belonged to the firm of McIntyre, Son & Co., and which was sold by the Fire Underwriter's Association—the Atlas and other associated firms—was of a very high quality and was considered one of the finest stocks in Canada, being valued at $415 000.

Buyers were present from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and seats at the table were at a premium, and buyers were obliged to be on hand early in the morning in order to secure a place. The sale began on Tuesday, Feb. 6th, and is still in progress.

On the second and following days the bidding was very keen, but Mr. Fair was fortunate in securing the first day, and as a result filled his bill with some choice plums—in fact the cream of the stock. Further announcements will be made when the stock comes forward.

A PIONEER PASSES AWAY.

The Late Isaac Garbutt, of Smith and Lakefield—A Ripe Sheaf Garnered—Brief Sketch of His Life.

Last night at his residence, Lakefield, there passed away one of the oldest residents of the county, in the person of Mr. Isaac Garbutt, sr., at the ripe age of 91 years and 10 months. Mr. Garbutt has been suffering for some time from indigestion. Yesterday he was seized with severe pains, which his physicians attributed to la grippe. Medicine was administered which relieved the pain, but the patient instead of rallying passed peacefully away.

The deceased gentleman, who was universally known throughout the county and universally respected, was a native of Yorkshire, England.

HE CAME TO CANADA

in 1832 and spent three years in the vicinity of Port Hope, removing to Smith in the spring of 1835 and settling on lot 27, in the 9th concession engaged in successful farming. In 1850 he removed to lot 25.

Mr. Garbutt was a thrifty and highly successful farmer. His first farm consisted of 50 acres but by industry and thrift he added thereto, till he became the possessor of about 800 acres.

About twenty years ago he retired from farming and removed to Lakefield where he has since resided.

Mr. Garbutt found time in his busy life to take part in the activities of public life. He was public spirited and enjoyed to a large degree the confidence of his fellow citizens. He represented the township of Smith for the long period of 28 years as councillor reeve, deputy reeve and he served one term as warden of the county. On his removal to Lakefield he served two terms in the village council, thus completing a quarter of a century in the service of the municipality, and this long tenure of office is sufficient testimony to the efficient and satisfactory nature of his services.

He also

during the rising of 1837, and was for some time a captain in the militia, and was made a Justice of the Peace in 1850.

Mr. Garbutt had a proud record in the matter of the promotion of the interests of agriculture. He was an active promoter of the County Agricultural Society, which has developed into the Central Exhibition. He was a member of the first board of directors and has never missed attendance at any of the annual exhibitions of the society since its establishment in the forties. Even last fall he showed at once his interest in the Exhibition and his wonderful physical activity at the age of 91 years, by hiring a livery horse and driving down with his sister, 86 years of age, to attend the annual exhibition. He was also one of the promoters of the township society, and only missed one exhibition (through illness) during its long existence.

Mr. Garbutt was married

(in 1831.) He was the father of ten children, of whom seven survive, not to speak of a long list of grand and great-grandchildren. His surviving children are Mrs S McKibbin, Lakefield; Mrs J H Mann, Smith; Mr John Garbutt, Smith; Mr Isaac Garbutt, jr., Douro; Mr H C Garbutt, Smith; Mr Robt Garbutt, Smith, and Mr William Garbutt, of Douro.

Mr. Garbutt's mantle as municipal representative fell upon his son, Mr. H. C. Garbutt, who has represented the township in the council since his father's removal to Lakefield about 20 years ago; one or two years were severed as deputy reeve, Mr. Garbutt was not a partisan politician, being liberal and broad in his political opinions. In religion Mr. Garbutt was of the Baptist faith, worshipping at first in the Gilmour Memorial Church, and in later life at Lakefield.

He retained his faculties almost unimpaired to the last and was able to a large extent to direct his affairs. He even selected the pallbearers who were to serve at his funeral. These were the eldest grandsons of his several children.

The funeral takes place to-day (Thursday) at 2 o'clock, to the Lakefield cemetery.

WAS A PASSENGER ON THE "LUCIANA."

MR. S. DICKSON HALL'S EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

The Cunard Liner Battles With a Terrific Storm at Sea—Oil Poured on the Troubled Waters.

Mr. S. Dickson Hall, of the firm of Richard Hall & Son, returned home last evening from his European purchasing trip. He was fortunate in securing an excellent variety of English, French and German goods and novelties, and expressed himself as well satisfied with the stock selected. He feels confident that the purchasing public will recognize in his purchases a stock the quality and style of which has never been excelled in Peterborough.

Mr. Hall was a passenger on the Cunard Liner "Lucania," which encountered one of the severest storms that ever swept the Atlantic. The captain of the liner stated that in his experience on the ocean he never battled with a fiercer storm.

The following from the Mail and Empire will give an idea of the antics of the storm, and the experience which Mr. Hall had—an experience which, he states, he will remember the remainder of his life:—

Officials of the United States Hydrographic Office hold up their hands in amazement at the readings of the barometer of the big Cunard liner Lucania on her last trip. They have known the barometer to fall to twenty-eight inches during a fierce West Indian hurricane, but they say they have never heard of such a thing on the Atlantic. These antics of the barometer began on the morning of February 1. It was noted on that afternoon, the Lucania then being in latitude 42.7 degrees north, and longitude 46.3 degrees west, that the barometer reading was 29 55 inches. By midnight the record gradually fell to 28 89 inches, and by three o'clock on the morning of last Thursday the reading was 27.92 inches. In eleven hours the barometer had fallen one and three-quarter inches.

At four o'clock last Thursday morning the Lucania was struck by a hurricane from the south-east, which hauled around to the south-west, and then to the north-west. The wind blew with terrific force. It reached 80, 90 and then 100 miles an hour.

As soon as the hurricane burst the Lucania lay to. Her engines were stopped and from four o'clock Thursday morning until twenty minutes to nine she remained with silent machinery. Oil was poured on the sea from six sluices all that day. About one hundred gallons were used, and the sea was considerably smoothed down to windward.

OBITUARY.

The Late Bridget Cronin.

About 1.30 o'clock this morning the death took place of Bridget, fourth eldest daughter of Mr. John Cronin, at the early age of 23 years.

The deceased young lady contracted a cold some time ago, which never left her, and for the past few weeks she has been confined to her room. She was possessed of a bright and amiable disposition and won many friends, who will sympathize with the family in their bereavement.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, No. 108 Wellington street, at 9 a.m., on Saturday, and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, and from thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

The Late Edward Woods, of Lindsay.

The following from the Lindsay Post refers to a gentleman who was well known in Peterborough: Mr. Edward Wood, an old and respected resident of this town, died at his residence, corner of Glenelg and Mill streets, on Monday morning, Feb. 5th, 1899, after a long and painful illness, borne with patience and fortitude.

Mr. Woods was born in Fermanagh, Tyrone county, Ireland, on May 25th, 1827. At the age of twenty he became imbued with the spirit of emigration to Canada; an agitation which at that time became of general interest to many parts of Ireland, and seemed to offer encouraging inducements to young men of thrift and enterprise. Accordingly he decided to embark for the "New World," and in 1847, before leaving his native land, married Ann, daughter of Mr. John Stephenson, also of Tyrone county, who with his family joined the newly-married couple, and at once set sail for Canada, settling in the little town of Port Hope during the summer of the same year.

The subject of this sketch remained in Port Hope until the year 1870, when he removed to Lindsay and engaged in business, and he carried on a successful stove and tinware business up to within a few years ago, when he became incapacitated through severe chronic rheumatism.

Mr. Woods was a genial gentleman of strong convictions, with a personality that won him very many friends. He was an adherent of the Methodist church, a staunch member of Lindsay Orange Lodge No. 557, and in politics a thorough Conservative. A widow, two sons and one daughter survive him.

The competition for the Governor-General prize in Toronto began at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. There was some dissatisfaction as to the manner in which the competition was conducted. At the draw, which was made on Tuesday night, it was decided to include all the clubs entered, even if they were not represented. The result of this was that Waterloo was not on hand to meet Lakeview, and under the power vested in them the committee altered the draw so that Brampton, which had won by default from Detroit, was pitted against Stratford, and Lakeview was drawn against Peterborough Granites. This change necessitated the playing of the Brampton-Stratford game on the Granite ice, and it was after 10 o'clock before play was begun with orders from the committee that but 16 ends, instead of 22, should be played, in order to avoid delay in the commencement of the second draw. Brampton was beaten, and that club then protested because 22 ends had not been played, and furthermore contended that as Detroit had defaulted they were entitled to the bye. The committee had, of course, acted with justice to all, and with a view to the rapid completion of the match, and are therefore not answerable for the action taken. Subsequently it was decided to allow Brampton to continue in the match, and they were drawn against the Torontoe, who had been beaten in the tankard. This generosity on the committee's part was most remarkable, but none of the other clubs objected to Brampton's good fortune.

At the Granite rink St. Thomas defeated Queen City; Prospect Park beat Cobourg; and Parkdale downed Toronto Granites. At the Queen City rink Scarboro Maple Leaf got away with the true sportsmen from Lindsay. At the Victoria rink Oshawa beat Scarboro, and at the Parkdale rink Peterborough Granites took Lakeview into camp.

Play began this morning at nine o'clock between Peterborough and Torontoe. At two o'clock the winner will meet Stratford, and the survivor will be pitted against the winner of the Oshawa St. Thomas game in the finals on Friday morning.

The following is the score of the Peterborough Lakeview match at Parkdale rink:

THE WHEEL.

The annual meeting of Quinte District, No. 8, C.W.A., was held in the Hotel Quinte, Belleville, on Monday evening. Those present, all of whom seemed enthusiastically sanguine of the success of the season of 1899, were: W A Rodbourne, W Carnew, V Wensley, C A Schuster, H A Fish, C W Good, C E Kenrick, A L Johnson, Belleville; H P Smith, F J Hoar, C D McFarland and R J Wilson, member of C W A Executive, Kingston.

Chief Consul Farington, of Picton, presided.

The report of the Membership Committee was presented by the chairman, Mr. C. D McFarland. It stated about as follows: The membership for 98 showed a gain of 38 over 1897 and now stands at 666. The Clubs at Campbellford and Cobourg failed to renew for 1898. New clubs which affiliated with the C.W.A. were: Bobcaygeon, Deseronto, Sydenham, Trenton and Tweed. These clubs have a total membership of 105. The Rideaus and the Frontenacs of Kingston were affiliated with the Kingston Club, which is now in a first class condition, having very handsome and comfortable quarters on Brock street. The total number affiliated with the C.W.A. in Kingston in 1897 was 136; this year the K.B.C. has a membership of 291. The greatest loss was at Peterborough, where the membership dropped from 208 to 36, caused no doubt by a re-election from the boom caused by the meet. Belleville lost 31, Millbrook 10, Napanee 3, Port Hope 4, Sunderland 8. The clubs whose membership increased were Beaverton 4, Hastings 1, Lindsay 3, Picton 16. Nearly 1,000 lithograph hangers were distributed throughout the district by the committee.

The meeting recommended the Rules and Regulations Committee of the Dominion Board that they change the dates of the annual meeting from the first Monday in February to the first Monday in November. The reason given is that the bicycle season being over in February there is not so much enthusiasm manifested by the members as would be in November.

The following officers were elected for 1899:

Chief Consul—F J. Hoar, Kingston.

Representative Board of C.W.A.—C M Mundy, Oshawa; G M Farington, Picton; C Good, Belleville.

District Counsellors—R J Wilson, C D McFarlane, E Lyons, H P Smith, George Thompson, Kingston; H A Fish, Belleville; E Garbutt, Picton; W H Gregory, Oshawa; A L Campbell, Lindsay; M Oliver, Deseronto; A H Stratton, Peterborough; R H Spencer, Trenton; W T Waller, Napanee.

COMMITTEES:

Membership—Chairman, C D McFarlane, Kingston; C Schuster, Belleville; A L Campbell, Lindsay.

Rights and Privileges—Chairman, W Carew, Belleville; A B Cunningham, Kingston; J R Stratton, M P P, Peterborough.

Roads and Touring—Chairman, C M Mundy, Oshawa; T M Nash, Belleville; P H Smith, Kingston.

Belleville was named as place for District annual meeting of 1900.

The report of the Racing Board was presented by R. J. Wilson and showed total receipts, $56, expenses $9.77, sanctions issued 15 events ridden 67, of which 55 were amateur and 12 professional.

A resolution was unanimously passed thanking Mr. C. D. McFarland for his energetic work as chairman of the Membership Committee.

The Toronto Globe says:—"Away back in the eighties, along with James L. Hughes, Major Sam Hughes, Alf. He dropped into town yesterday and incidentally gave the tip around that Manitoba will be the Mecca of expert lacrossists next season. Lacrosse everywhere in the Prairie Province is very popular. HORRIBLE MEDICINES

DOSES THAT DOCTORS PRESCRIBED TWO HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Children Were Compelled to Take Mixtures of Human Skulls, Earthworms, Garden Snails and Crabs' Eyes and Claws—Bleeding a Fad.

Dr. Robert Reyburn, professor of physiology and hygiene in the medical department of the Howard university in Washington, has collected an interesting array of facts that show the pleasant and scientific manner of treating the diseases of children that obtained about 200 years ago. The paper was read before a joint meeting of the Medical and Anthropological societies in Washington, and was received with much attention.

The first authority quoted by him was Dr. Thomas Willis, an eminent physician of England. He was born in 1621 and died in 1674. He wrote concerning the treatment of epilepsy:

"A Man in this Neighborhood had all his Children dead of Convulsions within three months after they were born. At length, to prevent the same Fate in a Son of his that was new born, he thought proper to try the Power of Medicine. I was called to him a few days after the Birth and ordered an Issue in the first Place to be made in his Neck, and that two Ounces of Blood should be drawn next Day at the Neck by the Application of Leeches. I advised besides that for three Days before each Change of the Moon, and again before the Full, about five Grains of the following Powder should be given him Morning and Evening in a Spoonful of the Julap:

"Take prepared Human Skull, the Root of Male Peony, of each one Drachm. Pearls in Powder, half a Drachm. Mix them all together and make a very fine Powder.

"Take of Black Cherry Water three Ounces. The Antopileptick Water of Langius, an Ounce. Syrup of the Flowers of Male Peony, six Drachms.

"I likewise ordered the Nurse to take a Draught of Whey, in which the Roots and Seeds of Male Peony, and the Leaves of Lilly of the Valley had been boiled, twice every Day at the same Hours.

"The Child continued well about two Months and then began to be troubled with Convulsive Disorders; upon which Account the same Medicines were again repeated in large Doses, both to the Child and Nurse. Blisters were applied behind the Ears, and he was again bleeded at the Jugulars with Leeches. By these Means he got well again within two or three Days. After he was seven Years old, the Convulsions entirely left him, but about the lower part of the Back Bone, an indolent Tumor arose. This Tumor occasioned a Distortion of the Vertebræ, which was succeeded by a Weakness of the Limbs, and at length a Palsey."

Dr. Walter Harris, physician in ordinary to King William III of England (born in England in 1661 and died in 1725), says:

"A girl 11 years old of a sanguine constitution and troubled with very long and violent Epileptic Paroxysms, desired my advice the Eighteenth of December, 1701. For six months she had suffered two severe Paroxysms each day. The Paroxysm was in this manner: She fell first down as if dead upon the floor or bed; whence this disease is called the Falling Sickness, and after remaining motionless for a little while she tossed her limbs here and there with a great force and violence, attempting to beat herself with her hands. She frequently bended her head downward with strong Convulsions, and flung it backward with such force, as if she designed to dash the hind part of her Skull to pieces."

After giving this vivid and accurate picture of epilepsy he says: "I prescribed for her the following powders: Take of prepared Earth Worms One Ounce. Human Skull prepared Two Scruples (forty grains) Mix them and divide into twelve powders, one to be taken twice a day in a spoonful of Cephalic Julap."

Dr. Richard Wiseman lived about 200 years ago, and was the physician to King Charles II of England, and from his treatise on the king's evil, or scrofula, the following paragraph is taken. After prescribing various remedies he says:

"But where that does not agree we prescribe distilled milk of which this sort may serve as an example. Take of best sarsaparilla one pound, Shavings of Hartshorn six ounces. Leaves of Agrimony and of both kinds of Fluelline, of each three handfuls. White and Red Saunders, of each two drachms. English Liquorice a pound. Garden Snails one hundred. Earth Worms one pound. New Cow's Milk two gallons.

"Distill them according to art and to three pounds or pints of the distilled liquor add two ounces of prepared Crabs' Eyes. Let him take of this to the quantity of four ounces at a time adding to each dose some quantity of Cinnamon Water."

Dr. Harris' treatment of fever was:

"To a child of a year old laboring under a fever or tormented with gripes I commonly prescribe in the following manner: Take Compound Powder of Crabs' Claws, Prepared Pearls, of each one drachm (60 grains). Mix them and make a powder to be divided into six equal parts. The child must take one of these immediately and let it be repeated (if the case require two hours thereafter, and then every fourth hour)."

Dr. Burton, who was contemporary with Dr. Harris, wrote an interesting monograph on chin cough, or whooping cough, as it is called in our day. He says:

"When I am called, if the child be in danger of being convulsed, in the first place, in order to gain time, I let some blood, which I would not otherwise do, because it is contrary to the second indication, and those children who were bled or much purged were always longer in recovering than those who had not been bled at all.

"I ordered a Scruple, (20 grains) of Contharides (Spanish flies) and as much Camphire (camphor) well rubbed together, to be mixed with three drachms of Extract of Bark (80 grains) of which composition I gave the Children eight or nine grains every third or fourth hour in a spoonful of some simple Water or Julap, in which I had dissolved some balsam copaivy."—New York Press.

WONDERFUL COINCIDENCES.

Time and the Fates Play Strange Chances With People and Things.

One of the most extraordinary coincidences that have ever occurred was the trial of a man in London a short time ago. The prisoner, who was deaf and dumb, was tried on an indictment of brutally assaulting a deaf and dumb girl. The fact that both prisoner and accusant, without even being distant relations, were afflicted with deafness and dumbness, is in itself most extraordinary; but it seems like flagrant fiction when coupled with the fact that all the witnesses—and there were seven—were also deaf and dumb! The case is probably without a parallel in the whole history of the world.

A sad and strange coincidence occurred in a provincial town recently. While a man was walking past a house in a quiet neighborhood, a woman hurried out and suddenly fell dead upon the doorstep. The man ran off immediately in search of a doctor, and arriving at the house of one, rang the bell, but before his summons could be answered he fell dead upon the doorstep, the shock of what he had seen, accelerated by the speed at which he had run, acting upon a weak heart.

A most remarkable incident took place in a London coroner's court not long ago. On calling out the names of the jury summoned to attend, it became evident that all the twelve "good men and true" were named either Jones, Smith or Brown, and that one member of the Brown section was not present in court. His name was called the proper number of times, and as he failed to appear, the coroner called for a substitute. A man rose from the body of the court and offered his services, and in answer to the coroner said his name was Robinson. The circumstance caused considerable astonishment and amusement in court, as it well might.

A short time ago a lady was walking down the street, when she happened to see a ring lying upon the pavement in front of a jeweler's shop. By the peculiar pattern of the ring, and the motto inside, she immediately recognized it as one she had lost only a few days before and had bought from the very shop outside which she had found it. Thinking she must have lost it there, and that it had by a series of remarkable incidents remained where she dropped it, she entered the shop to tell the manager of her extraordinary good fortune.

The manager expressed his astonishment at the coincidence, but answered the lady that it was not as she thought, for a man had been into the shop a few minutes before to have the ring valued (without a doubt this particular ring), but when asked to produce it, found that he had lost it, and thereupon left the shop. He had probably dropped it on entering the shop, and the lady had picked it up, just as she must have dropped it for him to pick up a few days before. The lady's story, which is corroborated by the jeweler, knocks fiction into a cocked hat.

TROUT COOKED ON THE HOOK.

Conclusion of One Story Told About the Yellowstone Park.

"You needn't think that just because I have been out there I am going to give you all the details of a surprise which I did not feel at the stock tales of the Yellowstone park," said the critical tourist. "Anybody knows that boiling water will cook fish, and so long as you know that the Yellowstone is full of geysers and boiling springs I don't see what there is wonderful about catching a trout and then turning around and dangling it in a boiling spring until it is cooked. It would begin to be wonderful if boiling water didn't cook fish everywhere.

"But I wish when they are telling this old story they'd finish it up—make it complete. The next time you hear anybody tell that story just you watch out for the way it ends. It never ends. The man tells how he caught the trout. Well and good; anybody can catch hundreds of trout in those overstocked waters. Then he tells how he swung around on his heel and, without taking the fish from the hook, lowered it into a pool of boiling water and cooked it. Well, what's the end of the story? There isn't any end. He just chortles about how he was overcome by the marvels of nature and that sort of thing. He doesn't say another word about the fish. Now, if you will only let the marvels of nature alone and keep your eye fixed on the fish with which the story began, it will look mighty different.

"There is the pool of boiling water pretty handy, but not by any means to be reached by pivoting on the fisherman's heel. Then just so's to have something to talk about when he gets home the fisherman swings his live trout into the boiling water. If it's cruelty to brill a live lobster, there ought to be something done to a man who will boil a trout alive. And it spoils the fish. The man has to throw it away after he has shoved it through nature's marvels for the sake of his miserable little story. Nobody can eat a trout that has been boiled with all its scales on and all the machinery in place. It's got to be thrown away. There's another thing, too, about this story. The next time you hear it ask the man if he took the trout out of the pool of boiling water. If he says he did, then the fish didn't begin to be cooked, for anybody who has ever seen a boiled fish of any sort knows that when it's done it won't hold together tight enough to be lifted unless it's wrapped in a napkin before it's cooked.

"So there you have the plain facts about cooking trout on the hook. I know, because I thought it was such a great marvel of nature that I had to go and try it. Then I saw what happened, and I haven't yet got through feeling disgusted with myself."

Women's Worst Enemy

Some hesitate before giving an answer, but those who know best will immediately say HEADACHE.

Thousands of women live in misery day after day, and week after week, suffering untold agony from those dreadful headaches. Husbands are disheartened, children neglected, and happy homes ruined. Many women strive to bear in patience the suffering which they consider part of life without looking into the cause or searching for relief. Food cannot digest without the bile which the liver supplies and hence the necessity of keeping the liver in good working order. To cure the headaches you must cure the liver and thus remove the cause of disease.

Dr. Chase spent years of his life in perfecting a medicine which acts directly on the kidneys and liver. Thousands of grateful women have testified during the past years to the effectiveness of this remedy for sick headaches. Many a home has been restored to happiness as a result.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest discovery of this great scientific [illegible] to cure by doing away with [illegible]

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills
MAKE GIRLS BRIGHT ROSY AND STRONG.

FAILING IN HEALTH.

Mrs. F. H. Hibbard, of Sawyerville, Que., says: "My daughter Lena kept gradually failing in health for nearly two years. She was studying hard at school and this may have been the origin of the trouble. She lost flesh, was very pale, subject to headaches, and had a poor appetite. We became very much alarmed and doctored for some time, but with little or no benefit. Finally we read the testimonial of a young girl whose symptoms were similar, who was cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This decided us to give them a trial in my daughter's case, and the result was beyond our most sanguine expectations. Before more than a few boxes were used Lena was rapidly getting better and gained sixteen pounds in weight. She is now as healthy as any girl in Sawyerville, and I am quite willing this statement should be published, that our experience may prove an equal blessing to some other similar sufferer."

GOING INTO A DECLINE.

Miss Julia A. Birney, Sheba, N. B., writes: "I wish to add my testimonial to the many who have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as I consider that they have saved my life. My occupation is teaching, and for about two years my health had been failing, and in the summer of 1895 I was so completely run down that I feared I would have to give up work, for the least exertion overcame me, and my friends all feared I was going into a decline. The doctor who was treating me said he could bring me around in a short time, but at the end of three months I was no better. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended as a sort of forlorn hope, and I began taking them. It was not long before I began to improve, and after I had been taking the pills a little more than a month I was completely cured. I can strongly recommend these pills to any suffering from anaemia or nervousness, feling sure that what they did in my case they will do for others."

BLOOD POOR AND WATERY.

Miss Minnie E. Smith, Merrickville, Ont., says: "About two years ago I was taken quite ill. I became pale and languid, and if I undertook to do any work about the house, would become terribly fatigued. I was subject to terrible sick headaches, and my stomach became so weak that I loathed food. My trouble was further aggravated by weak spells, and my feet, winter or summer, were as cold as ice; in fact it seemed as if there was no feeling in them. I tried several kinds of medicine, but instead of helping me I was growing weaker. One day in March, 1898, my father brought home a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I immediately discontinued the other medicine and began taking the pills. I found that they helped me and four more boxes were procured, and by the time I had finished them I was entirely well. I have never had better health than I am now enjoying. My appetite is now always good and I have increased in weight. All this is due to the efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I would advise any other young girl troubled as I was to use them, and they will certainly cure if the directions are followed."

SUFFERED FROM HEADACHE.

Miss Marie N. Hunt, Thorold, Ont., writes: "I express my thanks for the benefit I have derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For two years I have suffered from headaches, cramps, shortness of breath, and the various symptoms of anaemia. I used a number of medicines, but none of them gave me any relief, and it was only after I had begun the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I began to regain my health, and after the use of six boxes I am feeling better than ever I did. I know there are lots of young girls who suffer as I did, and I would urge them to give your medicines a trial."

Healthy Happy Girls,

often, from no apparent cause, become languid and despondent in the early days of their womanhood. They drag along, always tired, never hungry, breathless and with a palpitating heart after slight exercise, so that merely to walk up stairs is exhausting. Sometimes a short, dry cough leads to the fear that they are "going into consumption."

They are anæmic, doctors tell them, which means they have too little blood. Are you like that? Have you too little blood? More anæmic people have been made bright, strong and energetic by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than by any other means. They are the best tonic in the world.

A SEVERE CASE OF ANÆMIA CURED.

Miss Mabel J. Taylor, living at 1334 City Hall avenue, Montreal, writes: "I write to give you the honest testimonial of a girl who believes her life was saved by the use of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. In November 1897, I was suddenly stricken with loss of voice, and for eight months could only speak in a whisper. At the time I was completely run down. I had no appetite, no energy; suffered from headaches, palpitation of the heart, and shortness of breath. I was not able to walk up or down stairs. I was given up by the best doctors, and the different remedies I took did me no good. While in this condition I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had taken four boxes my voice was restored, and after the use of eight boxes I am feeling perfectly well. I cannot find words to express my thanks for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, and you are at liberty to publish this letter, in the hope that it may be of benefit to some other sufferer."

CAUTION. If a dealer tells you he has something "just the same," or "just as good" as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, he is unreliable. Insist on having the genuine. Sold only in packages with full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." At all druggists or by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont., at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50.

HEALTH BROKEN DOWN.

Miss Ida Bookman, Marksville, Ont., says: "It gives me much pleasure to acknowledge the benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My health was completely broken down; I became so weak I could scarcely walk across a room. I was very pale, had no appetite and gradually lost flesh until I was merely a skeleton. I was subject to palpitation of the heart, dizziness and violent headaches. I was under treatment from two doctors, but neither seemed to benefit me, and I went on in this way for about seven months. Having seen Dr. Williams' Pink Pills recommended I determined to try them. Before I finished the second box I began to improve, and by the time I had used eight boxes I was as well as ever. I had been, and had gained 22 pounds in weight. I am grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me and freely give this testimony in the hope that it may benefit some other girl suffering as I was."

ALWAYS FELT TIRED.

Mrs. M. N. Joncas, Berthier, Que., writes: "My daughter, aged fifteen, has been restored to good health through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She was very feeble, her blood was poor and watery, and she was troubled with headaches, poor appetite, dizziness, and always felt tired. After using four boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, she is enjoying as good health as any girl of her age, and we are glad to give the credit to your grand medicine. Mothers will make no mistake if they insist upon their young daughters taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

HEADACHE AND DIZZINESS.

Miss Leba C. Schilling, Peninsula-Gaspe, Que., writes: "I had been suffering for some time with a weary feeling. I had not strength to walk about. I suffered from headaches, dizziness and poor appetite. I could not walk even a short distance without being completely out of breath. I took no interest in anything, as I thought nothing could do me any good. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had only taken them for a short time when I noticed a great improvement in my health. I was strong enough to walk a long distance without resting, could eat better and felt better in every way. I would recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills highly to all other sufferers, and think they will be surprised at the results obtained from their use."

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is one of the few wives of political notabilities who share their husbands' enjoyment of cartoons. Mrs. Thomas Platt has said that she sometimes fears to open a paper; so, too, Mrs. Russell Sage. Sir Walter Besant celebrated his sixtieth birthday on Nov. 1. The event calls to mind that he has never suffered any of the hardships which were the lot of so many of his contemporaries in fiction. From the very beginning he has found a ready market for his work.

James Whitcomb Riley thinks the lot of a poet a hard one. In a recent interview he said: "If you're called as witness in a lawsuit, some little attorney squares himself off and says with withering scorn: 'Let me see, you're a poet, are you not? H'm, yes. Gentlemen of the jury, the witness is a poet'—and your testimony is killed dead as a door nail."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

The trying yellow spots frequently left by sewing machine oil on white goods may be removed by rubbing the stain with a cloth wet with ammonia before washing with soap.

In buying ginghams for kitchen aprons or for other purposes where wear is a first consideration avoid the browns. There is something about the dye that rots the goods. The blues that border on the indigo wear best and wash best.

A simple expedient to alleviate the fly nuisance is to sponge the window and sills with a strong solution of carbolic acid. Do this while the sun is shining and the flies are most plentiful. They will, it is said, die at once and in numbers. The brushing may be repeated several times.

A correspondent of Farm and Fireside recommends salt—dry, coarse salt—free from lumps for cleaning unpainted floors. Sprinkle a couple cups of salt on the floor, then sweep the floor in one direction. The broom may be slightly dampened. This method will not remove grease spots, but it will dispose of dust as if by magic.

THE MODERN SHIP OF WAR.

Observations and Conclusions of an Officer of the Navy.

In a modern battleship the captain is condemned to imprisonment during action in a steel conning tower 10 inches thick and 6 feet 10 inches in diameter, compared with which the prison of the Man With the Iron Mask was a palace.

I tried the conning tower in the Massachusetts during the first bombardment of Santiago, but soon abandoned it for the bridge, finding it difficult to grasp all the varying conditions of the action from the narrow peepholes often blanketed by thick smoke. One did not feel really in touch with the action or with his own ship in such a position, and the movements of the men were controlled by an unseen spirit. Of course, when in close action with another ship and a hailstorm of rapid fire and machine guns is falling upon your vessel, it would be unwise not to seek its shelter, but from great gun fire alone I prefer to do as we did in the civil war and to take my chances on the bridge in the open. Other commanding officers thought the same way, and at the bombardment of San Juan Captain Taylor sat upon the bridge of the Indiana calmly smoking a cigar.

Today the majority of men in a battleship are shut up in a tight steel box in which are immense boilers heating the atmosphere to a stifling temperature and where they can only hear, but cannot see. They work away in their floating dungeon without any inspiring vision to lighten their labors.

It is related that during the destruction of Cervera's fleet, when there was a lull in the firing on board the Oregon, the chief engineer came up from the fireroom and said to Captain Clark, "For God's sake, captain, fire another gun so as to keep up the spirits of my men." These devoted souls, far down in the depths of the ship, facing the fiery furnaces, knew only by the sound of the guns of the battle raging above them, and the heavier the fire the harder they worked. In order to realize the exhausting condition under which men fight in a modern battleship it is only necessary to see them, when the hatches are opened after action, pour up from below, perspiring and half naked; to see with what relief they breathe the fresh air and how eagerly they run to have a look at the battery or ship which has been engaged. Modern science, with all its tremendous resources and increase of power, has not lightened the conditions under which men labor during action.—Commodore Higginson in Independent.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, misshapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, appraising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Colonel," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

"A little more than two years ago I came over from Liverpool in the steamer D'Orsay," here she cast a sideleng glance at Francis Ferrars; "I am by birth a Canadian, but had lived in Europe since my early girlhood; I was then coming to America, to remain, being," with another glance at Ferrars, "alone in the world. On board this same steamer were Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Durand. You look surprised, Mr. Durand, but I was your fellow passenger; the state of my finances made it necessary for me to travel second-class, and this is why you saw so little of me that you could hardly be expected to remember. I saw Miss Aura, however, and she saw me. Perhaps she looked in scorn upon the woman in the shabby dress. I think she did, but she saw me, and when we met again she remembered. I may have envied her then; but I never dreamed how soon fate was to place her in my power. Well, I arrived in New York, and, being friendless, and without occupation, I attached myself to a variety theatre in that great city.

"One day, while out with a friend, I saw, in the street, the fine young lady who had been my fellow passenger. It was in a portion of the city not much frequented by the aristocracy, and I thought it might be well to follow her. Presently she was joined by a gentleman, and the two entered a disreputable sort of restaurant. I waited and managed to track the young lady home. The next morning I called upon her; and I freely confess, that I never before found my equal in coolness or downright impudence. Then, she might (had she been a trifle more resolute) have shaken me off, but she had much at stake; she gave me, as my blackmailing fee, a diamond ring, so magnificent that I have never ventured to wear it.

"Of course, after this, I posted myself as well as I could. I learned that she was Miss Aura Durand, that she resided in Chicago, that she was the only child of wealthy parents. I have since learned that she is only an adopted child. Miss Durand was paying a visit to New York, and after a time she returned home.

"Some months after this I became acquainted with Mr. George Fordham, and—I became very much attached to him. I met him while he was on a business visit to New York, and when he came back to Chicago I accompanied him. One night, at the theatre, I again saw Aura Durand, she was with the same young man who had met her on the street in New York city—Mr. Arteveldt.

"Well, I played my game to the best of my ability, and I instructed Fordham to form the acquaintance of Clarence Arteveldt. This was easy; and before long I had all the information that I needed, enough to put Miss Durand in my power if she valued her reputation. Well, I made her give me large sums at various times. At last my influence over Fordham began to grow less, and then I made a different move. I knew that he aimed at an ostentatious display of respectability, and desired the entree of the fist houses. If I could aid him in this, I should not lose him, and I had resolved to keep my lover. So I went to Aura Durand and told her she must take me into the family as her companion and equal. Of course she objected at first, but I knew how to overcome all her objections."

She paused, and laughed a low, soft laugh.

"It will always cause me to smile, when I think of my sojourn under the same roof with Aura Durand," she said. "She hated me, as only a baffled woman can hate her tormentor. As for me, of course, I did not love her, but I had no cause for such hatred as she felt for me. She was my orange that I squeezed at will. I rather enjoyed her hatred.

"Well, after a time, of course, Clarence Arteveldt began to sigh for a new sweetheart, and then the tigress in Aura Durand began to display itself. Contrary to my expectations, Fordham did not profit much by my residence with the Durands. He was wise enough to see that Mr. Durand could not appreciate him. But he came sometimes, and he soon became the chosen friend of Clarence Arteveldt. When Arteveldt began to show signs of dissatisfaction, Aura Durand commenced to hold private interviews with George Fordham, and then I began, in earnest, to hate her.

"I knew Fordham better than he knew me, better than he knew himself. I could see just what was going on in his mind. He would stand as a peacemaker between Aura and Arteveldt, until the latter had entangled himself fatally in some other direction, and then he would present himself as a new candidate for the smiles of the heiress. He held the same power over the girl that I did, and, of course, he knew her for a hypocrite; but what cared he for that—she moved among the proudest, a belle of society; and George Fordham is one of the men of to-day who have a profound regard for the surface of things, and care little about the inner lining. Bah! this is a world of shams! George Fordham, the literary counterfeiter, is, after all, no worse than scores of doctors, lawyers, deacons, and divines. As the acknowledged lover of Miss Aura Durand, he knew that he would ascend a step or two in the social scale; what if she were a hypocrite, he would use her as he did everything, as a means toward an end.

"When I understood the position I said to myself, 'Now that it is a battle for self alone, they shall not render me powerless'; and for the first time I began to work against George Fordham.

"I goaded and exasperated Aura Durand beyond her powers of endurance, and then she began to negotiate to get rid of me. I told her that I would take ten thousand dollars and leave her. But I never dreamed that she could raise so much money. About this time Fordham became much more kind and attentive than usual: I suspected this sudden growth of affection; but I feigned blindness. After a little he proposed to me to leave Aura and assist him in the counterfeiting scheme, which these gentlemen," nodding toward Bathurst and Ferrars, "put a summary stop to last night. I accepted the proposition. I may as well state here that it was in the house of a small counterfeiting gang in New York that I first met Fordham, and that I have had some experience in the business."

At this a smile played about the lips of Francis Ferrars.

"The woman is impudence in the flesh," he thought.

"I did not see how Aura was to find the ten thousand dollars," resumed Miss Annin. "But one morning it was discovered that Mr. Durand here had been robbed, and then I was enlightened. I was in the drawing-room when Mr. Bathurst came with Clarence Arteveldt. I knew him instantly, having seen him in New York. Mr. Bathurst, do you remember arresting the diamond-stealing ballet dancer at H——'s theatre?"

The detective nodded.

"Well! I was on the stage at the time. I remembered you, and I trembled for—my ten thousand dollars. When you sent a man to make an ostentatious search of the premises, I scared Aura Durand into remaining upstairs, for I dreaded your coming. But when we were told that you were coming to dine, I was doubly alarmed; then I told Aura that the expected guest was the very shrewdest of detectives. She is a coward at heart; when she becomes alarmed and flees to her dressing-case and takes a few drops of some strange drug; then she is as brave and as self-possessed as one could wish. I used to despise this practice, for I am by nature courageous; I have lived all my life in more or less danger, and I enjoy it.

"Well, I felt uneasy for a long time about Mr. Bathurst. I did not know when he might renew his investigations, nor in what way. This made me more willing to give up the shelter of the Durand roof. She paid me the ten thousand dollars, and paid lesser sums to Fordham. In one way and another I gained possession of some notes she had written him, and all these I carefully preserved.

"Before I left her, came the news of Arteveldt's approaching marriage. She had had stormy scenes with him; had coaxed him and threatened, I knew, and finally, when she settled suddenly down to calmness, I might have known what was coming.

"One stormy evening she stole out and went to see Miss Armyn. She thought I was sick, in my own room, but I followed her, and I knew where she went. After that visit came her sudden and wonderful calmness. The taking of the house next door to that of the bride and groom, to be, was all her work, managed through Fordham. They did not intend that I should know she was managing affairs, bribing him to delay preparations, and arranging things to suit her convenience. Fordham thought, and so did I, that she chose this house for us in order to have a chance to watch the newly-married pair. I looked upon it as a jealous woman's whim. We never dreamed of the tragedy so soon to be enacted.

"One day I went to look at the house, and I brought the keys home with me. I went into Aura's room for a little while, with the keys in my cloak pocket. When I went to my own room they were missing. I looked, and I enquired, but no one had seen such keys. Aura was out more or less that day; and the next morning she came to my room, bringing my keys. She had found them behind the curtain, she said. I did not believe this; but I said nothing. A day or two after, while in her room, some packages were brought in. With my usual freedom I pounced upon them to examine their contents, as they were evidently 'dry goods' of some sort. One bundle contained a long, dark grey, waterproof cloak. I wondered at her for buying such a thing, and being a judge of cloths, pronounced it shoddy."

At the mention of this cloak the men cast significant glances at each other.

"We were to have been in our house a week before the wedding, but, as I said, Aura caused Fordham to delay. We were all to witness the ceremony, of course, but the night before the wedding Aura contrived to sprain her ankle, so, of course, she remained at home; and Mr. and Mrs. Durand and myself went, taking with us Miss Aura's 'regrets.'

"I was delivering these regrets after the most approved fashion, when the bride put her hand upon my arm and said, in a tone audible only to myself, and giving me such a queer look as she said it:—'I have not the pleasure of Miss Durand's acquaintance; nevertheless, tell her that I trust her injury can be amended—in time.' I knew she did not refer to Aura's lameness, and I instantly connected the speech with Aura's secret visit to her. But I could not understand it then. When the news came that Clarence Arteveldt had been murdered, it was still more of a mystery, just for a moment, then I understood it. I remembered her words, as who does not who was present at the bridal supper. And I knew that her message meant this:—'She would leave Clarence Arteveldt, and Aura Durand might console him if she could.' From the first I did not believe that Lenore Armyn had killed him. From the first I suspected Aura. I went to her room; I was the first to tell her of the murder, and—she baffled me. I could not help but see that she was shocked at the news. I should know what acting is, and she was not acting. I could explain it to myself in only one way: Perhaps she had taken an overdose of her drug, and committed the deed in a state of temporary insanity. But I did not believe this—I did not know what to believe.

Did you ever notice the man in the switching-tower? Does it ever occur to you that the lives of every living person on a train frequently depend on the promptness and intelligence with which he moves the switch levers under his control?

If men could only realize how small a thing may act at the critical instant to switch them from a dangerous track on to one of perfect safety, the yearly deaths from lung diseases would be less by many thousands.

"I had a regular consumptive cough, of which I was afraid, and everybody cautioned and warned me concerning it," says Mr. A. F. Novotny, P. O. Box 1437, New York, in a significant letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. "When I started to take your medicine I was losing weight rapidly; I was very pale and had no appetite whatever. I used three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and now my condition is changed entirely. I do not cough at all; I have gained eight pounds in weight, have gained my healthy color; and my appetite is enormous. I can and will recommend your medicine to everybody who may be in need of it; as it is a sure cure, and no humbug as so many other patent medicines are. It is by far the superior of all."

One chapter of Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser tells of nearly one hundred men and women thus promptly switched from the track of death by this matchless remedy. This book is sent free for the bare cost of customs and mailing, 31 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps.

This is not far from Farren's Point. Ten cases in all have been reported. TO A FRIEND IN BEREAVEMENT

"Each morn a thousand roses brings, you say"
Yes, but where leaves the rose of yesterday?
—Omar Khayyam.

"Each morn a thousand roses brings," ah true!
But never one among them all for you!
The "rose of yesterday," which was your own,
Has banished quite beyond your earthly view.

The "glories of this world," what are they?
The transient pleasure of a summer day!
We launch and heed not the on-coming night,
That falling, steals our sunshine all away.

Our sunshine and our roses! ah, the pain!
Our prayers, our stri-lings after peace are vain.
What recompense can this world give for all
The dear delights we ne'er shall know again!

Our treasures which we held so lightly when
They seem'd our sure possessions, from our ken
Have gone to store the "Treasure House" on high
Beyond the feeble, futile grasp of men

Beyond "the door to which there is no key"—
Beyond "the veil through which we may not see."
And till our earthly pilgrimage is done,
No hope of other bliss for you and me.

But after—when our long-sought goal we gain,
When all the toilsome, weary way is plain,
May we not hope for recompense and joy?
Ah, dearest! but to see thy face again!

Oh, Thou who givest and who tak'st away,
Have pity on the tortured soul that stray,
In doubt and misery away from Thee,
And guide, through sorrow's night to brightest day.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Peter Sprague, of Huntsville, is visiting at Mr. Geo. Hendren's.

Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor of Mark street Methodist church, Ashburnham, was in town on Monday.

Miss Sutherland and Mr. Russell Pearce, of town, won the partners' race at Havelock carnival last week.

Miss Maggie Nicoll, who recently resigned her position in the Industrial School at Regina, returned home a few days ago.

Mr. H. S. Back left this week on a business trip to New York state.

Mr. L. J. Squair, who recently took charge of the Norwood roller mill, moves his family here this week. He will reside on Belmont street.

Mr. A. Gottram, of New York is the guest of Mr. J. E. Wood, Belmont street.

Division Court was held here Wednesday last. The docket was unusually light.

Messrs. Wm. Moher, of Douro, James Drummond, of Keene, and Robert Wilson, of Norwood, have been re-appointed as license commissioners for East Peterborough for 1899.

A hockey match, which furnished heaps of amusement for the spectators, was played in the rink here on Monday evening between the Calumets, captained by M. McGregor, and the Shamrocks, captained by J. W. W. Rork. The teams lined up as follows:

Calumets—Goal, M E Knox; point, B McGregor; cover point, Jos Andersen; forwards, J Thompson, E P Cuffe, W Stewart, M McGregor.

Shamrocks—Goal, J R McKelvie; point, R Patterson; cover point, J W Rork; forwards, T E Finlay, W S Hall, T G Spike, H Harper.

The game caused fun and laughter from start to finish. Mr. Davidson, M.A., LL.B., refereed in a very satisfactory manner, but had hard work to keep his men from coming to blows.

The most exciting event followed—a matched race (one mile) between Alf. McGuire, of Havelock, and Russel Pearce, of Norwood. Pearce won the race easily, and is a skater who should be taken by some firm band and made one of the fastest men in Ontario, if not in Canada.

The next event was a lacrosse match between two sides chosen on the ice. This proved very interesting. When all was over the boys out of the proceeds had an oyster supper, provided by our famous cook, J. R. McKelvie.

The Norwood curlers held a meeting on Tuesday evening to decide who should skip the rinks in Campbellford on Friday evening. Skips McGregor and Cumming were appointed.

The Norwood branch of the Union Bank of Canada had placed on their safe door this week a time lock. It was put on by Mossman & Co. of New York and is a valuable piece of mechanism.

Quite a number intend going over to Campbellford on Friday evening to attend the carnival at that place.

On Saturday night last the Hastings curlers drove to Norwood to play a friendly game with one of the local rinks. After a good game the result was as follows:

Hastings.		Norwood.

Fraser,		J Cumming,

INVESTIGATION OF THE WAR.

Commission Has Concluded and Will Report to the President.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The war investigating commission has now completed its labors, and its report will be in the hands of the President to-day, when the members of the commission will formally attach their signatures to the original document, and proceed in a body to the executive mansion to inform the President that they have completed their mission and present their report. The commission then will cease to exist.

The report of the war commission is a voluminous document of 150 printed pages. It makes an important feature of the beef issue, and dismisses as a general proposition the charges that have been made against the beef furnished the army. It finds that most of the beef was such as could be properly furnished as an emergency ration.

As to the administration and conduct of the war, the conclusions of the commission are understood to be that everything possible was done by the department in the limited time that it had at its command in making its preparations for the war, and the report says that the conduct of the war not only worked out in the end successfully, but in such a way as to be worthy of great commendation.

Why Lightning Hits and Barns Burn.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Just why incendiarism is on the increase in Canada, and why there were more houses and barns struck by lightning in 1898 than in 1897, were some of the problems submitted to the Ontario Mutual Fire Underwriters' Association at the Walker House yesterday.

The figures are: Incendiarism—1897, $55,638.43; 1898, $89,271.28. Lightning—1897, $58,893.28; 1898, over $60,000.

The former insurance men believe to be due to the laxity of the law; and as to the increase by lightning bills, they are attributed to the cutting down of forests and to putting wet grain in the barn, sweating wheat especially attracting the electric fluid. The association still has faith in lightning rods, but they must be properly jointed and have aristocratic copper points, or the fiery bolt was likely to run down the iron leg of your bed.

They Will Make a Trade.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9.—A report from Washington that the sub-committee of the American members of the joint high commission would concede a port on Lynn Canal, Alaska, to Canada, in return for fishing concessions in the eastern coast, has aroused considerable resentment.

Now Its a Food Trust.

BUDGET OF ONTARIO.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt Finds That He Still Has a Surplus.

THE AMOUNT IS $4,988,079.

The Treasurer's Able Speech Demonstrated That the Provincial Finances Are in a Healthy Condition—Mr. Matheson Figures Out a Big Deficit and Charges Officials With Corruption.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—The entire time of the Legislature yesterday was occupied with the debate on the budget. The Provincial Treasurer occupied upwards of three hours in the delivery of his speech, during which the interest did not flag and the applause was frequent and vigorous. He did not disclose the means by which the Government intends to recoup the loss of revenue which has resulted from the enforcement of the regulation prohibiting the export of pine logs, but intimated that in the course of a few days the Government would introduce a measure which, he trusted, would meet with approval of the House and country. The Provincial Treasurer was followed by Mr. Matheson.

THE BUDGET SPEECH.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt then rose to make his annual statement. There were many reasons, he said, why he need not occupy the attention of the House in generalities. The financial issues had been all gone over in the general election on March 1 last, the press going fully into the subject, and which had also been threshed out in nine subsequent bye-elections. He then proceeded, without further introduction, to discuss the leading items. The first and largest, the gross receipts, $3,647,000, which in December were estimated at $3,313,000, leaving, therefore, an excess of $333,981 over estimates. Over 1897 we have an excess of $722,000; in 1896 the excess was $192,000. This frequently-occurring and large excess helps to explain the delusions of my honorable friend from South Lanark, who evidently fears an enormous deficit. He confuses the actual receipts with the estimated receipts

A most important receipt last year is that of the subsidy from the Dominion Government remaining at the same figure. The next item requires a word of explanation, namely interest. In 1898 we received $304,063, in 1897 $247,435, in 1896 $260,544. This large interest receipt is composed almost entirely of three items: (1) Interest on capital sum, which the Dominion holds in trust, $272,414; (2) interest from deposits in banks $17,730; (3) interest on drainage debentures $13,631. It is manifest that the Dominion Government won't pay this interest unless we have somewhere the capital to yield the interest, which amounted to these figures: 1897 $212,000, 1896 $214,000, 1895, $262,000, 1894 $310,020; and it is worthy of particular note that that last sum in 1894 represents the sum that would be paid in the items, school funds, trust funds, U.C.C. building fund, U.C. Grammar School fund, placing $2,948,000 to the credit of the province by the Dominion, through what is known as the Tilley Act. Only in 1894 did we get an exact payment instead of an approximate payment. In 1897 I explained to the House the variation in the receipts.

Next, regarding Crown lands, there was received $1,112,000, $162,000 beyond the estimates, and less than the year before. Going back to Confederation, the average for the 20 years is $949,000; therefore, last year's receipts were nearly $150,000 larger than the average. Under the different heads there were received from woods and forests $961,000, mining lands $63,000, sales of Crown lands $42,603. The receipts from mining lands this year was abnormally large.

From liquor licenses was received last year $277,000. This receipt is shrinking, as we expect it to do, as fewer licenses mean lesser revenue, and 212 fewer licenses were granted than the year before. During the last five license years the following licenses were granted: 1893-4, 3276 licenses; 1894-5, 3151 licenses; 1895-6, 3132 licenses; 1896-7, 3096 licenses, 1897-8, 3064 licenses. The constant shrinkage gives evidence of the survival of the fittest.

The number of committments to jails for drunkenness is growing noticeably less. 1707 last year, and 10 years ago 4097. The figures were quoted from 1893 to 1897 respectively. In Ontario, in 1897, there was one conviction to every 919 population; in Quebec, one for every 407; Nova Scotia, one for 381; New Brunswick, one for 262; Newfoundland, one for 337; British Columbia, one for 239 Therefore, under the license laws of Ontario, the rate is less than one-half of other provinces

The aggregate receipt since 1892 from succession duties was $1,073,832, every dollar of which has been applied to purposes of public charity. [Government applause.]

From succession duties we received, in 1898, $206,185. Strictly speaking, the amount is somewhat less, as one estate the solicitors made a cash deposit instead of fyling bonds. This large receipt comes from only 435 estates. In no other conceivable way could so large a sum be brought into the treasury without diverse criticism. The Surrogate Courts, in 1898, passed upon 4525 estates, but only 86 were found to be dutiable; for every one estate that paid duty 51 escaped out of the 29,203 estates throughout the whole province. In 16 out of 44 counties not a single estate was held to be dutiable.

A much commented upon item, continued Mr. Harcourt, was the sale of annuities last year, amounting to $128,417. We were forced to sell annuities since 1884; in 88-9-90 we didn't sell any; in five years, since 1884, we have met extraordinary expenditure without referring to annuities, although authorized to do so. He was glad to be able to announce that the sale will be less this year still by $12,000 or $15,000. Prices last year were also better than any other year, and every railroad so aided has received the sanction of the entire House.

The casual revenue was a growing receipt last year, amounting to $116,578, $28,339 coming from the Provincial Secretary, and $24,000 fees paid for charters of incorporation, of which The London Times says: "No better indication of recurring prosperity than the large receipts from charters can be asked for.

The insurance receipts actually received from the two departments were $28,000.

Coming to Crown lands, Mr. Harcourt said: The whole deficit of 1898, compared with '97, is accounted for by the deficiency in Crown lands receipts. Had our Crown lands receipts kept up to the preceding year our receipts of last year would have been exceeded; the total receipt last year was larger than any three years previous. The expenditures of the province totalled $3,802,941. An honest, earnest, successful attempt had been made to curtail the expenditures of the province.

The expenditure for agriculture and arts last year exceeded any previous year by $15,000, and it was evident that the House was ready to foster this branch. The question was asked which of the grants would be cut off, poor schools, Public schools or High schools? The speaker considered instead of the Minister of Agriculture explaining his $4000 over-expenditure, he might ask for more, the large sum of $19,289 being spent on the San Jose scale alone.

Educational expenditures were increased to aid and increase the usefulness of the schools.

A new item was $15,091 for the Public school leaving examination. School inspection cost $53,260, Normal schools $46,000. High schools $106,000. Secondary education must not be discouraged by meagre grants. Nine per cent. of all educational moneys expended was paid to superannuated teachers.

The province spent last year to maintain public institutions $835,745, about 21 per cent. of total expenditure. The daily average of the number of insane cared for by the province in the seven insane asylums has steadily increased from 2006 in 1878 to 3504 in 1898. There is a similar alarming increase in other countries, and Mr. Harcourt quoted statistics. He compared the cost of similar institutions in the United States and the manner of conducting them, demonstrating that the Ontario system was far preferable, and that the ratepayers were relieved of a large burden.

Mr. Harcourt dwelt at length on the asylum question, and said that all things considered the Government could not with either profit or advantage depart from the present system.

"The honorable gentlemen will observe that we have kept our expenditures for the year within the main appropriations for civil government, administration of justice, public buildings and public works.

"Our miscellaneous expenditure, though kept within the vote of the House, is the largest of any year since Confederation. It amounted to $218,000, but of this sum no less than $99,000 was spent in connection with the general elections held during the year, the contested elections and voters' list revision. These same three items in 1894 amounted to $88,944.

There was an over expenditure in connection with legislation, chiefly due to the items, viz., stationery, printing and binding and indemnity to members. The holding of an extra session of the House in August last of course partly accounts for this over expenditure.

"It must be very gratifying to the whole House to know that we closed the year with a credit cash balance in our banks amounting to $450,121." said Mr. Harcourt.

The schedule of assets and liabilities does not vary much from last year.

"Leaving out of consideration our future railway obligations, the present value of which is shown in the public accounts, it will be seen that our surplus of assets at the end of the year, over all liabilities amounted to $4,988,079."

As to the current year, the expenditure estimates amount to $3,400,567 and receipts are estimated to reach $3,201,987 from the usual ordinary sources of revenue.

"We are now face to face, however, for the first time with revenue conditions such as heretofore have not existed in the history of the province.

"To meet this year's expenditures the Government would, keeping in mind the cash balance of $450,000, need to receive at least the average yearly yield of Crown lands revenue, and it is proposed to introduce legislation this session which will appreciably increase the revenues."

Mr. Harcourt concluded: "If this House continues to demand increased votes for education, for agriculture and other services; if the large measure of relief we have already given to municipalities is to continue to grow in the future as it has grown in the past, then, sir, even aside from the question of a probably lessened revenue from our woods and forest growing out of the restrictions we have placed on the manufacture of our logs, it would still be wise and prudent to anticipate any possible lack of equilibrium which might arise hereafter between our receipts and expenditures by making safe and immediate provision for additional revenue.

"We hope, Mr. Speaker, to make suitable provision during the session in a fair and equitable way to meet any emergency which may possibly arise."

The Opposition Critic.

Mr. A. J. Matheson, South Lanark, replied to the Provincial Treasurer's statement. Reciting the Government's proposals to meet the deficiency that they admitted, he said he was glad to see them making some attempts to meet that excess of expenditure. He then proceeded to criticise the practice of presenting the accounts of the several departments. Details should be given as to the pay of public servants and the service rendered.

The statements of the trust funds and common school funds, Mr. Matheson maintained, were misleading; $60,000 had been borrowed from the Dominion Government, for which five per cent. interest was paid. The whole sum was put in as interest.

He proceeded to criticise the chief items of expenditure, and said that the efficiency of the service in every department should be kept up without increasing the debt.

Government, he said, admitted a deficit of $392,402, to which should be added $75,000 in bonus and $42,000 in connection with the Crown lands, thus showing the actual deficiency last year to be nearly half a million dollars.

As regards the finances of the Government he offered them the suggestion that if they would put on the market $2,000,000 at 3 per cent., payable in 60 years, with the interest received from the Upper Canada College building fund, they would be able to pay the principal and interest, and be free from the payment of interest on trust funds, thus saving $20,000 a year. He commended this Ontario Government three per cent. debenture proposal to the consideration of the Government.

But, said the hon. gentleman, there is another way of making ends meet—the exercise of strict economy. [Applause.] There is no justification whatever for the large increase in the expenditure of this province.

Why, we also found Government officials acting as returning officers, and some of them were responsible for the flim flamming—perhaps the Attorney-General will explain that term—[applause and laughter]—that went on at some of those elections. Men who were responsible for collecting hundreds of thousands of revenue, instead of attending to their duties, were out electioneering. In Russell, hangers-on of the Government were trying to bribe the voters.

The hon. gentleman then briefly touched on the great territory and its resources that the Government had under its control. Great responsibility lay on them for developing the far north with its mines and wealth of minerals. For developing such a country and its unbounded resources, there should be a different policy from that which the Government had adopted—trying to scrape the last dollar out of those interested in the mines, and seeking to develop them. The Government should assist in this work in every possible way.

In conclusion he said pressure should be brought to bear on the Government, not by the Opposition alone, but by their own supporters, not to add to the taxation of the province, but to reduce expenditure.

The House adjourned at 10 p.m.

CANADA'S REVENUES

Have Been Mounting Up by Millions During the Current Year.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Canada received on consolidated fund account during the seven months of the current fiscal year which have elapsed $25,665,000, which is $4,219,000 more than she took in during the corresponding period of the last fiscal year. There was an increase in consolidated fund expenditure of $1,657,000, but after making allowance for this there is a difference of $2,561,881 in favor of the present year. The total revenue for the seven months' period last year was $21,446,000. The revenue for January, 1899, was $3,550,000, and for January 1898, $3,512,000, a substantial increase despite reduced customs and postage rates. The ordinary expenditure for seven months of the present year was $21,352,000, and for the corresponding period of last year $19,69,000, an increase, as has been stated, of $1,657,000. There was expended in January, 1899, on consolidated fund account $6,50,000, as against $6,203,000 in January, 1898. The largest revenue increases were those of customs and excise, the former being $2,441,000, and the latter $1,456,000. The postoffice revenue shows a decrease of $69,000 for the month of January, during which the two-cent Imperial and domestic rates have been in operation, and of $199,000 for the seven months' period.

BEN PARROTT, JR., MURDERER.

His Mother, Whom He Shockingly Chopped With an Ax, Dead.

Hamilton, Feb. 10.—Benjamin F. Parrott, jr., is a matricide; his mother died shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Parrott was brought before the magistrate and formally remanded until next Tuesday, when he will be tried on the charge of murder. Prisoner appeared quite indifferent. On the way to the police station from the jail he chatted freely with Patrol Driver Fenton. He at first denied striking his mother, but afterwards said he did strike her; it served her right, adding that he had said that such a thing would happen some day.

Coroner Griffin called an inquest, and the jurors met at the City Hospital at noon, Mr. J. A. Cox being chosen foreman of the jury. After viewing the remains, the inquest was adjourned until this evening. The defence will likely be insanity.

The Priest Heard Confessions.

Winnipeg, Feb. 10.—The charges made by Mr. R. R. Kearn of Lorette, that the schools of that district were conducted as separate schools, though drawing public school grants, have been investigated by the superintendent of education, D. Blakely, who, though finding some of the charges groundless, says that Father Dufresne, a Roman Catholic priest, visited St. Cuthbert school and held twelve confessions between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock. Confessions were also held at the East Lorette school from 10 o'clock until noon.

The West Elgin Election.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—The protest in West Elgin against the return of Donald McNish was filed at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon. Returning Officer Dugald Brown is added as co-respondent, owing to the result of the charges made by the Conservatives that certain ballots marked for Findlay McDiarmid were destroyed, and other ballots put in their place. Irregularities at the poll are the chief additional charges.

Pitch-in at Merritton.

Merritton, Ont., Feb. 8.—A freight train, westbound, became unmanageable when approaching Merritton station, the brakes refusing to hold the train on the grade. The freight train ran into the 6.20 mail, eastbound, train immediately in front of the station. The mail train was standing in the yard. The engines, in motion, were badly smashed, and a car or two on the freight train telescoped. The crew of the freight jumped and escaped injury. No one on the passenger train was hurt. Traffic do not interrupted on the line.

Spain Will Pass the Treaty.

Madid, Feb. 8.—The Premier, Senor Sagasta, in an interivew yesterday, is quoted as saying he will immediately submit to the Queen Regent a decree convoking the Cortes and as adding that he expects to have a majority of 30 favorable to the approval of the treaty of peace with the United States.

Acute Rheumatism

Pains in the Foot and Limb—A Complete Cure Accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For a number of years I was afflicted with acute rheumatism in my left side and all the way down my limb into my foot. I live five blocks from my work and had to stop and rest several times in going and coming. I could get no relief from my trouble and was on the point of giving up my job when I happened to hear of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I purchased a bottle of this medicine and a vial of Hood's Pills and began taking them. Before I had half finished them I was relieved and it was not long before I was completely cured. I never lose an opportunity to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla, for my cure meant a great deal to me, as I have a family and must always be at my post." WILLIAM HASKETT, yardman, Grand Trunk Railroad depot, Brantford, Ontario.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY, 10, 1899.

THE PRODUCTION OF PORK.

In 1892 it was estimated that there were 102,172,224 hogs in the world. Of that number Canada was credited with 1,706,765. If such methods of breeding, rearing, feeding and fattening Canadian hogs can be followed as will make the bacon from them acceptable as first-class to the British consumers, the number can be doubled or quadrupled without much, if any, fall in the price. A large proportion of the hogs are raised and fed in such a way that they are saleable in October and November only. These are the months at which hogs usually will sell for the lowest price. It is important that there should be a steady supply of hogs, marketable at all seasons of the year. That can only be done when farmers cease regarding the keeping of a few swine as of no consequence in farm management, and instead rear and fatten hogs systematically. It is not desirable that many farmers in Canada should become specialists in hog breeding; but it is desirable that most of them should keep more swine, and thus find a profitable market for grains, for skim-milk and whey. Swine breeding is a paying investment as an adjunct to or a branch of dairy farming.

The imports of bacon, hams and lard into Great Britain in 1898 amounted to $53,487,607, of which only $5,163,849 worth was obtained from Canada. To meet the requirements of the British markets, hogs with plenty of fleshy, not lardy, meat are wanted. Larger numbers of them should be fed, fattened and marketed during the summer months, and as a rule they should be sold alive by the farmer or feeder in order that they may be slaughtered at packing houses, where the carcases can be cut and and cured in the manner to suit the preferences of the different markets. When Canadian bacon and hams become better known in Great Britain they will be sought after at relatively higher prices.

The first essential for the keeping of hogs profitably is suitable shelter. A pig can stand a low temperature as well as any other domestic animal, but it cannot stand exposure to cold winds. If a cold wind plays across a hog an hour or two, the animal will be much the worse for it. It is almost sure to cause constipation, which is one of the most common and dangerous ailments that afflict hogs. Hogs require a warm and dry sleeping place, fairly protected against draughts. While a hog needs exercise, which has the effect of making its body quiver with life, that is entirely different from causing its body to shiver with cold. The notion that any kind of shelter is good enough for it has been perhaps the greatest hindrance to progress in the industry.

The swine building should be well lighted. Plenty of light is a great promoter of cleanliness and health. The walls of the hog pen may be built of any material which is convenient and cheap, but if they be built of stone they should be built with a hollow space. While the passages and gutters in the hog pen may be constructed of cement, stone or brick, I think the sleeping quarters of the pigs should have a wooden floor. There is nothing better than earth or dry sand for breeding swine or young pigs, until they are put into fairly close quarters to be fattened.

No Right To Ugliness

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and wrinkled complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at any Drug Store.

OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—National service has been rendered to the country by the Toronto Globe in taking notice of, and answering very convincingly the well-worn fiction that the Conservative party saved the great Western Territories to Canada in the face of strenuous opposition from the Liberals of a quarter of a century ago. Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, whom the Local Opposition in Manitoba, in sheer desperation, insist upon keeping at the head of their party in the fond but foolish hope that his father's name and his generosity in the matter of gratuitous professional services may land him in the Premier's chair, is one of the latest to repeat the ancient legend: "It was the Conservative party," he declares, "who purchased the great Northwest from the Hudson Bay Co. for the small sum of $1,500,000, and threw it open for settlement in the face of the opposition of all the great papers including the Globe.

That journal replies by quoting from Alex. MacKenzie's life of George Brown in which the late Liberal leader speaks of his colleague (who founded the Globe and controlled it to the day of his death) thus: "Next to the all-absorbing question of confederation Mr. Brown placed the annexation of the Northwest territory to Canada. An arrangement was finally made to accomplish this purpose, which was afterwards carried out. For twenty years he had steadily urged the of the acquisition of the northern and western territories so long held in the hands of a grasping monopoly. For many years a portion of the Canadian press made light of the representations of Mr. Brown and the Globe. The company industriously circulated the impression that these territories were valuable chiefly as a hunting ground, and comparatively few people had any knowledge of the country. Fewer still had any faith in it as a valuable one for actual and close settlement beyond the banks of the Red River. For many years the late Sir George Cartier and his friends resolutely opposed all attempts to open up these regions for settlement on the pitiful plea that its development would add to the political power of Ontario."

Hon. Hugh John and his friends throughout the country should not forget that Canadians study the history of their own country, and are apt to resent attempts to mislead them by such garbled editions of the records of the past, as he treats them to in the portion of his address quoted above.

SIR CHARLES HAS FOUND OUT WHY.

So Sir Charles Tupper has found out how it is that Mr. Tarte is still a Minister of the Crown and a member of the Laurier Cabinet. "If he were dismissed he could and would disclose the means by which the Government reached power at the last election. He knows the secret. He could not only have Sir Wilfred Laurier himself deposed, but he could prevent the Liberal party from reaching power again for the next twenty years."

This is exceedingly interesting but it might be pointed out to Sir Charles that others know the means by which the Government reached power at the last election; in fact, it is no secret. The fact was patent to all, but the hopelessly blind, that the country was thoroughly tired of the old policy and the old leaders, and took the simplest and most direct method of securing a change.

NO WONDER THAT THEY HATE HIM.

While the Liberals can afford to smile indulgently at the covert insinuations and veiled threats contained in the above-quoted extract, they can also thoroughly understand the honesty of Sir Charles Tupper's appreciation of Mr. Tarte's ability to disclose wrong-doing and bring the transgressors to justice. The Minister of Public Works has very emphatically demonstrated this to the lasting sorrow and disgrace of Sir Charles and his colleagues, and this fact sufficiently explains the implacable hatred with which the Opposition remorselessly pursues their late colleague, who had the honesty to come out from among them in the days of apparent prosperity, and throw in his lot with their opponents at a time when such action appeared to the average onlooker to be tantamount to personal effacement and political suicide.

HORSES FOR GREAT BRITAIN.

The press despatches this week announce that orders have been placed in Chicago for 10,000 light draught horses for the British market. The Canadian trade returns show that the breeders in the Dominion are giving attention to this trade, but nothing like to the extent that its possibilities warrant, for in spite of the way in which electricity is being utilized as a locomotive power, the demand for both coach and 'bus horses in the countries of Europe will long exceed the native supply. Canada can turn out the article that the market demands, and that, too, at a price that will make handsome return. It is to be hoped that the fact that Chicago is now handling an order for ten thousand horses at prices ranging from $150 to $300 for best coach horses, and $100 to $250 for 'bus horses, will give an impetus to the industry throughout the Dominion.

THE COPYRIGHT DIFFICULTY.

A meeting is to be held in Toronto at an early date which should be of interest to Canadians generally, though it may directly affect a comparatively small number only. It is a meeting of literary men to discuss the question of forming a Canadian Authors' Society. Our Dominion can claim a body of literateurs of which any country with a much longer history might well be proud, but their efforts have been not a little discouraged in the past by the unsatisfactory condition of the copyright law. This has been a vexed question for many years, and, like many other controversial matters, has more than one side. The author, the publisher, the bookseller, and the reader, have each their point of view and the subject is one which admittedly is very difficult to deal with. If, however, the new Authors' Society, comprising as it no doubt will, such men as Prof. Goldwin Smith, Hon. G. W. Ross, President Louden, Principal Grant and many more of like calibre, seriously takes the matter in hand, it should not long lack satisfactory solution.

EVERYTHING IS ONCE MORE LOVELY.

The announcement that the arbitrators in the dispute between the Grand Trunk Railway and their telegraphers have arrived at an amicable agreement and that their award has been accepted by the disputants, is of interest and importance to the whole country. The vast interests served by the great railway system are of too vital importance to the nation as a whole to be lightly disturbed, and as the experience of the past has shown, any serious interruption to the business of the railways is invariably fraught with grave consequences. The successful carrying through of this arbitration instead of the alternative of a costly and irritating strike is a splendid victory for peace and good government, rejoicing as it does to the credit of all concerned and to the substantial benefit of the entire community.

His suffering from Ulcerating Piles Cured.

He says:—I was troubled with itching piles for five years, and was badly ulcerated. They were very painful, so much so that I could not sleep. I tried almost every remedy heard of, and was recommended to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. I purchased a box, and from the first application got such relief that I was satisfied a cure would be made. I used in all two boxes, and am now completely cured.

Every remedy given by Dr. Chase cost years of study and research, and with an eye single to its adaptation for the ailments for which it was intended. Dr. Chase detested cure-alls, and it has been proven ten thousand times that not one of his formulas leave a bad after-effect. FRANCE GOT COALING STATION.

Significant Move in the Indian Ocean—Imperial Parliament's First Division Taken on Mr. Smith's Amendment to the Address in Reply—The Crisis in the Church.

Bombay, Feb. 10.—Rear Admiral Archibald Lucius Douglas, in command of the British East Indian station, sails for Muscat to-day to support the protest lodged by Great Britain against the action of the Sultan of Oman, of which Muscat is the capital, in leasing to France a coaling station on the coast of Oman. It is regarded here as significant that Russia was about to send a consul to Muscat, although there is no Russian trade with that place. Oman is an independent state in South Eastern Arabia, having an area of about 82,000 square miles, and a population of 1,500,000. Muscat has 40,000 inhabitants.

THE CRISIS IN THE CHURCH.

Imperial Parliament Negatives Mr. Smith's Proposition About It.

London, Feb. 10.—In the House of Commons yesterday, after a long debate, the amendment to the address to the throne relating to the "Lawlessness in the Church," which was proposed by Mr. Samuel Smith, Liberal member for Flintshire, was rejected by 221 votes against 89.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury and Government leader in the House, when asking the rejection of the proposal, counselled "the preservation of that broad toleration which has been the distinguishing mark of the Church of England," and deprecated any legislative attempt to cure the evil complained of by the mover of the amendment.

ENGLISH CHURCH FIRM.

Divorced Persons Cannot Remarry Under Its Laws.

London, Feb. 10.—The Lower House of Convocation of the Church yesterday passed a resolution, on the motion of the Archdeacon of Oxford, declaring that the law of the Church of England does not recognize divorce, and asking the bishops to devote themselves to securing action of Parliament to the end that the church shall not remarry divorced persons, whether innocent or guilty. The Dean of Canterbury offered an amendment favoring the remarriage of innocent divorcees. It was defeated by 41 to 38.

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diatase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but to-day I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

THE CLYDESDALE HORSEMEN

Meet in Toronto on Thursday and Elect Officers for 1899.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Hobart Davies presided yesterday at the thirteenth annual meeting of the Clydesdale Horse Association.

The secretary's report showed increased imports, and a good business in shipping horses to the Northwest. One hundred and fifty-one more horses were registered in 1898 than in 1897. There has been an increase of 40 members during 1898. There is a surplus of $94.17.

Messrs. R. Davies, R. Beith, M.P., and H. Wade were appointed a committee to arrange with the American authorities to let Clydesdales registered in Ontario pass into U.S. customs free.

Fifty dollars will be given to the best draft team at the Spring Horse Show.

MARKET REPORTS.

There Was a General European and American Rally in Wheat—Toronto Live Stock—The Latest Quotations.

Liverpool, Feb. 10.—Wheat futures yesterday showed some strength, opening strong and closing ¾d to 1 1-8d per cental above the day before's close.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—The better turn of the markets on the other side of the ocean caused the Chicago speculative market to open strong yesterday. Talk of damage by frost to the growing American crop uncovered by snow in some parts was used to help the market and the buying was good, especially when northwestern receipts came to light. The May option advanced 1⅛c per bushel and closed ⅝c above Wednesday's final figures, while the July delivery sold up 1¾c and wound up the day with a net gain of 1⅛c. Unless some new feature comes into the situation, legitimate conditions will not warrant a bull movement in this cereal.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

Markham, Feb. 8.—(Special.)—The promising life of a robust young man of 22 was crushed out yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, by the unexpected fall of a tree.

John Hoover, only son of David Hoover of Box Grove, Markham Township, accompanied by a comrade, went to the bush on his father's farm yesterday to cut firewood. They had sawn a large tree. It toppled and became lodged in another tree. In dislodging it, the accident occurred. Young Hoover ran the wrong way, right under the falling tree and it crushed his life out instantly.

The deceased was 22 years of age, and was a grandson of Dr. Joseph Reesor. He was a favorite among his associates and his sudden taking off has cast a gloom over the entire community.

It is a sad coincidence that the grandfather of the deceased was, many years ago, killed under similar circumstances.

A Wasp's Mistake.

It is generally supposed that instinct unerringly teaches birds and insects the best way in which to build their homes or nests and also to provide for their offspring. The following incident, recently under personal observation, will show that instinct is not always infallible:

A friend placed three small empty vials in an open box on a shelf in an upright position in close contact, and they were uncorked. A short time afterward it was a matter of surprise to find that these had been appropriated by a female mud wasp. She had placed a goodly number of spiders in the center vial, doubtless intended to serve as food for her future brood, then proceeded to deposit her eggs in those on either side. She next closed tightly the mouths of all the receptacles with a hard lime cement. Having finished her work, she then doubtless went on her way, satisfied all had been done for her offspring that a thoughtful mother could do.

But just think of the sensations of those little wasps when they come into existence, for, while starving in their sealed cages, they can plainly see, through the impenetrable glass walls, the bountiful supply of food which was provided for their use.—Scientific American.

The Solemn Scotchman.

A Scottish parson was attending a funeral in his own churchyard, says a writer in Longman's Magazine. The service over, and dust given to dust, the green sod smoothed down over the narrow bed, the company departed But a worthy man remained behind and approached the parson with a solemn face, as though for serious talk.

"Din ye ken what I aye think at a funeral?" Many serious reflections have come to one there, and the clergyman expected some befitting thought.

"No. What is it you always think?"

The answer was, "I aye think I'm desperate gledd it's no me." The incumbent of that parish was mortified.

Wanted His Money's Worth.

"Have you any choice as to the wedding march?" asked the church organist.

"The wedding march?" echoed the father of the bride

"Yes; the march that is played when the bridal procession moves down the aisle. Which one would you prefer—Mendelssohn's or the march from 'Lohengrin?'"

"Any difference in the expense?"

"Oh, no!"

"Then play the one that's the longest."—Chicago Tribune

PETERBORO'S LOSE IN THE SEMI-FINALS.

Varsity Won the Round by One Point.

A VERY FAST GAME IN TORONTO.

The Peterborough's Win From Varsity on Toronto Ice, but Could not Make up the Necessary Three Points.

The Peterboroughs have retired from the championship hockey arena of the province for the season, but have withdrawn in such a manner as to cover themselves with glory which is more than can be said of their opponents in the semi-finals.

The Varsity team came to Peterborough and were treated like gentlemen, both on the ice and after the game. They were given a clean match to which no one could take objection, and at the conclusion were banquetted and made much of. Peterborough went to Toronto yesterday expecting to receive the same treatment, but on the contrary ran up against an aggregation, which having a lead of three goals was determined to hold them by fair means or foul. When Peterborough went on the ice and scored the first two games Varsity began to "rough it" in earnest, adopting a mean style of play which resulted in a number of the Peterboroughs being badly hurt. Belleghem had his head seriously gashed, and Roger Davidson's nose was broken and his shoulder dislocated. These were only a few of the mishaps

WHICH BEFEL THE BOYS.

If Wasson was not "laid out cold" it wasn't the fault of Varsity, as every time the puck came near the goal they took advantage of the opportunity to endeavour to knock him out.

Varsity men are poor losers and poor winners. After the royal treatment they received in Peterborough they might have at least, looked the boys up after the game, but not one of them showed his nose near the dressing room.

As almost every one knows by this time, the score was five goals to three in favour of Peterborough, but as Varsity won by three goals here the local team loses the round to the collegians.

The match took place in the Caledonia rink and was attended by a large crowd, including a big contingent from Toronto University and about a hundred excursionists from Peterborough, who went up on a special train during the afternoon.

The game started at 8.35 and was without doubt the fastest ever witnessed in Toronto. The Peterboroughs went on the ice knowing what they had to do, and they did it well. Not a man was off colour and by their magnificent play they won the sympathy of every spectator, with the exception, of course, of the Varsity students. The forwards were after the puck all the time. Every man played his position, and played it for

and some beautiful bits of combination work were seen. The boys followed up like the wind and came back to assist the defence as regular as clockwork. Davidson and Belleghem played the boards and did some great work along the side, whilst King and Crossley took the centre. None of the forwards ever showed up better on the ice in their lives, and the sensational character of the game may be surmised. Hollingshead's play at cover was superb, his great lifts being much admired. It was few indeed of the Varsity forwards who got past Reynolds. If he didn't get the puck he took good care that the man did not go by. Wasson's work in goal was beyond description. It is doubtful if such a game was ever played between the posts in Canada before. The shots came at him from every side and at every height, but he took them all in and of the three goals which Varsity scored there wasn't one which could be charged to Wasson's account. The first was scored on an offside play, so apparent that the boys never tried thinking of course that he would be called back, but the referee didn't see it that way. Then the second one struck Belleghem and caromed from him to Hollingshead's thigh, over which it slipped through the posts. The third goal wasn't tallied at all. There was a scrimmage in front of the Peterborough goal just two minutes before time was up and suddenly up went the umpire's hand signifying that a game had been scored. Fully fifty Toronto citizens who were in the vicinity are prepared to make affidavit that the puck never went through.

TO STOP THE MAN,

Both teams were composed as in Peterborough on Monday night, with the exception of Crossley replacing Crowley.

Gauthier referred the game and made some peculiar decisions.

Peterborough started into the game with a vim, Belleghem, King and Davidson making alternate rushes. Then Varsity pushed things but found Wasson impregnable to their shots. After seven minutes fast play Crossley, Belleghem and King figured in a pretty combination and the latter scored.

The next game witnessed a hot fusillade on Varsity's goal which resulted in King scoring in four minutes.

With the score standing at 2—0 in Peterborough's favour the crowd went wild with excitement, knowing that one more goal would put Peterborough with the Collegians. Varsity, however, scored the next two points, but before the whistle blew for half time Peterborough had a lead of one through a clever shot by Crossley.

ON EQUAL FOOTING

On resuming play Peterborough again started in with a rush, but Varsity relieved well and then began a bombardment of the Peterborough goal. Hollingshead made some wonderful lifts in relieving and lost the puck twice amongst the bunting which was draped across the roof of the rink. Varsity couldn't stand the pace which Peterborough was setting and began playing more and more on the defensive. Peterborough, on the contrary, was playing faster every minute and raining in shots on the Toronto goal with a persistency which had its reward, as in twelve minutes another goal was scored and in a minute later still another was tallied, giving Peterborough the necessary lead of the three points, which were required to tie the score on the round. As stated before the umpire gave Toronto a goal just two minutes before the whistle blew.

Peterborough therefore won the game by five goals to three, but lost the round by one point.

Secretary F. D. Kerr did not return to town with the team, but is in Toronto looking up affidavits in regard to the disputed goals, with the object of entering a protest against the round being awarded to Varsity. Under a rule which permits the Executive to allow any club to play in the finals under circumstances which they consider warrants the action, Peterborough still hopes to have a try for the championship.

A despatch received this afternoon from Secretary Kerr states that all necessary affidavits have been secured and that the protest is being pushed.

The Globe speaks of the match as follows: Although beaten last night by Peterborough in the last semi-final game in the O.H.A. series, 'Varsity goes into the finals, and will play Queen's for the senior championship. The absurdity of the system in vogue in the O. H. A. of playing home and home games was fully demonstrated, as the best team on the ice last night was not 'Varsity by any means. Peterborough's showing surprised the lovers of the game in this vicinity, as after their defeat by 'Varsity last Monday night at home, it was not expected that the students would have any difficulty in getting away with the wearers of the red shirts on the much larger Caledonian rink. The visitors won on their merits and it was only by the hardest kind of luck that they did not win out in the round. When the visitors tied the score in the second half there was much excitement, and at that time they looked all-over winners, but Sheppard fouled Hollingshead and both were ruled off, despite the fact that the former was the aggressor. Peterborough's defence was greatly weakened by his absence. Darling lifted on goal and Reynolds failed to clear properly and a mix-up followed right in front of the post. Sticks were flying in the air and the players were all bunched, fighting desperately for the possession of the puck. Davidson was cracked over the nose and that member was badly broken, and by a lucky chance the rubber was pushed an inch or so inside the posts although it came out almost immediately. Umpire Gordon gave the point and put Peterborough out of the business.

The defensive work of both teams was splendid. Darling was a tower of strength to Varsity. Wasson, in goal, performed wonders for Peterborough. He stopped innumerable shots and it is doubtful if a better exhibition of goal keeping was ever given in the city. Sheppard was brilliant, but ineffective. Wright, for an inexperienced player, showed up in remarkably good fashion. Snell was the best forward on the students' line, but King discounted them all.

G. T. R. SMASH-UP.

It Delayed the Peterborough Special for Five Hours.

A bad smash-up occurred last night at about 11 o'clock on the main line of the Grand Trunk near Pickering.

A heavy freight train from the east drawn by two locomotives, collided with the west-bound way freight. The drivers and firemen saw their danger in time to jump and save themselves.

The three locomotives were badly wrecked and the cars were piled one on top of another in a hopeless tangle. Fortunately only one car impeded the double track, but as that was a car of coal it took about five hours to get it out of the way. During that time the passengers in the special sat cold and hungry, getting into Peterborough at 7.30 a.m. Some effort should certainly have been made to get the passengers home by way of Lindsay, or else the wants of the inner man should have been supplied.

LAID AT REST.

Obsequies of the Late Mrs. W. D. Parker Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. D. Parker took place yesterday afternoon, at 3.30 p. m., from St. John's church, and was very largely attended.

The funeral service at the church was conducted by Rev. J. C. Davidson, who was assisted by Revs. H. Symonds and E. V. Stevenson. The sacred edifice was crowded with the friends of the deceased.

As the body was borne by the pallbearers up the aisle of the church the mournful strains of Chopin's funeral march filled the edifice, and at the conclusion of the service, as the remains left the church, the "Dead March in Saul" was played by the organist.

The floral tokens of esteem, which covered the coffin, were many and were very beautiful in design. They came from friends both in town and at a distance, illustrating in a touching degree the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pallbearers were Messrs. A. Stevenson, J. H. Burnham, R. M. Dennistoun, H. A. Morrow, L. M. Hayes and H. Ritchie.

A Generous Offer.

We are authorized to offer our readers, prepared, a free sample of a never-failing cure for catarrh, bronchitis, irritable throat, influenza, and such throat and nasal diseases. There is no mystery about Catarrhozone though its effect is magical. Ointments and washes cannot reach the diseased parts, and have thus proved useless. But Catarrhozone is carried by air directly to the diseased parts, and is like a breeze from the pine woods. Write for free sample to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Daily Examiner.

'TWO DIVORCES.'

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—The newspaper reference to the recent marriage at Grand Forks, Dakota, of Mr. James M. Irwin and Mrs. Sherife Sheldrake, both well known here, calls for some comment, but I would not add to the publicity of the matter but that my client, Mr. Sparham Sheldrake is unjustly dealt with.

It is stated that his wife obtained a divorce on the ground of failure to support her and her children; under the peculiar laws of North Dakota this seems to be the slightest ground upon which a divorce can be obtained, and when Mr. Sheldrake was served in England with a summons from the District Court of North Dakota, alleging this ground, he at once returned to this country for the purpose of contesting such a charge, but upon my pointing out to him that the result of his doing so would be to defeat Mrs Sheldrake's application for divorce, he refrained from doing so, because he had ceased to have any desire to prevent his wife satisfying the wish, which had been so long apparent, to be united, in some legal form, to Mr. Irwin, and if to attain that object she and her friend should choose to commit perjury, he determined to let them pursue their own unholy way. The fact is, ever since the separation (by Deed of Agreement) of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldrake some years ago, she has been living comfortably upon the means he settled for her benefit and might have continued to do so. To those who know Mr. Sheldrake, it is scarcely necessary to say that he has always been a gentleman sans peur et sans reproche, but as he now has to depend somewhat upon the public for his subsistence, I desire to make it publicly known that in this transaction no reflection can, with justice, be cast upon him.

Yours, etc.,
A. P. POUSSETTE.

MEMBERS MONTHLY MEETING.

A Musical and Literary Programme Last Evening.

The first of a series of monthly meetings of the members of the Y.M.C.A. was held in the association parlours last evening. There was a good attendance of members and the evening was most pleasantly spent.

A musical and literary programme of a high character was given. Those who took part in song were Messrs. Stutchbury, of Toronto, F. C. S. Turner and G. W. Mulligan. Mr. Pidgeon gave several pleasing mandolin selections, being accompanied by Mr. Percy W. Owens. Mr. C. N. Brown gave a capital Irish selection.

Mr. Fred. Ray, vice-president of the Debating Club, read his paper on "Canada in A.D. 2,000." It sparkled with humour and was greeted with loud applause.

Miss Agar presided at the piano in a most acceptable manner.

Reports were given of the 29th Y.M.C.A. Convention, which was held at Brockville some days ago. These were given by Messrs. E. A. Froude and Geo. H. Williamson, secretary. The former reported for the Boys' Conference, and concluded by reading a capital description of the boys' camp held at Clear Lake last August.

Mr. Geo. M. Roger discharged the duties of chairman. Mr. Roger is the representative from Peterborough on the Provincial Committee of the Y.M.C.A.

THROUGH THE FLAMES.

Mr. D. O. Roblin Has a Narrow Escape from Cremation.

The following from the Belleville Intelligencer refers to a son-in-law of Mr. W. Snowden, town:—Among the three to four hundred guests who were in the Manitoba Hotel, Winnipeg, which was destroyed by fire at an early hour on Wednesday morning, was a well-known resident of this city. It was Mr. D. O. Roblin, traveller for Mr. H. Corby, M. P. A telegram was received from him stating that he was safe and had lost nothing. The many friends of 'Dave," as he is familiarly called, will congratulate him upon his narrow escape from cremation.

SOME DETAILS

Of the Accident Through Which Mr. Nathan Nicholls Lost His Life.

In connection with the terrible accident by which Nathan Nicholls lost his life in the Matthews Packing House on Tuesday, it might be mentioned that only a few days before this Mr. T. F. Matthews cautioned the unfortunate man as to the danger of moving about amongst the shafting with a coat, the tails of which were noticeably loose, but poor Nicholls could not see the danger. The shafting in which he was caught was revolving at the rate of 200 revolutions a minute, and as his legs and arms struck the ceiling and wall the noise could be heard all over the building. The machinery was stopped a minute and a half after the accident occurred, but in that brief space of time the entire room was bespattered with blood and pieces of flesh were afterwards found sticking to the walls twenty feet from the shafting.

When releasing Nicholls from the shafting his clothes were found to be so tightly wound up that it was necessary to take a mallet and chisel to cut him loose.

On recovering consciousness Nicholl's first words were "Where am I, Mate?" On being told "in the office" he replied that he thought he had gone a good deal farther than that. He was conscious up to the time of his death.

The funeral took place this afternoon under I.O.O.F. auspices.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Interesting Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

The Toronto Telegram makes the following remarks in regard to the Colts' match on Wednesday:

The Peterborough Colts are as clever a lot of young players as one could wish to see, but they had not the weight and were not accustomed to large ice. They are a seven composed of good clean sports, who play without tripping or other unfair tactics seen on the hockey field. They need not feel ashamed of their record, which is a good one, and few can beat it.

Camel King's brother put up a good game, and was up with the fastest at all stages. The Camel felt pretty sore at the defeat, and walked home wondering if it was a forerunner of what would happen to-night with 'Varsity.

Peterborough is the town of good sports. It lays away over the rest of them, and has done something to be proud of. It has sent two teams into the semi-finals, and that is something few, if any, towns can boast of.

It appears that Bysh, who played cover-point for the St. George's here the other night, is 24 years of age. The Colts are talking about a protest if they can prove this statement regarding the age.

The New York Morning Telegraph says: "If any of these local hockey teams desire a little conflict with a champion team, the opportunity is before them. Lem Felcher, representing the Peterborough hockey team, champions of Canada, is in New York for the express purpose of arranging games. Furthermore, Mr. Felcher will match the Canadians to play here in New York. Mr. Felcher's address is 11 Broadway, care of Peter J. McClain, and first come first served."

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully.

JAMES CONWAY.

Shedden, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where we are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.

W. H. MORRISON.

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897. Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly. JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Binbrook, Sept. 30th 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural townships, villages and country homes. Yours truly,

M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

Energy Easily Earned.

DR. WARD'S BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

Wasted energy must be made up or the body will weaken and perhaps perish.

For a long time prior to taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my nerve system was greatly deranged and I was terribly nervous, so much so that in my business (Linesman of the Kingston Electric Light Co.,) my extreme nervousness naturally made the following of my business extremely hazardous. Before taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my kidneys had been affected for some time. I had constant soreness and stiffness across my loins and the small of my back. My appetite was variable and very poor. I also suffered greatly with constant headaches. I am glad to be able to inform you that Dr. Ward's Pills completely cured me of all the above ailments and made me a well man. I have found no medicine like Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, although I have tried many different kinds. They acted quickly and effectually on my nerve system, making my nerves strong and removing all indications of nervousness. These valuable pills also removed all kidney and back trouble and restored to me a healthy vigorous appetite. I have had no headache since five months ago and feel justified in saying that they are a wonderful remedy. They not only removed nervousness, but gave me healthy kidneys, removed all soreness and stiffness from my back and loins, cured me of headache and gave me a good appetite, consequently I am highly pleased. I know of no medicine that equals Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills for nervousness, chronic headache, sore kidneys and back and loss of appetite. Yours truly, John McCutcheon, 322 Princess St., Kingston, Ont.

SPRUNG TWO PUZZLES.

The First Was Barred, but the Second Won the Prize.

At a suburban church function not long ago each person was required to wear conspicuously upon his or her clothing some pictorial or other device that should represent in rebus form the title of any well known book, and all the others were to guess at the book intended. A prize was to be given for most ingenious of these devices.

"Paradise Lost," represented by a card upon which five dice had been pasted and from which two had evidently dropped or been removed, was easily guessed. "Hard Times" was no puzzle. Neither was it hard to recognize "A Pair of Blue Eyes," "Innocents Abroad," "Vanity Fair" or "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in spite of their pictorial disguises.

One of the guests, however, had a poser. Attached to one of the buttons of his coat was a card bearing simply the inscription "Tar."

Every one at last gave it up and asked for the solution.

"Why, that's easy," he said. "It means 'A Tale of Two Cities.'"

"Explain."

"Manchester and Leicester—last syllables of both. See?"

"That's not fair," said the other. "It's the last syllable of Chester, Lancaster, Gloucester, Chichester and Exeter. We protest!"

"Well," he said, "I won't insist. Try this one."

He turned the card over. It was inscribed on the other side with these three letters: "Ana."

After a severe mental struggle everybody gave this up also.

"That ought not to puzzle you," he said. "It's the 'Last of the Mohicans.'"

He got the prize.—London Tit-Bits.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C. S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonizing pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single

Equal to the Occasion.

In 1840 a great convention was held in Baltimore by the young men of what was then known as the Whig party for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of General William Henry Harrison for the presidency. There was no hall in the city large enough to hold the crowd of delegates who attended. The convention accordingly met on the Canton race track, and when the great Whig orator of this state, who was chairman of the Young Men's national committee, arose to call the meeting to order he was so impressed by the vastness of the assemblage before him that instead of the usual formula he exclaimed, "The nation will please come to order!"

A DOMESTIC COMEDY.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A WIFE WHO WANTED GOLDEN HAIR.

After Attaining Her Ambition, the Husband, as Contrasts Were In Order, Took a Hand in the Game and Won Out After a Close Shave.

Her hair was neutral in tint or tints—or, better, it was varihued—that is to say, there were strands of dark yellow, a heavy understratum of indecisive brown and a number of scattered wisps of bronze red. All of the hair was naturally wavy, and it was rather attractive and fetching on account of the oddity of the color scheme of it. Her husband liked it—which, under old fashioned domestic canons, ought to have been enough—and he called her the "rainbow headed" and the "prismatic haired" and the "crazy quilt hirsuted," not in a mean, coarse, masculine way at all, but in a manner of affection, because he really liked his wife's hair as it was.

But she didn't like it. The variety of tints worried her. She wanted one color hair, and the one color she wanted was golden.

"Jim," she said to her husband a few weeks ago, "I'm going to peroxide my hair."

Jim let his pipe fall out of his hands and got ashes all over his new $3.48 fancy vest.

"You are, hey?" said he. "You only think you are, and you've got several more thinks coming. What in the deuce can you be dreaming of, anyhow?"

"Just this," she replied. "There's a bit of every old color known to science in my hair except blue and green. You yourself call me your 'chameleon topped.' I'm tired of having all sorts and conditions of hair. Moreover, I've got a fair, lily white skin and beautiful hazel eyes (I'm only quoting you; you used to tell me they were the gorgeousest eyes on the map), and yellow hair would just suit me. Just fancy the combination—golden hair and the gorgeousest hazel eyes on the map! Wherefore, I remark again, in a tone filled with passionate yearning, 'Jim, I'm going to peroxide my hair.'"

"Well, I'll tell you one thing," he replied, gazing at her steadfastly. "If you do, it'll let me out. It'll be the finish. I'll go to sea. I'll go to New York or take some other equally short route to the demnition bowwows. You hear me a-talking."

"But, Jim"—and she addressed him now from no greater distance than his own knee—"I just want to peroxide my hair, you know. See?"

"You're a pretty fancy wheedler, but it doesn't go. See?" was Jim's retort. "I don't see anything the matter with your hair as it stands. What's the matter with your hair? You've got bully hair. I'd rather toy with that head of hair—here, lemme alone—I can't get my breath. Who's been putting such stuff into your head? Whom do you want to look like anyhow? Lydia Thompson at the age of 112? Cut it out, my dear. Your hair's good enough for me. Wait'll you get me under the sod and then you can have it painted ultramarine if you want to."

"How dreadful you do talk! Sod!" she replied. "As if that wouldn't just break my—but, Jimmy boy, can't I just touch it up at the sides and around the front and top, then—just a leetle, teeny, weeny bit—please, mister man, can't I?"

"Nope, you can't," said Jim, with decision. "It's all off. I have 'spoke.' And, say, d'ye think you could let me read my paper for about four consecutive minutes, please, ma'am?"

This didn't settle the matter, though, by a whole lot. She got a very swagger black tailor made dress about ten days ago, and the idea of yellow hair in combination with the black dress took possession of her.

"Jim," she said on the evening the black dress was delivered to her, "with reference to my about to be peroxided hair"—

"I have the honor to inform you that there ain't going to be no peroxide," interrupted Jim, carrying out her business form of conversation, whereat she ceased.

"I'll just go down and have it done anyhow," she said to herself the next morning. "He'll be so delighted with the way it looks that he won't do a thing but fall upon my neck and weep for very joy."

She had it done. Not touched up. All over. A dead yellow. Hempen yellow. When the job was done and she saw herself in the glass, she didn't admire it quite so much as she anticipated she would. Nor was she quite so confident that when Jim saw her transformed head he would fall upon her neck, etc.

"Uh-huh," said he when he came in that evening, "you've done it, I see?"

"Like it, Jimmy boy?"

"Not by a jugful, do I like it!" he replied, not amiably. "Where do I cut in in this outfit? What did I say about this chemical blond business, hey?"

There was no conversation in the house for the remainder of the evening. A gloomy silence brooded o'er the carpets.

When Jim went to his office the next morning, a steely light was in his eye. He tugged at his straw, red, brown and auburn mixed vandyke beard savagely. Then he retired to a hotel barber shop and had his straw, red, brown and auburn mixed vandyke beard dyed a deep, dull, unfathomable Stygian black. When he emerged from the hotel barber shop, the hirsute trimmings on his countenance were blacker than the blackest thing ever seen on land or sea. They were so black that they made the exposed portions of his face look ghastly white. He looked like a photograph taken after death. He endured the guying of his friends and associates for the remainder of the day, and then he went home and burst into the house with a grisly attempt at a cheery grin and a bluff manner. His wife met him in the hall. "How d'ye like it?" he asked her. "Great, ain't it? Real thing, hey? Thought I'd have it fixed up as a sort of contrast to you, y'know. Now we're both ornamental around the house too. You look like an orange padded tabouret, and I look like the cross section of an oil stove. Oh, ain't we a lovely bunch?"

Then he caught sight of himself in the mirror over the mantel and fell into a chair and howled mirthlessly.

After several hours of pleading she induced him to sneak around to a late closing barber shop, where he had his beard and mustache removed. She cannot, in return, have her dead yellow hair shaved close to her head, of course, but he has her promise in typewriting that she will let the peroxide wear off, never in this life to be renewed.

STROKES OF A RAZOR.

How Many Do You Suppose It Takes to Shave a Man?

"Now that you've finished shaving me, how many strokes of the razor did it require?" asked the man in the chair, as he straightened up to have his hair combed.

"That's pretty hard to tell," said the barber.

"Of course it is. But you've been in the business how long?"

"Fifteen years."

"You ought to know by this time about how many strokes of the razor it requires to shave a man, supposing that you go over his face a second time."

"I might make a guess at it."

"All right. What's your guess? Remember that I have a hard beard."

"Well, I should say about 125."

"You're a good guesser, I don't think. Some time ago I got into the habit of counting the strokes of a razor every time I was being shaved. It's a good way to employ your mind. In shaving me you just made 732 strokes with the razor."

"I wouldn't have believed it."

"No man believes it until he takes the trouble to count. In my case I never knew the number to fall below 500, and it has gone more than 800 at times. I call it a stroke every time the razor is brought forward and then drawn back. I should judge that there are no fewer than 500 strokes in a first class shave. You remember that, and probably you can win a few bets."—New York World.

Bank Impertinence.

The Philadelphia Record tells of an old Pennsylvania farmer who recently came into possession of a check for $200. It caused him a great deal of anxiety, and for a long time he could not muster up the courage to have it cashed. Finally, while on a trip to town, he summoned up nerve enough and, strolling into the bank, presented the check. The teller glanced at it hastily, and then, after the fashion of his kind, brusquely asked, "What denomination?"

"Lutheran, gol durn it! But what's thet got tew do with it?" as brusquely replied the old farmer, to the great astonishment of the bank official.

It required several minutes' explanation before the teller could get the old man to understand his question, and then the latter took his money and departed, with sundry growls derogatory to banks in general.

The Catarrh Clutch

This Disgusting Malady is at the Throat of 900 of every 1,000 of our Country's Population.

This Is Not Hearsay. It is Borne Out by Carefully Compiled Statistics of Diseases Most Prevalent. Its Development is Watched Carefully Because it is so Sure a forerunner of Consumption if Neglected. Most Catarrh Cures Contain Cocaine, which is a Dangerous Narcotic, and Prof Heys, of the Ontario School of Chemistry and Pharmacy, says:—

"After an examination made from samples procured on the open market, I declare that there is no COCAINE contained in the preparation of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure." Most astonishing results are daily coming into Dr. Chase's office of the cures made. Here are a few in condensed form. We ask you to call or write to the following parties if at all sceptical:

OSWALD BURKHARDT, 139 PORTLAND STREET, TORONTO, suffered from Catarrh for nine years, and was cured by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MR. J. PALMER, HAIR DRESSER, 673 QUEEN STREET WEST, TORONTO, could not sleep for years on account of the mucus dropping into the throat; cured by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MR. WHITCOMBE, OF THE METHODIST BOOK ROOM, TORONTO, suffered for two years; cured by one box of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MRS. COWLE, 467 QUEEN STREET EAST, TORONTO, thirteen years ago was attacked with Hay Fever. Never knew what it was to have any relief until she used Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. If anyone troubled with Catarrh calls on Mrs. Cowle she will give her endorsation as to her cure.

BABY'S PHOTOGRAPH.

An Example of What the Man of the Camera Endures.

A young photographer, when asked what sort of subjects presented the greatest difficulties to him, replied without a moment's hesitation, "Babies."

"For instance," he continued, "I took photographs of a little 10-months-old fellow the other day in six different positions. Yesterday I sent proofs to his mother, and today she brought them in.

"'I'm sorry,' she said, without any obvious grief, 'but none of these negatives will do.'

"'Not one of the six?' I inquired, though I was prepared for what was to follow.

"'No,' she said, 'I'm afraid not. You see, I like this one very well, though, of course, it doesn't do baby justice, but his Aunt Ellen says it's an absolute caricature of the dear little fellow. The one she likes I don't care for at all, and his papa says he should never know for whom it was intended, it looks so cross, and baby is such a sunshiny child.

"'The one he likes, this smiling one, I shouldn't consider for a moment, for it makes baby's mouth look so much larger than it really is.

"'His grandmother chose that one, but as Cousin Fanny said, there's a very queer look to the child's eyes in it—very queer! However, she likes that one where he's almost crying, that sober one. You ought to have heard baby's grandfather when she said she liked it.

"'He really decided the thing, for what he said seemed so sensible. He asked me why I didn't have some more taken and see if there wouldn't be at least one that would really look like baby. Now, when can he sit again? It's hard for me to spare the time, but you see it is the only thing to be done!'"—Glasgow Herald.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,504 90
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	1,560 00
Yearly Income for life of	106 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4 per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ruling rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could be re-been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Colonie," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

"The keys of the house were in the hands of Mrs. Rogers. I went to her and got them, and the day of the funeral I visited the house—our house, you know. I went through it, and up to the very roof. A part of our 'kit' had been smuggled in and stored away in the attic rooms. I found one of these attic doors ajar, and I knew that no door had been left thus by one of our people. Then I began to look about me carefully. The stairway had been partitioned off, and so was dark. I opened the attic doors, and last, got up on a box, and unfastened the trap in the roof, lifting it up, and letting in a flood of light. The box on which I stood was directly under the trap, and looking down at it I saw hanging to a nail a little piece of cloth. I knew it; it was like the grey waterproof lately bought by Aura Durand. One corner had caught on the nail and torn off. She must have been terribly eager or excited not to notice it. My theory is that she tore it in coming back through the trap after committing the deed. I looked closely all about, and on the stairs, and in the room where lay our counterfeiting tools, I found small drops of white wax, as if dropped from a wax taper. Miss Durand will have nothing but wax lights in her rooms.

"I think I have told you enough. There is no need to ask why we did not denounce Aura Durand. We might have got the reward, but we could not produce our proofs without exposing our business, and—we knew we could bleed Aura to any extent. She, or some one, contrived recently to rob me of my purse, containing the scrap of cloth, and the notes to Fordham about the house; so I cannot show you these."

"Give yourself no uneasiness on that score," said Neil Bathurst, with more brusqueness than was usual to him. "Your purse, with all it contained, is safe in my possession."

She turned upon him with a cool stare.

"What a man you are," she exclaimed. "If I am set at liberty again I shall keep the width of the continent between us, if I have any secrets to hide."

"As doubtless you would have," retorted Neil, smiling in spite of himself at her matchless audacity.

"Yes; as doubtless I should," she replied, coolly. "Shall you appear against me in court, Mr. Bathurst?"

"Assuredly."

"And you, Mr. Ferrars?"

"As a witness on this case, yes," answered Ferrars, significantly.

"Will they let me see Fordham, do you think?" she asked, again turning to Bathurst.

"I think not, madame. The doctor says Fordham will live to serve out a term in the penitentiary."

"I'm glad of that," said this remarkable woman. "I prefer to have him near me, even there."

When they were once more seated in Mr. Hale's office, that gentleman turned to Bathurst and exclaimed:—

"Good heavens! sir; do you not suppose that Miss Durand will take fright when she hears of this woman's arrest, and effect her escape?"

"Miss Durand is under close surveillance, sir. If she attempts to escape she will be promptly stopped," replied the detective.

Mr. Hale sat for a long time in thoughtful silence, and then he again looked up.

"You intimated that another grave charge could be brought against her," he said. "I agree with Mr. Durand, such a woman should have no light punishment. What will be the probable punishment for this other crime?"

Bathurst pointed to Francis Ferrars. "She will be tried in his country," he replied: "ask him."

The lawyer turned his questioning face toward the English detective.

"What will be her punishment if she is tried in England?" he asked.

With an iron look upon his face, Francis Ferrars answered:

"Death!"

"Then, in Heaven's name, let her be taken to England," cried Lawyer Hale. "Bathurst, what is the crime?"

"Do you remember my mention of Jocelyn's search for Elise Schwartz, who killed her husband and his sister?" asked Bathurst.

"Yes."

"Well—Aura Durand is Elise Schwartz."

"Good God! Man, don't lose any more time; don't stop to explain, go and seize that woman-fiend."

"Wait!" said Neil Bathurst. "Elise Schwartz is ready for another crime; we must give her a little more rope."

CHAPTER L.

THE CONFESSION OF A MURDERESS.

It is midnight. In the splendid mansion of James Durand all is quiet; as quiet as earth, and sea, and sky before the first breaking of the hurricane. Such a strange quiet! In the housekeeper's room sits Mrs. Richards, silent, motionless, alert. The room is very dark; the door is locked, and she sits near it, listening. In the rooms of "Cousin Charles" something still more strange might be seen. Yes, seen; for there is some light, a very little, here.

On the bed in the sleeping-room lies the young man who has so suddenly deposed Aura Durand. The light is too dim to enable one to distinguish his features, but the blonde hair and the blonde whiskers are unmistakable, they belong to "Cousin Charles." He lies very still. He must be sleeping soundly. Beyond the bed is an open door, the door of the dressing-room, but it is dark, very dark, within. Nothing can be seen from the dimly-lighted chamber, and yet—something is there. Between the door of entrance and the bed is a lofty window, heavily curtained. A moment the curtains are drawn aside, and the face of a man looks out, then they fall together in sombre folds, and all is still.

Five minutes, ten, and then the outer door opens softly, slowly, and a figure with loose flowing blonde hair, and trailing dark garments glides in. The figure turns, closes the door cautiously, and glides straight to the bedside. It is a woman—it is Aura Durand. Straight to the bedside she goes, and then she takes something from her pocket, there is the slightest possible clicking of glass, a glimmer of something white in her hand, something white which she bends down and lays upon the half-averted face of the sleeper; and then there is a strong, sickening odour of chloroform in the room. She has adjusted the white thing carefully, and now she turns and seats herself in an easy chair not far from the bed. Great heavens! is this woman iron, or marble, or ice, that she can sit there beside her victim? She sits calm, immovable; moment after moment passes, and at last she rises and goes again to the bed. Again she lifts the handkerchief, again it is saturated with the deadly liquid, and laid upon the face of the sleeper. Again she seats herself and waits. After a time she seems satisfied with her work; life must be extinct under that long suffocation; she rises, once more she goes to the bed and removes the handkerchief from the still face.

"Elise Schwartz! I arrest you in the name of the law."

What has happened? has she gone mad?

A strong hand closes upon her arm, a stern voice is sounding in her ear. Merciful heavens! the room is full of people! the lights are turned on; it is like a transformation scene, only that she holds in her hands the hideous evidences of her guilt, and there upon the bed lies—that!

Is she going mad? Everything reels about her; everything is seen through a vapour; everything taunts and tantalises her; she hears voices that seem distant, and then near: the lights dance to and fro, everything seems unreal, save that clasp upon her arm, that voice in her ear, and that which lies upon the bed.

After a time the mist clears away, the voices resolve themselves into sounds that she can comprehend. The forms stand out distinct and recognisable, and she is aware that Mr. Durand, Mr. Hale, Neil Bathurst, and a man she does not know, are standing opposite, on the other side of the bed. Then she knows that a tall strong man stands beside her, she hears again the words:—

"Elise Schwartz, you are my prisoner."

She realizes that all is lost; she has been hunted down. With a cry like that of some wild animal, she turns upon her captor, and strives to wrench herself from his grasp, but it is useless. She ceases to struggle, and stands sullenly beside the bed; she will say no word, the name that has fallen from the lips of her captor has told her that words are useless; she is Elise Schwartz, and she has been hunted down.

"Girl!" Mr. Durand moves forward, "the mercy you have had for others I will show to you. I give you up to the hands of the law you have outraged. Expect nothing from me save that I will do my utmost to bring to justice one who would have been, but for Neil Bathurst, my wife's murderess. Robert Jocelyn, the detective, in whose hands you are now, has followed you from the scene of your earlier crimes; he shall take you back to England; you have no friends here."

The captive shivered under the hand that restrained her, but she said no word, and Neil Bathurst moved a step nearer.

"Before you go hence you can render yourself one shade less black in the eyes of those who have known you, if you will," he said. "You have been hunted down; we hold the proof that you are the murderess of your husband and his sister, Rebecca Schwartz; that you have robbed your friend and protector, the man who above all others, you should have held sacred; and that you have attempted the life of his wife; we know that three times before to-night have you crept to this door, prepared to do what you have done to-night; but Charles Durand was not ready to be so cut, and so you found no access. To-night Charles Durand has ceased to be, but you are his destroyer only in intent. I am the one who has wiped out the existence of Charles Durand, together with the necessity for him. See!"

He bends forward; he takes her hand; he draws her to the bedside; then he draws down the sheets, pulls at the blonde hair and beard, and she sees that the thing of terror is but a plaster head, adorned with a flaxen wig and beard.

Again that strange cry escapes her lips; she realises how she has been surrounded by enemies and undermined, with her eyes open.

"Your plans were well laid," continued Neil Bathurst; "but I suspected you at the time you robbed Mr. Durand, in order to bribe Nina Annin, and I have been on your track constantly since you killed Clarence Arteveldt."

Ah, that has told. She throws up her hands, and utters a shriek of agony and terror.

"We know all about that, too," he goes on, mercilessly. "All your letters and his, all your forgeries, are in my possession. The valise you flung into the lake contained worthless rags, your cloak, your famous little dagger, your keys, even your stolen jewels, are in my hands. Nina Annin has been arrested, and has confessed all; told all that she knows concerning you. Your lover was false and you killed him. Will you make a statement, a confession of that crime, or shall that help to turn the scale against you when you are tried for your life as your husband's murderess?"

About Catarrh.

"I was weak and hardly able to walk. My blood was thin and I was as pale as death. Being told about Hood's Sarsaparilla I began taking it and in a few months I had gained twenty pounds in weight. I kept on with it until I was as well as ever" Arthur Mills, Dresden, Ontario.

Paper Matches.

The time-honored plan of rolling paper into a spill and using it for lighting purposes has recently been utilized by an inventor in the manufacture of matches, and promises to revolutionize the European trade.

The paper is immersed in wax, stearine, and similar substances, and burns with a bright, smokeless and odorless flame. Cut into match lengths, it is dipped in phosphorus wax, like the common wax match. The invention is regarded as a timely one, as the wood used in the making of matches is constantly growing more scarce and costly.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Millet seed is an excellent feed for little chickens.

Do not get pullets too fat. Keep them growing, bony and muscular.

In nearly all cases the more active the breed the less liability to fatten.

Under ordinary conditions a pullet that matures so as to begin laying in November can be depended upon for a good sitter in the spring.

One decided advantage in buying and breeding stock in the fall is that there is a better chance of getting the best selections at lower prices.

So far as is possible, give a good variety of feed. Frequent change of diet is the best way of getting the chickens to grow rapidly and mature early.

Peking ducks are preferable both as market fowls and egg producers. With good treatment they will lay 10 or 12 dozen eggs yearly, and by good feeding can be made to weigh five pounds when 10 weeks old.—Exchange.

That Throbbing Headache

THE COOKBOOK.

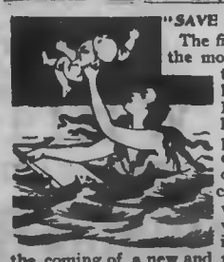
A cup of chopped celery stirred into the dressing intended for stuffing a duck imparts to the flesh a flavor much like that of a wild one.

In baking cakes or gems in gem pans, if there is not enough batter to fill all the little pans, put water into the empty ones before setting in the oven to bake.

Rice contains more nutriment than any other food, besides being the easiest to digest. Most of us admit all the claims made for it, but refrain from using it on our tables, unless as the basis for an insipid pudding.

Homemade ice cream sometimes turns out buttery, to the dismay and surprise of the producer. To prevent this condition it is obligatory that the scalded and unbeaten cream should be put together and thoroughly chilled before the dasher of the freezer is turned.

"SAVE THE BABY!"



The first instinct of the mother-heart is to preserve her little one. Its life and health take precedence even over her own. The common dread which women who are looking forward to the coming of a new and precious baby into the world first feel, is that they may not themselves be able to go safely through the trying ordeal, and secondly comes the fear that the darling little baby's life or health or general well-being may somehow be sacrificed.

But there is no real need of apprehension in either direction. If any woman who is expecting to become a mother will follow the example of Mrs. Orrin Stiles, of Downing, Dunn Co., Wis., the most perfect confidence may be felt in the happy outcome of this critical period, both for the mother and the child.

"I have been intending to write to you ever since my baby was born," says Mrs. Stiles in an interesting letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., "in regard to what your 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough, for I have not been as well for five years as I now am. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 11 lbs. I was sick only a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any womb trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all of my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

The properties of this grand "Prescription" and what it has accomplished for thousands of women, are more fully described in one chapter of the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., a splendid thousand-page illustrated volume. It will be sent free paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only; or, cloth-bound for 50 stamps.

The "Favorite Prescription" is entirely free from alcohol; unlike nearly all other proprietary medicines for women, which merely give a temporary stimulation and are likely to induce a morbid, unhealthy craving. The "Favorite Prescription" gives energy and nerve-tone that is real, healthy and permanent.

Mexican Bargainings.

A party of San Franciscans recently returned from a tour of Mexico in a private car. While there they had an opportunity to observe the bargaining instincts of the people. At Aguas Calientes Mr. and Mrs. Blank were offered a very fine piece of needlework in the shape of a tea-cloth. For this $60 was asked. The haggling over the price extended over the entire day. Finally Mr. and Mrs. Blank were separated, Mr. Blank retiring to the car for "spiritual" comforts and a game of cards.

While there he was again attacked by the needlework fiends, and they consented to take $20 for their tea-cloth. He was willing to give it, but was unable to tell whether it was the same one. He therefore bade them return in half an hour, intending to allow his wife to identify the needlework. But in about 15 minutes Mrs. Blank appeared, radiant and joyous, and informed him that she had succeeded in purchasing it at a very low price. When he asked her how much, she replied: "Twenty-five dollars. Wasn't it cheap!" The thrifty Mexicans made $5 by going straight to the wife from the husband.—Argonaut.

Ingenuity of a Brooklyn Black Cat.

A family in Brooklyn was recently annoyed every morning by finding the bottle of milk left by the milkman on the front stoop knocked over and the contents gone. One night a member of the family volunteered to get up early the next morning and watch for the culprit. Soon after the young man had taken up his station he was rewarded by seeing a large black cat come across the veranda, knock over the bottle and calmly lap up the milk which had been spilled. Now the family puts out a large tin can.—New York Sun.

MUMMIES OF EGYPT.

METHODS OF EMBALMING THAT WERE USED 3,000 YEARS AGO.

No Modern Process Has Ever Been Evolved That Could Achieve the Success Attained by the Ancients in the Preservation of the Dead.

Mummies, human and animal; mummy cases, garments and ornaments, are given a goodly amount of space in the Carnegie museum. Like all exhibits of relics or curios that relate to the peoples of remote history, they attract a great deal of attention. There is a peculiar attraction in anything that takes the imagination back to periods when the world was young, and if any one thing is more interesting than another it is that relating to the mortuary customs of the ancient races, whose ideas were so much at variance with ours.

The art of making mummies existed in Egypt from B. C. 3000 to A. D. 325. There were many changes in the methods of embalming during that period, and so marked they were in some respects that the experienced Egyptologist can almost tell the age of the mummy from the condition it is in.

Shortly after death a line was drawn with a reed pen down the right flank of the body. An incision was then made along this line under the ribs with a stone knife, and all the internal parts excepting the heart and kidneys removed, as was also the brain by means of a bronze tube thrust through the nostrils. The subsequent operations depended upon the amount of money the family of the deceased was able or willing to pay.

The most costly process consisted in the application of drugs, powdered resins and cassia through the orifices, steeping the body first in palm wine and then for 70 days in natron. This process was worth a silver talent, or about $1,918. In the second process, which cost a mina, or $406, the brain only was removed, though oil of cedar was injected into the body, which was then soaked in natron as before. A third rate embalming process, the poorest, consisted of the simple washing of the body in myrrh and then the salting of it.

The following peculiarities have been observed in the mummies of different periods: Those of the "old empire," as it has been called, are now merely skeletons, exhaling a faint odor of bitumen. A mummy of the time of the eleventh dynasty is sometimes in the same condition, or else yellow, dry and brittle. The excessive use of bitumen has caused the mummies of the twelfth dynasty period to turn black, while the skin, though flexible, is dried. From the eighteenth to the twenty-first dynasties the mummies at Memphis present the same peculiarities, while those at Thebes are yellow and shining from the use of wax. The color of the nails also indicates that they were dyed with henna. These peculiarities, with some minor changes, continue down to the time of the twenty-sixth dynasty, following which the mummies are black and heavy and difficult to separate from the bandages in which they are rolled. Mummies of the Roman period are gray in color and lissom. The color is due to the fact that the body was either dried in the sand, steeped in natron and then dried or was boiled in resins or bitumen. There are other peculiarities in the coffins and sarcophagi which are considered in establishing the age of the mummies.

It is hardly necessary to state that the custom of preserving the dead by embalming has not been confined to the Egyptians. That is a fact well known. The Greeks practiced it, as did also the Assyrians, Persians, Romans and Hebrews. There are also evidences that the Guanches, the ancient inhabitants of the Canary islands, embalmed the dead. Recent discovery has also established the fact that embalming was practiced with success by the native races of America, both north and south, and that other more or less savage peoples in various parts of the world have known the art. None, however, were as successful as the Egyptians, a fact attributed not only to the excellence of the processes employed, but to the dry climate of Egypt as well.

There was a great variety of the methods of embalming. The Assyrians used honey, the Persians wax and the Hebrews spices and honey. The Guanches removed the viscera and put in its place fat, salt and antiseptic herbs. In the south seas the natives seem to have been able to preserve the dead in cocoanut oil, while the old Peruvians were successful through the simple process of putting the body in an earthenware jar and allowing it to dry.

Many efforts have been made by modern experimenters to achieve the results attained by the Egyptians. Boudet preserved some of the great men of the French empire by the use of camphor, balsam of Peru, Jew's pitch, tan and salt; Chaussier also found a great preservative in corrosive sublimate; Gannal in sulphate of alumina, Tranchi in arsenic, Babbington and Rees in pyroxillic spirits and De Bils, Penicher, Ruysch, Swammerdam, Cleanderas, De Raslere and Dr. Hunter in processes too elaborate to be described here. But no one has as yet discovered any process that promises the success attending the methods employed by the Egyptians. More or less objection has been entered against all the later methods. While successful in some directions, they have all failed in others.

Whatever may be thought generally of the notions which first led to the preservation of the dead in mummy form, science at least will utter nothing against it. While even the most enthusiastic antiquarian will grant the custom to have been essentially barbaric, the tremendous assistance given the historical and ethnological student in the solution of problems by these same mummies is sufficient excuse for their existence.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

FREE LUNCHES FOR EMPLOYEES.

Big Business Houses Save Hundreds of Dollars Daily That Way.

Many rich corporations in the down town business district find it cheaper to treat their employees to a substantial free meal in the middle of the day than to allow them to go out and spend their own money for it. Three of the larger insurance companies, with big buildings of their own, several banks and a great telegraph corporation maintain at considerable expense kitchens, dining halls and a staff of servants to provide a good luncheon for their clerks.

In the case of the telegraph company, which feeds about 800 people a day, a nominal sum is charged, covering only the cost of the food. But with the insurance companies and the banks everything is furnished free. The only thing required of the employee is that he or she shall not leave the building during the luncheon time, and that the usual hour be shortened to one-half hour.

This arrangement is not prompted by motives of philanthropy by any means. The corporation makes money by it, in spite of the large expense involved. Where several hundred clerks are employed the management of the working force becomes a complicated question. If allowed to go out for lunch, there are sure to be a great number of delinquents who do not get back within the allotted hour. The low priced public restaurants are always overcrowded at noon, and the excuse of many of the clerks that they cannot get waited upon is a valid one. With many of the men the temptation to drink stimulants when they go out for luncheon is also a matter for consideration, but the saving of the employees' time to the company during working hours is the main factor. With the telegraph corporation, for instance, the total gain of one-half hour from each employee every day is enormous.

With the insurance companies the employees are not obliged to accept the company luncheon, but there are very few of them who do not take advantage of it. A good course meal is served that would cost the clerks far more than they could probably afford to spend out of the building. As the companies save from $200 to $300 worth of time each day they can afford to be liberal.

FALTERED FOR AN INSTANT.

But That One Instant Had Given Marlborough Victory.

At 5 o'clock Marlborough launched the great attack. Slowly at first, but gathering momentum as they advanced, the long lines of horsemen came on. The air was full of the clangor of scabbard on stirrup. The squadrons were just stretching themselves out into a gallop as they reached the summit of the ridge when they were smitten by the fire of the French infantry and artillery. So deadly and close was the volley that the leading squadrons went down before it, and for a few wild minutes, under the canopy of whirling smoke, Blenheimborough's horsemen were in fierce confusion.

"Then was the moment for a counter-charge. Tallard saw it and gave the word [illegible] to charge. They were more numerous than the British, yet they faltered [illegible] "for an instant," wrote the unfortunate Tallard afterward, "in which [illegible] were gained if"—his cavalry, in [illegible] But it failed to onarge. The moment of possible victory vanished, and over the crest, with bent heads and wind blown crests, the gleam of a thousand swords and the thunder of innumerable galloping hoofs, came the British cavalry.

Tallard's center was broken as with the stroke of a thunderbolt! His infantry was swept into ruins, his cavalry hurled into disordered flight and his army fairly cut in twain. His left wing fell back, fighting desperately, but his right, the elite of his army, was hopelessly shut up in Blenheim itself. As night fell Marlborough drew his lines closely round the village. Webb, with the Queen's regiment, blocked one avenue of escape, and a cavalry force—one regiment of which consisted of Scots grays—guarded the other. The French general in command of Blenheim, believing the situation to be desperate, ignobly abandoned his men and tried to swim his horse across the Danube and was very properly drowned in the attempt.—Cornhill.

MR. JAMES STONE

A Well Known Manufacturer of Tents and Awnings, Port Hope, Ont.

Gives his Experience in the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

One after another the people of Port Hope are telling how Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills restored their health and strength.

There never was such endorsation of any remedy given by any people as is being given on behalf of this remedy at the present time.

One tells how he was cured of heart weakness.

Another speaks of healthful, restful sleep restored.

Another of worn out, exhausted nerves toned up and invigorated.

Another of weak, run down system built up and strengthened.

And so the story goes.

But what Mr. James Stone has to say about the remedy is short, business like and to the point.

"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for weakness of heart and nerve trouble and found their action beneficial". Anyone suffering from palpitation, fluttering or pain most around the heart, dizzy, faint or smothering spells, tobacco heart, trembling of the hands, numbness of the limbs, nervousness, sleeplessness, anæmia, female complaints or general weakness or debility should use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.
